EARLY-DAY LETTER FROM A CALIFORNIA PIONEER

“ACCEPT FROM YOUR OLD FRIEND a brief sketch of his journey from Rio de Janeiro to this place. I promised in my last letter to give you a description of Rio. We anchored in the bay fronting the city on the evening of the 24th of April and the following morning we were paid the salutatory visit from the officers of that port, and also from the Hon. Gorham Parks, American Consul of that place. He begged to impress on the minds of our company (previous to their going on shore) the propriety of recollecting that we were guests to their city by the courtesy of a people who are jealous of their right, deeply sensitive to insult, and kind, courteous and gentlemanly to all who might treat them with respect. He was aware how difficult it was for youthful spirits, full of life and hope, always to restrain themselves within very strict bounds, and he hoped that no collision would take place between ourselves and the authorities of the country. He gave us to understand that the Brazilian natives held the United States and its citizens in high respect and esteem, and his most ardent wish was that nothing should transpire to degrade us in their eyes. Whilst the conversation took place between our captain and the officers of the port, our company were disguising their figures by casting off their weather-beaten clothes and appearing, as it were, like so many unknown gents.

“Then came the rush for shore. I mustered 75 cents, then prince-like got down in the boat as though I were worth many thousands. As we glided along in our little boat, the bright sun shining upon the water lit up the rocks, hills and sloping landscapes bordering the bay. Whilst the dark hue of the palm trees clustered in groups and the bright green of the grass lent each a variety to the scene, so grateful after our confinement on the blue waters. The loud roar of cannon from off her forts, the proud banners that were streaming from the many ships that lay anchored in the harbor, gave the Monarch City of the south a most magnificent appearance. We were presently at the wharf, a distance of nearly two miles from our ship, and then for a nearer view of the charming scene. ‘Twas then I felt sensibly the force and truth of the oft-quoted motto—that distance lends enchantment to the view. No sooner had I placed my feet on shore than I cast my eye across the broad avenue known as the Palace Square, or emperor’s parade ground, and discovered several large restaurants. I laid my course for one known as the Hotel De Europea and found it to be a capital place of entertainment. I found this hotel to be thronged with Californians, principally from the states, many of whom I had the pleasure of being introduced to in New York. They were all enjoying themselves like Jack Ashore. My fancy dwelt on something fresh. I called for beef steak, potatoes, fresh bread and coffee with milk. Just imagine to yourself the pleasure I derived from that simple meal, after having been sixty days on hard bread and salt junk. I arose from the table feeling as though I was transmigrated into another being, walked to the bar which was attended by a fair senorita, inquired of her the amount of my bill. She answered me in somewhat broken English, sixty cents senior. My hand moved with telegraphic velocity to the bottom of my pocket and brought forth what I thought at that time was my only resource, 75 cents. I took out fifteen cents and gave her the balance.

“In turning from the bar, I met an old friend from Albany, Andrew Thompson, who instantly grasped my hand and said, ‘Come old boy, let’s have some brandy.’ We seated ourselves at a small table and partook of a bottle of the critter, talked over the adventures of our voyage, then left this hotel for a cruise uptown. I stated to him the deficiency of my funds and he proved to be my friend. We passed but a short distance before we entered a splendid billiard saloon. ‘Twas there I found that usurper of all debts, the gaming table. Thompson handed me a dollar and I played at the spanish game of monte, similar to pharaoh, but a new game to me. I soon was winner to the amount of $18, and we left by bidding the honorable gents good-bye, I thinking ‘twas not best to dip too deep for short acquaintance. We next went to the Hotel de Universe and seated ourselves beneath the shade of its veranda. ‘Twas uncommon warm, the thermometer standing at 103 at noon in the shade. Here many a laughing scene was presented to our view.

Accompanying is an exact reproduction from the original of a letter dated San Francisco, October 13, 1849, written by William A. Carlow. “I wrote this for Barney Ham playey,” Carlow inscribed upon the first page of the letter, “but not having time to write I send it to you”—his wife, Mrs. Mary Ann Carlow, 23 Hawk street, Albany, New York. This valuable document was loaned The Grizzly Bear by a son, George A. Carlow, who sent for inspection also other letters, written by his father to his mother, in the early ‘50s.

George A. Carlow was identified with the “Albany Company for California,” a joint stock company organized at Albany, New York, with a capital of $30,000, “for the purpose of purchasing a ship, or other vessel, with the necessary stores, freight and merchandise, for proceeding to California, and there engaging in the business of mining for gold, and other precious metals, and selling and trafficking in such articles as may be purchased and shipped for that purpose.” In the list of stockholders his name appears among the “Members To Go With Expedition.”

Carlow, aboard the bark “Nautilus,” arrived at San Francisco October 3, 1849, the voyage consuming 222 days. His letter, reproduced here, deals with that portion of the trip from Rio de Janeiro to San Francisco via Cape Horn. His description of the places visited and the troubles encountered on the perilous journey are most interesting.—Editor.

“Fronting the hotel and adjoining the palace were seen large numbers of officers and soldiers, called the emperor’s guard, marching to and fro from the cathedral to the south end of the palace, whilst crossing and recrossing the square were seen groups of Negroes carrying bags of coffee on their heads, singing as they passed, bowed down by their burdens, each party having a different tune. Directly in front of the hotel were some fifty or more young ‘Niggers’ from the age of six to eighteen, some dressed in loose frocks, some entirely naked, while others had a part of a coffee bag tied around their waists merely to cover their nakedness. Such singing, dancing, wrestling and bucking I never saw before. Hundreds of spectators were throwing them copper coins valued at 2½ cents, called dumps, which seemed to invigorate them the more for the farce. It being about three o’clock the bell rang for dinner. I walked into the spacious saloon of the Universe and seated myself, with some 80 others, to one of the most voluptuous dinners I ever had the pleasure of sitting at. The table abounded with everything that the heart could wish for—different varieties of meats, poultry, game, fish, fruits and wines, together with the most spirited party I ever met, all bound for one and the same object, viz., gold. As I arose from the table my attention was attracted to the immense groups of slaves of both sexes with large buckets on their heads going to the fountain at the foot of the plaza for water. The whole air was filled with music by the harmonious sounds that escaped from their lips. They appearing mostly naked, my curiosity was excited at the different brands or marks upon their persons. From what I could learn they were marked in Africa, according to the tribe they belonged to. Some had their faces, some their backs, breasts and arms lacerated so that the scars resembled blue veins running all directions about their persons.

“After settling with mine host, I lit my regalia and strolled down to the market near the margin of the bay. It being too late for market hours, the majority of the produce had been removed, but from what I saw it resembled our market stuffs with the exception of fresh fish, which differed in variety from anything I had before seen. Stretched upon their stalls lay a number of large sharks, a fish relished by the people of Rio full as much as the sturgeon is by the Albanians. At the end of the market, adjoining the bay, were a number of mahogany canoes laden with different sorts of fish. Around the exterior of the market groups of slaves were busily engaged braiding palm leaf hats. Among them were men of giant stature, women whose prominent characteristics were dirty and of a masculine appearance. The police or gendarmes were passing to and fro, watching what might be going on. A number of Californians were witnessing a party of young slaves of both sexes promiscuously engaged in pugilistic encounters. The day being nearly advanced, the heat and the dirt soon drove me back to our noble vessel for rest and comfort.

“I arose next morning and, together with several others, prepared ourselves for a walk into the country to view the suburbs of the city, and likewise to get a snuff of the land breeze. We had not strolled far in the interior before we entered a beautiful grove to partake of the refreshments, viz., bread and water we had prepared for the occasion. As we seated ourselves upon the green foliage beneath the broad expanded shade of the palm tree, I cast my eyes around to view the mighty works of Nature, so different from what I had seen before. The surface was one vast bed of flowers, whilst ever and anon grew the orange, the lemon, the lime and the banana, heavily clustered with fruits which seemed to fill the air with exquisite perfume. Birds of the most gorgeous plumage were singing among the branches, and lizards and chameleons were crawling wherever you cast your eye. Very little attention is paid to agriculture; the raising of cattle is their leading pursuit. After supplying the wants of nature with what fruits we could eat, we filled our handkerchiefs and took up our line of march for the ship. We entered the town about 2 o’clock p. m., at the public or washing ground near the west end of the city. This place consists of a large green plaza of nearly one hundred acres. In the center stands a beautiful stone fountain with a marble basin for its base, some sixty feet across and two feet in depth, which is constantly filled with water. Would to God I was an artist that I might pencil to you this interesting scene beneath the almost melting rays of a torrid sun. There were upwards of a thousand benches in and about this basin washing clothes, their bare backs glistening like polished ebony or Egyptian marble, whilst here and there extended on the grass lay a young picaninny basking itself in all its pomp and glory. After satisfying our curiosity with the general depot for city washing, we continued our progress through one of the principal avenues that led toward the bay.

“We had not advanced far before I discovered a large number of monks and nuns passing up a flight of marble steps into an old and ancient looking building which I soon learned was a monastery and nunnery. My curiosity attracted me to a view of this ancient fabric whose value is upwards of thirty millions. Passing to and fro in front of the main entrance were several soldiers, acting as guards. Directly over the door was a beautiful alcove wrought in marble containing a figure of our Saviour suffering on the cross. As we stood gazing upon the ancient architecture that crowned the exterior of the building, the warden approached us and very politely asked us to walk in. We gave our consent and followed him up a rustic flight of stairs to the entrance of the session room, or council chamber. After fumbling his bunch of keys he unlocked a large iron door and threw open to our view this magnificent chamber, which is nearly the size of Bluckre Hall. The first thing that struck my view was the elegance displayed in the arrangements. The next was the strange melange of articles. Upon both sides of this spacious hall were beautiful wrought alcoves containing figures of the different saints, richly adorned in jewels and gems. At the head of the room was a figure of Christ, with His arm resting upon an altar, attended by Mary Magdalen. These figures were solid gold. Entwined around their necks were strings of diamonds, while upon their forms hung the most costly jewels of the church. In the rear of these figures hung a superb painting of Christ and His disciples, set in a beautiful frame adorned with pearls and jewels. Above were a number of golden images representing angels. Directly in front of the altar, which was inlaid with pearls and precious stones, were twelve gold candlesticks whose cylindrical forms supported twelve large wax candles. At the foot of the room was a magnificent wrought fountain of pure gold receiving a stream of holy water from the hand of a kneeling figure. The whole lighted by an immense chandelier that hung in the center, gave a brilliant appearance to this sumptuous chamber.

“We next passed into the library, or depot for ancient religious manuscripts. This room was studded with glass cases whose borders were of pearls and precious stones, but slightly concealed by the graceful draperies that hung from the ceiling. In the center of the room was a splendid table. Upon this table stood a gold figure with its right arm gracefully extended, holding a candlestick. This room was lit by a large Gothic window. Beneath its base was a beautiful couch covered with crimson velvet and trimmed with pearls and gold, presenting to myself (I being somewhat fatigued) a most voluptuous and inviting appearance. It being nearly tea time and I stood as it were magnetized at the grandeur of the scene. I bid the warden good-bye, placed in his hand his accustomed fee, and once more we took our departure for the ship. After partaking of a cold lunch

GRIZZLY GROWLS

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

SPEAKING AT DEARBORN, MICHIGAN, October 21, at the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of Thomas Alva Edison's invention of the incandescent lamp, President Herbert Hoover concluded his address with:

"Scientific research means more than practical results in increased living comfort. The future of our nation is not merely a question of the development of our industries, of reducing the cost of living, of multiplying our harvests, or of larger leisure. We must constantly strengthen the fiber of national life by the inculcation of that veracity of thought which springs from the search for truth. From its pursuit we shall discover the unfolding of beauty, we shall stimulate the aspiration for knowledge, we shall ever widen human understanding.

"Mr. Edison has given a long life to such service. Every American owes a debt to him. It is not alone a debt for great benefactions he has brought to mankind, but also a debt for the honor he has brought to our country. Mr. Edison by his own genius and effort rose from modest beginnings to membership among the leaders of men. His life gives renewed confidence that our institutions hold open the door of opportunity to all those who would enter.

"Our civilization is much like a garden. It is to be appraised by the quality of its blooms. In degree as we fertilize its soil with liberty, as we maintain diligence in cultivation and guardianship against destructive forces, do we then produce those blossoms, the fragrance of whose lives stimulate renewed endeavor, give to us the courage to renewed effort and confidence of the future."

The San Bernardino Chamber of Commerce has gone on record as favoring application of the quota to Mexico. Estimating that there are 9,000 Mexis in San Bernardino City and 20,000 in the county, a recent report said:

"The 1920 United States census gives the Mexican population for San Bernardino County as 7,165. The committee conservatively estimates that this population has increased at least 300 per cent. The American population has not increased to exceed 50 percent for the county in the same period.

"A tabulated report from the county hospital shows that for the fiscal year 1928-1929 20 percent of the total number of cases assigned to the hospital were Mexicans. A report from the welfare department of San Bernardino County for the same fiscal year indicates that 40 percent of the charitable cases handled were Mexicans. A report from the district attorney's office for the same fiscal year indicates that of the felony cases tried in the Superior Court 35 percent were Mexicans." The situation in San Bernardino is equally deplorable in the other California South counties, where these undesirables congregate.

At the request of the California Joint Immigration Committee, Attorney-General U. S. Webb of California has just given an opinion to the effect that the Indian or Red races in Mexico, constituting the bulk of the population in that country, are ineligible for American citizenship. He declares that, under comparatively recent decisions of the United States Supreme Court, the statutes do not permit naturalization of any person not of the White race, or of African nativity or descent; Mexican Indians, being of the Red race, are clearly ineligible, he holds.

That being the case, those Californians who are opposed to inundating California with ineligible-to-citizenship aliens, should demand of the Federal Government that the statute excluding such aliens be applied to Mexico. And it would be an excellent idea, also, in the interest of California's welfare, to round up all such Mexican aliens now here and return them whence they came.

Senator Sheppard of Texas has introduced in the United States Congress a bill to amend the National Prohibition Act by making the purchase of intoxicating liquor for beverage purpose unlawful. The proposal would make section 3 of the act read as follows, the word "purchase," in brackets, being the amendment:

"No person shall on or after the date when the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States goes into effect manufacture, [purchase], sell, barter, transport, import, deliver, furnish or possess any intoxicating liquor except as authorized in this act, and all the pro-

ALASKA-COUNTRY OF CONTRASTS

ALAND OF MANY CONTRASTS—ONE passenger railroad; dogsled transportation in many other sections; and fifty-nine airports—such is Alaska, as seen by a visitor who went there with a definite purpose. He had formed many impressions of the country; impressions such as most of us are likely to form about places which we have studied, principally in our school geographies, and in casual reading later. He found on arrival in Alaska that his impressions needed drastic revisions.

The man who made the visit, and recorded his vivid impressions later, is J. Arthur Jeffers, manager of the Pacific branch of the American Red Cross, with headquarters in San Francisco, which is headquarters also for the vast Territory of Alaska, where the Red Cross is a valued organization, playing an important part in the life there of Americans and natives alike.

"The first thing which impressed me," Jeffers reported, "was the size of the country. It is one-fifth the area of the United States, or 586,400 square miles, and, counting the Aleutians, it extends eight degrees of longitude into the Eastern Hemisphere, or through 58 degrees of longitude. In a north and south direction its span is approximately 20 degrees north latitude. In traveling from New York toward the end of the Aleutian Islands, one is not halfway there when he has reached San Francisco. The western terminal of the Aleutians is in the same longitude as New Zealand."

He was especially impressed by the wide use of airplanes observed in Alaska, commenting on the fact that there are now fifty-nine airports, and that the miners and trappers regard travel in aircraft as a luxury for which they are willing to pay a dollar per mile. When it is considered that the distance from Fairbanks to Nome is 760 miles and the cost one way is $750, this method of traveling can indeed be classed as a luxury.

"I was greatly surprised at the climate," Jeffers also wrote, "which for the first sixteen days of my trip was either rainy or foggy and cloudy, so that I never saw the sun from the time the boat left the dock at Seattle until I saw it theoretically set in Fairbanks, the night of July 26. The air was chilly, and one could have worn a reasonably heavy overcoat all the time. Yet, when I arrived in Fairbanks, the sun was shining and the thermometer stood at 90 degrees!"

Jeffers said he found the people of Alaska loyal to the interests of the American Flag and to the American Red Cross. "The outstanding social work, outside of some mission schools, is done by the American Red Cross," his report continued. "In sixteen centers we are represented and our chapters, while limited in funds and, to some extent, in personnel because of small population, are exceedingly generous in service, in the contribution of funds and in memberships. As an illustration, in the twelfth roll call last year the City of Ketchikan increased its membership from 178 to 675; Juneau scored a membership of 1,688; Seward, with a population of about 2,000, enrolled 789 members; Cordova, with about 1,200, returned a membership of 322. All the Red Cross Chapters at the points named exceeded their quotas.

"The American Legion is well organized in all towns of any size, and is especially co-operative with the Red Cross. It was my privilege to address practically every legion group in the towns visited, and I found them anxious to support any work the Red Cross might undertake. I was assured in every community by the legion representatives that in event of disaster or other emergency, the Red Cross could count on the legion for support."

Jeffers commented on the care with which the White population attends the needs in disaster relief of the native Indian populations, and on the activities of the people in behalf of disaster-stricken regions in Alaska. These services were extended, as in the Continental United States, through the Red Cross.

Contrasted with this vast pioneer country is the Pacific Coast of Continental United States, with its populous cities, great industries, and varied interests forever one. Here, too, the Red Cross has a firm place in the hearts of the people.

One of the most important branches of the American Red Cross, comprising in itself a world movement of tremendous international significance, is under the leadership of a former California educator, Dr. Harry Bruce Wilson, formerly superintendent of schools of Berkeley, Alameda County, and noted in educational circles on the coast. He is the recently appointed director of the Junior Red Cross, outnumbering in membership even the parent organization and, under his leadership, participating on a major scale in the regular activities of the American Red Cross as well as in international work of its own.

The progressive organization of the Red Cross in the Pacific Coast territory varies only with the city in which each local Red Cross Chapter is situated. The Pacific area registered a 10 percent increase in Red Cross membership at the last roll call, compared with the previous enrollment. The forthcoming membership enrollment for the whole country will be inaugurated November 11 and continue to November 28.

NATIVE SONS PROPOSE BUILDING GIGANTIC PIONEER STATUE.

San Francisco—As a monument to California Pioneers, Native Sons of the Golden West plan a statue for this city higher and of more monumental proportions than the Liberty Statue, according to Lewis F. Byington, Past Grand President N. S. G. W.

Members of a committee working with that idea in view include the following Native Sons: Senator James D. Phelan, Mayor James Rolph, A. P. Giannini, William F. Humphrey, Past Grand President Joseph R. Knowland, Joseph B. Keenan, Past Grand President James A. Wilson and Grand Secretary John T. Regan. Later on the committee will be considerably enlarged and a campaign for funds inaugurated.

The public park at the summit of Telegraph Hill has been chosen as the site. Present plans include a museum at the base of the statue for the housing of historical data and relics of the early days. The names of Pioneers will appear upon tablets at the base of the monument which, standing on the edge of the Western world, is expected to draw to the gateway of the Pacific the world attention accorded the Statue of Liberty.

GIANT DAM, ERECTED AT COST OF MILLIONS, DEDICATED.

Oakland (Alameda County)—The Pardee dam, a giant concrete structure on the boundary of Amador and Calaveras Counties, was dedicated October 19. The dam, constructed by the East (San Francisco) Bay Utility District at a cost of $7,000,000, impounds waters of the Mokelumne River for use by 450,000 residents of nine cities composing the district.

Rastus took Mandy to the circus and was explaining all about the animals. "Lawzee, Rastus, what's 'at'?" asked she, when they came to a zebra. "Don't you know, gal? You sho' has neglected yo' animology. Dat's nuthin' but a spo't model jackass."—Exchange.

AROUND THE HORN

and talking over the mysteries of the day, I retired to my hammock to have a little of Nature's sweet repose, balmy sleep.

"I was awakened next morning by the discharge of cannon from Fort Santa Cruz, nearly opposite our anchorage. The murmuring sound that echoed through our vessel struck me at first thought that it was the shock of an earthquake to which this country is so often subject. I sprang from my hammock somewhat terrified but soon discovered my mistake. At 7 o'clock our bell rang for breakfast and our company seated themselves to a variety of fresh food from the market of Rio. At 10 o'clock I left with several others for a more thorough view of the city. Our first visit was to the emperor's palace. I cannot say much about this building as we were not allowed to visit the interior. It has a commanding appearance outward. It is three stories high, 600 feet in length, 100 in breadth and stands on the large plaza fronting the bay. On its right stands the cathedral, whose blackened walls have withstood the storms of the last century; crowning its front are two unfinished steeples that have been labored on for the last fifty years. We entered this noble edifice and found its interior finished in a rich and magnificent style, but nothing to compare with the golden hall of which I before made mention. We left the cathedral and moved onward toward the heart of the city, viewing the arts and sciences of the different mechanics, but I saw nothing in that line to compete with the mechanism of my own beloved country. The buildings are principally low and simultaneously alike. The streets are mostly narrow and paved with heavy stones. Wagons and carts are little used. The majority of the merchandise is carried by the slaves.

"We passed several Portuguese ladies seated in their sedans and carried upon the shoulders of four 'Niggers.' Now and then passed a vehicle used for a cab, which was nothing more or less than a gig (similar to Doct. Wing's) drawn by two mules, the driver mounted on the back of the near mule. The only thing that resembled home was a splendid omnibus manufactured by Eaton and Gilbert of Troy. This was drawn by six mules and plied daily between the city and a beautiful place of entertainment called the Botanic Gardens, six miles in the interior. Upon the corners of the principal avenues were beggars; some I considered objects of charity. The poor fellows had a prevailing disease of that climate called the elephantiasis. Different parts of their bodies were swollen to an enormous size; some, their legs and feet were bursted, while that venomous insect called the gigger was preying upon their sores. We left this horrible scene and strolled toward the bay. All along the levee could be seen Negroes (numbers innumerable) busily engaged in unloading the lighters and removing the merchandise. Could you but stand on the shore of Rio one hour and listen to the soul stirring melodies of the 'Niggers' you would hear more original and better music than could be made by all the imitative bands in the United States.

"Charmed as I was by the melodious notes of the 'Niggers' and the happiness they appeared to enjoy, I could not help but imagine that God, for some wise purpose better known to Himself, had created them for this station, yet for all there was something brutal in their treatment. I seated myself beneath the shadow of some coffee bags that lay piled upon the beach to sketch the different scenes that were presented to my view. Among the different gangs were some who for some misdemeanor wore the galling chain or the iron yoke, while others bore the stripes of the smarting lash. A short distance in front lay six lighters loaded with lime. Here was a scene that showed the horrors of slavery—some fifty or more naked slaves were busily engaged unloading the lighters by wading in the salt water up to their armpits and bringing in on their heads a basket of lime. It appeared as though they were kept for this purpose. Some had lost their hair, some their eyes were nearly destroyed by the burning fluid, others were covered with galling sores, many of them were young while others bore the marks of sixty winters. Was I to attempt to describe the different scenes of Rio I could find employment for at least one year, therefore I will close with this place by saying that its citizens want at least fifty years to compete with the arts and sciences of the United States.

"With a fresh supply of water and requisite stores, our captain announced our vessel ready for sea, and on the morning of the 29th of April we weighed anchor and with a beautiful breeze

CHRISTMAS LIVESTOCK SHOW

STOCKMEN OF WESTERN STATES ARE evidencing so much interest in the fourth annual Christmas Livestock Show, to be held in Los Angeles City November 30 to December 7, that the management has set aside different days when remissions of stockmen of the eleven Western states will be held, with appropriate programs each day. Los Angeles, known as the "cow capital" of the world, is made up largely of retired stockmen from other states, and the old cow waddies in California South are looking forward to the days when they may swap stories with their old friends of the range.

Sunday, December 1, has been set aside as California day, and a record crowd is expected on that occasion. Governor C. C. Young has been invited to attend as the guest of honor. Aside from the regular entertainment program, all of the California South Parlors of Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West will put on stunts in colorful costumes of early Spanish days.

Monday will be celebrated as Arizona and New Mexico day. This also should be a big day, as a great deal of choice stock from these states is already entered for the show.

Utah and Idaho stockmen will gather at the stock yards on Tuesday. A special train will carry hundreds of inter-mountain stockmen to Los Angeles for this celebration.

One of the most interesting days will be Wednesday, when a special train will bring a huge delegation of Texas stockmen to the show. Governor Dan Moody, always an ardent cowman, is expected to head the Texas delegation. The famous cowboy hand from Simmons College, Abilene, Texas, will accompany the Texas delegation and play each day at the show.

Colorado, Wyoming and Montana stockmen will be honored guests Thursday. Also, on this day will be held the sale of prime beef cattle.

Washington, Oregon and Nevada day will be Friday. Some of the choicest and best-known pure-bred herds at the big show will come from once more set sail for the broad expanse of the blue ocean. Today being Sunday, the usual service of prayer and humiliation was held on our quarter deck. 'Twas a beautiful sight to see us formed in a circle preparing to listen to a discourse which when heard in the eloquent tones of Father Cole (as we call him) spoke to all hearts a language that found response in every conscience. As our vessel rolled upon the waves of the mighty waters I felt that we lay in the hollow of His hand, to be dealt with according to His mercy.

"Monday, April the 30th, our vessel moved with rapid progress. The sun shining on the deep blue waters, the sharp winds cresting the waves with foam, and the pleasurable sensation that we were advancing rapidly toward our place of destination all combined to make this a happy day in the calendar of our voyage. Our company became more and more acquainted and social intercourse lent its aid to heighten the charm. From the first to the middle of May we had fine sailing and hopes were confidently entertained that we would soon encounter the terror of our voyage, viz., Cape Horn. Our band favored us occasionally with a display of their notes and (deprived of the many comforts and enjoyments we had been accustomed to on shore) the soft strains of their music tended to stir up and enliven our hopes. At night, when most of our company had retired to their hammocks and all below was quiet, I would occasionally stroll on deck to accompany the lone watcher, who each hour of the night patrols the ship. Here many an impressive scene was presented to my view. The rushing of the water along the sides of our vessel, the thunder of the waves dashing against her bow, the white mass of canvas that fluttered in the breeze overhead, the beautiful moon and the bright myriads of stars that shone upon the foamy surface of the Atlantic presented a magnificent scene to be witnessed only by those who adventure on the waters of the mighty deep.

GET BULBS IN GROUND.

Now is the time to plant bulbs—if they have not already been planted; a few days more, and it will be too late to get good results. Almost all types may be planted now: freesias, gladiolas, tuberose, hyacinths, narcissi, the Cape bulbs and ixtas. Also perennials may be set out now; annuals for early spring blossoming should not be delayed longer in planting. It is late now, to be sure, but not too late.

those states, and it is believed that there will be a large delegation present. Sale of prime fat lambs and prize hogs will be held that date.

Saturday, December 7, the closing day of the show, will be Future Farmers of America day, with more than a thousand students of agricultural schools throughout California taking part in a parade and livestock judging.

Former residents of other states will be hosts to their old friends on the days mentioned, and officers of state societies will be in charge. Due to the fact that Los Angeles meat packers spend $50,000,000 annually for meat animals from other states, the big stock show is expected to reflect the choicest stock from those who regularly depend on the Los Angeles market as an outlet for their stock.

Many of the leaders in civic, livestock and industrial circles of Los Angeles are taking an active interest in the show. The executive committee consists of J. A. McNaughton, Harry Chandler, Frank G. Munzer, P. H. O'Neil, T. J. Murphy, R. A. Condee and Wm. Burke Jr. On other committees are breeders, stockmen, businessmen, educators and bankers. Everyone likes to come to Los Angeles in the "winter" months, and this is particularly true among the responsible stockmen of the Western states.

At last year's show, expert judges of crowds estimated that more than 100,000 persons attended. The show is held on the beautiful grounds of the Los Angeles Union Stock Yards. This location is easily accessible from the business district by street car, private automobile or taxi. Wide streets lead to the stock yards, which are located only four miles from the congested business district, and actually in the heart of Los Angeles proper.

Many interesting stunts and entertainment features will be coupled with the livestock show, but there will be nothing on the carnival or cheap entertainment order. Premium lists for the show are now being distributed. A copy may be had by addressing the superintendent of the Los Angeles Union Stock Yards, Los Angeles, California.

CITY AND COUNTY

DETERMINED TO REDUCE THE APPALLING number of traffic fatalities and accidents in Los Angeles County, the city and county law enforcement agencies, the Automobile Dealers' Association and the Automobile Club of Southern California have combined in a campaign to reduce high speed in the built-up districts of communities and to enforce slow driving at dangerous intersections.

A maximum speed limit of thirty miles an hour will be enforced in the built-up sections, and arrests will follow violations. Motorists who insist on dashing through blind intersections at high speed will be arrested promptly. The "always-in-a-hurry" driver, who jumps the gun at traffic signals, is also in for a hard shift. The careless, the reckless and the drunken driver will get no sympathy from now on, according to announcement by the enforcement officers. It is realized that only a small percentage of the motorists are wilfully disregarding traffic rules and courtesies on the road, and these will be weeded out as quickly as they may be apprehended.

It was the consensus of opinion at a conference held that the time has come when the majority of motorists who are striving to drive sanely and safely must no longer be harrassed and constantly threatened with injury or death by a few wild drivers.

BIG NATIVE DAUGHTER EVENT.

Miss Grace S. Stoermer, Past Grand President and supervising district deputy grand president N.D.G.W., is spending much time preparing for the joint meeting of California South Parlors of the Order to be held at Elks Temple, 607 South Park View, Los Angeles, Saturday, November 23. She has personally visited all the Parlors in this section, and the members are most enthusiastic over the affair, which will be the first joint meeting ever held in this district. Each Parlor is striving to win the trophy offered by Miss Stoermer to the Parlor having the largest attendance, based on membership.

Grand President Esther R. Sullivan, Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler and many other grand officers, past grands and members of the Order from north of Tehachipi have signified their intention to attend. The Parlors which will participate, and present classes of candidates for initiation, include: Reina del Mar No. 126 (Santa Barbara), Los Angeles No. 124, Long Beach No. 154, Rudecinda No. 230 (San Pedro), Verdugo No. 240 (Glendale), Santa Monica Bay No. 245, Californiana No. 247 (Hollywood), Santa Ana No. 235, Grace No. 242 (Fullerton), Lugonia No. 241 (San Bernardino) and San Diego No. 208.

The main feature of the evening, a class initiation, will be preceded by a banquet at 6 p. m. Escorts of members may participate in the banquet and the program. The initiation will, of course, be open only to members, but comfortable accommodations will be provided where escorts may wait until those ceremonies are over. It is anticipated that at least 600 will attend the banquet.

Miss Grace Norton has been selected to assist Miss Stoermer on the hospitality committee, and the members of the Los Angeles Parlors are making plans to take care of the visiting guests during their stay in the city.

PLANS ELABORATE SEMI-CENTENNIAL.

The most significant and outstanding celebration yet undertaken by the University of Southern California is being planned for commencement week, June 1 to 7, 1930, when the university rounds out the first half-century of its life. The exercises will extend through three or four days and will be of impressive character throughout. There will be no lack of life and jubilation, but the dominant note throughout will be representative of the university's truest contribution—high scholastic endeavor, worthy research, and academic idealism; in short, holding aloft the torch of civilization. U. S. C., established in 1880 with fifty-five students, now has an enrollment of 15,906.

The executive committee in charge of arrangement for the semi-centennial includes Dean Rockwell D. Hunt of the graduated school (chairman), Emery S. Bogardus (vice-chairman), Hugh Willett (secretary), Ruth Brown, Charles Seaman and James McCoy. Eleven special committees have been constituted to have charge of special phases, in addition to the honorary faculty committee, known as the silver committee, comprising those who have served the university continuously for a quarter-century or longer.

NATIVE DAUGHTER WINS HONORS.

For the second time in two years, Helen Powers-Cervantes, Long Beach artist, affiliated with Long Beach Parlor No. 154 N.D.G.W., designed the citrus fruit case display which won first place in the Los Angeles County Fair at Pomona. Both exhibits were submitted by the San Dimas unit of the California Fruit Growers Exchange. Virtually all of the towns of the Pomona Valley fruit belt competed.

In keeping with the Egyptian theme of the fair, this year's exhibit was Cleopatra floating down the Nile on a barge. A leopard crouched at her feet and a black slave bowed before her, offering her a huge orange.

HELEN POWERS CERVANTES
Long Beach Parlor N.D.G.W.

The title of the display was "Fit for a Queen." The exhibit was eight by thirty feet. Oranges, lemons and grapefruit were used and, in keeping with the entry rules, twenty percent of the fruit was left unwrapped.

Mrs. Cervantes' exhibit last year for San Dimas was a counter bearing an eight-foot glass of orange juice; its title was "The Nation's Drink."

Mrs. Cervantes has done much art work for Los Angeles County newspapers. One of her sketches was used as a cover design for a recent special harbor industrial edition.

"LET'S GET THEM!"

"There are many prominent Californians in this city who do not belong to the Order. Let's get them!" That was but one of the many admonition cards prominently displayed in the spacious dining-room of the home of Frank M. Hanser when, October 12, he entertained the past presidents of Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W. The keynote of the gathering, attended by a large number of Ramona's past presidents, its present officers and a couple of non-members, was, increase the membership, and the suggestion met with enthusiastic approval.

Past Grand President Herman C. Lichtenberger presided as master of ceremonies, and prior to partaking of a sumptuous repast, the assemblage saluted the picture of the host's father, the lately deceased Julius Hanser, who for many years was prominently identified with Los Angeles' industrial life. While the inner-mau was being satisfied, splendid entertainment numbers, contributed by various amusement enterprises, added to the pleasure of the occasion.

Past President Hanser was the first speaker, and he admonished his hearers to get back in the harness and work diligently for the upbuilding not only of Ramona Parlor, but of the whole Order. "It can be done, with little effort," he said, "if all of us will do our bit, and we should willingly do it, for the glory of our native state, California."

Other speakers included Senator R. F. Del Valle, charter president of Ramona, who promised he would round up a large class of eligibles; Isadore B. Dockweiler, who invited the past presidents to be his guests at next year's reunion; Grand First Vice-president John T. Newell, State Senator Henry Carter, Julius Krause and President Roland Fontana. During the evening the host was presented with a desk clock.

As a result of this gathering, Ramona Parlor, November 1 will feature a past presidents' night, and it is expected that at that time a membership campaign will be inaugurated; "Chef"

SPLENDID SHOW AT GLENDALE.

Glendale—Glendale Parlor No. 264 N.S.G.W. presented a most enjoyable netertainment, which was well attended, October 1. The following program, arranged for through the efforts of Leslie Schellhach, Leslie Henderson and Raymond J. McGrath, was carried out under the direction of Schellhach, master of ceremonies for the evening:

Three-reel cinema travelogue, depicting scenic wonders of France and Spain, Earl LeMoine; musical act, Reynolds brothers, radio broadcast artists, courtesy of Warner Brothers; revue, students from the Meglin school of dancing, featuring Gladys Gardner; impersonations, Muriel Cooper; vocal solos of his own composition, Leslie Schellhach, accompanied by Betty Sanders; vocal solo, Miss Virginia McCann, accompanied on the violin by Miss Almena Torres; vocal solos, Raymond J. McGrath, accompanied by Lalla Brown Justice; vocal solos, Dr. Joseph Alhert Kleiser. The affair was a complete success, and the co-operation exemplified by neighboring Parlors of both Native Daughters and Native Sons, is gratefully appreciated by No. 264.

At the October 15 meeting two candidates were initiated, the officers of Los Angeles Parlor No. 45 exemplifying the ritual. Dr. Joseph A. Kleiser conducted the good of the order, and among the many speakers was Grand First Vice-president John T. Newell. "Glendale has been aroused from its temporary sleep," says Secretary Claude Agard, "and plans are under way to build up."

CITIZENS BANK OPENS NEW BRANCH.

The Citizens National Trust and Savings Bank opened its thirty-second branch at Beverly Boulevard and Fairfax avenue October 5, under the management of Emory D. Mallek. The new branch is fully equipped for complete banking, and supplied with modern safe-deposit vaults. It will maintain its own escrow department.

DINNER AND CARD PARTY.

The October 2 meeting of Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W., presided over by President Irene G. Eden, was a most interesting one. Mrs. Mary Greenstock gave a charming and witty address on "Los Angeles History" that was most enlightening. Other speakers were Jennie D. Raymond, Edna Stenzel, Kathryn Ronan and Nell K. Ream, the latter discoursing on the many landmarks of Santa Barbara County.

The dance and hazaar October 23, of which Grace T. Haven was the executive chairman, was largely attended and a complete success. Clara Bird had charge of the cake hooth, Bertha Marshall-Murray the candy, Louise Summers the country store, Roberta Kessner the fish pond, Juanita Lopez the fortune telling, and Ruth Ruiz the refreshments.

The sewing circle at the home of Edith Douglas October 17 was a most enjoyable affair. A delightful luncheon was served, and while the guests were sewing garments for the homeless children Pearl K. Dwinell gave a musical recital. Mrs. Douglas, declared a wonderful cook, intends making these luncheons monthly affairs. An officers' meeting October 30 was well attended and much enthusiasm was apparent.

A delegation of Los Angeles members visited Gace Parlor No. 242 at Fullerton, October 17, and enjoyed an appetizing banquet and splendid meeting. October 21, a delegation accompanied District Deputy Gertrude Allen to Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 245 at Ocean Park. On both these occasions Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer was the principal speaker, giving de-

FORTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY.

Los Angeles Parlor No. 45 N.S.G.W. is making elaborate preparations for a banquet to be held the evening of November 14 at the University Club, in recognition of the Parlor's forty-fifth institution anniversary and in complement to Grand First Vice-president John T. Newell, a member of the Parlor, who, in May of next year, will be elevated to the Grand Presidency of the Order. All the grand officers, and all of the district deputies and Parlor presidents in California South will be special guests of No. 45. First Vice-president Roland Nichols heads the arrangement committee.

October 10 was old-timers' night at the Parlor, and the present officers surrendered their stations to past presidents, Charles Blumenthal again presiding. The many speakers related reminiscences of former days, and discussed the suggestion that No. 45 should add materially to its membership. President Walter Fisher was directed to appoint a campaign committee, and has named as the members thereof William G. Newell (chairman), Elmer Engelbracht, Roland Nichols and Frank Frank.

The Parlor will have initiation November 21, and there will be no meeting the 28th, that being Thanksgiving Day. Los Angeles is looking around for a new home, as its building on Seventeenth street will soon be torn down for the opening of Broadway.

BRIDGE TEA AND FASHION SHOW.

Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W. will give its first big social event of the term the afternoon of November 6 at Beverly Hills hotel, 1201 Sunset boulevard, Beverly Hills. It will be an attractive bridge tea and fashion show, together with a number of delightful surprises for the large company expected to be present. Tickets are selling rapidly. The funds obtained from the party will be used for the various Native Daughter activities, to which Californiana always subscribes liberally.

THE BIG CITY THAT KNOWS HOW

OCTOBER 13 THE GATES AT THE ENTRANCE to the Native Daughter Home at 555 Baker street, presented by the members of the last (San Francisco) N.S.G.W. Grand Parlor, were formally dedicated. Breakfast, attended by 140, preceded the ceremony. Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler and Millie Tietjen (Golden State Parlor No. 50) were the Native Daughter hostesses of the day. Following the splendid repast addresses were delivered by Charles L. Dodge, Grand President N.S.G.W., and Miss Sue J. Irwin, Past Grand President N.D.G.W. Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, Past Grand President N.D.G.W., presented two oil paintings of California scenes, left to the Home by the recently deceased Mrs. Ema Gett, Past Grand President N.D.G.W. Bahia Vista Parlor No. 167 N.D.G.W. presented a check for $50, and members of Berkeley Parlor No. 150 N.D.G.W. rendered several vocal selections.

Leaving the breakfast-room, the assemblage gathered at the entrance to the Home, where Judge Fletcher A. Cutler, Past Grand President N.S.G.W., who sponsored the raising of the funds for the gates, delivered the dedicatory address. Dr. Mariana Bertola, Past Grand President N.D.G.W. and chairman of the Home Committee, accepted the gates and in the course of her remarks explained the torch design. Brief remarks were made by John T. Regan, Grand Secretary N.S.G.W., and John A. Corotto (San Jose Parlor No. 22 N.S.G.W.). Then came a sight-seeing tour of the building—splendid in every detail, a real home.

In addition to those above mentioned, the following Native Daughter grand officers were in attendance: Grand Vice-president Estelle M. Evans, Grand Treasurer Susie K. Christ, Grand Marshal Eveilyn I. Carlson, Grand Trustee Sadie Brainard, Grand Inside Sentinel Millie Rock, Past Grand Presidents Addie L. Mosher, Emma Gruber-Foley and Margaret Grote-Hill.

PAST GRAND N.S.G.W. WELCOMED HOME.

Lewis F. Byington, Past Grand President N.S.G.W., was welcomed home from a tour of Europe with a banquet at the Elks' Club, San Francisco, October 8, attended by grand officers, past grands and seventy-five other prominent members of the Order. Past Grand Presidents Byington and Judge Charles E. McLaughlin landed at Gibraltar last June.

Past Grand President Daniel A. Ryan acted as toastmaster, welcoming the returning pilgrim, and addresses of felicitation were made by Grand President Charles L. Dodge; Past Grands Dr. Charles W. Decker, Judge John F. Davis, William P. Cauby, William J. Hayes, James F. Hoey, Edward J. Lynch and James A. Wilson; Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Second Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez, Grand Trustees Charles A. Koenig and J. Hartley Russell, Judges T. I. Fitzpatrick and I. Harris, J. B. Keenan, Phil Carey, A. Eberhart, James M. Hanley, Angelo Rossi, Donzel Stoney, R. V. Whiting and Ted Lunsted.

Wherever Past Grand Byington travels, he carries with him the Flag of the United States of America and the California State (Bear) Flag. He spoke so eloquently and glowingly of the vine-clad hills and the castles along the Rhine, and of the luscious, mellow juices of the purpling grapes from the valleys of France and Italy—not forgetting the charms of the fair daughters of those lands—that all present were eager to follow him when he takes another journey abroad. He concluded, however, by stating that "the voice of California eventually calls us all back to home and that fairest and most prosperous and enchanting land of all."

PAST PRESIDENTS STAGE JINKS.

Orinda Parlor No. 56 N.D.G.W. had a surprise high-jinks, September 27, directed by the past presidents, who were expected to exemplify the Order's ritual, but, instead presented a ritual of their own making. The candidate, asked "Do you believe in Santa Claus?", answered "Who wants to know?", and to the question "Are you willing to join?", replied "Why not?" The answers appearing satisfactory, the candidate was initiated via the anything-but-impressive substitute ritual. Those participating were: Past Presidents Emma G. Foley (P.G.P.), Anna G. Loser, None Foley, Mary Kerstel, Katherine Britschgi, Mary Vogt, Blanche Foppiano, Mary Connertin, Madeline C. King, Verena Friede, Emily Fauda, Mae Shea, Faye Curtis, Orinda Giannini and Ludemann.

Past Presidents Madeline King, Mae Shea, Orinda Giannini, Verena Friede and Faye Curtis presented an amusing playlet, "Sardines," and the evening closed with refreshments prepared by "Chef" Emma G. Foley. Visitors from Marineta, Joaquin and Sans Souci Parlors were present.—A.G.L.

GRAND MARSHAL N.D.G.W. HONORED.

Rejoicing over the compliment paid it at the Santa Cruz Grand Parlor, Dolores Parlor No. 169 N.D.G.W. had a reception and dance in honor of Grand Marshal Eveilyn I. Carlson, and the four delegates who attended the session with her, at the Native Daughter Home September 21. A large number of grand officers and friends were present to make the evening a happy one for the guests of honor. Fifty members of the Parlor attended the dinner which preceded the function, and Past President Myrtle Ross, as chairwoman of the evening, was most efficient in her efforts.

Several Sacramentans motored down especially for the occasion, among them Past Grand President Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, Grand Trustee Sadie Brainard and daughter, Grand Outside Sentinel Edna Briggs and Mr. Briggs, Emille Christ, Grand Inside Sentinel Millie Rock and Mr. Rock and District Deputy Agnes McVerry, who has officially served the Parlor as a deputy thirteen years. A nice compliment to Dolores was the presence of so many prominent Native Sons, among them Past Grand President James A. Wilson and Mrs. Wilson, Grand Secretary John T. Regan and Mrs. Regan and Grand Marshal Arthur J. Cien and his mother.

The Parlor presented Grand Marshal Carlson, through Past President Katherine Keating, with a beautiful wrist watch bracelet, Dolores Parlor No. 208 N.S.G.W. remembered her with a large basket of exquisite flowers, and many other gifts and good-wishes were showered on her. Dancing and refreshments rounded out a joyous evening.

October 9 the Parlor admitted six new members into its ranks, proving its desire to "increase the membership." Past President Amelia Silva recently gave a private luncheon and card party at the Native Daughter Home. Guests included Grand Marshal Evelyn I. Carlson, Past Presidents Irene Stelling, Hazel Nelson, Elizabeth Both, Emma O'Meara and other personal friends. A delightful afternoon was enjoyed and prizes were awarded Irene Stelling, Evelyn I. Carlson and Elizabeth Both.

SOMETHING NEW FOR GOOD CAUSE.

November 9, Portola Parlor No. 172 N.D.G.W. will sponsor a "plantation frolic and dance" for the benefit of the Native Daughter Home fund. This show is to help liquidate the debt on the Home, and not for the Loyalty Pledge of the Parlor.

The frolic is something new in minstrel shows. Forty-five California girls, trained in dance and song, will appear. Mrs. Nan J. Kelly is the stage director, and Miss Frances Dougherty, well-known in local entertainment circles, has charge of the dancing. Tickets, but 50 cents, may be had from the chairwoman, Mrs. Agnes Curry, 25 Kearny street.

Officers and members of the Parlor honored District Deputy Rita M. Hayden with a luncheon at the Native Daughter Home October 18. The tables were attractively decorated in Hallowe'en colors and those in attendance expressed pleasure at the beautiful home atmosphere, and also commended the splendid luncheon served under the supervision of Mrs. Hawkins, the gracious hostess. Mrs. Hayden, when introduced by Past Grand President Mae Heimes Noonan, told of the pleasure the district deputy appointment gave her.

BUSY WITH WELFARE WORK.

Castro Parlor No. 178 N.D.G.W. has been very busy since the early part of the year with veteran welfare work, having adopted Ward 19 at Letterman Hospital, Presidio. The last Tuesday of each month the girls take home-made cakes, punch and cigarets to the patients, and play and sing for them. Recently, a moving picture show was the day's entertainment feature. Plans for the Parlor's participation in the Thanksgiving Eve ball for the benefit of the homeless children have been perfected.

The Parlor was glad to welcome home Financial Secretary Alice Lane, who was in the East for five weeks, and First Vice-president Vera Glandor and Mildred Glandor, who toured Europe.

LARGEST ATTENDANCE IN MONTHS.

The annual Hallowe'en and funny dress-up party was the occasion for the largest attendance that Twin Peaks Parlor No. 185 N.D.G.W. has had in months. After the meeting members adjourned to the social hall, where games were played and prizes were awarded for the best costumes. Refreshments were served at tables decorated in Hallowe'en colors. The Parlor presented a string of crystal beads to Captain Connie Sibirian of the drill team, in appreciation of her faithful service.

HIGHWAY DEDICATED.

The Bayshore highway, connecting San Francisco and San Mateo, was dedicated October 20 at ceremonies attended by 20,000. The highway is fourteen miles long and one hundred feet wide.

DEFT WHICH SHOULD BE CHALLENGED.

The San Francisco Extension of the Order Committee N.S.G.W. has forwarded to each local Native Son and Native Daughter Parlor a copy of a letter protesting against the policy of certain business houses to remain open Admission Day, September 9, a legal holiday. The letter, dated Paso Robles, September 11, came from (Mme. C. E.) E. S. M. Grosjean, affiliated with Buena Vista Parlor No. 69 N.D.G.W., Daughters of California Pioneers and Association of Pioneer Women; the name of the particular firm referred to is intentionally omitted here, although it appears in the letter circulated among the local Parlors:

"Dear Fellow Workers: Your attention is called to an advertisement in the 'Examiner' of Sunday, September 8th. The opening lines I quote: 'The _____ Will Remain Open Monday, September 9th. The holiday will allow leisurely shopping . . . Get a copy of the paper, study the advertisement.

"Far be it from my intention to cavil about the legal right of the _____ to remain open on Admission Day if its Management so orders. However, I do question its loyalty to the traditions of California in so doing—that California which has been the field of the _____'s great prosperity. The advertisement is what arouses my indignation as a Native Daughter and the Daughter of a Pioneer. 'This matter should be taken up at once by the Native Daughters and Native Sons, the Society of California Pioneers, Daughters of California Pioneers, Association of Pioneer Women, Women's Auxiliary of the Society of California Pioneers, and California Historical Society.

"The advertisement is an open deft which should be challenged by every one of the societies herein mentioned. To them belong the privilege and the duty of rebuking the insolence which seeks to belittle the glory of California, to honor which Admission Day has been signalized as a holiday.

"Even the Stock Exchange sees fit to close on that occasion. Think of this deft being publicly uttered by an organization which only recently has had to enlarge its land holdings to accommodate its business, which has far outgrown its present headquarters.

"For my part, I shall not pass over this deft in silence. The _____ Management will receive a letter of rebuke from me, enclosing my final check, with the request that my name be removed from their books; where its credit has been respected for over a quarter of a century.

"This appeal for concerted action I make to you in the name of our own self-respect, for the honor of California, to which we owe so much. For the love and glory of California."

NATIVE DAUGHTERS ENJOY SOCIAL TIME.

Etna (Siskiyou County)—October 16, following the business meeting, a social time was enjoyed by twenty-five members of Eschscholtzia Parlor No. 112 N.D.G.W. Decorations, refreshments and games were in keeping with Hallowe'en. A very interesting and amusing program, consisting of musical numbers by Grand Organist Mina Horn and Kathryn Pitman, several guessing games, fortunes, and confessions of each member, was presented. Louisa Yung, guessing the most correct answers, was awarded a prize.

The success of the evening was due to a very capable committee, consisting of D.D.G.P. Lettie Lewis, Recording Secretary Bernice Smith, President Kappler, Nancy Smith and Laura Chadbourne. All arrangements have been completed for the Parlor's annual ball which will be given Christmas Night.

Dairy Show—The ninth annual Pacific Slope Dairy Show will be held at Oakland, Alameda County, November 16 to 22.

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER

THE MUCH-HERALDED SILHOUETTE is an established fact, after all these months of forecasts and advices. Waistlines are now normal. Skirts are longer, and the fullness starts low, with fascinating flounces that dip and swirl in unbelievable lovely effects, at the same time preserving that slimness so essential to the modern idea of perfect smartness.

Tweeds in colorful hues and interesting weaves, and exceedingly supple and light in weight, are outstanding for street and sports wear. Satin or velvet alone, or in combination with canton crepe or metallic, contribute to the formal afternoon mode. Lamé figured moire, the new stiff taffetas and panne satin are established for the elegance of the formal evening wear.

Black, brown, green, purplish reds, dahlia and the off-white tones are shown for evening. Black and white sports things vie with mauve-brown and eggshell-white.

Dark silk frocks are accented with touches of pastel trimmings. New fabrics reflect the copper tones in red, rust, cream and brown, and many in two-tone effects.

The capelet frock is daringly youthful, and will undoubtedly be in great favor with the slender ones. Embroidered batiste fashions a deep cape to be worn with a sleeveless dance frock.

The blouse, which may be worn "tuck-in," as well as over the skirt, is the most popular, but in either case it should fit the hips snugly.

The jacket sweater is quite the last word in knitted sportswear. It may have a striped collar and pocket trim. A striped jersey frock with the stripes running around is shown with a flared effect at the bottom of the skirt, by use of godets.

Sashes are worn with silk frocks to define the waistline, while smart leather belts do this service for woolen dresses, and both help out on the bloused effect, so popular.

Yokes are shown around the waistline of the newest lingerie—yokes which help to give that neat trim appearance. Fitted lingerie is a new note which follows logically the new trend in dress fashion, for who could wear a princess frock over carelessly chosen underthings?

"Corsets?" Yes, for evening and afternoon costumes, for without a corset the newest frocks cannot set well. The girdle is worn with street dresses, but ensembles do very well without either.

Fitted frocks have high waistlines and full, long skirts. The smart silhouette retains a slim, long-limbed appearance, which is both young and graceful.

The new wraps reflect molded lines and new fabrics. Coats have the lengthened line, the molded waist and the flared or uneven hemline, which fashion approves for daytime wear with clever seamings, fitted panels and flares.

Coats vary in length from five to seven eighths length in the ensembles to those that are five inches below the knee. Models worn over the newer frocks have fur collars and cuffs. The fur is on the outer side of the collar and sometimes reaches to the elbows on the cuffs.

The new evening wraps are a miracle of loveliness, designed to drape in flattering effects over the new lengthened silhouette.

In the gift shops, we find a purpose for every gift, as this is the time of the year when every little specialty shop, no matter what its specialty, has a gift department. Now is the time to look about.

You have the chance to pick up Christmas and holiday novelties while doing other shopping. More and more, women are coming to insist on practical quality in gifts, and every article must have a useful purpose, no matter how exotic that purpose.

We have all become animal lovers, it appears, and miniature zoos are bound to flourish in every corner after this Christmas is over. Animals, realistic or modernistic, sometimes almost unrecognizable, are observed in every gift medium. Pottery, china, metal, paper, wool or leather, posed as you will and painted any color, must indicate your animal-loving nature.

The little wooden hat stand, gaily painted in bright colors, is with us again and makes a very useful gift.

The vanity wrist compact, waterproof, for wear in the bath tub or at sea, contains powder, rouge and lip paste. Of course, the wearer will find many other uses for the vanity.

The fancy doll for the boudoir is always with us. Many new powder boxes are made of ebonite, in gold flecked jade colorings.

An iceless shaker contains a hollow tube, into which plain water and a chemical powder are placed, to give an instant chilling; it makes a nice gift for a man. There is no end to the novelties, of every description.

Looking over the accessory field, it appears that now almost every article, such as shoes, gloves, lingerie, costume jewelry, hosiery, fancy boudoir slippers, negligees, fancy headgear, evening bags and street bags, are as varied in shape and materials as the costumes they are to accompany.

For evening, the bag may go to any length as to material and adornment, but must be almost

CALIFORNIA

(JEANETTE NORLAND.)

There's a land of fruit and flowers
Bathed in sunshine and in showers,
Where the icy blasts of winter are unknown.
There all life, in growing measure,
Brings one health and joy and pleasure,
It's the land I love and treasure as my own.

There the sunshine seems much brighter,
And one's cares and burdens lighter;
And happiness and health are in the air.
There is romance, vital,—living,—
Where all love finds joy in giving
And life, at flood-tide, greets you everywhere.

O, I love the restless ocean
And the white-capped waves in motion;
I love the cooling breezes on my face,
And I love the leafy bowers,
And the gorgeous, fragrant flowers,
And the palms, so regal in their stately grace.

And I love the cool retreats
Where sweet peace with comfort meets,
Far away from sounds of revelry and song.
Where, with heart and mind in tune,
One with Nature may commune,
And the sweetest joys of living may prolong.

So just let me live and ponder,
As the sunset way I wander, —
Let my last days vie in glory with the sun.
And amid the fragrant flowers,
Let me spend life's fleeting hours,
'Til the Judge, at last, shall say:
"Thy race is run."

A call for relief has been sounded by the postmaster at Westwood, California, because of the large amount of mail received at his office addressed to the University of California at Los Angeles.

The Westwood postmaster has no means of delivering this mail to the university, because Westwood is located in Lassen County, several hundred miles from the University of California at Los Angeles.

In Memoriam

GRACE CULBERT-YARWOOD.
To the Officers and Members of Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 Native Daughters of the Golden West—Dear Sisters: We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our departed sister, Grace Culbert-Yarwood, respectfully submit the following:

Whereas, The angel of death has come into our midst and taken our well-loved sister, Grace Culbert-Yarwood; whereas, loyal, faithful, bright, gallant Grace, you have ever been an inspiration to Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 by advancing the interests of our beloved Order and you have always shown to us that you possessed fine and unselfish qualities that fitted you for leadership; whereas, Sister Culbert-Yarwood was an earnest, enthusiastic Native Daughter of the Golden West who carried the principles of our Order into her daily life, giving service to God, country and our State of California, knowing that we are bound to do our duty not by law but by our honor of our service to the Order of the Native Daughters of the Golden West; therefore, be it

Resolved, That our charter be draped in mourning, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of our Parlor, that a copy be sent to the bereaved family, and that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine, our official organ of publication.

"May the California winds blow lightly,
May the California sun shine brightly,
May the California rain fall softly,
Where sleeps our Grace, so dear."

Respectfully submitted in P.D.F.A.

DUO-ART

The Duo-Art is not a substitute for a musical instrument. It is a musical instrument. It has those qualities of distinction which adhere to those things that are real. Whether you select Paderewski to play his Minuet—or Gershwin his latest dance hit—whatever your mood or that of your guests—your DUO-ART brings all of the world's contemporary masters to the keyboard of your piano. And few fine things are quite so easy to own. From a STEINWAY DUO-ART GRAND at $3550 down to a STROUD DUO-ART at $795—there are dozens of models at dozens of prices between.

Your present piano will go a long way toward paying for a DUO-ART—and the balance in TWO or more years.

A BIT O' FARMING

PREPARED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY M. H. ELLIS

WINTER IS ALMOST AT HAND; ANOTHER month or two and it will be time to plant in the orchard. The commercial orchardist knows pretty well what he wants; he makes a study of conditions, prices of varieties, demands, soil, etc. But there are hundreds who will plant trees this winter—thousands more who should—who want them only for a family orchard; perhaps not even that, just a tree or two in the yard. Ordinarily they are chosen on a different basis. Water may be plentiful or scarce, that would make some difference; shipping quality need not be considered, for the fruit is intended for home consumption. Ordinarily the backyard tree is not as carefully pruned, sprayed and otherwise tended as is the one in the commercial orchard, so that must be taken into consideration.

No general list of trees for planting in all parts of the state can very well be given, but there are some varieties that will do well under pretty much all conditions. With apples, Red Astrachan for early, Gravenstein next, Winter Bauana for fall and Winter Pearmain or some other variety that may do well locally may be chosen. Royal is about the surest bet in apricots, with Newcastle if an early variety is wanted. Early Richmond for a pie cherry, Black Republican, Black Tartarian and Royal Ann for later use would be wise selections. Freestone peaches are the best for home use; choose Early Imperial or Lunken's Honey for early crop and Elberta for the mainstay. Bartlett is the best-known pear, although Flemish Beauty often does better; Winter Nellis or some locally known winter variety will do for keeping. Santa Rosa is about the best plum to be generally planted, although the Wickson is good. Stanwick and Gold Mine are about the best nectarines.

Then there are the berries, easily raised, productive, giving little trouble and yielding good crops, generally speaking. Red raspberries, Cory's Thornless blackberries, the new Youngberry and strawberries are easy to handle. In addition there may be planted persimmons, avocados in some sections, loquats, quinces, oranges, lemons, pomelos and grapes.

A tree or two will go a long way toward keeping down the grocery bill and keeping up the family health. If one is deft with grafting or budding, or can get someone to do the work for him, two or three or four or more varieties of the same fruit may be produced on the same tree and in sufficient quantities to supply the needs of an average family. One tree may well yield a succession of crops of apples or peaches, for instance, to supply the table all during the season.

PRUNING CITRUS TREES.

Go light in pruning citrus trees; if in doubt, don't cut. This is the safest rule to follow unless in a certain district other practice has been proven. During the first four years it will be pretty safe not to use the knife or shears at all, other than to remove suckers and dead, crossed, pinched or broken limbs. As the tree grows older, thin out a bit to admit light and remove weak limbs; never give the tree a heavy cutting back. Don't worry about the low hanging limbs and cultivation. If the limbs do hang low there won't be many weeds growing beneath them in the shade. And if cuts are made, make them on the smaller branches clear underneath rather than remove the entire limb.

FALL SPRAY PROGRAM.

Now that the fruit is off the tree, it is time to get started on next year's crop. Spraying is first in order for deciduous fruit trees. The disease called blight in peaches, shothole fungus on apricots, almonds and cherries, should be treated before the fall rains start, and the middle of this month is none too early. Use Bordeaux, 4-4-50 or 5-5-50, in which the fours and fives refer to pounds of bluestone and lime and the fifty to gallons of water. This also will be a help in control of bacterial gummosis and will aid in keeping down brown rot in twigs. Brown apricot scale affects apricots, of course; it attacks also most of the other fruits mentioned. The control is oil emulsion; if the spray is late, oil may be added to the Bordeaux, but two separate sprays a month or six weeks apart are better.

THE ETERNAL CLEANUP.

Then the cleanup! No housewife permits her house to become dirty—it is a matter of pride that it is kept clean; she keeps her kitchen clean because food won't otherwise be fit to eat. Sanitation is as important in the orchard; it means nothing more than cleaning up. Get rid of orchard trash if shothole and twig borers are to be controlled; get apricot mummies, dead twigs, etc., out of the trees unless brown rot is welcome; cut out and disinfect every pear blight canker or infected branch if it is at all important to preserve the tree; destroy wormy and cull pears and apples, as they furnish a splendid refuge for codling moth; use four-inch burlap bands on pears, apples and walnuts to catch larvae that would develop into moths; get bean straw and trash out of the way, or weevils will accept the invitation to winter there; prune out berry canes and get rid of holdover disease. Clean up everywhere, don't give the pests any more chance than can be helped. Procrastination is the greatest ally of farm pests.

HOW ABOUT FROST PROTECTION?

It may be true that last spring's frost did not reduce the revenue derived from the annual deciduous fruit crop. It may also be true that those who had fruit got big prices. But how about the farmer who lost his crop? He didn't profit much from the frost. At the same time, he probably carried insurance pretty well covering most of his other hazards. The best insurance against frost is a sufficient quantity of orchard heaters. Cover crops may be of help in borderline districts; it is doubtful if they will maintain two degrees higher temperature than bare ground. If there is a frost hazard, buy stoves for insurance.

Those farmers who lost this year now can see where the orchard heaters would have been good investment. And now is the time to get busy. Survey your needs, get help from your farm advisor or county agricultural commissioner, if need be; but get an outline of what you want and get ready for the spring. There is talk again of electric orchard heaters; there is no question that they would beat oil heaters. The question is an economic one, will they operate cheaply enough to permit their use? Whatever the type, get the heaters.

PROTECTING YOUNG ORANGE TREES.

There is not much that can be done in the way of wrapping the trunks of young orange trees to protect them from the cold. If heavy growth is not stimulated too much and the trees are allowed to harden up as the season advances, they should come through in good shape if the district is adapted to citrus culture. Wrapping the trunks may help; it certainly won't do any harm. Eventually, if the district is frost threatened, the orchard heaters must come in; perhaps it would be well to get them now.

DRYING UP THE MILK COW.

Eight or ten weeks in every fifty-two should be given over to rest for the milk cow. Some dry up without help, many too soon, but there are many good, persistent milkers that must be dried up before they calve again. If the cow approaches the end of the lactation period with no sign of abating the milk flow, cut her rations. There is no need to starve her, but go slow on the concentrates that produce milk; give plenty of roughage, but less protein. When the drying time comes, omit one milking a day, then omit a day. Dry the cow gradually, but use judgment and watch that the udder does not get hard and caked; if it does, milk out a bit to relieve the congestion.

THANKSGIVING TURKEYS.

Point the turkeys for the Thanksgiving market. There is less competition in the November market for No. 1 birds than there is in December, and prices generally are higher. Then there is a month's board, lodging and care to reckon in the total. Consequently, a twelve-pound Thanksgiving bird may easily outsell a fourteen-pound Christmas turkey, and the profit will be larger unless feed conditions are abnormal. Early breeding and proper feeding will bring turkeys up to weight and quality for Thanksgiving. But even now there is time for proper finishing and preparation for the market this month.

HEATING OF STORED HAY.

Unless hay is stored absolutely dry, there always is danger of heating; if there is much green, uncured material in it, the stack or mow may be lost through fire. Even when alfalfa is cut and properly cured, there may be foreign vegetation in it that will cause heating. There have been heavy losses from this source in the state during the last two or three years. Proper curing, storage with as much ventilation as possible, and the addition of a few pounds of salt per ton of hay, will go far toward prevention of losses from heating and over-heating.

COVERCROPS HELP SOIL.

It is far past the time when covercrops should have been planted; it is not too late, however, to get some benefit from a good legume in many districts of the state. Consider that a ton of burr clover contains more than fifteen pounds of nitrogen, valued at more than $3, not reckoning the value of the humus. Other legumes do as well, some even better. Some soils seem not to grow legumes well at first; the home inoculation method may be tried in that event. Take soil from a place that has grown a good legume; use one part of soil to two or three parts of water, stirring frequently during a day after which the earth is permitted to settle. The bacteria are carried in the water and transferred to the seed; thus treated, seed in some soils show a wonderful improvement in crops produced.

HOGS AND SMUTTED BARLEY.

Hogs may be fed smutted barley without danger of serious consequences, unless the barley is very smutty. Smutted barley is not in high demand on the market, but often it can be turned to profitable account through feeding to hogs. If there appears any danger of trouble, or if the farmer would play safe, most of the smut may be removed by putting the barley in a vat filled with water and then stirring it. The smut will arise to the surface and may be skimmed off. This is seldom necessary, unless the smutting is very heavy.

KEEP TRACTOR LOADED.

If the maximum of economy is to be secured from the tractor, it should be kept working at full load. Fuel costs per acre will be reduced if the tractor is worked to its rated capacity. For instance, it has been shown by tests that a eighteen-horsepower tractor using a cultivator that takes all its power will till ten acres of soil on four gallons of fuel; if a cultivator is attached that is enough smaller that only fifteen horsepower are employed, it will take seven gallons for this same tract. Using the same tractor and a much smaller cultivator, the fuel can be worked up to twenty gallons for the ten acres. In purchasing a tractor, be sure to see that the tools procured to go with it fit the power.

WATCH THE CHICKEN MITES.

No plant or animal can be expected to produce at its best if some parasite is feeding from it. Don't expect your hens to produce eggs in profitable quantities if there are mites sucking their blood at night. Run your finger along under the roosts and see if there are bloodstains from crushed mites. If there are, get busy with some sort of spray or paint and clean up.

Kerosene, crude oil or old crankcase oil, sprayed or painted thoroughly over the roosts, in cracks and in any other places that might harbor the pests, will clean them up. There will be less trouble in cool weather than in warm, but the cleanup is essential at all times. Specially prepared oils may be secured that will kill eggs as well as mites. It pays to use these in aggravated cases or where the first cleanup does not appear successful.

FALL FERTILIZING PROGRAM.

While it does little good to feed trees with fertilizer containing immediately available plant foods at this time of the year, it is well to remember that where manure is used it does not become at once available. So turn the manure under right now as deeply as it can be put. Disk or otherwise firm the ground to hold moisture around the decomposing manure. There will be nothing more to do in the spring but disk again and harrow.

This same plan applies equally well to field crops. Straw does not rot quickly and it may interfere with plant feeding. This is another reason why the manure should go under now, so that there may be no difficulty from this source in the growing season. In the spring, the complete fertilizers, or fertilizers calculated to give the soil the added elements it needs, may be applied.

BETTER BREEDING IN SHEEP.

The day of cheap feed and low production costs has passed in the growing of spring lambs. The number of poor lambs in the flock is the measure of success or failure of the sheep industry of today, for the lamb crop is the backbone of that industry. The answer is fewer and better sheep and more feed. If profits are to come now, there must be a higher percentage of lamb crop and of fat lambs. Proper feeding and breeding, together with a program that will rid the animals of internal parasites, will reduce the number of poor lambs in the flock and will consequently increase the profits.

REPLACING ORCHARD TREES.

In replacing old trees in the orchard, the most important thing to be looked out for is to see that as many as possible of the roots are removed with the trees. Decaying roots encourage oak root fungus and may result in failure with the new plantings. If the trees are pulled up with a tractor, few of the roots, other than the main ones, are likely to come along. Digging is a good way to get them out, though perhaps slow. The work can be expedited with a charge of dynamite; if the soil is dry this will break it up and give the newly planted tree a much better chance for success.

FATTENING CALVES FOR VEAL.

It is not strictly necessary to feed milk in fattening a calf, particularly if it has reached the age of six months. Give it plenty of alfalfa hay and grain. Feed the cheapest grain available; if prices of several grains are about the same, mix them. If oats can be fed economically, they will induce the calf to eat more, hence quicker fat. All grain should be ground, of course. Calves, by nature, grow but do not fatten; the veal calf must be fat, so feed concentrates.

RELIC HYDRAULIC MINING DAYS TO BE HOUSED AT SUTTER FORT.

Michigan Bluff (Placer County)—A sewing machine weighing one and a half tons is to be added to the collection of early-day California relics housed at Sutter Fort, Sacramento.

LACK OF CARE, NOT FAULTY MECHANISM, CAUSES ACCIDENTS.

Death stalked the highways of California during the first six months of 1929, claiming a total of 1,010 persons killed and 15,630 in motor mishaps for the half-year period, according to Superintendent Eugene W. Biscailuz of the California Highway Patrol. Ninety percent of the trouble could have been avoided, had motorists involved exercised caution and judgment.

Indicative of the need of more careful driving in crowded city districts, the report shows pedestrian accidents led all others for a high rate of fatalities, 346 persons meeting death by collisions with motor vehicles. A total of 3,581 persons, many of them children, were injured in pedestrian accidents.

A remarkably small number of accidents were reported in which faulty mechanism of the automobile was blamed. Of the 18,330 cars involved in accidents during the period, 17,428 were in apparently good condition. Defective brakes led the list of mechanical faults causing accidents. Nine persons were killed because of defective steering gear, fourteen in accidents caused by poor or glaring lights, and ten by punctures and blowouts. "The automobile is nearly 100 percent safe, if driven properly," says the patrol superintendent.

CLOSER CO-OPERATION KEYNOTE WESTERN MOTOR CONFERENCE.

Favoring increased appropriations for federal-aid and forest highways, urging further preservation of national scenic areas, asking for more intensive fire protection in Western lands, and requesting investigation of the feasibility of an international highway to Alaska, the fifth annual Western Motor Clubs' Conference, concluded at Seattle last month, threw the composite support of half a million motoring families behind these important projects.

The conference, in resolutions, pointed out the necessity for immediate congressional action on these matters and asked for the support of all motordom. Closer co-operation and harmony between the Western motoring organizations was the keynote of the meeting.

DANGEROUS ROAD TO BE MADE SAFER.

California's most dangerous strip of highway—the straightaway running south from Bakersfield, Kern County, to the Grapevine grade over the Ridge route—is to be made safer by the State Highways Division.

A special non-skid surface will be placed on the six miles of the roadway where most of the accidents occur. The re-surfacing, it is expected, will prevent skidding, responsible for a large part of the accidents.

QUARTER-CENTURY-OLD RECORD.

An interesting item of twenty-five years ago in California motordom recently came to light: In 1904 A. H. Pitlenburg made a run from San Diego to San Francisco, a clocked distance of 750 miles, in six and one-half days. The previous record was eight days, so considerable excitement was created by his feat.

LIABLE TO ARREST.

Motorists who have not renewed operators' license cards issued prior to January 1, 1927, have not complied with the state law requiring them to do so.

The "period of grace" expired October 8, and all persons driving a motor vehicle with out-of-date cards are now liable to arrest.

"Shame comes to no man unless he helps it on the way."

STATE-WIDE CAMPAIGN OF EDUCATION AND ENFORCEMENT.

Backed by the California Highway Patrol and the police chiefs and sheriffs of all cities and counties, the California Public Safety Committee has launched a state-wide campaign of education and enforcement. During October an effort was made to eradicate the glaring headlights menace.

During November attention will be given the slow driver who operates his car in the middle of the highway, in violation of the law which requires him to drive on the right-hand side.

In December, the beginning of the holiday season, the committee will concentrate on pedestrian regulations in the cities and the provision of the law requiring persons to walk on the left-hand side of state and county highways.

Necessity for a co-ordinated and uniform campaign of education and enforcement is evidenced by the state's traffic record, which shows a daily average of five persons killed and eighty-four injured during the first five months of this year.

HIGH COURT INTERPRETS RIGHT OF WAY PREFERENCE.

Motorists who are "fuzzy" about the right of way at intersections and are inclined to "bawl out" the other driver should digest the latest decision of the Washington State Supreme Court involving the point.

According to report, the right or preference at a crossing does not arise, except when drivers are approaching at the same time and approximately the same speed. Then, the one on the right has the right of way. It is no excuse to say that trees obscured the way, for this should only increase the vigilance. When a driver approaches a street intersection and sees another approaching from his right and near enough so that there is reasonable danger of collision if both proceed, then it is his duty to yield the right of way.

TWILIGHT PERIOD DANGEROUS.

Twilight or half-light—that period just before dark when motorists hesitate whether to turn their lights on—is an exceedingly dangerous period for accidents, says the State Division of Motor Vehicles. Records of accidents analyzed for a six-month period show a large number of smash-ups traceable to conditions existing during the period just before dark, revealing that between 6 and 7 p. m. 83 persons lost their lives and 799 were injured, and between 7 and 8 p. m. 62 were killed and 763 injured.

With the approach of winter, the division warns motorists to be doubly cautious to avoid accidents in the "twilight period," inasmuch as the shorter day brings the twilight hour closer to the time when traffic is much heavier.

FEDERAL SURVEY UNDER WAY.

The Federal Government began last month a survey of transcontinental routes in the Western states that will extend over a year. It will show the number of vehicles using each of the main highways throughout the year, by days of the week and hours of the day, and will classify the traffic according to types of vehicles. The importance of cities and towns will be ascertained, and population trends will be shown.

Have Wheels Checked—The wheels of a motor car are under strain at sharp turning and similar emergencies. It is well to have them checked periodically, to be sure the flange nuts are tight.

Test Your Guessing—Thousands of car owners imagine they can tell by sight when a tire's pressure is up to the proper standard. Nine times out of ten they are wrong, as checking the guess against a tire gauge will prove.

Use Spare—If a car is equipped with a good spare tire it should not be allowed to remain too long without using.

SAFETY REMEDY IN HANDS OF THE DRIVING PUBLIC.

Oil-soaked pavements and autumn rains combine to form one of the fall season's most serious motoring hazards, according to the Automobile Club of Southern California, which advises that lower driving speeds and well-treaded tires on all four wheels will minimize the danger, but will not entirely eliminate it.

The safety remedy remains in the hands of the driving public who, if they would prevent unnecessary accidents, must follow every precept of careful, conservative motor-vehicle operation. Some of the more important are:

"Drive slowly and with consideration for the rights of every other user of the highway.

"Be sure that safety appliances—tires, brakes, lights and windshield wiper—are functioning perfectly.

"Watch for, and obey, all warning, danger, curve and stop signs.

"Give hand signals when turning or stopping, and give them in sufficient time to warn other drivers.

"Do not park on highways; if you must stop your car, be sure that all four wheels are off the road.

"Remember that it is easier to skid on certain types of pavement than on others."

1929 PROMISES TO BE CALIFORNIA'S RECORD YEAR.

Motor-vehicle fees collected by the State of California the first seven months of this year were 13 percent greater than for the same period last year, indicating that there has been a larger percentage of increase in the number of automobiles in the state than for several years past. Since 1919, or for the past ten years, there has been an increase of 372 percent in the number of licensed vehicles.

It would appear that 1929 will establish a new record for the number of automobiles registered in the state, as well as for the number of miles driven and the amount of gasoline used. It is also expected that California's record this year will be near the top in the country for the number of new automobiles purchased.

MODERN CARS INCREASE SAFETY.

Maximum safety has been built into modern motor cars, and the number of motor fatalities per 100,000 registration has declined materially in the past ten years, it was recently declared by the Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

Competence of the driver is always a vital factor for safety, although it is generally acknowledged that four-wheel brakes, more responsive motor and balloon tires are features of modern automobile construction which have eliminated many driving hazards.

UNIFORM CODE POPULAR.

Ninety-five cities of the state have adopted the California uniform traffic code, the basis of the model municipal traffic ordinance approved by the Hoover conference on street and highway safety.

First Suspected—When there is evidence of valve trouble the exhaust valves should be suspected first. Operating at a very high temperature, they suffer more wear than the intake valves, and the excessive heating lessens their ability to withstand the effects of pounding.

Immediate Attention—When the oil gauge fails to show adequate oil pressure, give immediate attention. The trouble may be: broken oil line, clogged intake strainer, air leak in oil line, or defective gauge.

Evidence—A clean windshield is evidence of a safe driver. It is far better and safer to stop and wipe the windshield with a soft cloth than to be leaning out of the side of the car to see ahead.

Pay Strict Attention—"Unusual" accidents are being constantly reported to authorities, showing the necessity for every auto driver to pay strict attention when behind the wheel.

Tighten Bolts—After a new car has been driven a thousand miles it is a good plan to tighten all the body bolts.

Native Sons of the Golden West

GRASS VALLEY (NEVADA COUNTY)—Under the auspices of the Grand Parlor, a nearby monument, marking the site where gold quartz was first discovered in California, was dedicated October 20. The monument, twelve feet high and constructed of solid granite, bears a bronze plaque inscribed as follows:

"This tablet commemorates the Discovery of Gold Bearing Quartz and the Beginning of Quartz Mining in California. The discovery was made on Gold Hill by George Knight, October 1850. The occurrence of gold bearing quartz was undoubtedly noted here and elsewhere about the same time, or previously, but the above discovery created the great excitement that started the development of quartz mining into a great industry. The Gold Hill Mine, from 1850 to 1857, is credited with a total production of $4,000,000. This monument dedicated by Quartz Parlor No. 58 N.S.G.W., Manzanita Parlor No. 29, N.D.G.W., October 20, 1929."

The dedication ceremonies, witnessed by over a thousand, were conducted by Grand President Charles L. Dodge, Grand Second Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez, Grand Third Vice-president Seth Millington, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Trustees Frank M. Lane and Harmon D. Skillin. The program included:

Selection, orchestra; address, E. K. Smart, president Grass Valley Chamber Commerce, chairman of the day; welcome address, Alison F. Watt, Past Grand President N.D.G.W.; address on history of gold quartz discovery, M. J. Brock, mayor Grass Valley; address, Charles L. Dodge, Grand President N.S.G.W.; address, Estella M. Evans, Grand Vice-president N.D.G.W.; dedicatory address, Joseph R. Knowland, Past Grand President N.S.G.W.; vocal solo, "I Love You, California," Mrs. Jack Wolff; chorus, "The Star Spangled Banner," assemblage.

Old Timers in Evidence.

Saint Helena—The thirtieth anniversary of the institution of Saint Helena No. 53 was observed September 30 by a great outpouring of members, whose numbers were reinforced by delegations from Napa and Calistoga Parlors. Honored guests were Grand Second Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez, Grand Marshal Arthur J. Cleu, and the following nine of the twelve remaining charter members of the Parlor: C. Mills, George Herdle, Walter Metzner, Joseph Tosetti, Wilbur Harrison, Julius Goodman, P. S. Grant, J. P. Steckter and William Sheehan. The other charter members are Walter Sink, E. S. Bell and Guy W. Rison.

The festivities opened with a dinner at which Mayor Walter Metzner was the master of ceremonies, and while enjoying the feast John Sculatti entertained with accordion selections. Adjourning to the lodge-room, the stations were relinquished to the old-timers, practically all of whom were heard in reminiscent addresses. Other speakers were President J. B. Ratto of Calistoga Parlor, District Deputy Henry Pocal, Max Schwartz and Z. Israelsky of Napa Parlor, Walter Bammann of Pacific Parlor, Grand Marshal Cleu and Grand Second Vice-President Dr. Gonzalez. Success of the occasion was due largely to the efforts of J. L. Goodman and Frank Harrison, the arrangements committee.

Hundred-and-More Percent Increase.

Cambria—Grand Trustee J. Hartley Russell advised Cambria No. 152 that he would officially visit the Parlor October 5, and in reply received a letter stating a class of candidates would be initiated in his honor. Grand President Dodge, perusing the letter, advised the Parlor that if a class of twenty or more were rounded up he and other grand officers would accompany Grand Trustee Russell.

Cambria accepted the proposal, and as a result, when the grand officers arrived they found a class of thirty-four awaiting initiation—a more than one hundred percent membership increase. Assisting in exemplifying the ritual were Grand President Charles L. Dodge as president, District Deputy George Sonnenberg Jr., first vice-president; Grand Secretary John T. Regan, marshal; Grand Second Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez, inside sentinel; Grand Trustee J. Hartley Russell, organist. Following the ceremonies a banquet was spread, and in addition to the above, addresses were delivered by President J. R. Stewart of Cambria, who was the toastmaster, Judge A. S. Gay, secretary of No. 152, and Past Grand President Charles A. Thompson.

This was a gala event in the annals of this San Luis Obispo County Parlor, as it was the first time in its history so many grand officers visited at one time, and the members said it had been more than a quarter-century since a Grand President paid the Parlor a visit.

Distinguished Native Son Honored.

Berkeley—The first award of the Benjamin Ide Wheeler medal, to be given by Berkeley service clubs to "the most useful citizen, for distinguished service," was made to Chief Justice William H. Waste of the California Supreme Court, affiliated with Berkeley No. 210, October 25.

The award is to be granted biennially to some citizen of Berkeley in recognition of distinguished service—to the city, the state, the nation or humanity. The award will be made without regard to sex, religion, place of birth or occupation. It shall be open to those who have distinguished themselves in public life, international relations, business, education, art, music, invention or any other field of activity. No consideration is to be given to the fact that a person under consideration as a possible recipient of the prize is or is not a member of a service club.

Past Presidents Initiate Class.

Lodi—Under the direction of District Deputy Walter Salomon, the initiatory team of San Joaquin Assembly No. 7 Past Presidents Association initiated a class of candidates for Lodi No. 18 September 25. The stations were filled by the following: Senior past president, R. J. Marzaccini, Tracy No. 186; junior past president, M. V. Wilson, Modesto No. 11; president, W. A. Strong, Stockton No. 7; first vice-president, W. M. Gregg, Lodi No. 18; second vice-president, C. J. Frerichs, Tracy No. 186; third vice-president, John A. Fisher Jr., Stockton No. 7; marshal W. P. Rothenbush, Stockton No. 7; inside sentinel, Joel V. Beck Jr., Stockton No. 7; pianist, L. B. Schlingheyde, Modesto No. 11.

At the ceremonies' conclusion supper was served, and entertainment was provided by a committee headed by A. P. Krumb.

Worthy Project Dedicated.

Murphys—About 500 attended the September 29 dedication of the swimming pool, constructed through the efforts of Stockton No. 7, at the Bret Harte Preventorium, an institution maintained by San Joaquin and Calaveras Counties. The committee of the Parlor responsible for the success of this project deserves a lot of credit, for the pool will be a big help in building up the health of the patients of this splendid institution.

Law T. Freitas, chairman of the committee, presided at the exercises, and addresses were made by Grand President Charles L. Dodge and George F. McNoble. Others in attendance included Grand Second Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez, Grand Secretary John T. Regan and Finance Committeeman John S. Ramsay.

Charter Member Given Flags.

Weaverville—Mount Bally No. 87 presented a set of flags to James W. Bartlett, judge of the Trinity County Superior Court, September 30. The members of the Parlor took particular pride in this event, for Judge Bartlett, formerly a Grand Trustee, is one of Mount Bally's four remaining charter members and an authority on Trinity County history.

Grand Third Vice-president Seth Millington officially visited the Parlor October 4, and his instructive and interesting address was greatly enjoyed.

Co-operation Brings Success.

San Miguel—As the result of co-operative efforts on the part of various local organizations, including San Miguel No. 150 and San Miguel No. 94 N.D.G.W., the first annual San Miguel Mission Fiesta came to a successful close September 29 with a colorful pageant, "The Spirit of California."

Supervisor Henry Twisselman extended a welcome, and assemblyman Chris N. Jespersen was among the speakers, saying, in part: "It was through co-operative efforts the padres were able to build California's great missions. How fitting it is for us today to be participants in a celebration the product of co-operation. Here have met citizens of every near-by community, and here is the result of strenuous work on the Charity Ball.

Sacramento—The local Parlors of Native Sons and Native Daughters are sponsoring a charity ball, for the benefit of the homeless children, at the Civic Auditorium November 9. Grand Trustee Irving D. Gibson is chairman of the joint committee of arrangements.

October 17, Grand Trustee Harmon D. Skillin paid an official visit to Sacramento No. 3. A program was presented and refreshments were served. Dr. Harold H. Wilson, president of the Parlor, is directing a campaign to increase the membership of No. 3, which has drifted below the "400 class."

Usual Order Reversed.
Oakland—Reversing the usual order of things, Frank C. Merritt, in celebration of the twentieth anniversary of his initiation, banqueted the entire membership of Brooklyn No. 151 and Brooklyn No. 157 N.D.G.W. September 25. Members of No. 151 surprised Merritt by presenting him with a beautiful framed picture of an episode of pioneer California days—an emigrant train crossing the plains. A social dance, with music by Brooklyn's orchestra, concluded the festivities.

Past Presidents Pay Visit.
Roseville—Fred H. Greely Assembly No. 6 and John A. Sutter Assembly No. 10 of Past Presidents met with Rocklin No. 233 September 25, and a ritual team made up from both assemblies initiated Carlos Schmitt, son of H. L. Schmitt, an old-timer of No. 233. The Parlor being in "neutral" territory, now has under consideration whether its past presidents will affiliate with Assembly No. 6, with headquarters in Marysville, or Assembly No. 10, with headquarters in Sacramento.

A banquet concluded the gathering. Governor L. T. Sinnott of Assembly No. 6 was the toastmaster, and among the speakers were: M. G. Parker of Oroville, Robert Dixon of Lincoln, Mel Longshore and Lon Farron of Sacramento, Wendel Robie, George West and Elmer Gum of Auburn, Dr. C. W. Chapman of Nevada City, O. H. Fuller of Grass Valley, H. L. Schmitt and Delbert Bailey of Roseville, and Past Grand President Fred H. Greely.

Whopping Buck Stories.
Etna—Grand Third Vice-president Seth Millington paid an official visit to Etna No. 192 October 2 and spoke on the past history and the present aims of the Order. A delicious chicken-pie supper was served at the meeting's conclusion, and around the festive board whopping stories concerning bucks were related.

The Tall Sycamore Was There.
Menlo Park—Menlo No. 185 had an official visit from Grand Trustee G. Hartley Russell September 24. Among the many in attendance were visitors from Presidio, Palo Alto and Oakland Parlors; also, M. F. X. Kavanaugh, charter member No. 185, known as the "tall sycamore of Ravenswood."

President John G. Shortridge presided, and Grand Trustee Russell gave an interesting talk on the Order's projects. The early history of Menlo Park was related by Brother Flynn of Oakland. Gathered about the banquet table following the meeting, District Deputy Philip Blanchard sang his famous "Dago" song. October 3 the Parlor had initiation, the officers exemplifying the ritual in an impressive manner.

Native Daughters of the Golden West

JANESVILLE—THE ANNUAL DINNER tendered the Pioneers of Lassen County by the Native Daughters and Native Sons drew a crowd of 250, not all Pioneers, however. A home-cooked dinner was followed by a program over which Archie Bailey presided as toastmaster. The program opened with the singing of "America" and a prayer by Rev. Wildman. Mrs. Jessie Lowe gave a reading, "Pioneer Days," and there were brief talks by Rev. Mark Pike and Hardin Barry, and W. K. Davis favored with solos.

The program's outstanding feature was the eulogy of Norman Barry, who made the trip from Reno, Nevada State, to again mingle with his old-time neighbors. He paid a glowing tribute to the California Pioneers, and said that he could understand the faith and the courage of the men of the covered-wagon days, because of the novelty of new scenes and the spirit of adventure, but that he had never been able to quite determine what had sustained the courage of the women of that period, who were denied all the luxuries and many of the things considered absolute necessities.

Nineteenth Anniversary.

Fresno—Charter members and District Deputy Maude C. Crosby were guests of Fresno No. 187 October 4, when the Parlor's nineteenth institution anniversary was observed. The hall was decorated in gold and white, and a corsage was presented each guest. Sade Smith, charter member, read the minutes of the first meeting, and the Morrow sisters, Miss Levy, Carrie Gates, Gertrude Wynn and Lillian Beguhl furnished entertainment. Among the speakers were President Gertrude Collie, District Deputy Maude Crosby and Lottie Pollard. A buffet supper was served, and a beautifully decorated birthday cake, made by Vernon Pollard, was partaken of. The committee in charge for the evening included: Lottie Pollard (chairman), Frances Oliver, Virginia Hainline, Carrie Gates and Lillian Beguhl.

Fresno Parlor was organized October 13, 1910, by Mamie G. Peyton, then Grand President. The charter was signed by thirty-six, of whom six now remain: Eva Paul, Nancy Brander, Avis Burke, Sade Smith, Melissa Noonan and Jennie Lessman. Under the guidance of able officers, the Parlor has prospered, both socially and financially, increasing in membership to 127. The present officers are: President, Gertrude Collie; first vice-president, Lottie Pollard; second vice-president, Annie Ellis; third vice-president, Cecelia Roby; recording secretary, Elvira Soares; financial secretary, Vernon Pollard; treasurer, Lois Whitehill; marshal, Charlotte Fay; inside sentinel, Edith Duncan; outside sentinel, Edith Bartholomew; organist, Gertrude Wynn; trustees, Lillian Beguhl, Maude Crosby and Edith Wolfe.

Grand President Honored.

Pittsburg—In the presence of a large assemblage, Grand President Esther Sullivan was honored at a reception celebrating both her official visit and the twenty-fourth birthday of Sterling Parlor No. 146. At the business meeting the officers put on the degree work for the benefit of the visiting grand officers, and following this a banquet and social evening were enjoyed.

One of the oldest fraternal societies in Pittsburg, Sterling Parlor has been very active during its twenty-four years of existence. Mrs. Lizzie Difen, an old-time resident, was the first president, and six charter members remain: Mms. D. A. McVay, Anna Woodhouse and Amy McAvoy (Past Grand President) of Pittsburg, Sarah Scott of New Mexico, Otto Kresse of Torrance, and Frances O. Brein of Oroville.

One of the many features of the evening was the cutting of the birthday cake by Grand President Sullivan, with a few very impressive words for the Parlor's future success. Other grand officers present were: Estella Evans, Grand First Vice-president; Sallie Thaler, Grand Secretary; Edna Hill and Genevieve Feilds, district deputies.

Will Participate in Initiatory Function.

San Bernardino—Interesting activities are always on the bill at Lugonia No. 241. A "mitenice" dinner September 25 proved a financial success; members of Arrowhead No. 110 N.S.G.W. participated. October 9 a surprise informal visit was paid by District Deputy Helen Anderson of Fullerton, and an interesting program of readings, musical numbers and games was introduced.

As a courtesy to Daisy Hansen of Long Beach, who was the Parlor's district deputy last year, a large number of members paid a surprise visit October 17 to Long Beach No. 154, and all reported a most enjoyable visit. Plans are being discussed for a benefit card party in November. The Parlor will participate in the initiatory function to be held in Los Angeles November 23 under the supervision of Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer.

Every year the City of San Bernardino sponsors a mardi gras parade and ball, and Lugonia will enter a beautiful float this year. The affair is to be held November 1. Members have prepared the decorations for the float, in which several of the girls will appear. Clara Barton is chairman of the float committee.

Old-Fashioned Idea Predominates.

Chico—Butte County Past Presidents Association No. 5 was entertained October 4 at the home of Mrs. Bernardo. The affair was called a "house-dress" party, and on arrival the guests found the old-fashioned idea predominating. Coal-oil lamps were the only illumination, with lovely old quilts and interesting pieces of patchwork covering the furniture. Quaint bowls filled with old-fashioned flowers were set about in the "elegant" manner of another day. Blue and white checked gingham luncheon cloths and napkins for the refreshment tables accented the old-fashioned note, which was used in every detail. Polo bridge was the evening's diversion.

Drill Team Congratulated.

Oakland—Irene Barry, captain of Brooklyn No. 157 drill team, October 9 presented Maude Maxfield, president of the Parlor, with a beautiful silver cup won in Santa Cruz, September 9. The team gave an exhibition of drillin<sup>g</sup> before a large attendance of the Parlor, Brooklyn No. 151 N.S.G.W. and friends.

Grand Marshal Arthur Cleu of the Native Sons remarked on the creditable showing of the drill team at Santa Cruz, and extended congratulations for the winning of the cup. The evening was concluded with dancing.

Pioneer Mothers Guests.

Middletown—Clear Lake No. 135 had its annual entertainment for the Pioneer Mothers October 5, the Main-street pavilion being beautifully decorated with flowers and ferns. Following luncheon a literary and musical program was presented, the address of welcome being given by President Alma Snow. Twenty-four members, gowned in white and carrying flags of the nation and the state, executed a floor-drill, and Pioneers related their early-day experiences.

The following, among the guests, who came to California via the covered wagon or the Istbmus of Panama, occupied seats of honor: Mms. Anastasia Armstrong, Lutitia Copey, Annette Snow, Myrtle Copey, Mattie Matbews and Mary Tripp.

Charter Members Honor Guests.

Woodland—Woodland No. 90 October 8 celebrated its thirty-third institution anniversary with a "kid" party, the members being appropriately costumed. Charter members—Miss Harriett Lee, Mrs. Margaret Hutchings and Mrs. Cecelia Leake—and members affiliated with the Parlor twenty-five years and more were honor guests of the occasion. Choicest flowers of the season, in yellow, red and white, decorated the meeting-hall and the banquet-room.

President Irma Ulrich presided, and the speakers included Miss Harriett Lee, Miss Katherine Simmons, District Deputy Anna Sehorn, Grand Trustee Anna Mixon-Armstrong, Past Grand President Dr. Louise C. Hellbron, Barbara Bell and May Houston.

Bride-To-Be Showered.

Santa Ana—The thimble club of Santa Ana No. 235 has been kept busy sewing for the bazaar and cooked-food sale scheduled for the near future. Members recently met at the home of Mrs. Mary Moore and made aprons and quilt blocks, and met again October 10 at the home of Mrs. Clara Gerken. Plans are on foot for a dance and card party, to be followed by a series of card parties.

Chairman Adelina Pleasants and Matilda Lemon of the history and landmarks committee attended a recent meeting of the Orange County Historical Society at the old Mother Colony Home of Anabell, which has been preserved in splendid condition through the efforts of the Ladies of the G.A.R. and in which relics of all description are on exhibition. The main feature was the appearance of Lieutenant Dale Quarton, who lectured on disarmament.

A number of the Parlor members were recently entertained by Marshal Marguerite Dickenson at her home. The surprise feature of the evening came in the nature of a shower, in honor of Mildred Fox, whose marriage is to take place soon. Much merriment was occasioned when a baby-carriage, full of lovely and practical gifts, was placed before Miss Fox and each article was inspected by the guests.

Many Beautiful Awards.

Santa Rosa—Santa Rosa No. 217 entertained delegations from Sonoma No. 209 and Petaluma No. 222 October 3. Delicious refreshments were served. The Parlor joined the other Sonoma County Parlors in entertaining Grand President Esther R. Sullivan on the occasion of her official visit at Sonoma City. Members of the Parlor and those of Santa Rosa No. 28 N.S.G.W. attended a barbecue and barn dance at the Frey farm, and had a most enjoyable time.

Santa Rosa No. 217 is busily engaged making poppies for future sale; the proceeds will go to the homeless children. A card party will be given November 7, and the members have donated for awards many beautiful pieces of embroidery and hand-painted china. November 30 is the date set for a dance in Cotati; a committee of faithful workers is in charge, and the affair is sure to be a success.

Members Well Entertained.

San Jose—Vendome No. 100 has featured this term several social evenings for the members' entertainment, including a "style" show, when members donned costumes dating from the Civil War period down to the present day; Hazel Haub and Myrtle Jung were chairmen. The Santa Clara County Pioneer Association was recently entertained with a picnic and program; Past Grand President Mamie P. Carnichael was the chairman. The September social committee, with Lucy Plummer as chairman and assisted by Martha Waddington, Sisle Blekford and Emily Warren, put on a clever comedy sketch in which twelve members took part.

October 9 was designated as "daughters' night," when all daughters of the members, whether or not members of the Order, were guests; a musical program, directed by President Stella Baggs, concluded with a game, "A Musical Romance." Julia Waddington and Clara Gairaud were joint chairmen for two recent card parties. Rose Baker, Sadie Howell and Marie Dnck were social chairmen for October. October 30 was "variety night," or a house warming party in the new quarters, Old Scottish Rite Hall. A large crowd, including visiting members from various Parlors, were present. Clara Gairaud was chairman of the jolly-up, and her assisting lieutenants were Emma Jennings Nelson, May Frost and Margaret Russell Morgan. Many characteristic costumes were worn.

November 6 an evening card party will be held; all members and their friends are cordially invited; May Frost is the chairman. The annual bazaar will be held early in December. At the invitation of D.D.G.P. Genevieve Commerford, Clara Gairaud went to Palo Alto last month and organized a glee club; about twenty members joined.

Initiates Five.

Standish—Nataqua No. 152 initiated a class of five candidates October 2. At the ceremonies' conclusion visitors from Susanville No. 243 and Honey Lake No. 198 N.S.G.W. were entertained at a banquet.

Memory Garden Plans Completed.

Bakersfield—El Tejon No. 239 is preparing to sponsor a motion picture for the benefit of the homeless children. Plans have been completed for the memory garden in Central Park, and a living Christmas tree will be planted in memory of the Pioneers. Mrs. Katherine Kinser is chairman of this activity. Mrs. Etta Borgwardt has charge of a rummage sale to be held November 8 and 9.

With President Jennie Dennis presiding, the Parlor initiated several candidates October 18; District Deputy Minnie Heath was among the visitors. The Parlor had a very successful booth at the recent Kern County Fair, and received many favorable comments on its artistic decorations.

Endless Chain of Golden Links.

Sierraville—Imogen No. 134 gave a pioneer dinner in honor of Mrs. Emma McIntosh Perry September 22, members, their families and guests forming a party of about fifty, who enjoyed a splendid dinner, as Imogen has happy, willing workers.

Mrs. Perry is 88 years old, and has spent sixty-seven of those years under the benign skies of California. She has made Sierraville her home for eight years, and it has been her pleasure to be the guest of the Parlor at the annual Pioneer Day, given in honor of the birthday of Mrs. Darling, who passed to the great beyond a year ago.

Among the younger guests was Mrs. Sarah Webber, who came to this valley in her babyhood, before the farming days, when the valley was but a part of the road to the mines. Pioneer Day brings to mind the vacant places and gives a touch of sadness. However, the dominant thought of this occasion was the joy of living. There were the happy faces of the children of the members, members in their blooming girlhood, and young mothers with their tiny babies—the past and the future in an endless chain of golden links.

Drill Team at Sebastopol.

Petaluma—Petaluma No. 222 entertained District Deputy May Rose Barry October 1. Dainty refreshments, in charge of Nellie Pometta and Florence Anderson, were served at flower bedecked tables. The drill team has resumed practice and will join in the Armistice Day celebration at Sebastopol.

October 15 a delegation from Santa Rosa No. 217 paid a visit to the Parlor. Caroline Blackburn's invitation to a day's outing at her Russian River cottage was readily accepted and all are looking forward to an enjoyable time. Following the meeting there was a public card party for the benefit of the homeless children, and Sisters Dickson and Miner, in charge, report it

JOHN THOMAS WALSH.

To the Worthy President, Officers and Members of Auburn Parlor No. 59 N.S.G.W.—Your committee on resolutions relating to our late brother, John T. Walsh, beg leave to submit the following report:

Death has again entered our midst and taken from us our beloved brother, John Thomas Walsh, who, although a member of Sunset Parlor No. 26 at Sacramento, has taken a deep interest in our Parlor and who for many years has been a faithful member of the Native Sons of the Golden West, the ties which bound him to us have been severed and his liberated spirit has winged its flight to the Great Parlor beyond. In his death we have lost a brother who had by his pleasant smile, his genial disposition and his unselfish friendship endeared himself to us all. Brother John T. Walsh was born in Auburn, California, July 25, 1864, and died September 26, 1929. He was raised and educated in Auburn, and with the exception of a short time spent in Sacramento, lived all his life here, and for more than thirty years his name has been conspicuously identified with the business and civic affairs of Auburn and Placer County. At one time he was the Mayor of Auburn and at the time of his death he was a member of the City Board of Trustees, a position which he had held for more than twenty years. In the death of our brother, John Thomas Walsh, Auburn has lost a most worthy citizen and our Order a zealous and faithful member. Therefore, be it resolved, That we deeply mourn and deplore the loss of our beloved brother and friend, but bow in humble submission to the Eternal Father in calling from our midst one who illustrated and exemplified the fraternal principles of Friendship, Loyalty and Charity that we extend to the relatives and friends of our deceased brother our deep and heartfelt sympathy in their sorrow and loss and that we commit them to the care of "Him who death all things well"; that a copy of this memorial, as a token of our loss and great sorrow, be delivered to the son and family of our departed brother, and that copies be sent to Sunset Parlor No. 26, N.S.G.W. of which he was a member, and to the "Grizzly Herald" and The Grizzly Bear.

Fraternally submitted in Friendship, Loyalty and Charity

a success. Several prizes, donated by the merchants of Petaluma, were attractions.

Reception for Grand Vice-president.

Antloch—Antloch No. 223 held a reception for Grand Vice-president Estelle M. Evans, September 24. After a social card game all retired to the banquet tables, which were beautifully decorated with the colors of the Order, red, white and gold. Grand Vice-president Evans was presented with a gift and responded with an address. At cards awards were made to Edyth Easton, Grace Gatter and Elizabeth Lilley. The capable committee consisted of G. Field (chairman), S. Dol Porto, K. Tremboth, L. Stevens, E. Lynn, M. Rodrigues and E. Beasley.

October 26, a Contra Costa county meeting was held at Crockett, known as "Evans night." Both the Native Daughters and Native Sons had class initiations, and then joined in a banquet. Grand President Estber R. Sullivan and Grand President Charles R. Dodge were present.

Past Grand Entertained.

Fullerton—Grace No. 242 entertained Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer and a delegation from Santa Ana No. 235 October 17. Following the feast a program was presented. Fifteenth Anniversary.

Stockton—Callz de Oro No. 206 fittingly celebrated the fifteenth institution of its founding October 2. A banquet preceded the business session, at which plans were made for winter activities. Gertrude Mills and Eda Cunningham put on a humorous skit, and then the birthday cake was served.

The hall was tastefully decorated with greenery and seasonal flowers; as remembrances, Joaquin No. 5 and Stockton No. 7 N.S.G.W. sent baskets of flowers. The committee in charge for the evening included: Alice McDonald, Maybelle McDonald, Cordina Fitzgerald, Henrietta Quivillon, Gertrude Mills, Frances Germain, Grace Goins, Elsie Mae Goodwin and Buella Grat-tan.

Past Presidents Banquet.

Oakland—Past Presidents Association No. 2 had its eighteenth anniversary banquet, which was well attended. A birthday cake was decorated with blue holders containing yellow candles. Winifred Buckingham was the chairwoman. Annie Hofmeister read a poem, written for the occasion by Edwin G. Mummy, an "outsider." Mae C. Ward rendered a vocal solo, and there were several addresses as well as group singing. The association recently had a successful luncheon and whist, Winifred Halter being the chairwoman. September 23 a class initiation was followed by an enjoyable social. Several members of Association No. 3 (Santa Clara County) were visitors October 14.

Monument Dedicated.

Alturas—Under the auspices of Alturas No. 159, a monument at the Fitzhugh ranch was dedicated October 13 to the memory of two Oregon Pioneers, S. D. Evans and Joe Bailey, who were massacred at the site by Indians August 1, 1861. The monument, a six-foot column of white marble, replaces slabs of lava rock set up and rudely chiseled by companions of the murdered men.

ELSIE M. PHINNEY, KATHERINE SCANLON.

The following resolution was adopted by Bonita Parlor No. 10 N.D.G.W. September 26, 1929: To Bonita Parlor No. 10 Native Daughters of the Golden West—Dear Sisters: The Angel of Death has entered our portals—Bonita Parlor No. 10 N.D.G.W. and taken from our midst our sisters, Elsie M. Phinney and Katherine Scanlon. They were loyal Native Daughters and loved California with a true and tender love. Our Order has lost two faithful members. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That our charter be draped in mourning, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved families and that they be published in the "Redwood City Standard" and that a copy be sent The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

May the California winds blow lightly,
May the California sun shine brightly,
May the California rain fall softly
Where sleep our sisters dear.

Respectfully submitted,
DORA WILSON,
MARY JUNKER,
JOSEPHINE DRATHMAN,
Committee.

Redwood City, September 26, 1929.

MARY H. RHODES.

Respectfully submitted in P.D.F.A. to El Dorado Parlor No. 186 N.D.G.W. by the committee appointed to draft resolutions of regret on the death of our sister, Mary H. Rhodes:

Whereas, The chain of fraternity has again been severed by that unwelcome, but ever relentless, visitor, Death, and the spirit of our sister has been called to her eternal home. Sister Rhodes was a charter member of El Dorado Parlor, and though for several years had been unable to work with us actively, her interest in her own Parlor and in the Order has never flagged.

We who knew her best deeply deplore the loss of a true and loyal Native Daughter, neighbor and friend. To the relatives of our sister we do extend our deepest sympathy, but we know that the God to whom she looked for aid and comfort will also comfort the loved ones left behind.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the sister of Sister Mary Rhodes, that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear for publication, and that a copy be spread upon the minutes of our Parlor.

IRENE IRISH,
ALTA DOUGLAS,
HATTIE PRESBY,
Committee.

Georgetown, October 12, 1929.

MARY E. WILSON-BOYSLON.

To the Officers and Members of Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W.—We, a committee of one appointed to draft a resolution of respect for our beloved Sister, Mary E. Boylson, who was called suddenly to the great fraternity above on September 12, 1929, I herewith submit the following:

Whereas, The Angel of Death, having for the first time entered our portals and, without password or sign, retired softly, carrying with him our respected member, Mary E. Wilson-Boylson, we, the members of Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W., express our sincere grief and deep regret in the loss suffered by this Parlor and the organization of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, and extend our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved husband, son and brother of our dear departed sister, whose loss is irreparable. We shall miss her from her accustomed chair in our Parlor, but bow in reverent submission to the will of our Heavenly Father, Who gives and Who also takes away. It is therefore

Resolved, That this tribute to the memory of Sister Boylson be spread upon the minutes of this Parlor, and that copies be sent to the bereaved family, and to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

"We shall meet, but we shall miss her."

There will be one vacant chair;

We shall linger to caress her,

When we breathe our evening prayer.

OLIVE LOPEZ,
Committee.

CALIFORNIA HAPPENINGS OF FIFTY YEARS AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

THANKSGIVING DAY, THURSDAY, November 28, 1879, was clear, but cold, in California. At 6 a. m. thermometers in the Sacramento Valley were down to 25°. Three mild storms during the month gave a rainfall of 2.879 inches, making the season's total 4.045 inches.

The day was one of prayer and feasting, as usual, with an accent on the feasting. Many sporting events and grand balls were featured in various sections of the state and, fortunately, there were no disasters.

The markets were filled with good things to eat, and prices were never more equable for the consumer. Turkeys retailed at 20c a pound, chickens 50c each, wild ducks 25c each, quail 75c a dozen, rabbits 10c each, eggs 35c a dozen and ham 14c a pound. Onions sold for $1, potatoes 75c, cabbage, beets, carrots and turnips 50c a cental. A thrifty Oakland, Alameda County, housewife bought a turkey from an itinerant vendor for seven cents a pound less than the regular market price. But when she went to prepare the bird for roasting, she found the giblets had been replaced by a four-pound rock.

Excitement broke out in Ione, Amador County, over the discovery of a rich gold-bearing quartz ledge near by, and the citizens were making locations.

A ledge of silver ore was reported as having been found near Lexington, Santa Clara County.

T. J. Dunlap reported finding a ledge of silver ore near Goat Mountain, on the north side of the San Joaquin River in Fresno County. It had been traced five miles.

In the case of Keyes vs. Little York hydraulic mine, the State Supreme Court reversed the decision of the district court. This was considered a knockout for the farmers, in their effort to stop hydraulic mining.

At the Dardanelles mine in Placer County, a 36,000-pound blast of powder was set off November 15 and did effective work. It was next to the largest blast a hydraulic mine had set off.

The oldest hotel in Downieville, Sierra County, built in the early '50s and named Downie House, was being demolished so the ground could be sluiced. Prospects indicated the ground was "lousy with gold."

GRAIN RAISERS BADLY HIT.

Not a single Comstock Lode, Nevada State, mine paid a dividend during November, the big bonanzas having about "petered out." Assessments totaling $1,312,600 were levied, most of the amount coming from California stockholders, who were now putting back what they had previously gotten from the ground.

During the month twenty-six vessels, loaded with 963,799 centals of California grain valued at $1,953,700, departed from San Francisco for Europe.

Blum Brothers & Co., dealing in general merchandise at Dixon, Solano County, failed November 24 for $192,000, and the grain raisers of that district were badly hit.

The largest rattlesnake killed in California was dispatched at Greenhorn Mountain, near Linn Valley in Kern County. It was 6 feet long and 11 inches in circumference, and had 42 rattles on its 9-inch rattler.

Judge Clark of Red Bluff, Tehama County, hunting along the Lassen trail, killed a California lion measuring 11 feet from tip to tip and weighing 500 pounds.

Congressman-elect C. P. Berry of the second district, while inspecting his domain along Bear River in Sutter County, was treed by a wild hoar. After waiting several hours, friends brought about his release.

The United States sub-treasurer put $2,000 worth of nickels, now coming into use, in circulation in San Francisco. Old-timers looked at them askance and predicted they would not be popular in California.

Pioneer Thomas Carter, who arrived in El Dorado County in 1850, met in Placerville, November 1, for the first time, his son, now 29 years of age. The boy was born after his father left for the "gold diggings."

A Calaveras County jury tried a man accused of milking a neighbor's cow and appropriating the product—a case of petty larceny. This written verdict was returned: "We find the defendant guilty of milking the cow in the first degree."

El Dorado County claimed the state's champion heavyweight lad—Wm. C. Cole of Grizzly Flat, age 15, weight 212 pounds.

A boarder in a Calistoga, Napa County, family induced the matron to elope with him, taking along one child but leaving five at home. The husband pursued and overtook the couple at Vallejo, Solano County, where matters were compromised.

FOREST FIRES DO GREAT DAMAGE.

Yolo County reported a wild man roaming the foothills near Dunnigan. He was copper colored from exposure, wore only a breech clout, had a beard two feet long, and could run as fast as a deer.

Mary Hull of Nevada City, Nevada County, 7 years old, had for five years been troubled with a supposedly incurable catarrh. This month she gave her nose a big blow that dislodged a cherry stone, and the chronic catarrh at once disappeared.

A coterie of Visalia, Tulare County, young people became dangerously poisoned by making lemonade from citric acid in a zinc pail.

E. J. C. Kewen, one of California South's foremost citizens, died at San Gabriel November 28. He arrived in Sacramento in 1849, and the following year was elected the state's first attorney-general. He was a man of great forensic ability.

H. J. Warren, an early-day printer popularly known as "Sandy" connected with the press since 1849, was found dead, sitting in a chair in his room, at Colusa, Colusa County, November 17, his hat on and his boots off. He had often said he would never die "in his boots."

W. H. H. Lee, who came from New York to Sacramento in 1850, died November 17. At the time of his demise he was chief engineer of the city's fire department.

Immense forest fires raged during the month in the mountain ranges east of San Diego. More than seventy-five square miles were burned over, and several flocks of sheep and herds of cattle were destroyed.

Farmer Wilkinson, near Caliente, Kern County, was successfully cultivating ten acres of chufa plants, seed for which came from Australia. The plant produces a nut great for hog fattening.

A. L. Lamh of Michigan Bar, Placer County, found atop a ridge on the Sacramento-Ione road a two-ton rock so evenly balanced it could be rocked by the finger tips.

Shrinking waters of Tulare Lake exposed a prehistoric settlement, store buildings and ancient canals coming into view.

Levee builders near Yuba City, Sutter County, unearthed the bones of a mastodon—teeth weighing 4½ pounds each and a thigh bone 4½ feet long.

TUNNEL EXPLOSION KILLS MANY.

H. L. Robinson, driving to Shingle Springs, El Dorado County, November 27, was held up by a highwayman, who was overpowered and taken to Placerville, where he was recognized as Jim Smith, last of the notorious Tom Bell gang. But a month previous he had finished a twelve-year term in the state prison for stage robbery.

Wm. H. Wheeler, editor "Watsonville Transcript," published an article reflecting on D. Bothwell, who went after the editor with a shotgun, but, in his excitement, forgot to load it. Wheeler speedily made himself "non est."

Farmer Burns, burning brush to clear acreage near Wheatland, Yuba County, was burned to death.

Robert Graves and wife were burned to death when a lighted lamp was upset in their San Francisco home on Pacific street and consumed, also, the house.

Petroleum gas, accumulated in a tunnel being run by the South Pacific Coast railroad at Wright Station, about fourteen miles east of San Jose, Santa Clara County, resulted in two terrific explosions, November 18, that shook the country for miles around. Of the gang of Chinamen working in the tunnel, thirty-one were taken out dead.

J. Burke, an old resident of Forest Hill, Placer County, was killed by a rolling log November 13.

W. J. Dyer and Phil Haber of Trinity County went deer hunting November 20. They separated, going up opposite sides of Canyon Creek. Later on Haber, seeing a movement in the brush upon a hillside, fired at what he thought was a deer. Going to the spot he found Dyer dead, the bullet having pierced his brain.

Quarreling over a card game at Colusa City November 27, John Gill and Dexter Ogden began shooting, and both were dangerously wounded.

Joseph Bowman, a San Francisco groceryman, committed suicide because Miss Annie Carr, a comely lass who arrived from Ireland in May, would not marry him.

A very odd fish, termed locally the "candle fish," was being caught in the Klamath River near its mouth. Saturated with oil, when dried the fish was used as a candle by lighting one end and inserting the other in a candlestick. It burned slowly and gave a light equal to that of the regulation candle.

WESTERN AVENUE—

Los Angeles' Mountain to  the Sea Thoroughfare—AND NEIGHBORING SHOPPING DISTRICTS

Lionel A. Johnson

RAPID DEVELOPMENT OF WESTERN avenue into one of the most important retail districts in Los Angeles has been the result of favorable local conditions and the influence of traffic congestion in the main down-town district. Today Western avenue is properly the buying center of the exclusive Wilshire district and great areas north and south of that section.

With the exception of the main down-town business district and Hollywood's shopping center, Western avenue is declared to lead all sections of the city in the volume of retail business. There is said to be nothing that the average city dweller may desire that cannot be bought in Western avenue.

The same influences that have caused the growth of Western avenue's commercial trend in the past promise to continue this development for an indefinite time, probably as long as the City of Los Angeles increases its population. All important west-side boulevards lead to Western avenue, while the latter itself is a main connecting link between the harbor district and the San Fernando Valley. It is probable that nowhere in the whole country is there a business district better provided with transportation facilities in all directions than is Western avenue today.

It is not surprising, then, that there is seldom a store available for rent in this busy retail community. In fact, it is the demand for store space that has caused the removal of so many fine residential buildings, forced to give way to commercial structures.

Looking back but little more than a decade, we can see Western avenue virtually without any stores. Where solid blocks of business structures line that street today, there were ten years ago expensive residences, fronted with green lawns. These elegant homes were comparatively new, for as a street Western avenue is young. Most of us can remember that about twenty years ago Western avenue was the western frontier of the built-up section of Los Angeles.

Automobile traffic has been both a direct and an indirect factor in the growth of Western avenue into a wonderful retail district. The heavy automobile traffic on the street is one of the direct influences bringing about this development, while crowding of the down-town area with automobiles has indirectly helped by forcing buyers into more convenient districts.

It has been pointed out that too much automobile congestion in the main business district of Los Angeles is interfering with trade there and is tending to decentralize business. This is because shoppers have few places to park their cars in that district, and as they do not usually like street-car riding they seek stores near which parking is permissible at all hours.

Automobiles, therefore, are affecting the growth of modern cities, like Los Angeles. Instead of there being but one great retail district, as was the tendency in the growth of older cities, various business sections are now being developed. They are located with regard to accessibility and population centers.

Naturally, these shopping centers reflect the character of the population that surrounds them. Thus shopping centers in or near exclusive social districts develop high-class stores, where persons of wealth can satisfy their wants.

Western avenue is in such a district, but in addition it is easily reached by the inhabitants of less-wealthy communities, and this has called for a wide range in the merchandise being offered for sale there.

The parking facilities on Western avenue are ideal, due to the fact that on each side of that thoroughfare, within one or two blocks, is abundant room for curb parking.

Stretching westward from Western avenue to the beach district is a great area built up largely with more than ordinarily good homes. There is no large shopping district in that area, and Western avenue draws a very large amount of the trade in the district bounded by the Hollywood business district on the north, Sawtelle on the west and southward to the Baldwin Hills, and beyond.

Only a little more than half a dozen years ago, most of the district directly west of Western avenue was farm land or oil fields, and thus the new trade area there is doing wonders for the growing shopping district.

The population in this new district is already enough to equal that of a small city. It is not fully built up today, and within the next few years it promises to be of materially more importance. The further development of this area promises still further to aid the Western avenue retail area.

And then there is the district lying for some distance east of Western avenue, filled with the homes of people of means. Already that district may be considered one of Western avenue's most important assets.

It is, however, hard to define the limitations of Western avenue's trade area. In fact, there are no limitations to it. That is because the traffic along that street is from everywhere about the city and its suburbs. Western avenue is one of the most heavily traveled thoroughfares in California South.

The most convenient automobile route from virtually all of the southern part of the city to Hollywood and into the San Fernando Valley, with its rapidly growing population, is along Western avenue. There is no terminus, except in name, for Western avenue to the northward. For where Western avenue turns, Los Feliz boulevard, which is a continuation of the former, begins. It is true that a street branching out from the meeting point of Western avenue and Los Feliz boulevard, and extending northward through Griffith Park, carries the name of Western avenue, but as far as the constant stream of traffic is concerned, Los Feliz boulevard alone should be considered the continuation of Western avenue.

If you follow the main stream of traffic northward along Western avenue and Los Feliz boulevard, you will find that soon after it crosses the Los Angeles River, it divides. Some of it is diverted into San Fernando boulevard for various points in the San Fernando Valley, much of it pours into Glendale, and the remainder goes into Eagle Rock or passes through the latter and finds its way into Pasadena, by way of the Colorado-street bridge.

Reversing directions, it will be noticed that traffic toward Western avenue, by way of the pass through the hills along Los Feliz boulevard, comes from a very large and thickly settled area, including Pasadena and foothill points beyond the latter.

Some time ago the attention of the city authorities was turned to the rapid increase in traffic along Western avenue, and steps were taken to widen the thoroughfare. Various sections of the street have already been widened, and two more are still to be completed. When these are done, Western avenue will have a uniform width, from its junction with Los Feliz boulevard southward to the southern city limits at One Hundred and Fourth street, of fifty-six feet between curbs.

Western avenue is the longest street in Los Angeles without a bend or a turn. From Griffith Park it runs directly southward to Torrance, a distance of nearly twenty miles, without a curve. That is one reason for its unusual popularity. It is believed that it is one of the longest, if not the longest, straight streets in the United States.

Crossing Western avenue at right angles are many heavily traveled thoroughfares. Some of these were only recently widened and paved.

Vernon street, Fifty-fourth street, Slanson avenue, Florence avenue and Manchester avenue.

The foregoing are all heavily traveled thoroughfares and are all in the City of Los Angeles proper. They constitute a system of cross streets that cares for a great amount of traffic that goes and comes along Western avenue.

To determine the popular idea about Western avenue as a retail district, the writer asked the opinion along that line of some leading citizens. In each case the thoroughfare was declared to be one of the most important in the city and promised almost certainly to continue to develop commercially.

A. G. Arnoll, secretary of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, said: "Western avenue is one of the major thoroughfares of Los Angeles and as such is developing an important retail trade. It has a promising commercial future." Having occupied his important commercial position for many years, Arnoll is familiar with the various trade centers of the city.

Gordon Whitnall, director of the City Planning Commission, when asked for his opinion of Western avenue as a retail trade district, said: "Western avenue's exceptional development into an important retail trade district has not been accidental. It is the result of conditions that foster such trade. It is strategically located in the heart of a large residential district, and, furthermore, it is convenient in regard to traffic lines. It promises always to be one of the most important retail trade centers in the city." There are few men in Los Angeles so well fitted to judge the relative business value of city districts as Whitnall. As a city planner, he has a reputation extending into various parts of the country.

D. W. Pontins, president of the Pacific Electric Railway, is another leading citizen who is familiar with the city as a whole and with its shopping districts. When asked for his opinion of Western avenue as a growing shopping center, he said: "The districts tributary to Western avenue demanded retail requirements. Western avenue is serving that purpose and is developing as a retail trade center. It is my opinion that this thoroughfare will continue for an indefinite time to develop its retail business."

Robert S. Breyer, president of the Los Angeles Traffic Commission, was also asked for his opinion in regard to Western avenue and its retail trade development. In his official capacity he must become familiar with the various traffic arteries of the city. In reply to the question, he said: "I think Western avenue is a wonderful traffic street and is enjoying a growing retail trade. The heavy traffic there, however, will require the co-ordination of the traffic signals, a matter that should be urged by property owners along the thoroughfare."

ELEVEN MORE NATIVE SONS.

Long Beach—Long Beach Parlor No. 239 N.S.G.W. entertained many visitors, including a large delegation from Arrowhead Parlor No. 110 (San Bernardino), October 24, the occasion being the initiation of a class of eleven candidates. The ritual was impressively exemplified by the complete corps of Los Angeles Parlor No. 45 officers, with President Walter Fisber presiding. Frank Hart, in charge of organization work for the Parlor, has several more candidates to be initiated in November.

During the evening enthusiastic addresses were delivered by Clyde Doyle, Grand First Vice-president John T. ### WILMINGTON NIGHT ATTRACTS.

San Pedro—Wilmington night at Sepulveda Parlor No. 263 N.S.G.W. attracted a large crowd, among them many visitors, October 18. President Joseph A. Two candidates were initiated, a picked team from among the Parlors represented, with President Eldred Meyer of Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 presiding, exemplified the ritual. Previous to the meeting a fish supper was served.

Stoerner will visit the Parlor, and a program will be presented by the history committee. Rudecinda Parlor No. 236 of San Pedro has been extended an invitation to be present on this occasion, and hear about the plans for the big November 23 gathering in Los Angeles.

November 21, in Knights Pythias Hall, the Parlor will have its annual bazaar, for which a committee has long been making preparations. A "mito nice" dinner will be served at 6 o'clock, to be followed by a program. Provision will be made for cards. Every effort is being put forth to make the affair a financial and social success.

TRUE CALIFORNIAN LAID TO REST.

October 11, death took Grace Culbert-Yarwood, a member of Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W. for twenty-four years. She was born of Plouee parents, her mother and father being Matthew M. and Mary E. Culbert, who settled in Amador County, where they reared a large family. There deceased grew to womanhood, later moving to Los Angeles. Some years ago she married E. Samuel Yarwood, and they lived happily in Phoenix, Arizona, until his death, since which time Mrs. Yarwood resided in Los Angeles.

Grace Culbert-Yarwood was a woman of sterling worth and had an attractive, gracious personality. She was an enthusiastic Californian, and faithfully and well she worked for the advancement of Los Angeles Parlor. She was laid to rest under the auspices of the Parlor, and heart-felt were the tears that were shed. The sun set, and the twilight came and rested upon the casket of a true and loyal daughter of California.—A.L.A.

ATHLETIC NIGHT.

Hollywood Parlor No. 196 N.S.G.W. entertained with an athletic night October 21, four good boxing bouts being featured. Several eligibles were among the Parlor's guests, and Grand First Vice-president John T. Newell presented reasons why they should affiliate with the Order. Refreshments were served.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS FETE PIONEERS.

San Pedro—Pioneers of fifty years ago to the number of fifty and one hundred "old timers" were guests of honor at the annual party held October 18 at the Y. W. C. A., with members of Rudecinda Parlor No. 230 N.D.G.W. as hostesses. The evening, interspersed with interesting, amusing and historic reminiscences as related by the Pioneers themselves, was one of the highlights of the Native Daughter year. Notable among the speakers was Miss Mary E. Foy of Los Angeles, daughter of a pioneer family, prominent clubwoman, teacher in the Old Los Angeles high school, and chairman of publicity for the Native Daughters. She told, in an amusing way, of her first visit to San Pedro, Timm's Point, Rattlesnake Island and other harbor points.

Following her, in equally interesting talks, were B. W. Reed, principal in San Pedro forty-one years ago, now a principal in Los Angeles; Thomas Kaveney, an authority on California history; Joe Weldt, who is compiling a history of the Catholic church of Wilmington; Mrs. B. W. Reed, Judge William Savage, James Dodson Sr., Will Crocker, Henry Olsen, Frank Oswald, Charles Powers, Mrs. William Spickler, Dr. J. S. Gwaltney, Mrs. Anna Foote, J. longed to Mrs. Rudecinda Dodson's grandmother, delighted the group with old-fashioned songs, for which Mrs. Margaret Kreider accompanied, and talented Loma Lisman, pupil of Mrs. Elvira Irving Foulk, gave a group of readings.

The Boy Scouts of America opened the program with a salute to the flag, while the singing of "Auld Lang Syne," in accordance with the annual custom, concluded the happy program. Mrs. Florence Dodson-Schoneman, chairman of the Grand Parlor N.D.G.W. History and Landmarks Committee, unable to be present because of illness, had presented to each guest a silk flag of the California Republic. The affair was in charge of the history and landmarks committee of Rudecinda Parlor, of which Mrs. Margaret Savage-Dever is chairman and Mrs. Carrie Kuhlman and Mrs. Gloria Jani are members. Refreshments were served under the direction of the good of the order committee, Mrs. Virginia Bruckner chairman, assisted by President Letty Sarcaux, Mrs. T. Padilla, Mrs. Mary Doyle and Mrs. E. J. Kreider.

DEVELOPMENT MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY IN HOLLYWOOD

Carl Bush

(HOLLYWOOD CHAMBER COMMERCE.)

THE STORY OF THE GROWTH OF THE motion picture industry is the story of the growth of Hollywood. Up to about 1910, Hollywood was a country village with scattered citrus ranches and flower gardens. The best peas in Hollywood were grown on a lot at Sunset boulevard and Vine streets—the future home of Paramount-Lasky studios—and Hampton's hothouse of winter cucumbers stood near the present site of the Fox studio.

In October 1911 David Horsley sent the Nestor Film Company to Hollywood, chiefly to escape the Motion Picture Patents Company, which was seeking to control the infant industry by claiming infringements on its patents. Al Christie, who was in charge of the little handful of actors and a baggage car of equipment, had about $50 in the treasury when he began looking for a place to make pictures. Happening along the country road which is now Sunset boulevard, he noticed the old Blondeau Tavern at Sunset and Gower streets, which he rented for $30 a month. The pioneer company was allowed $1,200 a week on which they were expected to make three moving pictures each week—a "Western," an "Eastern" and a comedy.

In those early days the taking of motion pictures was dependent entirely on sunlight, as no artificial lighting was employed. It was soon found that Hollywood furnished more sunny days each year than any place in the country. Then, too, one could find a setting for any picture—snowy mountains, great sand deserts, miles of sea coast, wide cattle ranges for "Westerns," desert islands and tropical gardens; all were here to be used at little cost. Word went back East of the glories of Hollywood and Universal and Sennett studios came in 1913; Tiffany-Stahl and William Fox followed in 1914.

Early in 1914 Jesse Lasky and Cecil de Mille came to the future Film City and leased the old riding stables at the corner of Selma and Vine streets, which was to develop into the Paramount-Famous-Lasky studio. This famous barn was moved with the studio to Marathon street, and is now used as a gymnasium for the film stars.

Each year thereafter saw several new studios, and the old ones grew like Jack's famous beanstalk. More and more people became interested in the pictures that move, until it is estimated that 90,000,000 Americans patronize the theatres each week. To satisfy this great demand, it is said Hollywood produces annually motion pictures which gross $200,000,000. Between 25,000 to 35,000 people are employed regularly in making these pictures, with a payroll of more than $1,000,000 each week, and 18,000 more are registered as extras.

From these small beginnings to spectacular super-specials, some of them costing $2,500,000, was the achievement in little more than a decade, and then a new element entered—the pictures that move, began to talk.

Experiments with sound pictures had been in progress for several years, but the first to attract widespread attention was "Don Juan," produced at Vitaphone Brothers theatre in New York in August 1926. The real success of sound pictures, however, began with "The Jazz Singer," starring Al Jolson, in October 1927, which enjoyed a sensational series of record runs. Fox Movietone followed Vitaphone. Paramount, United Artists, Universal and others hastened to secure the right to use sound equipment. Hollywood studios in 1928-29 spent more than $5,000,000 in building and converting sound stages; other millions were spent in experiment.

That these sound pictures are a financial success, is proved by reports from some of the studios showing gross income for the first half of 1929 more than doubled the same period of 1928. Mergers of gigantic proportions have been made, and still others are rumored. Enthusiastic prophecies for the future of sound pictures are made by the leaders in the industry.

For the benefit of theatres not yet wired for sound pictures, a silent version of most talking pictures is made. Heavy production schedules of leading studios have required greatly augmented directorial and scenario staffs. Famous playwrights and composers have been drawn to Hollywood; more cameramen, technical experts and musicians are required to make sound pictures. Recording departments, film laboratories, every department in the studio, has been expanded to meet the new requirements.

Famous artists from the legitimate stage and grand opera are replacing merely pretty faces, while many worthy artists of the silver screen have found their golden opportunity through the microphone.

Hollywood believes its motion picture industry is destined, through sound pictures, to grow larger and more prosperous than before.

CULTURAL HOLLYWOOD.

The world-famous Hollywood Bowl is an amphitheatre in the foothills of the Santa Monica Mountains, where each summer season hundreds of thousands of music lovers listen to "Symphonies Under the Stars."

Sponsored by the public-spirited citizens of Hollywood, achieved through years of tireless effort of its organizers and their successors, the bowl has become the center and symbol of the cultural life of Hollywood.

The first Easter sunrise service was held in 1922, and has become a Hollywood institution. All through the soft, spring night, thousands of reverent worshippers fill the seats and overflow on the surrounding hills. When the heralds greet the rising sun, a chorus of white-clad children join in the triumphant paean "Christ Is Risen."

In the summer of 1922, through the efforts of Mrs. Artie Mason Carter, then secretary of the Hollywood Bowl Association, the Philharmonic Orchestra under the leadership of Walter Henry Rothwell, demonstrated the exquisite beauty and fitness of the world's greatest symphonies under a canopy of the stars. Opera, too, was soon given its premiere in the bowl; Galli-Curci, Schuman-Heink, Alice Gentle, Rosa Ponselle, Louis Graveure and many other artists have filled the bowl with their golden voices. Each succeeding year this summer music festival has grown in artistry and beauty. The music marts of the world have been searched by the bowl association to secure the best conductors and soloists.

While the bowl seems consecrated to music, drama too has found a hearing, and noteworthy performances of "Julius Caesar," "Taming of the Shrew" and "Midsummer Night's Dream" have been given. The Hollywood high school students gave "Twelfth Night," and with the proceeds of this successful performance bought electric lighting equipment for the bowl costing $3,000.

The roster of the bowl association and the list of its organizers and sponsors is a "Who's Who" in Hollywood; the children have contributed their pennies; their elders have given time and money. Mrs. Artie Mason Carter, its first secretary, gave long and loyally of her enthusiasm, energy and time, and Mrs. Leiland Atherton Irish, her successor, ably carried on the work.

Another center around which gathers the cultural and spiritual life of Hollywood is the "Pilgrimage Play"—the life of Christ in spoken drama. Its author, Christine Wetherell Stevenson, had a great desire to visualize the story of the Master for the multitudes. A little canyon in the hills has been transformed into a picturesque open-air theatre; the audience commands the stage from the natural slope; two hills form a proscenium arch sixty feet in width; winding pathways have been made in the hillside and trees and bushes form entrances and exits for the players. The play is presented in twelve episodes and is a literal transcription of the Saviour's life as found in the four gospels, its interpretation being wholly non-sectarian. Like the bowl, the "Pilgrimage Play" is a permanent institution, a part of the life of Hollywood.

That Hollywood gives thought to the spiritual side of life is evidenced by some fifty religious denominations with forty-five church buildings; it has many artistic and social organizations. The community delights in enumerating with its populace such people as Carrie Jacobs Bond, Charles Wakefield Cadman, Rupert Hughes, Frank H. Spearman, Paul Lauritz and many others. Great authors, great actors, great operatic stars, great playwrights, have been attracted to the Film City; have established their homes here, and their presence adds greatly to the culture and charm of Hollywood.

visions of this act shall be liberally construed to the end that the use of intoxicating liquor as a beverage may be prevented."

Many authorities hold that, under the present law, the purchaser of booze is equally as guilty as the seller, and that's good logic. In the eyes of the law, any person aiding in the commission of a crime is equally as guilty as the perpetrator, and it is therefore sound reasoning to hold that the purchaser of booze should be given no more consideration than the seller, for if there were no purchasers there would be no sellers. Anyway, the bill should be passed by the Federal Congress—"to the end that the use of intoxicating liquor as a beverage may be prevented."

Tax hills are now being pondered by all taxpayers. Like death, these annual reminders are inevitable. When the bills are received, the taxpayers howl and justly berate their public servants—and then forget their troubles until next tax-time.

There is only one way to reduce taxes, and that is to reduce them. And that can only be done when the taxpayers resolve to place in office none but honest and competent officials, who will demand like qualifications on the part of all employees. Millions of the taxpayers' contributions to the cost of government are squandered by incompetents whose employment by private corporations would not be tolerated for a moment.

Attorney-general U. S. Webb of California is quoted in the public press as having said: "This thing of the state going to the trouble and expense of convicting persons of crime, only to have the judge suspend the sentence or place the convicted person on probation, without having undergone punishment of any sort for the crime committed, is all wrong."

He's dead right—it is all wrong, and the practice, which is a great factor in encouraging crime, should be stopped. Where a person, accused of a crime, stands trial and is convicted, that person should be punished. Probation should never be considered, except where the defendant pleads guilty to the crime of which he or she is accused.

Continuing, Attorney-general Webb said: "The parole system of the state is a different matter. Under that system, after a person has paid at least a part of his debt to society, he is afforded an opportunity to redeem himself. Parole, when properly exercised, is constructive and not to be placed in the same category with suspended sentence or probation." And in that he's right, also.

Association with White girls is one of the inducements which is bringing hundred of Filipinos to California, according to Director Will J. French of the State Department of Industrial Relations. In the course of a recent report he said numerous "inducement tricks" are being used in Manila papers to cause Filipinos to come to this country, and quoted this one:

"As every one knows, what the Filipino youth craves most, besides academic and scholastic successes, is a sociable time with a pretty young lady. He is naturally a sociable and romantic being and, unlike his Japanese and Chinese brothers, he is Occidental in every respect but appearances. Vivacious young American girls fall harder for the Filipino boys than for any Oriental young men living and studying in these good old United States of America."

The Filipino may be all that is claimed for him—but he is not wanted here in California, where we already have far too many undesirable, and the sooner the whole bunch, Filipinos, Mexicans and Japs, are excluded from this state the better for California.

Representative French of Idaho has introduced in the United States Congress a bill prohibiting lottery publicity by radio. It should be approved. As a matter of fairness, all restrictions placed on advertising appearing in newspapers and periodicals should be applied to radios engaged in advertising. They are competitors of publications carrying advertising, and therefore the Federal Government should apply to them identical regulations.

The total taxable wealth of California, according to a recent report of the State Board of Equalization, has increased 17,000 percent since 1850, and the population 5,300 percent. In 1850 the taxable wealth was $57,670,689 and the population 92,597. Now, 1929, the taxable wealth is $9,890,992,962, and the population is estimated at 5,000,000.

These are interesting and cheering figures, but it would be far more interesting, if probably less cheering, to know what the increase in taxes has been during the same period.

Superior Judge Charles C. Haines of San Diego recently rendered a decision which should impel other communities in California to demand that citizens only be employed on public works, to the end that aliens may be replaced. There are far too many Mexicans and other aliens living off the taxpayers, while citizens are denied employment.

The decision held that San Diego City has the power to not only specify the manner and the means of performing public work, but may require contractors to restrict employment to citizens.

WHEN MARGERY CAME HOME

A CHRISTMAS STORY

Marguerite Bovee

OLD HISTORIC EUREKA NESTLED IN a broad, circling basin, ramparted by tall coniferous trees, grim and lonely. Saddleback Mountain brooded a few miles distant, to the north. Where the evening sun flung pale shadows into the canyons, Sugarloaf Peak flaunted its barren crest in invitation to travelers to climb the sterile heights and view Shasta's snowy crown, surmounting towns and rivers stretching to the sea.

This story deals only with those elected to end their days environed by the faded glory of the past. Memories of those years overwhelm us; forms and faces loved and half forgotten appear like moving pictures on the screen of fancy. All the incidents of earlier years, amusing and pathetic, sordid or dignified, return to mock us with their myriad shapes.

It was late autumn and heavy rains had made water plentiful for hydraulicking in the mines. Even the frosted and withering leaves, still clinging to the shrubs, seemed to sigh a farewell to summer. The children combed the ravines to secure a few autumn-dyed branches and dried grasses for the holidays approaching. The trickling streams sang a song of winter, and the gay butterflies drifted noiselessly toward the south.

The old camp, once the voting place of a thousand, now numbered a triple score ancient miners content to glean enough to live in frugal comfort, and a few middle-aged couples living in the snug cabins that meant home; but youth had gone out to seek education and progress.

The noonday dinner had been concluded at the Union Jack boarding-house, and a group of miners lounged in the sunlight on the wide porch, chatting and smoking until the shrill whistle would recall them to their labor. One small store purveyed tobacco and a few rough clothes, drinks and some groceries. The Fir Cap postoffice, once proudly recognized, was no more, and a weekly mailman carried the few papers and letters from camp to decayed camp. But even so, there were peace and friendship and kindly spirit in the village.

The foreman stepped among his men, stooping to adjust the rubber bootlegs about his thighs as he remarked: "The folks were telling me that Margery Boynton is in Downieville. Her name is Lane now, I hear." A broad-shouldered, neatly-garbed man joined the speaker near the door, and a graybeard spoke: "She is a great singer now. It don't seem like twenty-eight years since the folks took her to Sacramento to l'arn to sing. She was eleven years of age then."

"Ever see her, Jack?" the foreman addressed the man near the door. "Once," was the brief response. "I heard her sing in 'Frisco five years ago."

They sauntered off in the direction of the mine. The foreman's hands were gnarled and rough, his hair and beard iron gray. The blue flannel shirt, open at the throat, laid bare a strong chest, and as the lithe body swung off the high porch he gave no hint of the sixty years he carried. He had been a wrestler when the gold fever raged and blustered.

Dan'l and Davy Price were not brothers, but staunch friends and partners, now creeping down life's sunset trail. Living in cosy cabins side by side, each with a snug bit of money safely hidden away, they worked a few hours daily in the tunnel, gathering enough gold each week to keep them happy and whet the appetite for more. Contented old-timers and honest men as well, they lingered after the miners had gone.

Dan'l stroked his thin whiskers thoughtfully. "I wonder if Margery remembers us?" he queried. "She used to make mud cakes outside the door, and do ye mind how she often tracked up the floor carryin' her ples to cook afore the hearth?"

Davy smiled, his faded eyes lighting with transient pleasure at such recollections of the little maid. "Aye, Dan'l, the lass was a busy one, singin' at her play. I sort o' wish we could go to Downieville and see her again. She used to coax us to go and hunt wild lilies for her."

Dan'l shook his head. "Nine miles to town, Davy. It's too far to walk, and we old fellers wouldn't likely seem of much account to her. She's forgot us and the old place most likely. We'll just remember her as the little Margery we used to know."

An idea had bobbed into Davy's shining pate, and late that night he procured writing materials from a shelf in the corner and, after placing them on the table, opened the door and peered across the way toward Dan'l's cabin. All was dark, and his partner was asleep. Softly he tiptoed back and, after hours of labor, read over the carefully written note:

"To Our One-Time Friend, Little Margery—Hearin' as how you will be in Downieville on Christmas, we write these few lines to tell you how Davy and myself long to see you. Could you come for a day and call on the old friends who will bid you glad welcome? Dan'l has a stiffenin' in his limbs and I'm troubled with the rheumatiz, so it is more than two old chaps can do to walk down to Downieville to see you. Hopin' it won't be a trouble, we are your anxious friends, Dan'l and Davy Price."

Carefully extinguishing the kerosene lamp, the plotter slipped out, going softly down the path in the faint starlight to drop the letter in the mail box nailed to a tree beside the road. Retracing his steps, Davy went home, hut not to sleep. The unwonted excitement of stealing a march on his old partner banished sleep until nearly dawn.

Davy seemed bursting with some important secret for the next two days, and alarmed old Dan'l by his uneasy demeanor. He would walk to the door and look toward the top of Chaparral Hill, the farthest approach whence the travelers might be observed, brush his thin locks carefully over the bald spot on his head, sweep every speck of dust from the cabin floor, and once alarmed Dan'l greatly by feeding the hens twice in fifteen minutes.

Too uneasy to expostulate, Dan'l contrived to touch Davy's hand. It was cool and moist. Mystified, he muttered: "It ain't fever and it ain't drink. Mebbe he's goin' crazy." Dan'l had known of cases where men lived alone too long and became demented, and his heart ached with pity for Davy.

The day before Christmas dawned clear and cold. An open winter, said the prophets around the barroom stove. Squawking chickens and odors of mince pies aroused thoughts of Christmas dinners, and Davy Price placed his hand innumerable times over something concealed within the inner coat pocket. He hugged a mighty secret, and his old feet could scarce touch earth as he chored around the cabin.

Dan'l smoked uncomfortably on the porch until late in the afternoon. The Seth Thomas clock struck five, and Davy said, "Come, Dan'l, let us go over to the boarding-house."

Dan'l arose with the air of a mother humoring a sick child. To him, the proposed visit was another proof of Davy's failing mentality. It was unheard of for Davy to leave the cabin until supper was over and the dishes cleansed and restored to the kitchen shelves.

Trudging over the grinding pebbles Dan'l lagged heavily, oppressed with grief for his friend. Davy's short legs twinkled briskly along, and though he gave no sign, he eyed Dan'l wistfully as he thought, "Poor old Dan'l, he's breakin' fast. Walks like an old man, tired and slow this morning." He endeavored, by cheering words and lively actions, to dispel the gloom, but without avail. Dan'l took these efforts as further proof of brain trouble for Davy.

As they reached the boarding-house, a man and a woman rode down the slope. A woman still youthful, but with the shadow of sorrow on her handsome face. Dismounting before the hostelry, she scanned the faces of those assembled, searching for a familiar face.

Santa in the Southland

(MINNA MCGARVEY.)

The Northern Lights are gleaming on a world of ice and snow, Aurora Borealis casts a weird, unearthly glow;
And Santa, in his igloo, prepares to sally forth,—
All year he has been toiling in the far and frozen North.

His sleigh is loaded lavishly, a jolly, bulging pack,
He wraps his furs around him and he makes the whip-lash crack;
The reindeer prance impatient, and strain at jingling rein,— They're off! As swift as swallows darting to the South Again.

Across forbidding mountains, where the air snaps cold and keen,
They fly, and from the summits see the fields of waving green;
Old Santa chuckles gaily, he knows they'll soon be due
In sunny California, where the skies are always blue.

He hears the merry mockingbird in greeting high and clear,
The brilliant red poinsettias flame in gardens far and near;
He scents the wafted fragrance of sweet and rare perfume,
For mile on mile the orange trees are white with starry bloom.

At eve, on stately boulevards, he meets a wondrous sight,
Long lines of living Christmas trees are gleaming in the night,
Each strung with thousand jewels, naught bere such beauty bars,
For this is California, and they shine beneath the stars.

Then Santa makes his visits, bringing gifts to high and low,
And lingers in the Southland 'til at last 'tis time to go;
Then home again he travels, but leaves for all good cheer,—
"A Very Merry Christmas and a Joyous Glad New Year!"

EARLY-DAY LETTER FROM A CALIFORNIA PIONEER

AS WE ADVANCED SLOWLY TOWARD the barren region of the Cape the weather grew cold and was attended with head winds and heavy storms. 'Twas on or about the first of June land was discovered off our lee bow. It proved to be the Falkland Islands. As we neared the coast different varieties of wild fowl flew from shore toward and around our vessel as though amazed at some wonderful sight, whilst ever and anon shone the albatross as he waddled himself o'er the snow-crested waves. We caught several different species of this noble bird, measuring ten feet from tip to tip of wings, placed upon their necks a card stating the latitude and longitude when taken, the name of our vessel and the health of our company, then turned them loose to their native elements. We caught these birds with a hook and line baited with pork. When hauled in and placed on deck 'twas impossible for them to rise to their feet. With a fair wind and a strong current that sets along the coast of these islands, we flew like the dark sided gull, silently and swiftly along. At intervals bold rocks were seen standing a long distance from shore, which proved to be massive hills of stone. The mighty breakers dashing against their sides circle round their base a snowy wreath that in a moment after disappears, leaving the giant rock unshaken, dark and rugged, like a grim warder standing sentry on the coast of his desert isle. The day passed off in rounds of pleasure, and as the sun set behind a lofty hill it fringed the clouds with most gorgeous splendour; its body shone deep red and seemed to rest upon the headland like a crimson fire lit to give the Californians notice of our approach.

"But ah! how soon the scene changed. What was happiness and pleasure but a few hours ago, has now turned to tumult and fear. As the evening was closing upon us and the bright sun was hidden from our view, a dark and threatening cloud made its appearance in the south, which pointed to us the foreboding of a storm. The wind changed its position and sounded o'er the ocean like the moaning of a coming spirit on an errand of misery to the hardy mariner who skims the waters of the mighty deep. The ocean heaved and swelled and the giant waves broke heavily against our noble ship. The wind howled in terror through her rigging, while the agitated deep responded to the furious element in tones of destruction and rage. Our captain, who with the steadiness, firmness and presence of mind used to meet danger and combat against it, stood coolly composed on the quarter deck. While our vessel, headed to the wind, rode the foaming billows like the wild bird who dwells amid the storm, and the hardy sailor swinging in the cordage above mechanically reasons that he is but doing his duty when he places his own life in jeopardy for the preservation of ours. We bore it cheerfully through the night and as the morning appeared all eyes were turned upon the wave changed horizon with anxious expectation to trace out something on which to build our hope for the future. No precaution on the part of our officers or sailors, which seamanship or prudence dictated, was neglected, for our noble bark, like the unrobed gladiator, rode the mountain waves as though prepared to weather out the storm.

"The day advanced and as night once more spread its dark mantle o'er the horizon my mind dwelt on home, that parental fireside where oft I had been cherished in my boyhood, where that willing hand was ever ready to lend its aid in sickness or health. But here, bound up in this cabin of despair, where all is tumult and clash, I oft think of the language of the poet—that there was no place on earth like home. I, feeling exhausted by the laborious pitchings of our ship, retired a short time to my hammock for rest. The sound of the water coursing along the sides of our vessel that had formerly lulled me to sleep was now the deafening roar of a cataract. To sleep, 'twas impossible. I arose, went to the locker, took a lunch of hard bread and salt junk, then went on deck to assist the careworn sailors who were busy staying the yards to keep them from blowing away. Our deck was covered with snow and hail, and our rigging was sheeted with ice. We continued in this gale for ten successive days. It blowed us upward of 300 miles east of the Cape, directly out of our course, snowing, hailing and freezing most of the time. Here commenced the hardship and suffering of our voyage. The whole month of June 1849 will long be remembered by the Albany Company for California, without the necessary comfort of life, viz., fire. We were beating and banging off the Horn in the wet and cold for forty-five days, head winds attended with hail and snow that fell with the velocity of lightning, cutting wherever it struck. No tongue can describe the suffering and privation we endured. We seldom saw the sun during this eventful time, and when we did it was merely skimming the horizon, rising at fourteen minutes of 9 and setting at 3 o'clock. We were several times in sight of the Cape, whose barren rocks were towering to the clouds and covered with perpetual snows. It seemed to be an impossibility for us to make any progress west, and a great many made up their minds that we never should double that miserable of all places on earth, viz., Cape Horn. I would sooner crawl on foot from the sand deserts and rocky mountains of California to the banks of the Mississippi, than encounter the perils of another trip around the Cape.

"On the 20th of June, Providence once more smiled upon us by sending us an easterly wind which soon helped us out of this cold and barren region. We sailed west to longitude 80, then stood north for the port of Talchuhana on the coast of Chili. On that commemorative day [Fourth of July] so deeply impressed on the mind of every American, we were tossing upon the bright blue waters of the Pacific off the Straits of Magellan. That same patriotic feeling that I instilled in my boyhood seemed to flame within by bosom like a living fire lit never to be extinguished. My mind dwelt on the comfort and pleasure you were enjoying at home; the many friends I had left behind seemed almost within my grasp. Instead of being awakened by the roaring of artillery and the cracking of rockets, we were aroused by the thunderings of a gale. At 10 o'clock on the morning of the 4th our gallant bark was hoisted under close reefed main top sail, and instead of celebrating the day as we anticipated we were clinging to her rigging to keep from being hurled across her decks. The strength of our vessel having been fully tested in the previous gales we had encountered we welcomed this storm as though prepared to battle against the mighty elements, whilst the maddened waters of the Pacific rolled forth mountain waves tossing us, as it were, to the heavens, then sinking us beneath the shade of the blue crowned horizon, occasionally washing the deck of our noble bark as the huge breakers broke across her bow.

"On the morning of the 7th the scene changed. The wind veered to its southern wintry quarter, we spread our canvas to the breeze and once more glided on our course. We anchored in the beautiful Bay of Conception, in front of Tuckawana, on Sunday, July the 14th, being 77 days from Rio and 142 from New York. While we were preparing to drop our anchor we were saluted by the crews of several California vessels that lay anchored in front of the town. Among them were the 'Cameo,' the 'Rising Sun,' the 'Monsam'—these three were from New York; the latter brought out the Hudson Company—the 'Velasco' from Boston, the 'Yeoman' from Plymouth and the steamer 'McKim' from New Orleans. The number of Americans at this port tended to make our visit one of sociability and pleasure. The inhabitants are indolent and uncultivated, many of whom are rolling in wealth, enjoying the luxuries of the soil, while others show the sad effects of poverty, subsisting chiefly on muscles that are caught in the bay, averaging from six to eight inches in length. Chili may well be called the garden of the world, for its soil is beautiful and rich. Wheat and wine are the principal productions. The month of July is their principal winter month and vegetation was in the height of its bloom. Apples, pears, cherries and different fruits grow spontaneously in the forests back from the coast. The buildings are low and built of bamboo or sun-dried bricks, with ground or brick floors. In 1835 this place was destroyed by an earthquake, driving the water out of the bay to the sea, then hurling it back with such velocity as to inundate the town some twenty feet, destroying the inhabitants that had not fled to the mountains.

"I visited the City of Conception, nine miles from Tuckawana, also some mills that were conducted by a company from Philadelphia. They were busy laying the foundation of a large mill to drive by steam the engine and machinery they were having made in Philadelphia. One of the proprietors offered Finegan and myself each $8 per day to stop and finish the mill. They offered Mr. Bennett, a member of our company and a millwright by occupation, $2,000 a year for five years. Their offers were unavailing. So destined we were on seeing the golden soil of California that nothing could tempt us to alter our minds. While our company was enjoying themselves with the different pleasures on shore, our officers were receiving some twenty tons of flour. They gave us three dollars a barrel freight to San Francisco.

"We set sail on Sunday afternoon, July the

CALIFORNIA'S WONDERLAND

CITY AND COUNTY

CALIFORNIA SOUTH'S NATIVE DAUGHTERS of the Golden West achieved success extraordinary, socially and fraternally, at a function—sponsored and promoted by Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer, and wholeheartedly supported by every Parlor in Santa Barbara, Los Angeles, Orange, San Bernardino and San Diego Counties,—at Elks Temple, Saturday evening, November 23.

Exactly five hundred people gathered about the banquet board, and after disposing of an excellent menu, Miss Stoermer, as mistress of ceremonies, outlined the program for the balance of the evening; attesting unanimous approval of her untiring efforts in behalf of the Order, she was roundly applauded. She then introduced the guests of honor, other than the speakers and entertainers: Mrs. Lilly O. Reichling-Dyer, Founder; Mrs. Estelle M. Evans, Grand Vice-president; Mrs. Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Secretary; Mrs. Eldora McCarty, Grand Trustee; Mrs. Cora B. Sifford and Mrs. Bertha A. Briggs, Past Grand Presidents; Miss Anna E. McCaughey, Supervising District Deputy; John T. Newell, Grand First Vice-president N.S.G.W.; William I. Traeger, Past Grand President N.S.G.W.; Senator Reginaldo F. Del Valle.

"California's Heritage" was the subject of the first speaker, Isidore B. Dockweiler, and he urged a more general display, and understanding of the history of, California's State (Bear) Flag. "An Accomplishment of the Native Daughters—Our Home," was the subject assigned Past Grand President Dr. Mariana Bertola, and she pictured the Order's beautiful edifice in San Francisco and stressed the good emanating therefrom. Herman C. Lichtenberger, Past Grand President N.S.G.W., had as his subject "After Thirty-five Years—An Appreciation," and he urged closer co-operation between the Native Sons and the Native Daughters, for the glory and the welfare of California.

Grand President Esther R. Sullivan was the final speaker, and in dealing with the subject assigned her, "Projects and Achievements of the Native Daughters," she briefly, but forcibly, related the worth-while undertakings and accomplishments of the Order. At the conclusion of her address, Miss Sullivan was handed a check for one thousand dollars for the Native Sons and Native Daughters homeless children work, carried on jointly, the sum being a contribution from the Los Angeles-Orange Counties Joint Homeless Children Committee.

Delightful features interspersed the program of speaking: Nell Lockwook Josephs, possessed of a contralto voice of great beauty, sang a group of songs—"Compensation," "With a Water Lily" and "O Harp Immortal"—accompanied by Mrs. Mary Le Grand Hagopian. Ynez De Valle Kirby, accompanied by Clara McIntyre, appeared in Spanish dances—"El Ganotin" and "Allegrias de Postin." Marybelle Chapman was heard in a group of Spanish folk songs; she was accompanied by Senaida Sullivan, in charge of the musical program.

An occasion of this nature would not be entirely complete without its surprise, and Mrs. Annie L. Adair was delegated to supply that feature. On behalf of Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W., she presented Past Grand President Stoermer, affiliated with that Parlor, with a basket of choicest flowers. It was a real surprise, too! "Spanish troubadours" furnished music during the evening. A hospitality committee—Grace Norton (chairwoman), Irene Eden, Florence Stehlik, Ruth Ruiz—was alert to see that the needs of all were supplied. Cards were provided for the entertainment of those not members of the Order.

Following the supper and program, five hundred and fifty-three Native Daughters, constituting "Sold Get-Together-In-One Parlor No. 11," assembled in the main lodgeroom of Elks Temple to witness the initiation of eighty candidates—nine from Reina Del Mar Parlor No. 126, Santa Barbara; three from Long Beach Parlor No. 154; four from Rudecinda Parlor No. 230, San Pedro; two from Santa Ana Parlor No. 235; two from Verdugo Parlor No. 240, Glendale; six from Lugonia Parlor No. 241, San Bernardino; two from Grace Parlor No. 242, Fullerton; six from Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 245, Ocean Park; fourteen from Californiana Parlor No. 247, Los Angeles, and thirty-two from Los Angeles Parlor No. 124.

The ritual was exemplified by the following: Rozina Hertzbrun, San Diego No. 208, senior past president; Edith Schallmo, Los Angeles No. 124, junior past president; Helen Anderson, Grace No. 242, past president; Hazel Hansen, Verdugo No. 240, president; Mrs. Guadalupe Wright, Californiana No. 247, first vice-president; Lois Polling, Lugonia No. 241, second vice-president; Rosalie Hyde, Santa Monica Bay No. 245, third vice-president; Marvel Thomas, Los Angeles No. 124, marshal; Nellie Cline, Grace No. 242, recording secretary; Florence Dodson-Schoneman, Rudecinda No. 230, treasurer; Genevieve Hiskey, Santa Ana No. 235, financial secretary; Jane R. Vick, Reina del Mar No. 126, inside sentinel; Doria Phillips, Verdugo No. 240, outside sentinel; Eunice Fox, Santa Ana No. 235, Letitia Sarciaux, Rudecinda No. 230, and Gertrude Allen, Los Angeles No. 124, trustees; Senaida Sullivan, Californiana No. 247, organist; Gladys Sieher, Los Angeles No. 124, violinist.

At the conclusion of these ceremonies there were brief remarks by those prominent in the Order's affairs, and on behalf of all the California South Parlors a dozen silver spoons were presented Grand President Esther R. Sullivan, and Founder Lilly O. Reichling-Dyer was the recipient of a bouquet of roses. To Verdugo Parlor No. 240 of Glendale went the handsome silver trophy, promised by Past Grand President Stoermer to the Parlor having the largest percentage of its membership at the gathering, Verdugo's percentage being seventy-three.

As a conclusion to this momentous occasion—one which will materially advance the interests of the Orders of Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West in the southland—Miss Stoermer said: "Truly, there should not be a native-born Californian, who has become aware of the varied activities of the Native Sons and Native Daughters, who still desires to remain on the outside. We invite all eligibles to come and join us, as we have work to perform that will interest each individual in its doing. The realization that the Native Sons and Native Daughters are all members of one great family, with ideals and aspirations in common, should enable us to work harmoniously together, not only that stronger fraternal ties may be formed, but that every undertaking in which both Orders are interested may be accomplished, and thus given recognition for the accomplishment of our purpose—the upbuilding of our own wondrous Golden State, CALIFORNIA."—C.M.H.

"RIO RITA" AT THE CIRCLE.

The long-awaited and much-talked-of "Rio Rita," heralded as the greatest of all musical screen spectacles, is now showing twice daily at the Fox Carthay Circle Theater. Carli Elinor, managing director of the Circle, declares that not since "The Merry Widow" has such a tuneful production as "Rio Rita" been produced in America.

The original Florenz Ziegfeld production has been sound and color filmed in its entirety with such romantically beautiful amplification that even Ziegfeld declares it a hundred times superior to his sensational New York stage success.

John Boles of "Desert Song" fame and Bebe Daniels are the principals in a cast consisting of a dozen other noted artists who can really sing, as well as eighty singing and dancing girls.

ninety vocalists in choral and novelty presenta-hundred other atmospheric artists.

One song hit follows another in "Rio Rita" by the authors, Harry Tierney and Joe Mc-Carthy. Tierney wrote the music for "Irene,"
"Kid Boots" and the world-famous "Alice Blue

The "Rio Rita" settings are admittedly the most magnificent ever made for a screen musical comedy, combining drama with beauty. On gowns alone, nearly a million dollars were spent to appeal to feminine hearts. Bebe
Daniels is a sensational surprise with her glori-

CHRISTMAS OUTDOORS.

Many thousands of living trees, illuminated by myriad twinkling lights, will proclaim the Christmas season this year throughout California South. Started just a year ago under the auspices of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, this beautiful out-of-door tribute to the most sacred of holidays has caught the popular imagination and bids fair to become a recognized custom, hallowed by the spirit of tender reverence which it so fittingly expresses.

Although many trees will be illuminated both earlier and later, the official Christmas out-of-doors season as announced by the chamber of commerce committee sponsoring the celebration, will be from Saturday, December 21, to Saturday, January 4. In the absence of a suitable Christmas tree on their front lawns, many householders will decorate shrubbery or even doorways.

Christmas out of doors in California South is for everyone to enjoy. Its uplifting, inspirational influence is becoming generally recognized, so much so, that this year the idea is being carried into the business district, where merchants and others are working together to transform the streets into veritable "Santa Claus lanes." Hundreds of public-spirited individuals and many organizations are co-operating with the chamber of commerce to give this commendable movement fullest expression.

LIVESTOCK SHOW.

Spirited rivalry between stockmen of the East and the West is being evidenced at the fourth annual Christmas Livestock Show at the Los Angeles Union Stock Yards, which opened November 30 and will continue through December 7. J. A. McNaughton is chairman of the executive committee.

Prize-winning herds of beef cattle and swine, also flocks of sheep, are on exhibition from many states. An old-time rodeo is a daily amusement feature.

FORTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY.

to the Grand Presidency at the Grand Parlor session in Merced City during May of next year. Past Grand President William I. Traeger was the toastmaster, and the principal address was made by Judge Rex B. Goodell, who paid a most pleasing tribute to California and its Pioneers. Other speakers were Past Grand President Herman C. Lichtenberger, Grand President Charles L. Dodge, Sheriff R. R. Veale of Contra Costa County, Eugene W. Biscailuz, Senator R. F. Del Valle, Grand Trustee Ben Harrison and Grand First Vice-president John T. Newell.

The concluding feature was the showing of several most interesting pictures of early-day scenes in Los Angeles City and County by Laurence Hill, who gave a brief account of each picture. Much of the success of the affair was due to the untiring efforts of First Vice-president Roland F. Nichols and William G. Newell, who visited every southland Parlor, starting at Santa Barbara and down the line to San Diego. And their efforts were ably seconded by President Walter Fisher, Secretary Richard Fryer, Elmer Englebracht and Frank Frank, also members of the arrangements committee.

"Present the Parlor with a member for a Christmas present," is the December slogan for Los Angeles Parlor, and the membership "flying squadron," directed by Chairman Nichols, will do all in their power to round up a big class of candidates for initiation December 26. An attractive program is being arranged for that date, the day after Christmas, and refreshments will be provided following the initiatory ceremonies. Officers will be elected December 5.

INTERPARLOR DANCE.
The N.S.G.W. and N.D.G.W. Interparlor Committee will have the second of a series of monthly dances at El Patio ballroom December 12. There will be a prize waltz, and a silver cup will be given the native responsible for the largest attendance. These dances are being given for the benefit of the Admission Day fund of the committee.

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE LAUNCHED.
Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W. had a large attendance of old timers November 1, the occasion being past presidents' night. Past Grand President Herman C. Lichtenberger directed the speechmaking, which was indulged in by Senator R. F. Del Valle, the first president of the Parlor, William J. Variel, William J. Hunsaker, Calvert Wilson, Deacon Taggart, Harry G. Folsom, Burrel D. Neighbours and others. "Chef" Charles J. Gassagne and his aides served a fine Spanish "feed."

November 8, Grand President Charles L. Dodge, Grand First Vice-president John T. Newell and Sheriff R. R. Veale of Contra Costa County visited the Parlor. Five candidates were initiated. In the course of his remarks, Grand President Dodge pledged co-operation in the plans for the celebration of Admission Day, 1931, in Los Angeles. Assembled about the festive board after the meeting, a membership drive, sponsored by Past Grand President Lichtenberger, was announced, and is expected to add materially to Ramona's numerical strength. November 15, the first presentation of pins to the "1930 Bear Club" was made by Past President Walter Slosson; sixty-five members received their paid-in-advance tokens.

Ramona has set aside December 20 to honor Past President Leo V. Youngworth, grand potentate of the Mystic Shrine; a native of San Fran-

CALIFORNIA HAPPENINGS OF FIFTY YEARS AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

CHRISTMAS DAY, 1879, CAME ON A Thursday. California's miners, farmers and merchants were optimistic, hence there were gifts and merry frolics aplenty. The holiday season, however, was somewhat marred by weather extremes. A terrific gale and rainstorm, beginning December 18, swept over the state for three days, during which from two to six inches of rain fell in the valleys and eight feet of snow covered the Sierra Nevada summit. Then followed a cold, biting norther that evidently emanated in the polar regions, for it sent the temperature in the valleys down to 18° above, and at Truckee, Nevada County, to 7° below zero. Another rainstorm set in on the 29th, and the month closed with a rainfall of 2.93 inches, making the season's total 5.37 inches.

The ferryboat "Solano" made its first scheduled trip between Port Costa, Contra Costa County, and Benicia, Solano County, December 27, thus materially reducing the distance and the train time between San Francisco and the interior cities.

A carload of sealions, caught on the Santa Barbara Islands, went East by express December 21.

A big crowd gathered in Union Hall, San Francisco, December 26, to express sympathy for Ireland's distressed. Several thousand dollars were subscribed. Of the city's 45,000 registered voters, 10,467 were listed as Irishmen.

Chico, Butte County, experienced a shock of earthquake December 3, and Los Angeles City had a shake the 8th.

The steamer sailing December 26 from San Francisco for China carried away $1,041,300 in treasure, more than a million of which was silver.

Madame Carlotta Patti gave a number of concerts in the state this month.

Some genius, with a divining rod, located a cache of gold in the ground near the old mission church at San Gabriel, Los Angeles County. Half a dozen men, working assiduously, sunk five deep holes from which they hurrowed in different directions and exposed to view several coffins. They were still searching for the hurried treasure as the year came to a close.

45,000,000 GRAPEVINES IN STATE.

Tramps asking for a "handout" in Santa Rosa, Sonoma County, were taken into custody, given an old musket to carry, and assigned to a heat to pace for two hours. Then the city marshal had them fed, gave them a quarter each, and a swift kick out of town.

C. F. McGlashan, publisher of a newspaper at Truckee, Nevada County, was charged with criminal libel by the notorious George M. Pinney, arrested and taken to San Francisco. Pleading he did not know Pinney had a reputation that could be libeled, he was released.

December 8 was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the landing in San Francisco of the Sisters of Mercy. On that date, in 1854, eight of them arrived from Kinsdale, Ireland.

Morris Stout, a Pioneer of 1850 from Arkansas, died at Galt, Sacramento County, at the age of 53. Nine children survived.

Miss Nellie Crocker, horn and reared in Sacramento City and the daughter of Judge E. B. Crocker, one of the founders of the Central Pacific railroad, died at New York City, December 23, leaving a fortune of $600,000.

The president of the California State Viticultural Association reported there were 45,000,000 grapevines on 60,000 acres of land in the state, and the vines were valued at $30,000,000.

In Sonoma County, 200 boys were engaged to displace Chinese gangs of potato diggers, and were paid $1.60 a day.

Rev. I. S. Kallach was installed as mayor of San Francisco December 1, and a new hoard of supervisors, the majority of whom were of the Workingmen Party, took hold of the city government.

During 1879, 278 Pacific Coast mining companies levied assessments to prosecute their work. Those in California had collected $2,692,100, and those in Nevada State $11,404,400. During the year dividends totaling $5,770,250 had been paid. No wonder "It takes a gold mine to work a quartz mine" became a popular aphorism.

John Ford of Grass Valley, Nevada County, killed a wild boar weighing 312 pounds and having nine-inch tusks. For about ten years it had been roaming the county's chaparral-covered hills.

San Joaquin County was offering a bounty for the killing of ground squirrels. During 1879, 6,000 claims were paid.

INDIAN RUNS AMUCK.

A Los Angeles County wolf hunt started December 1 on the Coyote Rancho under the leadership of Arturo Bandini and Major Bonebreak.

At Tolenas Springs, Solano County, quarrymen drilling a hole for a blast had the drill slip into a vacuum. Investigation revealed a beautiful forty-foot cave, hung with stalagmites of various hues, through which flowed a spring of fine soda water.

Three fine residences at Red Bluff, Tehama County, were destroyed by fire December 6, causing a $26,000 loss.

The large drygoods store of Cohen & Co. at Marysville, Yuba County, was burned December 17 with a loss of $20,000.

Two San Jose, Santa Clara County, canneries burned with a $50,000 loss December 20.

Lowenberg, trusted bookkeeper of Fleishman & Sichel, San Francisco hardware merchants, disappeared December 7. Investigation disclosed the fact he had lost $60,000 of the firm's money in mining stock speculation. The firm was bankrupt.

At Orleans Bar, Siskiyou County, a drunken Indian ran amuck December 26 and killed a young man named James Osborne. A posse of miners captured him, tied him to a tree and then, all taking a shot, filled his body with bullets.

Omar Styles, a 13-year-old Visalia, Tulare County lad, was accidentally killed while hunting December 10.

A large crowd gathered at the Polar Star hydraulic mine, Dutch Flat, Placer County, to witness the effect of a blast of 286 cases of Judson powder. The blast not being properly set off, many of the onlookers received painful bruises.

Sheriff Moore and posse of Mendocino County, who started early in October after a gang of outlaws who had killed two citizens of the county and had doggedly followed their trail through Trinity and Tehama Counties, came upon three of the gang, December 6, occupying a cabin in Butte Creek Canyon, near Nemshaw, Butte County. One, named Billings, was killed; another, Lantz, was captured the next day, and a third, Brown, was taken into custody by a posse a week later at Bangor, Butte County. Thus ended a successful man-chase, begun by an indefatigable sheriff October 17.

1929 HOLIDAY MAILINGS EXPECTED TO SET NEW RECORD.

The Federal Postoffice Department announced November 16 that the 1929 Yuletide season gives promise of being a record breaker from the standpoint of mail matter handled. The prediction is based on information furnished by postmasters to the effect that they will require 7 percent more postage stamps for the holiday trade, as compared to the number of stamps ordered during the same period of last year.

"Stamps sufficient to helt the earth at the equator, with enough left over to more than form a boundary line around the United States will be issued to postmasters throughout the country for the Christmas holiday trade," says the statement. "The total issues will approximate 4,000,000,000, which, if placed end to end, would cover 63,131 miles and weigh in the neighborhood of 300 tons."

Good Investment—Berkeley, Alameda County, is preparing to erect a public library building at a cost of $275,000.

SANTA CLAUS

(LORI PETRI.)

Bewhiskered, coarse and bear-eyed, dressed in odd
Red clothes, he sat enthroned among the toys;
And crowding women coaxed small girls and boys
To tell their dreams to him, as to a god.
So, while the mothers wisely smirked apart,
Each youngster, flushed with wonder like a rose,
Approached the blowzy figure, to disclose
The shy, sweet hopes that nestled in his heart.

Outside, a world of hills and stars and flowers
Begged men to fill the eager ears of youth
With tales more marvelous, in simple truth,
Than all their musty myths of monstrous powers—

With stories that would never die in sneers,
But win new wealth and beauty through the years.

—University California Chronicle.

CALIFORNIA STILL LEADS IN PRODUCTION PRECIOUS METAL.

California still leads all the states of the nation in the production of gold, although its proportion of the country's output of the precious metal is now only about half of what it was in the '70s, according to an announcement of the Federal Commerce Department.

In the last century the United States has produced $4,500,000,000 worth of gold, and the output is continually declining. The largest gold mine in the country is the Homestake, in South Dakota, but California has several big ones.

World's Flower Garden—During 1929 San Mateo County, the "Flower Garden of the World," has shipped 200 carloads of cut flowers, valued at $7,000,000, to every major city of the nation. Flowers of every variety were included.

"Our life is ever on the wing and death is ever nigh; the moment when our lives begin we all begin to die."

In Memoriam

SARAH LEVINSON.

The following resolutions were presented at the recent meeting of Eshcol Parlor No. 16 N.D.G.W. by a committee of charter members in memory of Sister Sarah Levinson: Whereas, That silent, unseen hand has taken from this world our beloved sister, Sarah Levinson; therefore, be it

Resolved, That Eshcol Parlor No. 16 N.D.G.W. has lost a loyal sister, a true friend, a willing worker who was ever conscientious to any task she was called to do; the loss is irreparable; resolved, although this sister has left our Order forever, her spirit still dwells with us in loving thought of one so richly endowed.

We do not say that this is death; calm and serene her soul went out to meet a brighter day. Be it resolved, That to the bereaved family Eshcol Parlor No. 16 N.D.G.W. extends its heartfelt sympathy; be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, and that a copy be spread upon the minutes of Eshcol Parlor No. 16 N.D.G.W.

cess. District Deputy Doria Phillips was among the visitors.

The plunkett dinner and card party of November 13 were very successful and muchly enjoyed by a large crowd. The Parlor has gone on record as opposed to any tampering with the design of the California State (Bear) Flag. November 20, thirty-five applications for membership were acted on favorably. A contribution was made to the veteran welfare work of the Order.

Los Angeles' December calendar includes: 4th, potluck dinner; 11th, "bunko" party, Grace T. Haven, chairman; 18th, Christmas program. December 25 being Christmas Day, there will be no meeting.

TO DEDICATE SCHOOL.

Glendale Under the auspices of Glendale Parlor No. 264 N.S.G.W., Glendale's new Herbert Hoover high school building, said to be one of the finest structures in the country devoted to education, will be dedicated December 3 by the grand officers. December 31, the Parlor will stage a New Year Eve party, to which all Natives are invited.

One hundred guests attended the Hallowe'en party given by Glendale and Verdugo No. 240 N.D.G.W. October 22. Cornstalks, Jacko'lanterns, etc., transformed the Thursday Afternoon Clubhouse, where the Parlor meets, into an appropriate setting for the occasion. For most original costumes, prizes were awarded President Hazel Hansen of Verdugo and Paul Kent of Glendale.

PAST PRESIDENTS NIGHT.

Santa Monica—Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 N.S.G.W. was visited November 11 by three grand officers, Grand President Charles L. Dodge, Grand First Vice-president John T. ### TIME, NOW, TO APPLY FOR 1930 MOTOR LICENSE PLATES.

Applications made by mail for 1930 motor-vehicle license plates will be accepted December 1 and thereafter, announces the State Division of Motor Vehicles. Applications should be forwarded early, as the registration period will close January 15.

The division regards the mail-order route as far the simplest method of obtaining plates, inasmuch as it relieves the motorist of the necessity of appearing in person. Applications for plates should be mailed directly to the division headquarters at Sacramento.

Actual counter deliveries of plates will begin December 16, at all branch offices of the division and at branches of the various automobile clubs. Mail-order applicants will not receive their plates until shortly after Christmas, because of the congestion of the mails during the holidays.

Frank G. Snook, chief of the division, says practically no changes have been made in the manner of making application, with the exception that the application must show the county in which the applicant resides. All that is necessary, he says, is to remove the certificate of registration from the car, put it in an envelope with the amount of the fee, and mail both to the division headquarters.

The fee for passenger cars is $3, as in previous years. Vehicles used for commercial purposes weighing unladen under 3,000 pounds also pay a $3 fee. Commercial vehicles weighing over 3,000 pounds unladen must pay a weight fee in addition to the registration fee.

PROBLEM DISCOVERING GASOLINE SUBSTITUTE NOT SO ACUTE.

Coal must ultimately be the primary source of gasoline and other liquid motor fuels, as it is evident that the world's supply of crude petroleum, which now furnishes the liquid fuels, will be depleted within a few generations, according to a statement of the Federal Commerce Department's bureau of mines.

Experiments on converting coal into motor fuels are being carried on in this country and abroad, but perhaps not so extensively as a few years ago, when it appeared that petroleum reserves would be exhausted by about 1942 or 1943.

New petroleum fields have been discovered in the meanwhile, and the crude oil will not be consumed before 1952 or 1953 at the earliest, so that the problem of discovering substitutes for gasoline is not so acute as it was five or six years ago.

TYPES OF CAR THEFTS.

When an automobile is stolen the chances are even that it was taken either by a joyrider or a hardened criminal. This is indicated in a recent survey by insurance companies.

The joyrider abandons the car when his splurge is over, but the hardened crook usually attempts to run the car for a long distance away from the scene of his crime. Frequently, however, crooks abandon cars after making their get-away in them, so that a large number of so-called thefts are cases where the car has been used temporarily and abandoned.

Use Proper Globes—On cars using single contact electrical systems the same candle-power should be used in each headlight, otherwise one will burn extremely bright and the other dim.

Easy To Remove—If the threads of a spark plug are coated with graphite grease when installed, they will be easy to remove.

SERIOUS LAW INFRINGEMENTS JEOPARDIZE RIGHT TO DRIVE.

Motorists who do not wish to have their nice new drivers' licenses all mused with a record of convictions on certain offenses against the State Vehicle Act, should note carefully what those offenses are:

Improper overtaking and passing of street car or driving through safety zone. Improper overtaking and passing of vehicles. Unlawful driving on the left side of road and toward the center of the road. Unlawful speed. Reckless driving. Driving while under the influence of intoxicants. So called "hit and run" offenses.

The driver's license card is now designed to bear the history of all suspensions or revocations, and also to act as a record of conviction for offenses such as these against the law. It is important, therefore, to observe these rules, since it is probable that, where a driver has a history of several offenses of the type mentioned, the license will be revoked.

The intent of the law is to make the highways safe for the majority of drivers, so that those who are habitually reckless will eliminate themselves under the provision of the act, and will have no one but themselves to blame.

CALIFORNIA, COMPARED WITH POPULATION, HAS MOST MOTOR CARS.

Compared with population, California has more motor cars than any other state—enough to carry every man, woman and child in the state, together with all the inhabitants of Nevada, Arizona, Wyoming, New Mexico and Idaho. The estimate, based on the auto registrations November 1—1,737,961—was made by the chief clerk of the State Division of Motor Vehicles.

In California, there is one machine to every 2.6 persons, and the record is rivaled only by the neighboring State of Nevada, which has one car for every 2.8 inhabitants but only 77,407 inhabitants. New York, the sole leader of California in the number of motor cars, has one automobile for every 5.5 inhabitants.

May 5, 1905, John D. Spreckels sent $2 to the secretary of state at Sacramento to register the first motor vehicle in this state. At that time there were hut 80,000 gasoline-propelled vehicles in the world. California's motor car population increased to 10,000 two years later, to 232,440 in 1916, and to the million mark in 1923.

HOW FAST CAN YOU STOP?

The problem of speed along the highways is not so much a question of how fast the car is going, but how fast can it be stopped. That was the theme at a recent safety conference in Chicago, where this provision of the law of Michigan, which has no speed limit, was under discussion:

"No person shall drive a motor vehicle upon a highway at a greater speed than will permit him to bring it to a stop within the assured clear distance ahead." The consensus of opinion was that that terse sentence covered the situation for all motorists.

"LEAF SKIDDING" DANGEROUS.

"Leaf skidding" is one of the greatest perils to driving in rainy weather, according to a warning issued by the public safety department of the California State Automobile Association.

"Leaves which have fallen on concrete highways frequently are dry on top, but wet underneath," the warning states. "When car owners, unaware of the unseen hazard, apply brakes, the car is likely to go into a skid that may possibly terminate in the ditch. It is the part of caution to drive slowly over all stretches of road covered with leaves."

Give Them a Chance—Approaching a curve, sound the horn, and don't forget to use the brakes frequently. You can't hlow pedestrians out of the way—give them a chance to cross the street.

Carry Chain—One of the most essential items of equipment for towing, and one most frequently overlooked, is full tire chain equipment.

YEAR'S PROGRAM FOR STATEWIDE TRAFFIC CAMPAIGN MAPPED.

Announcing a twelve months' program, commencing with November 1929, for its continuous state-wide traffic safety movement, the California Committee on Public Safety, with the support of state and county officials, has inaugurated a campaign of education and enforcement. The program provides for concentration each month on a specific type of traffic law violation, and fifteen days of each month will be devoted to education and fifteen days to enforcement.

The program of hazardous traffic law violations, mapped at a recent conference in Los Angeles, follows:

December, disobeying regulations for pedestrian protection. January, failure to yield right of way at intersections. February, unlawfully passing standing street cars. March, failure to give required arm signals and failure to keep in proper lane when turning. April, cutting in, and other law violations when overtaking. May, disobeying boulevard stop regulations. June, endangering safety of children at play, speed or inattention. July, railway stop signals (wig-wags). August, excessive speed at intersections where view is obstructed. September, unlawful speed in school zones. October, disobeying stop and go signals.

WET WEATHER DRIVERS ADVISED BY PATROL SUPERINTENDENT.

Under the heading "Advice to Wet Weather Drivers," Eugene W. Biscalluz, superintendent of the California highway patrol, issued a statement November 9, calling attention to the approach of the rainy season and the need of more care and caution in handling motor vehicles.

Among the things motorists are advised to do is to make a check-up of brakes, lights, windshield wipers and tires, to see that they are in good condition.

Speeding around curves, fast driving in heavy traffic, and going down stiff grades in high gear are among the practices condemned, as conducive to a high percentage of accidents in wet weather.

Especially, says the statement, should drivers be careful after the opening rains or during foggy weather, when the highways are likely to be covered with a film of mud and dirt.

REPLACEMENTS ABSORB PRODUCTION.

An increasing percentage of the automobile production of the United States is being absorbed for replacement by previous automobile owners and a greater number of new cars produced are distributed among motorists "trading in" their old cars, than among new owners. Of the number of cars produced in 1928, exclusive of exports, approximately 65 percent were sold for replacement.

Regardless of the number of cars in operation in the United States, the production for replacement continues and the ability of the country to absorb more cars depends on the capacity of the highways.

HASTE MAKES WASTE.

Haste does not make speed. Moving along at a regular, rhythmical pace is both safe and fast. Hurry is that nervous spurt which flies up for a moment and then dies. Haste is a force that impels a driver to weave in and out of a traffic line, thus endangering himself and others.

The person always in a hurry usually has nothing important to do when he reaches his destination and often, because of speed, does not reach it at all.

RULES OF WISDOM.

When driving an automobile, always keep at least fifteen feet behind the vehicle ahead when traveling at a speed of more than fifteen miles an hour.

Remember, too, it is dangerous to follow too closely behind a moving street car, which cannot change its course, but is liable to make a sudden stop or turn which may result in an accident.

Oil Brake Parts—Regardless of type, kind or make of brake used on a car, it is well to oil all operating parts regularly, even if it is just a matter of putting a few drops of oil on the threads of the adjustment nuts or on the anchor pins. This will greatly simplify the work of adjusting the brakes or of removing the hands for relining.

Blind Corners Dangerous—Motorists should slow up at all turns in the road, as blind corners are dangerous. Be prepared to stop when it is impossible to see what is coming around a corner.

HIGH TEST GASOLINE GIVES NO WARM WEATHER ADVANTAGE.
Adoption of "high-test" or "antiknock" gasolines as standard fuel for automobiles, regardless of climatic and other conditions, will increase the expense of operation, without any gain in efficiency in warm weather, according to a statement of the Federal Commerce Department's bureau of standards. In considering the gasoline question the bureau distinguishes between ordinary and premium grades, dividing the latter into "high-test" and "antiknock" brands, since those are the points of difference. It is pointed out that users of the so-called "high-test" gasolines will find during summer months that they are obtaining less mileage per gallon than are users of ordinary fuels. The coming of cold weather, however, does bring with it certain advantages for "high-test" gasoline, such as noticeably easier starting and better engine performance.

NOT TAXABLE AS ACCESSORIES.
Electric cigar lighters and ash receivers for use in automobiles are not taxable as automobile accessories under the 1921 Federal Revenue Act, the Court of Claims has held. The court makes a distinction between an extraneous article or device capable and designed for use as a matter of comfort and luxury to occupants of an automobile, and one so intimately connected with its safe operation that it becomes a component part. Electric lighters, it says, are in the former class.

HUGE SUM WORTH SAVING.
California's auto accidents during 1929 will total at least 2,000,000, most of which could have been avoided had operators been careful, courteous and alert. The property loss from these crashes will run close to $60,000,000, approximately a dollar each month of the year for every man, woman and child in the state.

Check Frequently—Five points that require constant thought and attention about the motor are: ignition, gasoline mixture, compression, lubrication and the cooling system. A frequent check may save time and expense.

Don't Force—If the window elevator or glass of a car is hard to raise or lower, don't attempt to use force. Take the car to an expert, for in forcing either the glass or the elevator may become broken.

Keep Wheels Aligned—Front wheels out of alignment will cause rapid and uneven wear on front tires. The right front tire will suffer most, because of the arrangement of the steering assembly.

Gasoline Waster—A leaky carburetor is annoying, as well as a waster of gasoline. The usual cause is a worn needle valve, which should be ground and resealed or replaced.

Wash the Top—It is better to wash, than to dust, the top of a car. Otherwise dust or grit will be ground in, shortening the life of the top, which is usually made of fabric.

Should Be Replaced—Valve springs on a car may become weakened after long use, and should be replaced.

Flush Frequently—The cooling system of a car should be flushed quite frequently for most efficient service.

1930 Colors—Black and orange have been selected for the colors of California's 1930 auto license plates.

Native Daughters of the Golden West

Christmas Message

"To the Subordinate Parlors of the Native Daughters of the Golden West—Dear Sisters:

"The sweetest story ever held,
Within the hearts of men,
The Christmas Day with all it means,
Now comes to us again.

It wakes the thought of olden days,
And love springs up anew,
And bids me tell the Christmas wish,
That's in my heart for you:

A Happy Christmas to you and yours."

"Christmas honors the birthday on earth of the World's Maker; it recalls the day on which earth paid its first tribute of true worship to Heaven, and on which the choirs of Heaven descended to earth to chant God's song of Peace and to announce 'Good tidings of great joy to all the people.'

"May we all help to stimulate a true feeling of friendship and helpfulness during this happy season, by giving pleasure and comfort to those in need and distress.

"May we continue this spirit throughout the year, so that our efforts of service to each other, and to our organization, shall bring success and contentment to all, for, 'He serves himself best who serves others most.'

"May this Christmas bring joy, peace and love in the happy participation of the birthday of the 'Prince of Peace.'

"As we stand on the threshold of 1930, my greeting is: That it may hold great joy and prosperity for all. May we strive to co-operate and to gain in membership, so as to strengthen all interests necessary for the success of all the projects of our worthy Order.

"Through the unity of purpose and co-operation, many blessings will be shared by our Organization, our State and our Country throughout the New Year.

"Cordially and fraternally yours in P.D.F.A.,

"ESTHER R. SULLIVAN,
"Grand President of the "Native Daughters of the "Golden West.

"Marysville, December 1, 1929."

from the floor to the ceiling follow, then the archway and out through the glass-paneled door back into the dining room.

But before we leave the kitchen, I wish to show you the save-labor device in the center of the room—a large work table, with shelf above and below for pots and pans, and drawers for knives, etc., for kitchen use. The last, but not the least, is the steam table in which all cooked victuals are placed in readiness for hanquets and large dinner parties.

Now, then, don't you wish you had this kitchen in your own home? I do.—EMMA G. FOLEY, Past Grand President, Head of the Kitchen Unit, N.D.G.W. Home.

District Gathering Happy Occasion.

Asilomar—The eighth annual get-together and over-night party of the Parlors of Santa Cruz, Monterey and San Benito Counties was held October 26 and 27. Representatives of the Parlors gathered at dinner on Saturday evening and each Parlor responded to roll call with an original and catchy song, announcing the name and location of the Parlor and setting forth the merits of the particular group. Initiatory ceremonies were then rendered by a selected corps of officers, and interesting discussions ensued relative to different phases of the work. An enjoyable program of "stunts" was presented, as follows:

Santa Cruz No. 26, a group of vocal selections by a dainty maiden in appropriate costume, followed by a chorus of scarecrows singing "Way Down Yonder in the Cornfield;" the stage setting for this fetching number was particularly attractive. A member of Junipero No. 141 (Monterey) favored with several Spanish songs with guitar accompaniment. Copa de Oro No. 105 (Hollister), a series of three pantomimes, "Prof. Lift 'Em's Studio," "The Realization of the Old Maid's Dream," and "An Exclusive Display of San Benito County Freaks;" the latter included the showing of the "living skeleton," "fat woman," "tattooed lady," "wild woman," "Tom Thumb" and "hulu-hulu dancer." Aleli No. 102 (Salinas), a playlet, "Family Hold Back," presenting the trials and tribulations of "Mirandy" in an endeavor to entertain a boy friend without the interference of the several members of her family.

At the midnight hour, all gathered about a glowing fire for a few hours of social intercourse and story-telling, interspersed with light refreshments. Sunday was devoted to beach pleasures and in the late afternoon the members dispersed for their respective homes, well pleased with the happiness of another district gathering.

Worth-While Work Engages Attention.

Alturas—Inasmuch as the United States War Department is considering removal of the bodies of the soldiers, killed in the battle between the Indians and the United States Cavalry at the Infernal Caverns of Crooks Canyon, to the National Cemetery at San Francisco, a resolution petitioning the department to allow the bodies to remain in the graves they have occupied since 1867 has been adopted by Alturas No. 159, which appointed a committee to secure endorsement of the petition by various civic and fraternal organizations of Modoc County. Several years ago the Parlor secured government markers for these graves, and they were placed with appropriate ceremonies.

Alturas' homeless children committee reports the placing of a 3-months old boy in a splendid Cedarville home. The Parlor has authorized the gift of an electric grate for the fire place in the foyer of the Native Daughter Home in San Francisco, the presentation to be made through Grand Trustee Irma Laird. Committees have been appointed to arrange for the annual Christmas ball and a moving picture benefit. The Parlor's "trails of '49" committee has been given space in the Alturas Chamber of Commerce office for a museum of pioneer relics.

Working in conjunction with the Modoc County superintendent of schools and state school officials, No. 159 is perfecting plans for the opening of a night school in Alturas. The movement, which has been in progress the past year, is under the direction of Grand Trustee Laird and Past Grand President Catherine E. Gloster. The Parlor has been suggested as an agent to direct a publicity campaign for Modoc County's participation in the 1930 State Fair at Sacramento. This year's exhibit at the exposition was arranged for by a committee composed of Cora B. Follett (chairman), Past Grand President Gloster, Grand Trustee Laird and Dorothy V. Gloster.

Inspiring Address.

Napa—Grand President Esther R. Sullivan paid an official visit to Eshcol No. 16 October 28. A turkey dinner, served before the meeting, was attended by candidates and members. The meeting hall was crowded with visitors, including, in addition to Grand President Sullivan, Grand Trustee Anna Mixon-Armstrong, Supervising Deputy Cora Herrick, District Deputy Theresa Hein and members from Clear Lake (Middletown), Woodland, Sonoma, Petaluma, Saint Helena, Marysville and Vallejo Parlors.

After a most successful meeting, at which seven candidates were initiated, refreshments were served. A most inspiring address was given by Grand President Sullivan relative to the projects fostered by the Order, and all enjoyed the very delightful talk but regretted it was impossible to have a longer visit with the Grand President. To Miss Sullivan the Parlor presented a picture. Other grand officers and visitors gave talks. The annual card party for the benefit of the homeless children took place November 25.

Bridge Tea.

Oakland—Piedmont No. 87 was hostess, November 14, to Etta Langry Silver, a recent bride. At an interesting meeting, attended by Past Grand President Addie L. Mosher, Supervising Deputy Gertrude Morrison and District Deputy Edna Gade, three candidates were initiated. A tasty repast was partaken of after the

EACH MONTH IN THE GRIZZLY BEAR Magazine will appear a report from the head of the various units of the N.D.G.W. Home at 555 Baker Street, San Francisco. So, not to infringe on the rights of others, you will be led, blindfolded, through the grill gates, doorway and foyer into the elevator, then through the upper hall and the dining room. Standing before the glass-paneled doors leading into OUR KITCHEN, I will remove the blindfold and lead you, step by step, before each of the several articles which, combined, make the perfect whole.

Upon the floor is inlaid linoleum. Following the wall, to the right we behold a built-in cabinet with shelves and doors for glassware. Next, a very large frigidaire refrigerator in which the "queens" of the kitchen store many delicious desserts, etc. Then a work-table, and behold two white enameled sinks where all the glassware and fine china are washed. Passing through an archway, we will stop to examine a rather large galvanized sink with a grease trap below. Here, all the pots are washed, the trap catching the grease, which otherwise might clog in the pipes, causing trouble and making work for the plumber.

Do you love to cook? If so, you will appreciate the treat in store for you—a two-oven, six-burner, top-flat gas stove. In fancy, you can picture a steak broiling, hot cakes turning just the right brown, and what-not in the pots and pans. Upon this stove is cooked the N.D.G.W. club breakfasts the second Sunday of each month, and oh, my, what delicious home-made pies Mrs. Holmes, the cook, takes out of the ovens, to say nothing of the meals planned and produced under the supervision of Mrs. Laura D. Hawkins, the director.

A small, air-tight stove which gives warmth on chilly mornings is wisely set close to the two deep, white-enameled basin sinks where the dishes are cared for. Following a long, white shelf placed over drawers and cabinet, we reach the dish closet, which holds five dozen sets of dishes necessary for the Home use. These dishes bear a crest—a wreath of green leaves and yellow poppies with the letters N.D.G.W. in black in the center. A line of black follows the outline of the plate. A row of cabinets meeting and the Parlor presented a beautiful spread to the bride, Chairman Josephine Collins making the presentation address.

The afternoon of December 7 the Parlor will sponsor a bridge tea, with Iteia Ring as chairman. The affair is for the benefit of the fund being accumulated by Piedmont for participation in the 1931 Admission Day celebration in Los Angeles.

Opposed to State Flag Change.

Santa Ana—In her usual forceful and charming manner, Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer addressed Santa Ana No. 235 October 25, enlisting the members' co-operation in the joint meeting of the California South Parlors at Los Angeles November 23. District Deputy Kate McFadyen was present, as were also delegations from Long Beach No. 154 and Grace No. 242 (Fullerton). The evening closed with a social hour, during which Dora Newcomb and a committee served refreshments.

The needle club of the Parlor met at the homes of Alice Rogers and Henrietta Doll and, having accomplished a good amount of work which was disposed of at the November 16 hazar, closed the season of sewing. A portion of the proceeds of the hazar, at which cooked food and candy were also on sale, will be devoted to homeless children and other welfare work.

Santa Ana passed a resolution November 11 voicing disapproval of the proposal, "by a body of women under the name of California Women of the Golden West," to change the design of the California State (Bear) Flag, and pledging the Parlor's support to the position that the proposal has developed.

Seven Initiated.

Bakersfield—District Deputy Minnie B. Heath paid a visit to El Tejon No. 239 November 1, when a class of seven candidates were initiated. The meeting hall was beautifully decorated with baskets of flowers, and the banquet room was adorned with lovely fall flowers and Hallowe'en motifs. The place cards and favors also carried out the Hallowe'en idea. At the banquet table a surprise handkerchief shower was given one of the members, Miss Wynona Wilder, who is to make her home in Long Beach.

Grand President Visits.

San Juan—Grand President Esther R. Sullivan officially visited San Juan Bautista No. 179 and Copa de Oro No. 105 in joint session here November 14. A delicious dinner was served prior to the meeting at tables decorated with yellow flowers and favors. Past Grand President Bertha A. Briggs was the toastmistress, and the following toasts were responded to: "Our Grand President," District Deputy Josephine L. Winn; "Early Pioneers of California," Catherine Gray Hooton. Vocal selections were rendered by Mayme Avilla and Myrtle Palmtag.

Adjourning to the meeting place in San Juan Bautista Mission, a class of candidates were initiated. A splendid address on California history was here delivered by Grand President Sullivan, who was the recipient of gifts from both Parlors, Justina Lewis and Adi Wilcox making the presentation addresses. Brief talks were also made by the following out-of-town guests: Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, Grand Trustee Pearl Reid and Supervising Deputy Clara Gairaud.

Pioneers Entertained.

Willows—More than 150 people attended the annual banquet given by Berryessa No. 192 in honor of the Glenn County Pioneers, thirty of whom were present. Singing "The Star Spangled Banner," officers of the Parlor led the march to the banquet room, where President Mae Houston extended a welcome and Edna Knight briefly referred to the accomplishments of the Pioneers of California. Proceeding to the Assembly Hall, which was beautifully decorated, the honor-guests were given places of prominence. A program, including songs of the early days, concluded with old-time dancing.

The Parlor recently entertained at cards, numerous tables being in operation. Prizes were awarded and refreshments were served.

Children's Party.

Chico—Annie K. Bidwell No. 168 initiated two candidates November 14, the ceremonies being followed by a social session. Refreshments were served by a committee headed by President Annie Skelly.

December 12 the Parlor will sponsor a children's party. There will be a Christmas tree with gifts, and a program, under the super-

A BIT O' FARMING

PREPARED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY M. H. ELLIS

WITH THE APPOINTMENT OF A State Board of Agriculture by Governor C. C. Young, it is hoped that the activities of the State Department of Agriculture may be taken out of politics. It has been the fear of agriculture in the state that the department might be used as a means of the payment of political debts; that the efficiency demonstrated in the past might not count when there came a turnover in the executive mansion. True, this never has happened. George H. Hecke has held the position of director ever since the department was organized, but there have been some narrow escapes.

The appointment of the board, to act in an advisory capacity to nominate the director, makes the department more stable. There never can be a complete change of personnel; the policies are likely to be put on a long-time basis. The membership of the board is one to inspire confidence; the men have been carefully chosen and are leaders in California agriculture. R. E. Condee, ex-officio president of the board, is president of the State Agricultural Society and a man who needs no introduction to California farmers. The other members are A. C. Hardison, A. T. Spencer, Frank Elliott, C. E. Gray, E. L. Adams, M. H. Adamson, A. B. Miller and J. A. Irving.

All sections of the state are represented; all branches of agriculture will have a voice on the board. The multifarious problems of the farm industry in California will have wise administration from the law enforcement point of view. The State Department of Agriculture is in a position to continue its fearless and efficient work for the benefit of the agricultural and horticultural industries of California.

SCALE ON BERRY CANES.

When the berry canes are pruned out this winter, be sure to burn them at once, to avoid any possible holdover of scale which may have been blown in or otherwise introduced. There is no reason for delaying the cutting out of old canes and superfluous new ones. After they are removed and burned, give the vines a spraying with a good, highly refined oil emulsion. If red berry mites have caused any trouble during the past season, a second spray in late winter of a high-grade oil emulsion will rid the vines of the menace for the coming year.

GOPHERS DON'T HELP CROPS.

Gophers are in no way any aid to the farmer. And now, after the first rains and before the breeding season starts, is the best time to get them. Trapping may do the job; poison or gas is quicker and easier. Locate the run and with a sharp iron prod make a hole through the surface into the burrow. Enlarge the hole by working the iron around. Drop the poison or gas material through the hole, fill it with dirt, and look for another gopher. In filling the hole, be careful not to use dirt so fine that it may cover the poison bait dropped in. Canned peas, poisoned with strychnine, make a good bait, but be careful to handle them with a spoon so that the hands don't touch them; otherwise the rodents won't bite. Gas works better now than in dry soil.

SULPHUR CONTROLS THRIPS.

While the standard control for thrips has been nicotine sulphate, sometimes combined with a refined oil emulsion, a better method seems to have been worked out by dusting with the finest grades of ground sulphur. Burning on pears has been feared through the use of sulphur, but reports this year were that no bad effects of this kind were noted, save where too much sulphur was used. The use of sulphur is easy and the cost is cheap; the results are satisfactory.

DOES GOOD BREEDING PAY?

There came recently from Canada a story that shows just how important good breeding is. Two years ago a hen bred and owned by the University of Saskatchewan made a world record for the Barred Plymouth Rock breed of 339 eggs in one year. Now a daughter has laid 356 eggs in 365 days; seven other daughters have made records of better than 300 eggs a year. It will not take much imagination on the part of the poultryman who is endeavoring to get by with a flock averaging around 100 eggs a year, to see what his profits would be with such stock. Of course, it is not to be expected that a commercial poultryman can get a 300-egg average, but a 200-egg average would make a big difference in the balance at the end of the year. Breeding stands back of all production; housing and feeding aid in making the most of the possibilities offered by breeding.

GET THE WIREWORMS.

Wireworms go deep during the summer months; they do not like the warmth of the surface soil. But with the advent of fall and the first rains, watch out for them, for they will come up to the top foot of the earth. Then they begin their depredations, and the damage is likely to be heavy. A bait crop is the likeliest method of ridding the soil of the pests, although a fumigant, such as carbon bisulphide, might do it. An approved plan is to plant beans or corn in rows about two feet apart. The worms will go after the seed. Then drill calcium cyanide to the same depth just as the seeds are sprouting. The fumes will get the worms and in a couple of weeks the land may be planted safely. The wireworm is the larva of the click beetle, and spends about three years in its metamorphosis.

AGAIN THE WHITEWASH.

Many orchardists whitewash their trees in the spring, and during the summer the orchard presents a neat appearance and is protected from summer sunburn. They do not realize, though, that danger from sunburn is far greater in the winter than in the summer. With the sap down, the soil more or less dry, the leaves off, the tree has little protection from the sun. Nights during clear weather record a temperature near freezing; bright sunshine next day brings the bark temperature close to a hundred degrees. The result is sunburn in the fall; in the spring, with the ground soaked, these extreme fluctuations produce sour-sap. The remedy is whitewash, applied in the fall.

PREPARING SHOW BIRDS.

Birds that are to be entered in poultry shows this winter must be properly prepared if they are to have a chance at the blue ribbons. White birds, especially, must be washed; colored birds may not need this, but their feet, shanks and heads must be well cleaned. Wash in clean, soft water, using a pure, white soap. Be sure the fowl is protected from drafts while it is wet. Wash the face, comb, wattles, shanks and feet with a small nail brush, using plenty of water and soap. Then work up a good lather all through the plumage, which by this time should be wet, the bird having been placed in a tub when the operation is started. Rub the lather with the feathers, not against them. Be sure to get all the soap out in rinsing; two rinsings are imperative, more may be needed. Otherwise the result will be a streaked bird with matted plumage. Taking the bird from the water, wrap it in a bath towel, but don't rub the feathers; let the towel merely absorb the water.

DON'T CULL BY LOOKS.

Culling by looks is not a safe process; the evidence is preponderant and convincing. At the San Joaquin County Fair a guessing contest on production of cows has been carried on for three years. In these three contests more than 700 persons have tried to place groups of cows as to their production, simply by looking at them and trying to guess by conformation where they should rank. Of these 700 and more, four have been able to guess correctly. The dairyman would probably come closer than those who guessed, but many dairymen did guess. The only way to tell whether a cow is worth the keeping is by testing her.

More Than 40 Years

Can you remember when "Alexander's Ragtime Band" began the day of jazz? Can you go back to "My Merry Oldsmobile" with its crossbar steering gear, and the women who motored in linen dusters and long veils? You bet you can remember. Long before this the millers of "ACE-HI" were milling high-grade flour.

Through all the years, "ACE-HI" flour has never lowered its standard to any other brand. Steadily its standing has increased and its favorable reputation broadened. Today, as 40 years ago, you'll find the same high quality.

There never is the slightest reason for changing from "ACE-HI."

orchard to come into bearing, there is usually no harm in intercropping the trees. Until they are six or eight years of age this can be done profitably, provided of course that there is moisture for both trees and intercrops. Beans are perhaps the best crop for this purpose; they should do well wherever walnuts do. String beans, tomatoes, peppers and similar truck crops are satisfactory; pumpkins, squashes, corn and milo are not so good, as their effect on the soil is bad. Bean straw may be plowed under and the soil improved somewhat by this method. When the trees begin to bear, it will be a good practice to cut down on the intercrop.

INOCULATION OF ALFALFA SEED.

If the best results are to be secured from a planting of alfalfa, the grower must make certain that the bacteria which supply nitrogen are present in the soil. If the soil has previously grown alfalfa, they probably are there. Burr clover also is a pretty sure indication. It is rare, indeed, that these bacteria that cause the nodules on the roots are absent from the soil. If they are not present, the seed should be inoculated. This may be done by taking about 200 pounds of soil from old fields and scattering it over the field to be planted. It may be done by taking a similar amount of soil from soil in which the bacteria are known to be present, mixing it with three times its volume of water, allowing it to stand for several days and stirring each day, then letting it settle and wet the seed with the water. Or commercial cultures may be purchased, which if fresh are probably the most satisfactory. The commercial cultures will not introduce disease, which is a danger in the first two methods of inoculation mentioned. But care must be taken that these cultures are fresh, or they will be valueless.

BUDDING CITRUS TREES.

If citrus trees are budded in the late fall the dormant buds are quite likely to grow earlier than if the budding is done in the spring. Another advantage is that the orchardist usually has more time now than he has when the growing season opens; too, if any of the buds fail, they may be replaced in the spring and less time is lost. Experience has shown that in budding it pays to take buds from high producing trees. Breeding is just as important for the orange grower as it is for the producer of livestock. Trees that don't pay in the orchard cut down profits just as fast as boarder cows in the dairy or poor layers in the poultry flock.

RIDDING TREES OF BORERS.

When horers enter trees there is no way of getting them out, unless, of course, one wishes to dig them out at the expense of the trunk or limb of the trees. They may be killed, however, by using a hot wire, of a size that will enter the hole easily. A portable stove, a plumber's blowtorch or anything of the kind will answer the purpose of heating the wire. To prevent it from getting too hot to handle, insert one end of the wire into a piece of broomstick. Stick the wire in as far as it will go and when it comes into contact with the borer the insect will give no further trouble.

CARE OF THE SEPARATOR.

Most farmers who keep cows make it a practice to keep the cream separator clean; most of them, however, wash it but once a day, giving it a rinse in the evening. It will require less time to wash the separator twice daily just after it is used, and a better job will be done. More than that, if it is merely rinsed at one operation the fat and casein will harden as they dry and cool and become unevenly distributed on the discs. This makes the bowl run unevenly and results in the loss of cream. So not only as a measure of sanitation and time saving, but as an economic proposition, the separator should be washed thoroughly every time it is used. Don't use soap, but a non-soapy washing powder; it will rinse off more easily. A brush is much superior to a rag for washing the machine.

SAND COLIC IN HORSES.

If manger bottoms are tight, it often happens that there will be dirt and dust enough in the hay and feed that after weeks or months there will be a lot of dirt and sand in the bottoms. Grain sifts down into this and the horses naturally nose into the dust in search of it. The result is what is known as sand colic. The prevention is simple and causes far less trouble than any cure. Simply have a few cracks in the manger through which the dirt may sift and see that these do not get plugged up.

vision of Alice Bass, will be presented by the children. Grand President Esther R. Sullivan will officially visit the Parlor in January.

In the Armistice Day parade the Parlor had a float, with a solid background of yellow poppies, which was awarded third prize. Miss Lucy Girdler depicted "Miss California," and Patricia Boyd and Burton Heberle, 4-year-olds, held baskets of poppies.

Plaque Dedicated.

Merced—Addressing the Chamber of Commerce forum November 4, Grand Trustee May F. Givens said: "To perpetuate in memory the glorious deeds of the Pioneers is one of the principal objects of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West." Following the luncheon those assembled attended the unveiling of a bronze plaque by Veritas No. 75. The plaque, embedded in a granite boulder, marks the site of a palm tree, now very large, planted in 1905 by charter members of the Parlor to honor the Pioneer Mothers and Fathers of Merced County.

With past presidents exemplifying the ritual, Veritas initiated a class of nine candidates November 5. At the conclusion of the ceremonies a delicious ravioli supper, at which President Margaret Gambini was the toastmistress, was served. Numerous guests responded to toasts in a most happy vein.

Drill Team Adds Color.

Petaluma—With President Dickson presiding, Petaluma No. 222 had an enthusiastic meeting November 5. Among those in attendance were District Deputy May Rose Barry, Anna Barry (Mission No. 227), a large delegation from Sonoma No. 209 and Irene Tomasi, organizer of the Parlor, now residing at Larkspur, Marin County. A delightful banquet, prepared by Nellie Pometta, concluded the pleasant evening. The Parlor had a turkey whist November 19 and a ravioli supper November 21, the public being invited to participate in both events. Plans are being perfected for the official visit of Grand President Esther R. Sullivan to the three Sonoma County Parlors, in joint session at Sonoma City, in December.

Captain Dickson took the Parlor's drill team to Sebastopol to participate in the Armistice Day parade, and it made a big hit. The natty suits of red and white, made in military style, added color to the parade.

Kiddies' Benefit Great Success.

Hollister—Hallowe'en was celebrated in fitting manner by Copa de Oro No. 105 October 26. The meeting hall was cleverly decorated with fall blossoms and jack-o'-lanterns. Games were enjoyed and refreshments suitable to the spirit of the season were served.

November 7 Fremont No. 44 N.S.G.W. joined with the Parlor in holding the annual benefit for the homeless kiddies. Card tables were arranged for bridge and five hundred, and many awards were made for high scores. The splendid basket of groceries was presented to Frank Sparling, who now has a generous supply of eatables to tide the family through the winter months. The benefit was a social and financial success, the proceeds, forwarded to the favorite project of the two Parlors, reaching the gratifying sum of $190.50.

Committee Gets Results.

Sausalito—One of the many committees appointed by the president of Sea Point No. 196 following her installation was that of membership, and as a result a class of eight candidates—the largest in n great mny years—were initiated October 28. More will be added before the year's close.

The occasion was in the nature of a pajama party, and all present—including Past Grand President Emma Gruber-Foley, District Deputy Mary Shea, and delegations from Orinda, Tamelpa and Fairfax Parlors—were appropriately garbed. Supper was served in the banquet hall, decorated in Hallowe'en colors, pumpkins, black cats, goblins, etc. Games were played, Past Grand President Foley winning a pair of pretty pajamas.

Participate in Fiesta.

Mariposa—Members of Mariposa No. 63, in costumes of the pioneer days, participated in the '49 Fiesta sponsored by the Mrriposa Chamber of Commerce.

Past Presidents Initiate.

Oakland—The Hallowe'en party given by Past Presidents Association No. 2 was very successful. A large delegation from Association No. 3 (Santa Clara County) attended. Many attractive gowns were in evidence. Four candidates were initiated. The evening was devoted to games and entertainment, followed by a program. Harriet Emerson was the chairwoman, and was assisted by Margaret Doyle, Helen Ring and Mae Mead.

The whist parties, held every two weeks, are proving very successful.

Time Passed Quickly.

Georgetown—El Dorado No. 186 had its annual dinner for the Pioneers October 27. Eight of the old-timers were in attendance, among them Mrs. Georgia Knox (1852), Mrs. Elizabeth Farnsworth (1853) and Mrs. Dora Crawford (1853). Members of Georgetown No. 91 N.S.G.W. were also guests of the occasion.

President Ella Stanton presided, and toasts, readings and old songs made the time pass quickly. The hall and tables were made beautiful by a generous use of Hallowe'en decorations. Several out-of-towners were in attendance.

Enjoyable Time.

Chico—The annual formal banquet of Butte County Past Presidents Association No. 5 was held November 5. Among the guests were Junior Past Grand President Dr. Louise C. Heilbron and Grand Trustee Sadie Brainard. Stories of California were related, and a most enjoyable time was had.

A tracery of autumn leaves, forming a center line upon the banquet table, led to an enormous yellow pumpkin, cut in basket shape, which was filled with fruits. At each plate were nosegays of golden button chrysanthemums.

Season's Greetings

GRAND PRESIDENT CHARLES L. Dodge of Martinez, treasurer of Contra Costa County, spent a couple of weeks in the southern section of the state last month and visited eight Parlors. Accompanying him was R. R. Veale, member of the Grand Parlor Board of Control and a charter member of General Winn No. 32 (Antioch), who is sheriff of Contra Costa County. Arriving in the southland, Grand First Vice-president John T. Newell of Los Angeles joined the party, and accompanied the Grand President on all of his visits.

Santa Barbara No. 116 received the visitors November 6, and the meeting was devoted to discussion of the Parlor's plan to place markers at all places of historic interest in Santa Barbara County. A committee composed of John L. Stewart, C. W. McCormick and C. D. Livermore was appointed to select the sites to be marked. Speakers of the evening were Grand President Dodge, Grand First Vice-President Newell and Sheriff Veale. A banquet concluded the meeting.

San Diego No. 108 was visited November 12, and following a supper there was a program of speaking, presided over by District Deputy Albert V. Mayrhofer, who briefly outlined the splendid work being done by the Parlor, and said the fund being raised for the restoration of San Diego Mission now totals $40,000. Those who addressed the gathering included Grand President Dodge, Grand First Vice-president Newell, Sheriff Veale; Roland Nichols, "Billy" Newell and Elmer Englebracht, all of Los Angeles No. 45; Ed. L. Head of Stanford No. 76, and the following members of No. 108: Judge Lloyd E. Griffin, Robert E. Maloney, Steven Dove, Joseph Brennan, William M. Clark, Fred E. Hofman, Henry P. Stelling, John E. Spencer, Thomas J. Tighe, Everett N. Curtis, Sam A. Hastings, Owen Dove, Roby C. Jones and Harry J. Carey.

Close to 200 members of Arrowhead No. 110 (San Bernardino) were out November 13 to greet the visitors. A supper, prepared by "Chef" John Andreson Jr. preceded the meeting. Five candidates were initiated, bringing the Parlor's membership to 500, and there are several applications on file. Grand Trustee Ben Harrison, affiliated with No. 110, extended the Parlor's

"To the Grand Officers, Officers and Members of All Subordinate Parlors, Native Sons of the Golden West—Dear Brothers:

"As Grand President of our Beloved Order, Native Sons of the Golden West, I wish at this Yuletide Season to again remind you of the Message of Old, 'Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.'

"What message could aid us more in the practice of our principles—Friendship, Loyalty and Charity? Let us, therefore, during our festivities ever bear them in mind and make this truly a Season of Cheer and Happiness, not only for ourselves, but for those less favored than we, and may Charity be your rule at all times.

"That your Christmas be the merriest, and your New Year happy and rich in blessings, is my wish to every Native and Adopted Son and Daughter of California.

"Sincerely and fraternally yours,

"CHARLES L. DODGE,

"Martinez, November 20, 1929."

welcome to the grand officers and the initiates. Reports of committees in charge of various activities accounted for the enthusiasm in Arrowhead, one of the most successful Parlors of the Order. Among the speakers of the evening were Grand President Dodge, Grand First Vice-president Newell and Sheriff Veale. While their husbands were in attendance at the meeting, Mrs. Dodge and Mrs. Veale were entertained at supper and the theater by the wives of Police Judge Donald E. Van Luven, John Andreson Jr. and William E. Keir, respectively, president, treasurer and senior past president of Arrowhead.

Reference to visits of the grand officers to Parlors in Los Angeles County will be found in other sections of this issue of The Grizzly Bear.

Laudable Example.

The Grizzly Bear last month referred to the more than one hundred percent increase in the membership of Cambria No. 152, located in the small town of Cambria, San Luis Obispo County. What that Parlor accomplished, other Parlors can accomplish, if those interested in the progress of the Order so will. Commenting on the results achieved by Cambria, Grand Trustee J. Hartley Russell, in a letter to the editor, says:

"The ceremony was indeed a spectacle to view, with its rural atmosphere, replete with a devotion and a desire to serve a particular cause. For the most part, the class was made up of young men in their latter teens and early twenties. When one realizes that prior to this meeting the membership totaled just thirty-one, which, by the way, is a fair proportion of the scattering population of the district, most any praise that might be given these stalwarts of the Parlor who made it possible for a membership increase of more than one hundred percent in one meeting would not be commensurate with their achievement.

"I doubt if this feat has been accomplished very many times in the Order's history. The little hall was crowded beyond normal capacity, though every conceivable means were taken to provide comfort for those present. Summing up the entire event, it appears to me that a lesson is brought to us from which much good should be derived. We find a handful of energetic and enthusiastic brothers forming among themselves a campaign committee having for its objective the doubling of the Parlor's membership in one class initiation. A stupendous undertaking indeed, and it is obviously more easily said than done. They pledged themselves to the accomplishment of a task, and the fruits of their efforts were made manifest on the evening of my visit.

"What a thrill they must have felt. What a thrill I admit I felt. What a challenge to us who live in thickly populated areas, where the scouting over the countryside is not one of the many trials and obstacles faced by our Cambrian brothers. What a lesson to the entire membership of our Order. What a demonstration of the results of an honest effort to do a service to the cause of fraternity through real love of it. These are some of the impressions I have, and they come from this little Parlor situated in a growing community of but a few hundred residents. The vivid demonstration, with the resultant effects, of just a simple thought coupled with an earnest desire to put into execution the machinery with which to carry out the thought leaves with me a profound admiration of those who have set for us such a laudable example."

History Contest Winners.

Oakland—The Alameda County Native Sons recently sponsored a California history contest among students of the high schools of the county, 750 of whom submitted essays in the competition. Awards were made in the auditorium of the Oakland high school November 8. The gathering was presided over by George H. Oakes, and Superintendent Willard E. Givens delivered the main address.

The principal prize winners include: Eleanor Lamont, Berkeley high, first; Virginia Roberts, Berkeley high, second; Guy Newland, Oakland high, third; Barbara Brock, Berkeley high, fourth; Louis Ray, Alameda high, fifth; Jack Shaver, Livermore high, sixth.

Judges of the essays were John J. Allen Jr., William Knowland, Dr. Herbert E. Bolton of the University of California, William J. Hayes, District Attorney Earl Warren and Dr. Cardinal Goodwin of Mills College. The committee of Native Sons in charge of the contest was composed of Richard Hamb, Frank Roemer, James Dignau, Judge Allan Norris, G. Stack, Arthur Cleu, E. Frank Garrison, Edgar Hansen, J. J. Kelly, Walter Hayes, Earnest Schween, W. Donovan, C. Martenstein, Henry May, William Knowland and M. Pacheo.

Old Guard Reunion.

Marysville—October 23 was "old guard reunion night" in Marysville No. 6. "Frequently we hear your name read by the financial secretary," said the invitation sent to those who had not attended a Parlor meeting for a long time. "That's fine, but we would like to see you in person. Can you not strain a point and be with us?"

Many of them did, among them Charles De

Supper was served at 6:30, following which came the Parlor meeting, presided over by President Peter J. Delay. And it was a most interesting meeting, several of the "old boys" recounting reminiscences of the past. The successful affair was arranged by a committee composed of Past Grand President Fred H. Greely, John H. McQuaid and Thomas J. O'Brien.

"Contra Costa Night."

Crockett—One of the largest gatherings of Native Sons and Native Daughters ever held in Contra Costa County was that of October 26, when more than 300 members of the Orders joined in the celebration of "Contra Costa night," in honor of Charles L. Dodge, Grand President N.S.G.W., and Estelle M. Evans, Grand Vice-President N.D.G.W.

Following separate initiatory ceremonies, at with twenty-three candidates became identified with the Native Sons and nineteen with the Native Daughters, the combined forces gathered in Community Auditorium for a banquet. Frank W. Hutchinson was the toastmaster, and the principal addresses were delivered by Grand President Dodge and Miss Esther Sullivan, Grand President N.D.G.W.

Members of the advancement of the order committee directly responsible for the success of the event are: A. Zampa, H. C. Martin and R. J. Rogers of the Native Sons; Evelyn Hansen, Mrs. G. Murphy, Julia Gray, Mary Lucey and Helen McCarthy of the Native Sons. In direct charge of the arrangements were Carquinez No. 205 N.S.G.W., with which Grand President Dodge is affiliated, and Carquinez No. 234 N.D.G.W.

Good Suggestion.

Auburn—Auburn No. 59 was officially visited October 18 by Grand Trustee Harmon D. Skilkin, who was accompanied by Grand Trustee Frank M. Lane, Grand Marshal Arthur J. Cleu, and Richard M. Hamb, Ray Felton and Frank Roemer of Oakland. Visitors were present also from Hydraulic No. 56 (Nevada City) and Quartz No. 58 (Grass Valley). Following the initiation of four candidates a banquet was served.

While in Auburn, and after looking over the site of Oregon Bar, a large placer mining camp of '49 and the early '50s in the canyon of the American River, Grand Marshal Cleu suggested the use of convict labor for reforestation work—to replace the once great stands of timber removed by the early-day miners and subsequent fires. Heavy stands of pine on now wasted canyon sides would reproduce themselves with a fair start by plantings protected from fire.

Grand Officers in Session.

San Francisco—The Board of Grand Officers met November 2, those in attendance being: Grand President Charles L. Dodge, who presided, Grand First Vice-president John T. Nowell, Grand Second Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez, Grand Third Vice-president Seth Millington, Grand Secretary John T. Regan.

Home!

Not only is it the foundation of the State and nation but also it is the goal of every family. The desire for a home . . . the ownership of a house and parcel of land one calls his own . . . seems inborn. A large percentage of California Bank's 135,000 savings depositors doubtless are setting aside funds for a home; their attainment of the goal is an example of true Thrift. Ask at any branch for the budget book—"Saving and Spending." It will aid in your Thrift program. Deposits on or before January 10th draw interest from January 1st. Now is the time to transfer your "back east" savings.

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER

THE SUCCESS OF THE NEW STYLE has been little short of astonishing. With the opening or assembling of style collections for a second season, women who were panicky over the exaggerations of the long-limbed and high-waisted silhouette have been entirely converted to the idea, if modified to the individual type and taste. Many were laboring under the delusion that "long skirts" meant ankle length or hems sweeping the pavement, and that the "short waistline" compelled the belting of the costume just under the bust. With the mentioning of corsets, visions of the straight-jacket stays of the "laced" period, steeled to the hilt, were called to mind with terrifying ghosts of yesteryear.

In sportswear for the new season and the general daytime mode, skirt lengths will accept any variation from three to five inches below the knee. For the active sports, two inches below the knee will be permitted.

Afternoon and evening dresses are wanted from five to six inches below the knee, if hems are even, and to the ankles, if sides are draped or backs made long. The semi-formal and formal gowns with long sides are most popular.

Crepe is the outstanding material for daytime frocks of silk, and a very minor response is given satin. Light-weight woollens are also receiving attention for general wear. Panné satins, chiffons, silk crepe and velvets are good for afternoon wear.

Black is the leader for both daytime and evening, closely followed by brown or, in some cases, preceded by it. Perhaps the most popular of the novelty colors are the pencil blues and the madeira wine, followed by the high shades of red, light green, dusty pink, blue, bright capucine, dahlia and cream.

Tightly-bodied princess types are very popular, done with seamings, sbirrings or close drapings. All the princess types are cut in intricate effects, giving a somewhat softer line to the bodice. The tubular effect to the knees is an important point on all gowns.

One-piece dresses predominate, although they often have attached or simulated boleros and jackets. Blouses are wanted in satin, flat crepe, crepe-de-chine, metals, chiffon, lace and sheer crepe. Satin, however, is the leading fabric.

Both sleeveless and long-sleeved types are in demand, but just at present there is a run on long-sleeved dressy types for wear with velvet or crepe jacket suits, and to be used to formalize woolen suits.

Pale pastel tints are most in demand, with eggshell, string, beige, flesh, chartreuse, pale blue, capucine and gold among the leading tones. Sbirrings, tucks, fitted bands and seamings are used to give a molded hipline that is usually adjusted for either tuck-in or outside wear.

Self bows play an important part in trimmings, appearing in one or two soft bows, or in half a dozen or more tailored bows. Jabots, wide collars with pleated frills, and shirrings at the neck and hips or down the front are also popular trimmings.

As the holiday season nears, the subject of gifts comes to us, and really there is no trouble to make individual selections, as the shops have set aside several corners to exploit different types of gifts.

Bric-a-brac, accessory and household gifts range from useful decorative kitchen utensils to the most elaborate dining and living room luxuries.

Cosmetics, perfumes, toilet waters and boudoir glassware are shown for the dressing table, and hosiery, gloves, scarfs and handbags of every description for daytime and evening wear. Most attractive atomizers are elaborate, though the original perfume bottles are so shapely one hates to give them up.

The midget umbrella is fitted into a handbag which is most convenient. A handbag of any wanted leather, for instance tan morocco with crocodile trimmings, with an umbrella of brown silk, makes a most attractive gift and a useful one.

Handkerchiefs, always acceptable, come in all the brilliant colors as well as pastel shades. The Irish linen has quarter- or half-inch hems. Narrow hems are preferred, but the wide hem is best where the "hanky" has an embroidered corner.

Novelties include a crepe-de-chine 'kerchief in modernistic pattern, combining many colors, such as blackberry with black and white, shades of green to jade with a fine pin stripe of white, and many patterns of three shades in a block pattern.

In evening 'kerchiefs, the pleated chiffon style is shown in pastel colors, and the plain chiffon or georgette trimmed with either black alençon or ecru lace with five-inch borders. These borders are, in most instances, hem-stitched in a jagged design.

Popular colors include jade with ecru lace, flesh with pearl gray lace, and orchid with matching lace. But the final word is the evening "hanky," monogrammed or edged with brilliants.

The tea-hour glove shows at the wrist drops of clear-colored crystals that give the finish of a little bracelet. Glove styles have almost as much newness as the dress silhouette, in length at least. Length is, of course, the most important style fashion this season, and types are from the "wrist high" to the sixteen-button.

Evening accessories for all occasions are given close attention. The necklace must agree with the neckline of the gown. At this moment, there is considerable attention toward antique designs in necklaces and bracelets. The combination of a short and long strand of pearls fills in the difficult place at the base of the neck. The rounded neckline is effectively repeated in a rhinestone choker.

In other words, the costume jewelry box for formal gowns must contain at least six different types of necklaces and bracelets, if one is to be correctly "lined."

"Do not open until Christmas," in vivid red and green, adds a thrill to the Christmas package, and adds to the excitement incident to discovering the contents.

GLORY IN LABOR.

There's glory in the shuttle's song;
There's triumph in the anvil's stroke;
There's merit in the brave and strong
Who dig the mine or fell the oak.

I doubt if he who lolls his head
Where idleness and plenty meet
Enjoys his pillow or his bread
As those who earn the meals they eat.

Hold up your brow in honest pride,
Though rough and swarth your hands may be!
Such hands are sap-veins that provide
The lifeblood of the nation's tree.
—ELIZA COOK.

NATIVE DAUGHTER NEWS

Initiates Entertained.
Sacramento—La Bandera No. 110 entertained November 15 five new members who came into the Parlor the night Grand President Esther R. Sullivan paid her official visit to all the local Parlors in joint session. In the banquet hall supper was served, and a playlet, "The Three Sardines," was presented for the amusement of the gathering. Gifts were presented the initiates, also to the following grand officers, all residents of Sacramento, who were in attendance: Past Grand Presidents Dr. Eva R. Rasmussen and Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, Grand Trustee Sadie W. Brainard, Grand Outside Sentinel Edna B. Briggs, Supervising Deputy Bessie Leitch, District Deputy Edith Kelly.

The second annual ball, given November 9 by the local Native Daughter and Native Son Parlors for the benefit of the homeless children, was very successful, both financially and socially.

Highly Esteemed.

Wheatland—Grand President Esther R. Sullivan officially visited Camp Far West October 24. The officers exemplified the ritual and were highly complimented. With decorations carrying out the Hallowe'en spirit and colors, dainty refreshments were served. District Deputy Ethel Brock was the toastmistress, and on the Parlor's behalf presented a gift of linen to Miss Sullivan, who organized Camp Far West and is highly esteemed by its members. Flowers were presented Past Presidents Bernice Simpson and Aldine Peckham, in appreciation for faithful service to the Parlor. Among the visitors, in addition to Grand President Sullivan, were Past Grand President Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, Grand Trustees Anna Nixon-Armstrong and Sadie Winn-Brainard, Supervising Deputy Ina Wells, District Deputy Mary Meade and delegations from Lincoln, Marysville and Sacramento.

With Rainbow No. 40 N.S.G.W., Camp Far West sponsored a benefit card party for the homeless children November 14. Quite a crowd attended and a jolly time was enjoyed.

At the banquet following the ceremonies, Charles Redding, treasurer of Marin County, presided. All the grand officers delivered brief talks, and among other speakers were B. J. Brusatori, president Mount Tamalpais; A. R. Pasquiuuel, president Sea Point; Thomas P. Boyd, Manuel Santos and several members of the "big 5."

Mount Tamalpais accepted the invitation of Marinita No. 198 N.D.G.W. to attend a Halloween party October 28. Everyone had a pleasant time. Games and dancing were indulged in and a delicious repast was served.

GEORGE WILLIAM TINNEY.

To the Worthy President, Officers and Members of Palo Alto Parlor No. 216 N. S. G. W.—Your committee on resolutions relating to our late brother, George W. Tinney, beg leave to submit the following:

Death has again entered our midst and taken from us our beloved brother, George William Tinney, who took a deep interest in our Parlor, and who for many years has been a faithful member of the Native Sons of the Golden West.

Resolved, That we deeply mourn and deplore the loss of our beloved brother, but bow in humble submission to the Eternal Father in calling from our midst one who illustrated and exemplified the fraternal principles of Friendship, Loyalty and Charity; that we extend to the family of our deceased brother our deep and heartfelt sympathy in their sorrow and loss, and that we commit them to the care of "Him who doeth all things well;" that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Parlor, that copies be sent to the bereaved family and to The Grizzly Bear.

Fraternally submitted in Friendship, Loyalty and Charity,

F. A. REYNOLDS,
WM. CLEMO,
A. A. QUINN,

THE BIG CITY THAT KNOWS HOW

THERE IS NO DOUBT THAT THE little flower, "Lessingia Chamisso," a member of the aster family seldom found outside of California, would agree with the popular saying that the first hundred years are the hardest.

One hundred years ago Adelbert von Chamisso, a botanist collecting in California, described a new flower belonging to the aster group which he had found growing on the sand hills of old San Francisco in 1816. He established thereby a new genus to which his name has been given.

Since that time a number of other related flowers, undoubtedly belonging to that genus but slightly different from the type species, have been found in California, particularly in the valley region of the southern part of the state. In all, various students have claimed twenty-nine different species of this wild flower. As a result, the "Lessingia" family tree has been very much mixed up, to say the least.

But during August, just one hundred years from the time Chamisso first published his account, the University of California department of botany came to the rescue of the little plant, and investigated the claims of those twenty-nine species to kinship.

As far as John Thomas Howell, graduate student, could discover, twenty-two of the twenty-nine are imposters. There are only seven real species in the genus "Lessingia Chamisso," and sixteen sub-species. The remainder are not in existence. Some of the supposed species were found to be descriptions of the same plant at different stages in its life history.

Howell went into the matter systematically, visiting the districts where the more important species were discovered, and growing many of them in the university hotanical gardens. He has given this wild cousin of the aster a definite place in the list of California's native plants.

SUCCESSFUL AT POLLS.

At the election in San Francisco November 6, the residents of the Bay View district won a great victory by defeating, by a two-to-one vote, the proposal to dispose of garbage by the fill-and-cover process. The following Native Sons were successful candidates for office:

John J. O'Toole, Twin Peaks Parlor No. 214, city attorney; Edward J. Bryant, Twin Peaks Parlor No. 214, tax collector; Angelo J. Rossi, El Dorado Parlor No. 52, James E. Power, Alcalde Parlor No. 154, William J. Stanton, Dolores Parlor No. 208, Victor Canepa, San Francisco Parlor No. 49, James G. McSheehy, Twin Peaks Parlor No. 214, supervisors.

TO COMMEMORATE REBUILDING.

November 4, the San Francisco Board of Supervisors adopted a resolution proposing that in 1931 the city celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the 1906 catastrophe which, for a short time only, stopped its progress. In part, the resolution said: "The rebuilding of San Francisco following the fire of 1906 stands out as one of the most stupendous achievements in modern history. The whole world has paid tribute to the spirit of San Francisco as exemplified in the faith, the courage, the energy and the perseverance of its people in rebuilding their city. On April 18, 1931, will occur the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Phoenix-like rebirth of San Francisco. Therefore, he it resolved, that it is the sense of the Board of Supervisors that a fitting celebration be held in April, 1931, to commemorate the rebuilding of San Francisco."

HOME BREAKFAST WELL ATTENDED.

Past Grand President Pearl Lamb and Claire Ludwig, both of El Pescadero Parlor No. 82 and members of the N.D.G.W. Home Committee, were hostesses at the Sunday morning breakfast at the beautiful Home November 10. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Ludwig, and at its conclusion Past Grand President Lamb, as chairman, welcomed the guests in a speech stressing the value of co-operation. She then introduced Past Grand President Dr. Mariana Bertola, chairman of the Home Committee, who spoke enthusiastically of the progress made in building the edifice and thanked all who had co-operated in the work.

Grand President Esther R. Sullivan, Grand Vice-president Estelle M. Evans, Grand Marshal Evelyn I. Carlson, Past Grand Presidents Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, Mary E. Bell, Addie L. Mosher, Eliza D. Keith, Margaret Grote-Hill and Mae C. Boldeman also presented messages of worth. A very enjoyable feature of the day was the singing of Grand Vice-president Evans, who gave a group of songs, one of which was very beautiful and appropriate; the words and music were composed by Past Grand President Lamb and dedicated to Dr. Bertola. Mr. Coats of Long Beach added enjoyably to the occasion by his singing. The program closed with the "Doxology" by those assembled.

The dining hall was beautifully decorated, and Grand Marshal Carlson and members of Dolores Parlor No. 169 served the tables. This was one of the best attended breakfasts yet given at the Home, there being eighty-five present, representing fifteen Parlors.

NEW YEAR EVE CELEBRATION.

Stanford Parlor No. 76 N.S.G.W. has perfected arrangements for celebrating the going of 1929 and the coming of 1930 with a dinner dance, December 31, which promises to be the outstanding event in the history of the Parlor and is looked forward to by many.

The following committee, appointed by President William E. Weisgerber, has the affair in charge: Arthur T. Poheim (chairman), Louis N. Roesch, Frank F. Morris, Theodore Schmidt, Charles T. O'Kane, Charles W. Dechert and Ewald H. Schmieder.

RED DEVIL ORCHESTRA WAS THERE.

Sequoia Parlor No. 160 N.S.G.W. was the guest October 25 of Orinda Parlor No. 56 N.D.G.W. Among the entertainment features was a motion picture of the Santa Cruz Admission Day parade. Dancing followed, and then a fine supper was served. Cementing the friendship of years, remarks were made by the presidents of both Parlors.

Sequoia entertained at a Hallowe'en party October 28 and Orinda's members were the guests of honor. Dr. W. R. Vizzard was chief gohlin, Dr. Thomas Devlin, Warren Colbert and Nick Ernsner assisting gohlins, Elvin Gossner ghost, and Thomas Barry and Rudy Zecher devil's punch makers. The "Red Devil" orchestra furnished the snappiest dance music a hoof was ever shaken to, and everybody danced until the very last minute. The hall was tastefully decorated in orange and yellow and all the lights were covered with blinking pumpkins.

HIJINKS ENJOYED.

Golden Gate Parlor No. 50 N.D.G.W. had a hijinks, November 6, which was greatly enjoyed. Irene Milan had charge of the program,

WELFARE WORK ENGAGES ATTENTION.

The child welfare committee of Twin Peaks Parlor No. 185 N.D.G.W. made a Hallowe'en visit to the children in the tubercular ward of San Francisco Hospital and presented them with candy, favors and scrapbooks; in turn, the children entertained the visitors. Kay Jensen reported the monthly visit of the veteran welfare committee to Letterman Hospital, where the men were entertained with a movie and a program supplied by Viola Paone, Anne Godfrey and Betty Godfrey; home-made cakes and punch were served.

Very pleasant evenings have been spent by the members, sewing for the homeless children at the homes of Emily Crook, Marian Sullivan and Irene Hagan. The Parlor had a pajama party November 3; many unusual costumes were worn and a real good time was enjoyed. Fourteen members of Twin Peaks attended the November breakfast at the Native Daughter Home and are enthusiastic in their praise.

LOS PASTORES

(FLORENCE DODSON-SCHONEMAN.)

THE SEASON IS PREGNANT WITH thoughts of Christmas as we know it today in our land of "sunshine, fruits and flowers" but, how changed are the customs of this same land in scarcely more than a half-century,—as different as an Easterner's first Christmas with us must be to him. "Los Pastores" was the name given to the play of the nativity brought from Spain as a holiday custom to New Spain, as our west coast was then called.

The midnight mass on Christmas Eve is a prevalent custom in all Catholic countries, and was naturally practiced in New Spain where feasible. One must remember the distances were great between the missions and the large pueblos that boasted a church of their own. Then, too, the mode of travel must be considered. Bullock and cart first, then horse, and not until a very late date the European carriage and passenger stagecoach.

The rancho was absolutely isolated, and unless the hacienda boasted a chapel where mass could be said occasionally by a traveling priest, there was little of the formal religious life as we know it. In many homes, as in the Del Valle at Camulos Rancho, vespers were read by the young women of the household, each in turn having charge of the chapel for a week or a month, to see that it was immaculate always and had the proper floral decoration for the season of the year.

That meant study and thought for the women, for the men were not at home the greater part of the time. So the Christmas season, when they planned to be at home, was an ideal time for the old European custom to be revived in the new country.

Hence, the traveling players of "Los Pastores." Not for a financial consideration did they leave their chosen occupations, but as a religious duty, certainly a pleasant and an edifying one. The lines read or said I cannot tell you, for they were passed down from father to son. Only men took those parts, beardless boys appearing in the roles of the holy women.

Each rancho visited had to prepare a manger, whether it had a chapel or not, and when the players came to give "Los Pastores" they found the stage setting ready. In Old Spain, as in New Spain, for many centuries the players took the parts of the wise men, doing homage to the child born in the manger. It was a serious service, filled with reverence, and so the Spanish-California child came to know it.

Adoration of the Infant Jesus, I dare say, is stronger in the mind of the man or the woman who was a child fifty or seventy-five years ago than in most other Californians. That bit of pageantry visualized for the child of that day what we cannot today hope to portray. The padres, no doubt, had a hand in seeing that the players were properly robed and draped, and that their lines were well rendered before they started off on their Christmas week pilgrimage.

The don to whose home they went first would provide transportation to the next rancho, and so on throughout the week, but only after a celebration of feasting and dancing. The religious duty first, and then the pleasures. That custom prevailed in the home life of all Spanish-California families.

With the Mexican regime came the first changes, when they brought their own customs. Then, with the first American came his custom, and now there is no vestige of those first Christmas customs, except in revivals as programs given by clubs.

The "Play of the Nativity" is presented by many people in many places at the holiday season. In reality, they give "Los Pastores" of Old California, for that is, in truth, the original of the modern play.

CARD PARTIES HELP TO CARRY ON.

Rudecinda Parlor No. 230 N.D.G.W. has been having a series of card parties at the members' homes, and a neat sum has been netted with which to carry on its many activities. Most active in arranging these social functions are President Letitia Sarciaux, Margaret Kreider and Lucia Guzman.

The veteran welfare committee of the Parlor, headed by Margaret Dever, is carrying cheer to many disabled veterans. A large delegation paid a visit to Long Beach November 7, and also participated in the November 23 gathering at Los Angeles. December 5, officers for the January-July term will be elected.

DAUGHTERS EXTEND GREETINGS.

November 15, Grand President Charles L. Dodge called on Sepulveda Parlor No. 263 N.S.G.W. Accompanying him were Grand First Vice-president John T. Newell and Sheriff R. R. Vcale of Contra Costa County. Supper, served under the direction of J. P. Paralieu, preceded the meeting, which was presided over by President Joseph A. Brannen. A number of representatives from other California South Parlors were in attendance.

A pleasing feature of the Parlor session was the appearance of President Letitia Sarciaux, Past President Hazel Raines and Trustee Tina Padilla, who extended greetings on behalf of Rudecinda Parlor No. 230 N.D.G.W. to the grand offices. Short addresses on the Order's upbuilding were made by Grand President Dodge, Grand First Vice-president Newell, Sheriff Veale, Municipal Judge Louis P. Russell and others.

Sepulveda has been presented with its second bowling trophy, won during the recent San Pedro Fraternal Bowling League season; the team members were M. A. Bennett (captain), Dr. C. W. Kocher, John P. Martin Jr. and Stanley A. Wheeler. Several new members have recently been added to the Parlor's membership rolls. In a seven-inning game November 17 at San Bernardino, the baseball nine of No. 263 took a 7-to-5 victory from Arrowhead Parlor No. 110. Among the spectators were Grand First Vice-president Newell and Grand Trustee Ben Harrison. A return game was at once scheduled for December 1, in San Pedro.

Past President Stanley A. Wheeler recently returned from a three weeks' trip to Panama, as a member of a California "goodwill" newspaper delegation. While on the Isthmus the party were elaborately entertained by government and civic organizations. Wheeler, who lives in San Pedro.

(LONG BEACH CHAMBER COMMERCE.)

FOLLOWING THE EXAMPLE OF THE famous capitals of the world, Long Beach, California, unique as the single world exposition city of 1928, is constructing a new auditorium and recreation pier, which bids fair to classify this city by the Pacific oceanside with the resorts of the French Riviera, the New Jersey seaside watering places and the great lake front developments of Chicago.

For this project, the voters of the city at a special election in 1928 voted a bond issue of $2,800,000 and, co-incidental therewith, an additional issue of $2,700,000 harbor improvement bonds, or a total of $5,500,000 initial fund for ocean-front development. For a city of 166,000 population, these are striking expenditures in a program of metropolitan ambition and clearly foreshadow an ultimate future challenging the imagination of city builders.

Long Beach, in a singularly practical way, is "combining business with pleasure," the material with the spiritual, the commercial values with the artistic. It will be interesting to note the outcome of this adventure. It is to the point that it is in keeping with the rationale of the Pacific Southwest Exposition, promoted with outstanding success by Long Beach citizens in 1928. One of the press writers of the exposition voiced this sentiment as follows: "I am persuaded the Pacific Southwest Exposition will prove to be in an impressive sense an arena of demonstration of the fact and power of the spiritual, the artistic and the ideal in all the great achievements that mark the course of the 'Star of Empire' from the borderlands of barbarism to the white temples of cultural civilization."

The new auditorium and recreation pier and its twin, the harbor improvement plan, are in line with this "Long Beach Idea." This ambitious project is under active construction. The plans involve the reclamation of eight acres of filled-in tideland from the sea as a site for this mammoth $3,000,000 civic auditorium and marine park, jutting out into the ocean, with a 3,800-foot protective horseshoe or semi-circular bulkhead—decked with twenty-eight-foot driveway and sidewalk—encircling an additional forty acres of still water.

Construction of the semi-circular bulkhead is of rock and piling. The eight-acre fill, located in the center of this "horseshoe" pier, on which the auditorium and marine park are to be located, will be made solid with a bulkhead enclosure. Within the "horseshoe" enclosure seating facilities—accessible from the pier deck—in stadium effect, will be provided for the thousands of spectators interested in the various aquatic sports to be staged annually. The total ultimate cost is estimated at $5,000,000.

The auditorium, the design of J. Harold MacDowell, world-renowned architect, is planned in three parts: the convention hall or main auditorium, the exhibition and athletic hall, and the theatre. On the ocean-side of the building will be a theatre of Greek design with a glass dome which can be opened in the summer, converting it into an open-air theatre and concert hall. This will seat about 2,000 and will be used for pageants, amateur productions and kindred dramatic and operatic activities. The stage of this theatre can be opened into the stage of the auditorium proper, when desired. Plans provide for an organ room, an aquarium, and facilities for holding eight conventions simultaneously, with a grand total seating capacity of 12,400.

Beauty, utility and adaptability to its unique setting are the primary characteristics of the architect's plan. An imposing facade, with mural decorations symbolizing the romantic origin of California and its progress to the status of a modern commonwealth, is designed as the building's front approach. It is sixty feet in height and twenty feet wide. The architectural motif is Roman. Equally attractive is the design for the southern end of the building, looking out over the still water sheltered by the pier and over the Pacific Ocean beyond.

The site of the eight-acre fill is located at the foot of American avenue, one of the great north and south thoroughfares of the city, while the "horseshoe" structure touches the shore at Pine and Linden avenues—also important thoroughfares—a total shore-line distance of 1,800 feet. Gaps in the protective bulkhead will be provided on the west, east, and south sides, as a medium of circulation in connection with the action of the tides.

The breakwater pier reaches out 2,000 feet into the ocean and will serve as a protection for the fill-in land on which the auditorium and its associate factors are to be erected. This "fill-in" land, containing the auditorium, extends into the ocean in a huge semi-circle and will be surrounded by a beach, beautifully landscaped.

This ambitious project is virile with assets that fit naturally into the recreational environment of the city. The "horseshoe" pier will enhance the amusement features, at the same time eliminating the element of danger to bathers from heavy surf and tidal currents—a safeguard which will appeal especially to children. An artistic aquatic recreational playground will thus be provided in the heart of the city, where many thousands of annual visitors from distant points, as well as the multitudes of local and near-by communities, may enjoy rest, relaxation, recreation and artistic amusement in a picturesque setting by the greatest of oceans.

As a direct result of this large investment, Long Beach looks forward to becoming one of the popular convention cities of the nation. Already actual and tentative bookings of large conventions for 1930 have been made, the date for the completion of the project having been set for the latter part of that year. Supplementing these will be aquatic, athletic and hydro-plane events of the first magnitude, as well as educational, fraternal, business, dramatic, musical and religious gatherings of nation-wide and local character. Long Beach thinks it not beyond possibility to entertain one or both of the major national political conventions of 1932.

In this connection, Long Beach opines that it would be a fine place in which to re-nominate President Hoover, the beloved adopted son of the Golden State; and, it points out, if Governor Smith is again a candidate he will find the Pacific Ocean just as "wringing wet" as the Atlantic.

Psychologists of Long Beach term this gigantic project "An Investment of Optimism" and confidently predict large dividends.

BAZAR GREAT SUCCESS.

Long Beach Parlor No. 154 N.D.G.W. had the pleasure of entertaining, November 7, Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer, District Deputy Florence Dodson-Schoneman and delegations from Rudecinda (San Pedro), Verdugo (Glendale) and Santa Ana Parlors. Bertha Hitt, chairmau of the Parlor's history and landmarks committee, arranged a history questionnaire, and awards were made Mrs. Elsfelder, Dever and Stultz for answering the most questions. District Deputy Schoneman gave an interesting talk on the history of the tamale, "a strictly California product," and Past Grand President Stoermer appealed for a large attendance at the November 23 joint meeting.

The bazar of November 19 was a great financial success, more than a hundred dollars being realized. The "mity nice" dinner attracted about seventy-five people, all of whom voted it very appetizing. December 5 the Parlor will have election of officers and December 19 the annual Christmas party will be held under the chairmanship of Lillian Lasater.

GRAND PRESIDENT N.S. VISITS.

Long Beach Parlor No. 239 N.S.G.W. had a special meeting November 7 to receive a visit from Grand President Charles L. Dodge, who was accompanied by Grand First Vice-president John T. Newell and Sheriff R. R. Veale of Contra Costa County. Previous to the meeting the guests were entertained at supper, which was attended by the following members of the Parlor: President Paul McFadyen, District Deputy Edgar C. Crowell, Superior Judge Percy Hight, Wm. Earl Hann, District Deputy Frank B. Hart, Elmer L. Hann, Dr. Raymond Kelso, Dr. Ernest Weld, Ernest Porter, Francis H. Gentry, Stephen G. Long, N. E. Porter. Representatives from several Parlors attended the meeting, which was given over largely to speech-making, Grand First Vice-president Newell acting as master of ceremonies, and addresses being made by Grand President Dodge, Sheriff Veale, Judge Hight and others. The following day the Grand President and party were taken for an auto tour of Long Beach.

The Parlor is adding to its membership right along, and December 12 another large class of candidates will be initiated at the regular meeting place in the City Hall, Broadway and Pacific. It is hoped all neighboring Parlors will be largely represented at the initiation, as No. 239 is desirous of making the occasion an outstanding 1929 event.

GRIZZLY GROWLS

THE GRAND TOTAL ASSESSED VALUE of all property in California's fifty-eight counties for the year 1929, according to State Controller Ray L. Riley, is $9,885,903,184—an increase of $1,762,694,591 over the 1928 total of $8,123,208,593. The greater portion of this increase originated in the state's two billion-dollar counties, Los Angeles and San Francisco, the former registering an increase of $865,864,530 compared with 1928, and the latter $529,233,822, a total of $1,396,098,352.

The total indebtedness of all the counties increased $6,226,092.91—from $141,387,239.03 in 1928 to $147,613,331.94 in 1929. Number of acres of land assessed increased 1,073,590—from 51,913,932 in 1928 to 52,987,522 in 1929.

In 1928, "money and solvent credits" totaling $98,709,370 were listed under one head, while in 1929 they are listed separately, the "money" being shown as $3,872,801, and "solvent credits" $411,906,904, a total of $415,779,705, which is $317,070,335 in excess of the 1928 figures. Of the 1929 "money" in the whole state, $3,872,801, it is noticeable that $2,280,425 is credited to Los Angeles, and $978,522 to San Francisco. In those two counties, therefore, is $3,258,947 of the state's taxable "money," with the balance, $613,854, distributed among eighteen other counties. Thirty-eight counties, it appears, have no "money."

The 1929 report has a new listing, "stocks, bonds, notes, etc.," the total for the whole state being $1,106,413,340. Twelve of the counties, however, have none such. Los Angeles and San Francisco are also credited with the bulk of these, $633,922,685 for the former, and $282,798,274 for the latter. Here are the other groups of assessment totals for the years 1929 and 1928:

Value of real estate—$3,972,003,410 (1929), $3,791,316,468 (1928).

Value of improvements on real estate—$2,135,195,390 (1929), $1,955,864,996 (1928).

Value of personal property—$925,822,961 (1929), $933,272,697 (1928).

Value of non-operative property (which includes all those items above referred to)—$8,555,214,806 (1929), $6,779,163,531 (1928).

Value of property assessed on operative roll—$1,005,903,050 (1929), $1,016,107,903 (1928).

Total value of property as returned by county auditors (which is a total of the operative and non-operative property)—$9,561,117,856 (1929), $7,795,271,434 (1928).

Value of railroads as assessed by the State Board of Equalization—$324,785,328 (1929), $327,937,159 (1928).

From the 1929 report, these facts are garnered: San Francisco has the least, 29,888, and Kern the most, 3,645,248, acres of land assessed. San Francisco has the highest, $3.94, and Los Angeles the lowest, $1.375 inside $1.574 outside, tax rate. San Francisco has the greatest indebtedness, $93,689,700, and the following counties are free of debt: Amador, Calaveras, Humboldt, Inyo, Madera, Mariposa, Mono, Nevada, Placer, Shasta, Sierra, Siskiyou, Tuolumne and Yuba.

Los Angeles is the state's wealthiest county, its 1929 grand total being $4,522,926,824; the

America's Finest Mausoleum

A Home Institution

Cherry Boulevard and San Antonio Drive

SUNNYSIDE MAUSOLEUM was primarily built for people of cultured tastes. Creed . . . and rank . . . and wealth are forgotten in the quiet dignity that pervades its peaceful corridors. Here are crypts of polished Yule marble within the reach of people moderately circumstanced . . . and wonderful de luxe sections and family rooms which offer all the advantages of the private mausoleum at a fraction of the cost.

SUNNYSIDE is the first mausoleum in the world to be equipped with Deagan Tower Chimes and a Pipe Organ. Sunnyside Chapel is the most beautiful chapel to be found in any mausoleum.

There are no shams in SUNNYSIDE MAUSOLEUM; no artificial stone is used. Corridor on corridor . . . tier on tier of exquisite American and European marbles. The bronze gates are heavy wrought bronze. The woodwork is solid mahogany. The windows are imported Belgian art glass. Sunnyside Mausoleum has been built for the ages.

1928 total was $3,655,062,294. It has now 1,011,153 acres of land assessed; in 1928, 1,275,115. Its indebtedness increased from $10,007,465 in 1928 to $10,200,562.04 in 1929. Approximately 46 percent of all the state's taxable property is located in this one county.

San Francisco, the only city-and-county subdivision, is the state's second wealthiest county. Its 1929 grand total is $1,585,101,520; the 1928 total was $1,055,867,698. Its indebtedness increased from $87,463,600 in 1928 to $93,689,700 in 1929.

These two, as heretofore stated, are the only counties in California in the billion-dollar (ten-figure) assessed valuation class. In 1928, there were ten counties in the nine-figure class. This year there are twelve, including in the order of their assessed wealth: Alameda, San Diego, Orange, Kern, Fresno, Sacramento, San Joaquin, Santa Cruz, Santa Barbara, San Bernardino, Ventura, Contra Costa. San Diego jumped from $140,624,687 in 1928 to $264,362,251 in 1929. Following are the 1929 and 1928 grand totals for each of California's fifty-eight counties:

Advocating registration of aliens, Paul Armstrong, district director of naturalization for the Federal Government, recently addressing the immigration section of the Commonwealth Club of San Francisco, said:

"Registration has been opposed as 'un-American.' Whether this be the fact is largely a matter of definition. There would seem to be no objection to registration on the ground that the liberty of the people is likely to be infringed. Aliens are coming in despite all efforts to keep them out. . . . The demand for admission is continuous and clamorous. Those who cannot get visas go to Mexico or Canada and then 'hop the border.'

"The problem of ridding the country of illegal entrants is a serious one. There is now no adequate provision for a border control. Smuggling is generally practiced; it has been reduced, but not controlled. Secretary Davis places the number of illegal entries at 200,000 per year. Thousands of criminally minded and mentally unfit persons are now present in the country, because of the lack of adequate registration and deportation laws.

"Certain alien groups with purposes opposed to this government are resisting any effort to strengthen the law. The most effective method of handling the matter of law enforcement appears to be some scheme of registration."

Having been successful, with the aid of disloyal and dollar-worshipping White citizens of the state, in acquiring, unlawfully, thousands of acres of California's finest farming lands, the Japs are now invading other fields of endeavor.

Their latest is to incorporate an oil company, with headquarters in Los Angeles, to engage in the activities of a general oil company, and, in addition, to act as brokers. Eventually, those who have been aiding and encouraging the Japs—of course, when they themselves are not affected,—will get their bellies full-and-more of the "nice little Brown men."

Clubs and public eating places which furnish the tools and accompaniments for serving booze should heed a recent decision of the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, for some day the prohibition law may be impartially, honestly and effectively enforced. The decision is to the effect: A hotel dining-room in which guests bring and consume their own intoxicants and where they are furnished with glasses, mineral waters and ice by the management, it having knowledge of the presence of the intoxicants but not itself selling any or keeping any for sale, may amount to a nuisance and be abated under the nuisance provisions of the National Prohibition Act.

Out of 11,000 movie extras registered in Los Angeles last year, an average of but 756 worked each day for an average daily wage of $8.94. Only 133 men and 87 women worked more than two days a week. This information is contained in a report made by the director of the California Department of Industrial Relations, November 2.

It would appear, therefore, that instead of the thousands flocking to Los Angeles to work in the movies, they had better seek other positions in other localities—that is, if they are desirous of making an honest living. There are far too many idle people now in the "Angel City," which accounts largely for the crime-record there.

An exhibit recently on the floor of the United States Senate, listing the foreign valuation and the selling price in this country of a number of imported articles, shows the percentage of profit allegedly made by importers, and is extremely interesting.

For instance, alencon lace; the foreign cost is $1.25, the landed cost $2.50, the retail price in these good old United States $9.50. Here are some more: colored linen damask set, $14.00, $20.00, $59.00; embroidered screen, $7.03, $13.92, $45.00. And there are numerous other articles, much in demand, where the selling profit is as enormously great.

But this one takes the "cake:" metal vases, made in France, cost the large sum of 98c there, and $1.46 landed here. They sell in this country for $50, a profit percentage of but 3.325.

HOLLYWOOD DIRECTIONAL SIGN.

The hotel bureau of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce has erected and maintains a sign directing San Fernando road traffic, Los Angeles bound, to turn right at Lankershim boulevard for Hollywood. This sign is answering a great need, and is sending much additional traffic through Hollywood on the way to Los Angeles. The sign consists of the word "Hollywood" in huge rose letters, with an electric blue arrow pointing to Hollywood.

the Parlor now located in Sacramento as superintendent of the State Motor Patrol, was among those present. Preceding the meeting, which was an enthusiastic one, the Parlor entertained at supper. Three candidates were initiated, and a splendid program of vaudeville numbers was presented.

December 9, Santa Monica Bay will feature a past presidents night, to be preceded by a lobster supper, starting at 7 o'clock. In January, a night will be set aside in honor of the charter members. The membership is steadily increasing, by initiations every meeting; with District Deputy Eldred L. Meyer, who is president of the Parlor, presiding, the ritual is exemplified in a highly creditable manner. No. 267 is sponsoring a troop of Boy Scouts of America, who were the Parlor's guests at a supper and entertainment November 25.

NEW COURSE.

Reseda—Cahuenga Parlor No. 268 N.S.G.W. started on a new course November 1 with the installation of a complete corps of new officers. District Deputy Al Cron was on hand, and installed Jesse A. Richardson as president and Carrol S. Driscoll as secretary. The Parlor will conduct a membership drive in the San Fernando Valley, its field of activity. Meetings are now being held every Friday in Masonic Hall.

HONOR RECOGNIZED.

Hollywood Parlor No. 196 N.S.G.W. entertained November 18 in honor of Henry G. Bodkin, recently elected a governor of the State Bar Association, and many of the old timers were out to pay their respects. John Roy Stewart, son of William Wallace Stewart, California Pioneer and an early-day El Dorado County sheriff, was received into membership.

FAMILIARIZING WITH HISTORY.

Members of Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W. are becoming very familiar with the accomplishments and adventures of the early explorers whose discoveries were tied to the destinies of what is now the Golden State of California.

Mrs. Catherine A. O'Brien is in charge of the history class, which meets with a large attendance the second Tuesday of each month at 11 a. m. at the Parlor's new headquarters in the Friday Morning Club building. In well-written papers, tribute has been paid Columbus, Balboa, Magellan, Cortez and Sir Francis Drake.

At the luncheons which follow, well-known citizens are giving talks along the lines of the project of Californiana to erect a statue to Felipe de Neve, founder of Los Angeles.

FEATHERED ARISTOCRATS ARE CATALINA ISLAND ATTRACTION.

A bird apartment-house, tenanted by feathered aristocrats of the bird world, has been opened to the public as an addition to the extensive Catalina Island aviaries. Among the rare varieties of birds recently collected for the new bird-house are the king bird of paradise, the lesser bird of paradise, almost extinct in its native habitat, New Guinea, owing to trapping for its gorgeous plumage, and the Wilson bird of paradise.

Among other rare birds are a palm, or great black cockatoo, seldom kept alive in captivity; the gorgeously tri-colored lorie, a fluent conversationalist; a pair of yellow-breasted toucan with bills larger than hodies and brilliantly colored. Also, a pair of electus parrots, noted for the difference of plumage of the sexes. The female wears the brighter color, a brilliant red with blue wings, while the male is a vivid green with blue wings; the male hatches and rears the young, leaving his mate to enjoy the frivolities of the social whirl of bird-life.

Smaller birds are the rare and exquisite Lady Gould finch, in plumage scintillating as if studded with jewels; zebra finches, gold finches, the rare shafttail, hyacinth parrakeets and a myriad of other dainty feathered stars. The new bird-house is so constructed that, although thousands of visitors may pass through, the birds remain undisturbed yet in full view. All compartments are built on an elevation and allow the birds to perch above the heads of their admirers and, as in nature, confident of their security.

CITRUS FRUITS RETURN MILLIONS TO CALIFORNIA GROWERS.

California's tremendous citrus crop for the 1928-1929 season, the largest in the history of the industry, brought the growers $118,874,102, according to a report of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange. The crop totaled 88,010 carloads of oranges, lemons and grapefruit.

Shipments through the exchange totaled 65,417 cars, 51,266 of which were oranges, 13,151 lemons, and 1,000 grapefruit. The California South Navel orange crop was the largest ever marketed, and the Valencia shipments were 33 percent greater than in the previous record-season of 1926-27.

Roses Tournament — Pasadena, Los Angeles County, will stage its annual Tournament of Roses, which has won world-wide fame, January 1, 1930.

A Forest Saved—"A Fire Prevented Is a Forest Saved," is the prize-winning slogan in a contest conducted by the California State Chamber of Commerce. It was submitted by Mrs. M. Anck of Santa Monica, Los Angeles County.

BE A BELL RINGER!

IN THE OLDEN DAYS ANYONE COULD BE a bell ringer. Sometimes a citizen had to pay for the privilege, and if a man abused the honor he had to pay a fine. In All Saints' church at Hastings these words were written: "This is a helfry that is free, for all those that civil be, and if you please to chime or ring it is a very pleasant thing."

All through history from the sixteenth century, which was the golden age of bells, chimes have called out to people their cheerful messages—usually telling a story. For example, when the old year was departing the bells would be tolled in sadness for the dying year—then when 12 o'clock had struck the merry peals shouted forth their welcome to the new year.

And it is interesting to realize that the cup given for prizes in sports or deeds of bravery is, in reality, a bell inverted. Truly, the bell has always been a happy symbol and bell ringing suggests picturesque tales of all times.

It seems fitting that on the gay little Christmas seal for 1929 a bell ringer should be portrayed. He is tugging at the heavy bell, ringing in health, a joy in living, for the new year.

Each year the seal is decorative and brings its message of health at the Christmas season to remind people that sickness can be prevented. So well known have these stamps become that it is interesting, indeed, to realize they originated in a small way only twenty-two years ago.

In 1907 the first seals were sold in this country to help build a tuberculosis pavilion in the State of Delaware. Miss Emily P. Bissell had read about a postal clerk in Denmark whose idea of decorating Christmas mail with the stamps to secure money for a children's hospital in Copenhagen appealed to her. Through her efforts the sum of $3,000 was raised that first year. From a small beginning, then, the seal sales have grown and flourished every year until today this cheerful method of raising money is an annual event without which the Christmas season would not be complete.

Thanks to this tiny Christmas seal, state after state has been organized to attack tuberculosis with a scientific program. Together, led by the national body, they have brought into existence nearly all of the present-day community machinery that combats this disease. Money raised by the Christmas seal is not sufficient to build and conduct hospitals, clinics, open-air schools and other necessary measures, so the tuberculosis association's program consists largely of preventive work and of arousing public opinion to the need for institutions that can be maintained by official agencies, state, county, municipal or federal.

The Christmas seal campaign is an intensive educational campaign which has helped to bring about the passing and enforcement of health laws; the placing of tuberculosis specialists and nurses in many communities; the circulating of printed matter on disease prevention in schools, homes and factories. An active public interest in tuberculosis control has been instigated among civic, political, commercial, social and religious groups.

The funds raised from the annual seal sales have always been used in the communities where the seals were purchased. Only five percent is contributed to the National Tuberculosis Association, which acts as a clearing house, or, in other words, as the hub in the big wheel of coordinated health work. In this way a feeling of personal and proprietary interest is created in those who support the sales.

And this support is stupendous! Advertising agencies, motion-picture theatres, editors, publishers, women's clubs, businessmen's clubs, parent-teacher associations, labor unions and lodges have given such generous co-operation to the national and local tuberculosis associations that, without their help, the programs could never be so successfully carried through.

Indeed, that loyal help given by rich and poor, children and grown-ups, individuals and groups is of more permanent benefit than the money itself. For it means that all people have been made aware of the fact that sickness prevention is possible—that health is purchasable. The educational value of the seal is inestimable.

This year again the seal carries its message of health throughout the country. Every one in December has a chance to be a bell ringer as in the olden days. "Ring in a year of health with the merry Christmas seal," is the story that goes out into the world upon millions of letters and packages this joyous Christmas season.

WHEN MARGERY CAME HOME

Davy stepped briskly forward and extended a band that quivered with excitement. He could utter no word in his emotion. Margery Boynton hesitated for a moment, then smiling, she drew the old partners to her side, giving each a hand, and cried delightedly, "You are Davy and Dan'l Price. How glad I am to see you both," she said.

Light dawned on Dan'l at last. "Well, well," he cried radiantly. "This is Davy's secret. Little Margery, but I'm glad to see you. You didn't forget the old fellows after all." He could be happy now, a great load having been lifted from his heart, and he walked home with a lighter step, but he never revealed his misgivings of the days previous to Davy.

Margery Boynton raised the shade the next morning, hoping to see the sun throw its golden glory over the tops of the rampart hills. Watching, she reviewed the years of labor so fraught with rich requital, and whispered a prayer of gratitude for the gift of song. And breathed a supplication for one whose life had chimed with her own for thirteen short years—but she must lay away the past, the future beckoned with a royal hand.

All that day she wandered through scenes of childish years—across the diggings by the old wagon road where the ox-teams had bent, creaking beneath huge loads of lumber, down to the old mill with its great saws, rusty and silent. Pausing beneath a cedar tree, she seemed to hear the mother-bird scolding the curious child in fierce, chattering bird language, and to hear the saucy girl say mockingly, "Scold away, old mother-bird. I am coming tomorrow and tomorrow and another tomorrow. I will not harm your babies, but I must see them each day until they fly."

Great mounds of boulders still lay heaped in the old places. Stepping from stone to stone, she found the spot where a blacksmith shop had burned long ago—where she and an only brother had salvaged the quicksilver, lost from a broken tank. After gathering the precious fluid they had hastened to Uncle Tommy Julian, the fat little storekeeper, and bartered their prize for a few dimes. The blonde-haired brother had passed out of her life, and two handsome lads were her charges now.

The singer lingered within the old schoolhouse, its bare windows blazing like sheets of flame in the light of the evening sun. The building had escaped the inroads of the big monitors, and the miners held the place in a sort of reverence—the childish voices seemed to echo there. The cobwebby blackboard held a line from Shakespeare; the inkstained desks and the whittled seats were veiled in dust. Soon winter snows would crush the walls, and the old schoolhouse would disappear. The robins would sing undisturbed in the branches of the cedar beside the door.

Friends arranged a little gathering that evening, and in the soft lamplight Margery Boynton broke into song. Christmas hymns, old favorites, ending at last with the sweet notes of "Auld Lang Syne." Quivering notes, cracked voices, mingled with her clear tones, and as the words rang out "We'll take a cup o' kindness yet, for Auld Lang Syne," a man came hurriedly from the shadows and held out his hands in anxious appeal.

A man, strong and rugged, handsome and clean cut. "Margery," he cried hoarsely, "for Auld Lang Syne, forgive!" His lips were drawn, his eyes haggard. The singer crept near, white and numb "Jack!"—It was just a whispered breath "After all these years, I find you here."

Oblivious to all else, they stood gazing into each other's eyes. The rugged faces of the people, the clouds of misunderstanding were swept away.

Margery took the roughened hand in her soft ones and, bending, kissed the toll-stained fingers. "Jack," she murmured, "come home. It has been so long." Turning to the watchers, she smiled and, brushing away the tears, said:
"Friends, I came home to spend the happiest Christmas of my life. I must thank Davy and Dan'l for my Christmas present. A Merry Christmas to you all."

Somewhere a violin struck up the "Virginia Reel" and away they went, merrily up and down the long dining room, and some time in the wee hours before daybreak Davy and Dan'l trotted home, untroubled by stiffleu' or rheumatiz, each wishing the other innumerable Merry Christmases.

AROUND THE HORN IN 1849

29th. We took the southeast trades on Tuesday, the 31st. Everything in the shape of sails was spread to the breeze and without shifting a sail we moved rapidly along for upward of 4,000 miles. This was the finest part of our voyage. The weather was beautiful and our company amused themselves at different games, adopting something new every day. Our attention was often attracted by the cry of 'there she blows,' to view the huge monsters of the mighty deep. On the morning of the 16th of August we spoke to the whale ship 'Lydia' of Fairhaven.
We were visited by the captain and eight of his crew. They stopped with us to dinner. We entertained them with the best the 'Nautilus' could afford, we gave them papers, books and tobacco, and they presented us with two large terrapins, or turtles, taken at the Galapagos Islands. As our guests left our vessel we favored them with 'The Star Spangled Banner,' by our band, they cheering us heartily in return.

"On the 17th, preparation was made for repairing and painting our ship. The sailors were busy at the rigging, whilst most of our company were busy scraping the hull. Mr. Edmund N.
Bennett of Lowell, Massachusetts, was repairing the sheathing along her fore chains. He was standing upon a scaffold suspended over the side of the ship. After finishing his job he stripped himself for to take a swim. I lay in the fore castle reading to the sailors when the cry rang through the ship, 'man overboard!' Our vessel was moving at the rate of five knots per hour.
Our captain ordered the helm a starboard and planks, ladders and wheelbarrows were thrown to his assistance. As he passed astern of the vessel we lowered a boat and three of our sailors went after him. All eyes were fastened upon him as he drifted astern. It was but twenty minutes from the time he went over till he was brought on board the ship, but that grim monster had selected its victim, and Bennett was no more. We hoisted his body on board, not knowing he was dead. Doctors McNaughton, Waller, Clark, Neill and Cole took his body in charge and all efforts to restore life were unavailing.
They worked upon his body for upward of an hour, but all to no use. The flickering taper had expired and the ministering angel had borne from earth his lovely prize. He was drowned in latitude 3° 26" south, longitude 105° 10" west, was huried on the 18th, latitude 1° 44" south, longitude 107° 16" west. God deliver me from ever witnessing another death at sea. Well may they call a ship the house of death. There is no chance to stroll from the presence of a corpse as there is on shore. The funeral ceremony was performed by Doctor Cole. We sewed the body in canvas and placed weights to his feet and consigned his body beneath the waters of the mighty deep. I then wrote the following:

"Around his corpse we stood to take one solemn view,

BOOK REVIEWS

"A SHORT HISTORY OF CALIFORNIA." By Rockwell D. Hunt, Ph.D., and Nellie Van de Grift Sanchez; Thomas Y. Crowell Company, New York, Publisher; Price, $4.50.

This volume, by Dr. Rockwell D. Hunt, dean of the graduate school, University of Southern California, and author of "California the Golden," etc., and Nellie Van de Grift Sanchez, author of "Spanish and Indian Place Names of California," etc., is exactly what the title indicates—a short history of California. Quoting from the preface:

"So far as the present writers are aware, there has not been published for many years a serious single volume history dealing with the whole course of California's development, suitable at once for the use of the student and for the more thoughtful type of general reader. In writing this book, therefore, the endeavor has been to relate the story of California from the beginning to the present time in succinct form, not too long for the student or the busy reader but with sufficient detail to reveal the atmosphere of the successive phases. The authors have desired to do equal justice to the Spanish pioneers who fought their way to the discovery through the perils of the sea; to those of the Anglo-Saxon race who, with equal courage and pertinacity, struggled over mountain and desert to the same goal; and, finally, to those coming afterward who by their genius and industry built up a great commonwealth on this western shore."

The work is divided into seven parts: "The Torch of Civilization," "The Spanish Pioneers," "Under the Republic of Mexico," "Acquisition by the United States," "The Achievement of Social Order," "A Commonwealth Growing in Greatness" and "Political and Social Problems." There are several illustrations and four maps. All of the history facts, and also the illustrations, have appeared, from time to time, in The Grizzly Bear during its nearly twenty-three years of continuous publication. Among the most valuable portions of the book are several appendices, an index and, at the close of each chapter, suggested references for further reading.

To those who would acquaint themselves with the salient history facts and the growth of California, and to those who, acquainted with the state's past, would possess an authentic reference work on the subject, "A Short History of California" is highly recommended.—C.M.H.

SAN PEDRO

is marine editor of the "Los Angeles Evening Herald." Another native son arrived the latter part for October at the Wilmington home of Joseph J. Kareney, a member of Sepulveda. Eleven members of the Parlor attended the party of Los Angeles Parlor No. 45 November 14.

Landmark Restoration—California is about to restore the historic stockade at Fort Ross, Sonoma County, the State Division of Architecture having awarded a contract for the work.

Pay our respect, that last farewell adieu,
To him who once an ornament did stand
The brightest trophy of our little band.
With heartfelt wish he left his native home,
His wife, his children, o'er the sea to roam
To that fair land where oft we have been told Embedded lies that earthly treasure, gold.
Ah, oft shall memory bring to mind that morn
I saw enshrouded lay his noble form.
With piteous eye each friend around did weep,
As we consigned his body to the deep.

"We finished painting and repairing in a few days, and with the fine progress we were making northward we expected to be in San Francisco without any more difficulty. On the morning of the 25th of September, between the hours of 3 and 4, our vessel was moving along smoothly through the water, when we were struck by what is called a white squall. Like the noise of so much thunder, our fore topmast, fore topgallant mast, fore topsail, fore topgallant sail, main topgallant mast, main topgallant sail and royal came tumbling to the deck. We rushed on deck, first supposing we had struck a rock, but soon discovered our difficulty. Daylight soon made its appearance and all fell to clearing the wreck. We rigged up a jury mast and before night we had a fore topsail set. We banged about on the coast till the morning of the 3rd of October, when we dropped our anchor in front of the town of San Francisco, being 63 days from Tuckawana and 222 from New York.

"I soon was on shore to view the wonders of the golden land spread along the borders of the bay. For upward of a mile are small buildings and tents that rent for enormous prices. A small tent 14 by 20 brings $500 per month. Wages are high, from $12 to $15 per day, and board is $14 per week. Laborers get a dollar an hour. Everybody has plenty of money. Goods, if you wish to purchase, are high, but if you wish to sell, you can't get cost for them. Vegetables are sold by the pound. Potatoes are worth three shillings a pound, onions six, fresh beef two shillings; dried apples are $75 a barrel. My goods I sold for less than half what they cost in Albany. Clothing is cheaper in this place than it is in New York, the market being overstocked. Tobacco is worth ten cents a pound, delivered on shore. They use the tobacco boxes for posts, on which they set their buildings. Lumber is worth from two to five hundred dollars a thousand feet. Mr. Wallace, one of our directors, sold seventeen dozen shovels, after paying $50 freight on them, for $75. The market is overstocked with almost every article. There are upward of 300 ships laying in the bay; besides, large numbers of small crafts have gone up the river. Gold is found in abundance, and we are preparing ourselves for the mines."

"It is well for a man to respect his own vocation whatever it is, and to think himself bound to uphold it, and to claim for it the respect it desires."—Charles Dickens.

SNOW FALLS IN LOS ANGELES.

A discovery expected to be of value in the study of meteorology, has been announced by Dr. John Mead Adams, associate professor of physics at the University of California at Los Angeles—the making of snowflakes. While the task may seem comparatively simple, he began his work six years ago, entering a field which, up to that time, had not been touched by scientific investigation.

Dr. Adams believes that snow crystals are built up from some smaller crystals through the action of kinetic or electrical energy, but as yet he has discovered no definite proof of this during his experiments. As the snow crystals are formed they drift down upon a black cloth, properly cooled, to preserve them for a sufficient time to allow for a microscopic study and for photographing.

"LANGSDORFF'S NARRATIVE OF THE REZANOV VOYAGE TO NUEVA CALIFORNIA IN 1806."

The Private Press of Thomas C. Russell, 1734 Nineteenth Ave., San Francisco; Price, $15.00.

This volume, a companion to "The Rezanov Voyage to Nueva California in 1806," published by Russell in 1926, is a new and corrected English edition of the account of the voyage as given by Georg Heinrich von Langsdorff, born in 1774 and graduated as a physician and surgeon.

As plenipotentiary of the Russian American Company, Count Rezanov decided to visit the northwest coast of America and, "not deeming it expedient to journey amongst the rugged, uncultivated and inhospitable northwest coasts of America without the attendance of a physician," made very attractive proposals to Dr. Langsdorff to accompany him, and he accepted.

Aboard the brig "Maria," they arrived August 26, 1805, at Sitka, or New Archangel, then "quite in its infancy." Conditions not being encouraging, the "Juno," an American ship at anchor there, was purchased, and in it Rezanov and Langsdorff departed, March 8, 1806, for San Francisco, to procure supplies. After a voyage of thirty-two days, they arrived at San Francisco, April 8, and were hospitably received and entertained. Early in May, Rezanov having been successful, after much trouble and negotiation, in getting a quantity of supplies aboard the "Juno," the party set sail for Sitka, arriving there June 9. Ten days later Langsdorff, having "been long enough at Sitka, and tired of living on fish, shell-fish and sea-dogs," deserted his benefactor and returned to Russia.

The work is largely devoted to the observations of Langsdorff, who was a student of natural history as well as a physician, during his visit in and about San Francisco, and those observations are most interestingly recorded. "In no other place visited by our expedition did more obstacles present themselves in my natural history researches than in Nueva California," and then he relates some of the annoyances. He refers to the geography of the country, as well as to the condition and the habits of the inhabitants. "Sufficient attention is not paid to the conservation of health in Nueva California. . . . Childbirth seems to be very easy among the Spanish women. . . . The Indian women, it is said, die frequently in childbirth." He visited Mission San Jose by water, and says: "The site of the establishment is exceedingly well chosen, and the common opinion is that the Mission will in a few years be one of the richest in Nueva California."

Referring to the romance of Rezanov and Dona Concepcion Arguello, daughter of the San Francisco commandante, Langsdorff says: "Our intimate association daily with the Arguello family, the music and dancing, the sports, aroused in the mind of Rezanov some new and important speculations. These led to the formation of a plan of a very different nature from the original scheme for the establishment of commercial relations. The bright sparkling eyes of Dona Concepcion had made upon him a deep impression, and pierced his inmost soul. He conceived the idea that through a marriage with the daughter of the commandante of the Presidio de San Francisco a close bond would be formed for future business intercourse between the Russian American Company and the provincia of Nueva California. He had therefore decided to sacrifice himself, by wedding Dona Concepcion, to the welfare of his country, and to bind in friendly alliance both Spain and Russia.

"The first obstacle in the way to such a union was the difference between the religions of the parties. But to a philosophic head like that of Rezanov this was by no means insurmountable. The governor, however, called his attention to the critical political situation in Europe, and the well-known suspicious nature of the Spanish government, and gave him little hope of support in his trade speculations. Rezanov thereupon assured the governor that immediately on his return to Saint Petersburg he himself, as an ambassador extraordinary from the imperial Russian court, would go to Madrid so that every possible misunderstanding between the two courts would be obviated. Thereafter he would sail from some Spanish port to Vera Cruz and Mexico, and finally come on to San Fran-

NEEDED, A LEADER!

Arthur Richard Hinton

(RAMONA PARLOR N.S.G.W.)

NEVER BEFORE HAS THE CAUCASIAN race, and our own country in particular, stood in such need of a leader as they stand today. Never before has there been such a need of a Moses to lead us from the perilous position we occupy in the face of the world's rising tide of color. And no part of the Caucasian world is more seriously menaced by this threat to White supremacy than is our own California.

The White race is divided as never before by international hates, and nations are divided internally more and more all the time by class hatred, socialism and capitalism in opposition, and religious and national minorities within the territory of the various European states. At home, we are engaged in a strife over prohibition which, some thoughtful observers are already suggesting, may end disastrously, possibly in civil war.

First of all the evils that threaten our people is the growing tendency of large groups to lay aside not only national patriotism but even racial solidarity and pride, and substitute for these qualities so essential to our safety a diluted cosmopolitanism that embraces not all White nations but also the inferior races as equal to ourselves. Some in practice go even further—although they will probably deny it in speech when directly confronted with the charge—and yield to aliens in race a deference even superior to that which they give to their own race and country.

Theodore Roosevelt said, "A man who loves other countries as much as his own is on a moral par with a man who loves other women as much as his own wife." The great American's words apply with still greater force to the White man who loves the Yellow, the Black and the Brown as much as he does his own people.

Second of the evils that threaten White supremacy, and may some day threaten even our equality in the world, is pacifism, a logical companion to the breaking down of national patriotism and racial pride. And in this dangerous move our country is actually taking the lead!

Disarmament of the White nations is simply surrender to the Colored races, just as another world war of the Whites is likely to place us at the mercy of the Yellows, the Blacks and the Browns. Man has always fought, and he always will. Our supremacy, even our equality and safety, today depend more than ever upon modern armament, land, sea and air, and upon the strengthening of the fighting spirit that has, until now, maintained Caucasian supremacy throughout the ages and has helped to make America the nation that it is. Do away with modern armament, and we give all the advantages to the inferior races, who have everything to gain and little or nothing to lose in a struggle.

We need a leader, therefore, who will have the courage to stand for just the opposite of the trend now seen everywhere, and who will have the qualities that will enable him to carry the people with him. But where is a leader to be found? Nowhere does he appear today. Our own country has failed to obtain, even to seek, in governmental service our best talent. Somewhere there may be such a leader in our country but, if so, he has not yet come forward.

Abroad, there is no world leader in sight. Great Britain has no statesman of world caliber; its present leader is a factional chief, a class leader. France is occupied with attempts to throttle Germany, and thus prevent any healing of war wounds; with its White population dwindling away at home so much that foreign workmen are necessary for many industries, it has become the foremost advocate among nations of the equality of inferior races. Italy has no one but Mussolini, a class leader maintaining by force a precarious dictatorship, which fact alone disqualifies him as a world leader. While present conditions exist, no German, however great, can aspire to anything more than the work of salvaging his own country from the grip of the Versailles treaty. Under the Bolshevik regime, Russia has not only eliminated itself and its leaders from any consideration in the matter of White leadership, but has actually turned its face to the East and has been seeking to lead the Yellows against the Whites.

In 1894, an Italian army was routed in Abyssinia, and from many quarters of Europe and America came expressions of deep concern lest the event might damage the prestige of the Whites, regardless of nationality. How sentiment has changed since then!

We surrendered voluntarily our extra-territorial rights in Japan many years ago. All European nations have done so. Japan has on numerous occasions been admitted to complete equality with the White nations in diplomatic gatherings; Japanese troops fought side by side on an equality with White troops in the Boxer rebellion; in the World war British soldiers fought under Japanese command against the Germans in China. During the Russo-Japanese war we gave our sympathy largely to Japan, failing to recognize that the struggle was essentially one of the Yellow race against the White race, and that Russia was then our champion, although a very poor one.

The World war ended with Germany and Austria crushed, but their Asiatic ally, Turkey, emerged from the conflict stronger than at any time during the last four centuries, strong enough to defy the White race and to deprive forcibly the feebly protesting nations of Europe and America of the extra-territorial jurisdiction that for centuries protected their people, residing for any lawful purpose in Turkey, from the greed, corruption and centuries-out-of-date procedure of the Ottoman courts.

During the Boer war, Great Britain refused to use its Asiatic troops against its White opponents, but in the World war this policy was reversed, and East Indians fought even upon European soil. Britain bids fair to rue this policy soon, just as it rues the folly of accepting Japanese aid to expel the Germans from Shantung.

In the World war, France brought to Europe hordes of Blacks, many of them but a generation removed from savagery, to be trained in modern arms and to learn to fight and defeat Whites. Since the war, they have been shamelessly used as part of the French army of occupation in Germany. France, and perhaps the entire White race, may pay a terrible price for this folly in the future!

During the World war, the kaiser, who hut a few years before warned Europe of the Yellow peril, not only brought Turkey into the fight, but sought in every way to stir up the Asiatics to a "holy war."

THIS SPEEDING AGE

(JEANETTE NORLAND.)

Our ancestors were once content a slow ox team to drive;
Their sons, at somewhat faster pace, with horses seemed to thrive;
Then came the railroads with their steam that put the horse to shame,
And speed of twenty miles per hour brought men enduring fame.

The telegraph, the telephone, the auto came, in turn;
The aeroplane and radio developed speed to burn;
We're talking now around the world in seconds 'stead of days,
And people fly from coast to coast without exciting praise.

"Faster! faster!" seems the cry with every speeding fan;
"Clear the track and let me go," cries every flying man;
Every dealer sells his car by guaranteeing speed,
'Til life for us who have to walk is very cheap indeed.

We common mortals to keep up have so increased our pace,
That just to live and keep in line are problems we must face;
The strong are crowding out the weak, the old to young give way,
While millions long once more to see a calm and peaceful day.

'Tis well that we the question ask, "Where will this mania end,
How much more speed can we absorb, how much more force expend
Before we reach the breaking point of life's short-time lease,
And speed, our ever-changing goal, becomes our nemesis?"

WHOLE NO. 273

Everywhere today we see the effects of this policy, nowhere more so than in the attitude of China, and in the weak complacency of the White nations in bowing to Yellow demands. The White world has looked on and allowed Germany and Belgium to be deprived forcibly of their extra-territorial protection in China, while Bolshevik Russia has voluntarily surrendered that right as a part of the program for Asiatic leadership.

China recently presented at Washington a demand that we follow in the footsteps of Russia, surrender the right to protect our people through extra-territoriality and abandon them and all American interests to the mercy of the Chinese courts, whose procedure, until a few years ago, included torture of witnesses and inflicted punishments abolished in all White countries centuries ago. There is no evidence yet made public that there has been a complete change in this regard. Indeed, we have strong reason to believe that in the interior the old procedure is in effect today. The demand is getting support from Americans whose racial cosmopolitanism and lack of pride in their own race leads them to support and love races other than their own. There is strong reason to fear that Washington will yield before long.

When Washington yields on extra-territoriality, China's next move will be a demand for a repeal of the Exclusion Law. We are simple-minded, if we doubt this! China has never accepted our policy. Even the feeble, degenerate Manchu government protested vigorously and resorted to continuous propaganda among Americans for its repeal, continuing that policy until its downfall. Only the more-or-less continuous civil war in China has kept the republic from similar protests.

If the present weak attitude of Washington and of the White nations generally continues, there is grave danger that ultimately the exclusion policy will break down. Then California will be obliged to submit to a wholesale invasion of Chinese, Japanese and other ineligible-to-citizenship immigrants, worse than the state has ever before experienced, or to fight, and to fight perhaps alone. Extravagant as this thought may seem, it is more than a possibility, as things are trending!

Can we find a leader for the crisis that looms on the horizon? It would be a great thing for California if it could have the honor of furnishing such a leader to the nation and to the White world.

"If your nose is close to the grindstone rough,
And you hold it down there long enough,
In time you'll say there's no such thing
As brooks that babble and birds that sing:
These three will all your world compose:
Just you, the stone, your darned old nose."
—Exchange.

CALIFORNIA'S WONDERLAND

CITY AND COUNTY

PROSPERITY IS NOT A THING OF MYSTERIOUS origin, said Herbert D. Ivey, president of the Citizens National Trust and Savings Bank of Los Angeles, in the course of a recent address. It is not an indefinite influence pervading the atmosphere and making business good, employment plentiful, salaries and wages high—without individual effort on our part. In the final analysis, prosperity is governed by two things: work and thrift. And when a hundred and twenty million people hold fast to the determination to be industrious, and to practice thrift, we can have no lack of prosperity.

Our nation stands out today among all the nations of the world because of its tremendous natural wealth, and because of the way in which we have developed that wealth. Our great mills and factories and transportation systems provide a gigantic industrialism with the greatest tools ever known to man for the continuing development of our wealth.

Industry has not merely plowed profits back into the maintenance of those tools, but it has stored up important cash reserves. It has done these things in addition to liberal distribution of earnings through dividends. Basic economic conditions remain sound. There has been no upheaval of Nature to destroy any of our natural resources. Industrial and transportation properties are in excellent physical condition and under able management.

The conferences of business and financial leaders held in Washington with President Herbert Hoover have brought forth announcement of expenditures planned for 1930 in amounts which are bound to give a continuing impulse to business. Local leaders are gathering similar figures. Those already given out for California South indicate the use of greater sums than in any previous years in our history.

Our prosperity has been widespread. Never before have so many people been able to share in the returns from industry, to enjoy comforts and luxuries, to lay aside a surplus. We have every incentive, both of experience and foresight, to continue our prosperity. We can do so, if the country will but heed the advice of President Hoover to "go to work," if it will remain industrious, and practice thrift.

FRIENDSHIP HOLDS SWAY.

One of the most delightful Native Son gatherings in many a day—one at which the spirit of real friendship held sway—was that of Ramona No. 109, December 20. The occasion was a greeting to Leo V. Youngworth, now imperial potentate of the Shrine, who is a past president of Ramona and received his first instructions in the fraternal-world in that Parlor. Practically every past president of Ramona was in attendance.

Assembled were many of his boyhood chums, and when he entered the meeting-room escorted by a selected guard, the crowd arose en masse and greeted him with prolonged cheers. Isidore B. Dockweiler extended the Parlor's welcome, and he spoke from the heart. That Youngworth was greatly affected by the reception given him was plainly evident, and it was some time before he recovered his composure. In responding to the welcome, he briefly sketched his career and stated that he had started from the bottommost rung in the ladder; what success he had achieved, he said, was the result of his determination to accumulate in life a wealth of friends and not worldly goods. "Friendship," he said, "is man's greatest asset, and I cannot express to you boys how pleased I am to see here so many I have known intimately all my life—fellows who are true blue, in and out of season."

Superior Judge B. Rey Schauer who, as first vice-president, has charge of Ramona's charity-box, delegated to Youngworth authority to extract "hones" from his friends, and then the fun commenced. Going back to the days of ward politics for most of his foundations, he related some interesting anecdotes and, incidentally, levied assessments against those involved. United States Marshal Al Sittel not only had to "cough up" for himself, but for a couple of others whom Leo spied. Dockweiler had to meet the levy against Tony Schwamm, and "Bill" Newell was requested to contribute for himself as well as for his brother, Grand First Vice-president "Johnnie" Newell. Past Grand President Herman C. Lichtenherger paid an additional sum for the privilege of speaking, and Paul Robinson not only "came through" for himself, but also for a judge who had been kind to him. And so on down the line, capitalists, judges, county officials and others not being overlooked.

The meeting concluded with a tribute to the honor-guest by Senator R. F. Del Valle, Ramona's first president, who said he had known Youngworth ("Quake") all his life, and knew that all the things said about him are true. "Leo," he said, "through determination and honesty, has won deserved success. I wish that

CO-OPERATION REWARDED.

Glendale—Verdugo Parlor No. 240 N.D.G.W. is very proud of the silver cup awarded it at the big Native Daughter meeting in Los Angeles for having the largest percentage of its membership present at the meeting of "Solid Get-Together-in-One Parlor No. 11," when eighty candidates, presented by the eleven California South Parlors, were initiated.

The cup, presented by Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer, who sponsored the event, was accepted by President Hazel Hansen of Verdugo, who presided during the exemplification of the ritual, and labored diligently to make the affair a success. The cup will ever be a reminder to the members of the Parlor of what co-operation can accomplish.

At the January 10 meeting of Verdugo, Mrs. Benlah Van Luven was elected president for the new term, and Mrs. Hazel Hansen and Mrs. Mary Jane Jesse were named a committee to investigate the possibility of establishing a memory garden, to the memory of the Pioneer Mothers, at the Verdugo adobe. A bazar and supper, sponsored by Mrs. Hansen, general chairman, Mrs. Pearl Gillette, Mrs. N. Hutchinson and Miss Mahel Devine, netted more than $150. Children of the members were entertained at a Christmas party arranged by Mrs. Edith Dobson; a program and a tree were features. Officers will be installed January 21.

VACATING PARTY—DINNER DANCE.

The march of progress—the opening of Broadway south from Pico—will soon demolish Native Sons Hall at 134 West Seventeenth street, the headquarters for many years of Los Angeles Parlor No. 45. The Parlor has, accordingly, selected new quarters, in Foresters Hall, 1329 South Hope street where, commencing January 17, meetings will be held every Friday night.

But two more meetings, those of January 2 and 9, will be held in the old hall, and the latter date has been set aside for a vacating party. An appropriate program, in which old-timers of the Parlor will have a prominent part, has been arranged. January 6 the officers of No. 45 will visit Santa Ana Parlor No. 265 and exemplify the ritual. January 17, the first meeting in the new quarters, the newly-elected officers, with Roland F. Nichols as president, will be installed.

January 24 there will be no meeting, as that is the date selected for the Parlor's annual formal dinner dance, which is to be held at the Uplifters Club in Santa Monica Canyon. All Native Sons and Native Daughters and their friends will be welcome, but must make reservations in advance. Elmer F. Engelbracht and Julius Leuschner compose the committee in charge. Los Angeles plans to materially increase its membership, and the first initiation of 1930 is scheduled for January 31.

CHRISTMAS PARTY.

The Christmas party of Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W. December 18 was most enjoyable. Miss Ruth Ruiz was mistress of ceremonies, and vocal and instrumental numbers were rendered by Misses Wilma Holmes, Marvel Thomas and Veryl Aumack. The members were heard in several choruses, and Miss Lois Miller and Mrs. Jennie Raymond appeared in a playlet, "Window Shopping." Miss Patricia Eaton was the Santa Claus, and distributed candy canes. In the banquet-room Miss Grace J. Norton, the Parlor's official hostess, had a delightful surprise, which was greatly appreciated. A joyous, happy spirit prevailed throughout the evening.

The Parlor's program for January includes: 8th, card party, Mrs. Esther Murphy chairman. 15th, initiation. 22nd, dance, Miss Dolores Malin chairman, assisted by Mms. Bertha Murray and Josephine J. Buchanan. 29th, "Poppy Night," Mrs. Gertrude Allen chairman.

PRESIDENT ENTERTAINS.

Ocean Park—President Mary L. Stevens entertained the officers and members of Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 245 N.D.G.W. at dinner. District Deputy Gertrude Allen was a special guest. A feature of the delightful decorations was a covered wagon, as center piece, laden with fruits and home-made candy. The wagon was presented Mrs. Marie Valencia Rittener, a recent bride. A meeting of El Camino Real club followed, with President Rita Smith presiding, and plans were made to make layettes for the homeless children.

The card party of November 26 was a success in all particulars. Beautiful prizes, donated by members and Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 N.S.G.W., were awarded. The ice cream was supplied by Mrs. Domenic Conterno, and President Mary Stevens furnished a cake. The committee in charge consisted of Mary Meyer, Betty Jacobs, Kathryn Conterno, Willette Biscailuz, Mary Hadlock and Anna Pierce.

GRAND OFFICER VISITS.

Hollywood Parlor No. 196 N.S.G.W. received an official visit December 23 from Grand First Vice-president John T. Newell, who spoke on the Order's progress and outlined some of the plans for 1930.

The newly-elected officers of the Parlor, with John C. Gorman as president, will be installed January 20. The ceremonies will be preceded by initiation, and refreshments will be served.

INTERPARLOR DANCE.

The Interparlor Committee N.S.G.W. and N.D.G.W. is sponsoring a series of monthly dances at El Patio ballroom to raise funds for the 1931 Admission Day celebration to be held in Los Angeles City. At the December 12 dance Paul Lombardi of Ramona was awarded a silver cup for rounding up the largest percentage number of attendants. The January dance is scheduled for the 16th.

SCHOOL DEDICATED.

Glendale—Glendale's splendid Heribert Hoover high-school, representing an investment of approximately $1,500,000, was formally dedicated December 3 at ceremonies conducted under the auspices of Glendale Parlor No. 264 N.S.G.W. The students assembled in the auditorium, where Dr. Joseph A. Kleiser, as chairman of the day, presided. Following selections by a chorus of twenty-two girl students, there were addresses by George U. Moyses, superintendent Glendale schools; Harry B. Adams, chairman Glendale union high-school district; Mayor C. E. Kimlin of Glendale; Principal Ferguson of the school; Charles L. Dodge, Grand President, and Charles A. Thompson, Past Grand President, of the Native Sons. Grand Presidents Herman C. Lichtenhayer and Charles A. Thompson, Grand First Vice-president John T. Newell, Grand Second Vice-president Frank I. Gonzalez, Grand Secretary John T. Regan.

In the evening the grand officers attended the meeting of Glendale Parlor, where representatives from all surrounding Parlors had gathered to greet them. Particularly gratifying was the attendance of five members of Cahuenga Parlor No. 268, including Jesse A. Richardson and Carroll A. Driscoll, the new president and secretary, respectively. The evening was given over to addresses pertaining to the welfare and progress of the Order.

PAST PRESIDENTS GIVEN EMBLEMS.

Ocean Park—Native Sons from every Los Angeles County Parlor were out in force December 16 to join with Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 in honoring its senior past presidents. The evening's festivities opened with a lobster supper, for which the Parlor has become famous, and following the feast a splendid program of orchestral numbers, dancing and other acts was presented.

President Eldred L. Meyer presided at the Parlor meeting and introduced the past presidents, Eugene W. Biscailuz, Dwight C. Freeman, J. Howard Blanchard, William S. Dowsing and Harold E. Barden, each of whom was presented with a diamond-set emblematic pin. Continuing Santa Monica Bay's march upward in membership, five candidates were initiated. It being made known that a worthy native of California residing in Santa Monica was in financial distress, a fund of seventy-five dollars was raised and the amount was given to her as a Christmas offering from the Native Sons. A three-round boxing match between Lillian Snyder and Evelyn Skelly, pupils of Roger Cornell, athletic instructor of the Santa Monica Girls Athletic Club, concluded an enjoyable evening.

WRITER'S STATEMENT PROTESTED.

The recent statement in a national magazine—"Los Angeles is, of course, the newest city in the world . . . It may be described in a single phrase as a city without a past. . . It has no memories, because it has nothing to remember."—brought forth a storm of protests at the December 10 meeting of Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W., which has well under way plans for presenting to the city a statue of Felipe de Neve, founder of Los Angeles.

Miss Florence Steinike, executive secretary of the statue committee, said, "The author of the statement is similar to hosts of others, who write without investigation. Our committee, through research, has found that Los Angeles is one of the few cities in the United States founded with religious and official ceremonies."

"If the magazine writer had investigated," said Mrs. Olive Lopez, "he would have learned that Los Angeles was in existence before England relinquished control over the thirteen colonies; that, in fact, four years before the Boston tea party Los Angeles was spoken of by Padre Juan Crespi, chronicler of the Portola expedition, as having all the requisites for a large settlement."

Reseda—A number of the ancient lime kilns, in use by the early Pioneers at the time of the coming of the Franciscan padres in the San Fernando Valley, then known as Encino Valley, will be preserved by Cahuenga Parlor No. 268 N.S.G.W.

R. L. Glover, owner of a large tract of foothill land in the Simi Hills back of Chatsworth Lake, has offered to deed to the Parlor a tract of land which includes several of these kilns. More than 150 years ago, Pioneers who first in-

Native Daughters of the Golden West

PAST GRAND PRESIDENT STELLA FINKELDEY of Santa Cruz, chairman of the Grand Parlor Veterans Welfare Committee, has received the following letters from two Federal Government veteran hospitals in Arizona, thanking the Order for twenty boxes of apples sent them for Thanksgiving. "I thought," says Miss Finkeldey, "the one hundred Parlors and seven individual members who have to date [December 17] contributed to the veterans welfare fund might appreciate the letters":

"The ten boxes of apples sent to us by you from the Native Daughters of the Golden West of California reached us in splendid condition the day before Thanksgiving and were delightfully cold and crisp when we stacked them on the tables for our center pieces. You would have enjoyed seeing the pyramids which we made of them, decorated with the gold callundula and surrounded by favors and nut cups which had been sent us from several Junior Red Cross chapters of California. Of course, we have many apples left which will afford pleasure to the patients for quite a long time into the winter. We certainly appreciate your thinking of us and your kindness in sending us this generous donation.—U. S. VETERANS HOSPITAL, Tucson, Arizona, by Mrs. Ruth J. Huddleson, director Red Cross Service, December 2, 1929."

"The apples came Saturday afternoon, too late for Thanksgiving but not too late to be enjoyed. They smelled wonderfully good, and I know the patients will enjoy them as much now as they would have for Thanksgiving time, when there was so much of everything good to eat. The chief dietician is dividing the boxes so that all the wards may have some of the apples, which are very fine indeed. Please extend to the members of the Native Daughters of the Golden West the thanks of both patients and Red Cross for their generous gift.—U. S. VETERANS HOSPITAL, Whipple, Arizona, by Miss Ethel M. Schureman, director Red Cross Service, December 2, 1929."

Porter, who recounted his experiences in crossing the plains; Dr. C. D. Ball, president Orange County Historical Society; Mrs. Florence Dodson-Schonenman, Mrs. Mary Grimshaw, H. H. Dodson, Mayor Bert Annin, Otto des Granges, L. P. Drake, Mrs. Minnie Zeyn Holcomb, Mrs. Mary Lovering, John Gardiner, Mrs. Mary Dwyer, Mrs. Louise Backs and Mrs. Alice McDermott. Doris Forhes, Jimmy Kewish, Lucille Bush and Corrine Bush rendered selections.

The main speaker of the afternoon was Thomas L. McFadden who, in paying tribute to the old-timers, traced the history of California from the coming of the Franciscan fathers through the Spanish hacienda period and the discovery of gold. He complimented the Parlor on its first attempt at an annual gathering, and said no state of the nation has a more colorful history than California. Among the Pioneers registered were Mrs. Louise Backs and Cordelis Tadlock, who came in 1857.

Miss Carrie Sheppard, chairman of the Parlor's history and landmarks section, was chairman of the day, and assisting her were Nellie Cline, Mary Rothaermel, Carrie Ford, Laura Porter and Evelyn Hawkins. At election of officers December 5, the Parlor retained its entire corps, headed by Lucana McFadden as president. A public dance was given December 19.

History Related With Ceremony.

Sacramento—December 10 Califa No. 22 celebrated its birthday of forty-two years with a Chinese night. The decorations in the lodge-room were far-reaching greens from which were suspended wind-bells and Chinese lanterns of all descriptions. There were also red candles upon each pedestal and desk and the piano. During a recess the following charter members took part in a candle-lighting ceremony: Mrs. Alice Madeley, Miss Mary Woods, Miss Ella McCleery and Mrs. Mae Colegrove. Each gave a short resume of ten years of the Parlor's activities, and the president, Mrs. Sara Louise Brainard, dwelt on the last two years. As each finished her history she lighted a candle, that was placed upon the altar, and when the fifth candle had been lighted the complete history of Califa had been related. The committee in charge of the decorations and entertainment in the lodge-room consisted of Misses Oneida and Zitka Wilhelm and Mrs. Sadie Brainard.

Following the meeting members and visitors, who were many, were entertained by a skit, "An Hour in a Chinese Cafe," that was quite amusing, after which a big parade around the hall was participated in by the actresses, and many of the guests who came attired in oriental costumes. The music of cymbals, flutes, drums, tom-toms, etc., was ear-splitting, but a great satisfaction to the musicians. In the banquet-room delicious refreshments were served at beautifully decorated tables, all in Chinese style, and the place tokens were chopsticks.

As this was also election night the Parlor presented the retiring past president, Mrs. Mabel Harris, with an emblematic pin. Mrs. Hazel Leitch making the presentation speech. District Deputy Edith Kelley presented the retiring president, Sadie Brainard, with a lovely kitchen clock in behalf of the Parlor. The general chairman of the evening was Mrs. Katherine Jones, and her assistants in the banquet-room were Mrs. Hazel Leitch and Mrs. Bessie Leitch.

Big Crowd, Despite Storm.

Sonoma—Although the evening was very stormy, there was a large gathering of Sonoma County Native Daughters here December 9, the date set for the official visit of Grand President Esther R. Sullivan to the county Parlors—Sonoma No. 209, Santa Rosa No. 217 and Petaluma No. 222—in joint session. Owing to illness, however, Miss Sullivan was unable to be present, but was represented by Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler. Other visitors included representatives of Marin, Alameda, San Francisco and Mendocino Counties Parlors.

The ritual was beautifully exemplified by a corps of officers selected from the hostess Parlors, and a class of twenty-one candidates—twelve for Petaluma, seven for Sonoma and two for Santa Rosa—were initiated. At the conclusion of the most successful affair a turkey banquet was served at tables attractively adorned with holiday trimmings; as a centerpiece the guest table had an illuminated Christmas tree.

Among the speakers were Grand Secretary Thaler, Grand Marshal Evelyn I. Carlson, Past Grand President Emma G. Foley, District Deputies Mary Vogt, May Barry and Katherine Branstetter. Many gifts were presented. Catherine Bulotti, chairman of the committee, reported that the recent benefit given by Sonoma Parlor for the homeless children netted $147.66.

Petition Granted.

Alturas—A letter from the United States War Department has been received by Alturas No. 159 assuring that favorable consideration will be granted the Parlor's petition, that the bodies of soldiers killed in the battle of the Infernal Caverns be allowed to remain in Modoc County soil.

The Parlor held its annual Christmas ball in the just-completed Masonic hall, and it was the first social event held there. The officers-elect will be installed January 2. Grand Trustee Irma Laird is recuperating at a Woodland clinic from a serious illness.

Bazar Great Success.

San Jose—The annual bazar of Vendome No. 100 December 6 was a financial and social success. President Stella Baggs was general chairman, with Lotta Koppel as assistant, and in charge of the various features were: Marie Buck, Alice Roll, Edwina Buffington, Myrtle Jung, Fay Withycombe, Susie Bickford, Martha Waddington, Elizabeth Hayes, May Calice, May Sanderson, Roberta DeZaldo, Clara Gairaud, Rose Baker. Mrs. Olga Deter has returned from a five months' trip to Europe. The homeless children dancing party, sponsored by the San Jose Parlors, was a lovely affair, with a large crowd in attendance.

December 11 Susie Mattei, Ella Graham and Clara Gairaud gave the second in a series of lectures, an Alaskan travelogue, and exhibited views, curios, garnets and jewelry; they spent August in Alaska. The Parlor had its annual Christmas jinx and tree December 18. Officers-elect, with Julia Waddington as president, will be installed during January by District Deputy Genevieve Commerford. At the request of Clara Gairaud of the Grand Parlor Publicity Committee the Thanksgiving and Christmas proclamations of Grand President Esther R. Sullivan were broadcast.

Unanimous in Praise.

Santa Ana—Santa Ana No. 235 had several visitors from Long Beach and Grace Parlors November 25, among them District Deputy Kate McFadyen. Following a merry social hour refreshments were served. Members of No. 235 are unanimous in their praise of Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer, who sponsored the recent most successful joint meeting in Los Angeles.

Officers of the Parlor were elected December 9, Genevieve Hiskey being re-elected for president, and Matilda Lemon being re-elected recording secretary. Among the visitors was Olive Lopez of Californiana (Los Angeles), formerly of Santa Ana. December 23 the Parlor had its annual dinner and Christmas tree.

Jams and Jellies for Veterans.

Oakland—Helen Cleu was guest of honor at a sociable given by Past Presidents Association No. 2, and was the recipient of many gifts, including a beautiful lamp shade from the association, which was presented by Gertrude Amodee, chairman of the evening.

The welfare committee, through Chairman Anna Silva, sent a large assortment of homemade jams and jellies, also Christmas decorations, to the United States Veterans Hospital at Whipple, Arizona. A turkey whist December 16 was very successful. A luncheon and card party at the home of Mary Dowd Reardon was well at-

Grand President's Official Itinerary.

Marysville—During the month of January, Grand President Esther R. Sullivan will officially visit the following Subordinate Parlors on the dates noted:

- 7th—Richmond No. 147, Richmond.
- 14th—El Cereso No. 207, San Leandro.
- 15th—Golden State No. 50, San Francisco.

Tenth Anniversary.

Bleber—A most enjoyable evening was spent by members and friends of Mount Lassen No. 215 in recognition of the Parlor's tenth institution anniversary. Following progressive whist—for which prizes were awarded Hazel Loomis-Iverson, Arthur Kenyon and Fritz Bunselmeir—refreshments were served and the ten candles upon the delicious birthday cake were lighted by Nettie McKenzie, first president of the Parlor. The success of the evening was due to the active committee in charge, Annye Mitchell and Nettie McKenzie.

Officers of the Parlor were elected December 12, Hattie Cary becoming president. Refreshments were served, and Marie Walsh and Lettie Holl entertained with readings. The Parlor recently served a dinner to visiting school teachers and trustees, the proceeds going to the Loyalty Pledge fund of No. 215.

Ritual Splendidly Exemplified.

Stockton—Caliz de Oro No. 206 recently had a past presidents night, and the ritual was splendidly exemplified by the following: Roberta Foley, Alice McDonald, Helen Høglund, Henrietta Quivillon, Ethel Murphy, Beulah Grattan, Christine Powers and Bea Schwartz. At the close of a very enjoyable meeting games were played and refreshments were served.

Members' Children Guests.

Chico—Children of members of Annie K. Bidwell No. 168 had a wonderful time December 12 at the annual Christmas party arranged in their behalf. Arriving at 5:30, the guests were seated at tables gay with pyraecanthus berries, smilax, and various figures made by Lois Heberle, chairman of the refreshment committee.

Following supper a program was presented under the direction of Alice Bass and Cora Hintz. Then Santa Claus, W. T. Lyle, appeared and presented each child with a gift. The guests were then taken home, and the Parlor had its regular meeting, presided over by Annie Skelly.

Flags for Schools.

Santa Barbara—Reina del Mar No. 126 elected officers December 17, Mrs. John Mitchell becoming president. Proposed bonds for a new Santa Barbara junior high-school building were endorsed.

During January, the Parlor will present a California State (Bear) Flag to Little Flower Troop No. 14 of Girl Scouts of Dolores school, and to the Santa Barbara junior high-school it will give a Flag of the United States of America.

Santa Claus Pays Visit.

Hollister—Santa Claus paid "bis" official visit to Copa de Oro No. 105 December 12, when happiness reigned supreme. "Gifts" were distributed from a gayly-decorated tree, and the recipients were called on to demonstrate the use of their presents immediately after receiving them; many surprises were in store for those in attendance. A program of Christmas songs and jingles was rendered and a Yuletide repast of nuts, candies, fruit and popcorn-balls was enjoyed. Elma Chandler, third vice-president, in the role of Santa Claus, added much to the merriment of the occasion.

Little Garments for Homeless.

Petaluma—Petaluma No. 222 elected officers December 3, Mary Garzoli becoming president. Much business was transacted and the homeless children committee reported a nice box of little garments ready to be sent to the Central Committee.

The Parlor was represented at the joint meeting of the Sonoma County Parlors December 9 by a large delegation, and of the class of twenty-two candidates initiated, Petaluma had the honor of claiming twelve. December 17 the Parlor featured its annual Christmas tree and entertainment.

They Saved!

There comes a time in the life of every family when the breadwinner no longer can produce; it is the period of Old Age. Then comes the reward of the earlier days; if ill-spent, there is charity . . . either of children, friends or strangers. If, however, the family has been thrifty . . . has spent judiciously . . . there is the reward of an independent Old Age, happiness and peace. Ask at any branch for the budget book . . . # Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER

TREMENDOUS HAS BEEN THE INTEREST in knitted outer apparel. The interest is believed to be due to the improvement of knitted tweed, which is non-sagging and lighter in weight, so that it lends itself to manipulation. It is generally used in the three-piece suit and the one-piece frock with matching jacket. Three-piece suits feature either gored or circular skirts, sometimes introducing two wide box pleats in the front, and often showing godets and pleated inserts of a type that one expects to find only in silk frocks.

Fitted hip yokes are important in these skirts, and they must be four inches below the knee. Jackets are favored in cardigan, three-button or five-button type, sometimes introducing tuxedo cutout effects. A five-button jacket, with a tiny notched collar, is also favored.

The blouses are favored in plain jersey weaves, showing shoe lacing effects at the neckline. Tailored appliques and soft jabot treatments are used with a trend to color darker than the suit.

The long-sleeved blouse is weakening, in favor of the sleeveless type. Most blouses are made so that they can be worn either in tuck-in or short overblouse style.

Tri-color effects dominate the early selections, with a marked tendency to blended effects rather than to contrast. Combinations show chocolate brown and white, with slight touches of pastels such as dusty pink, peach, aquatone blue, lettuce green, sulphur yellow and light beige. Of the darker tones, the choice seems to be limited to brown, sepia, capucine, two shades of dark green, navy and red. Some black is shown in ribbed knit effects with eggshell or soft pink.

Knitted ensembles, silk ensembles and tweed ensembles are waiting to proclaim the good taste of the wearer. One attractive model is of rachel flat crepe, with sleeveless frock brightened by a wide sash of capucine hue and a smart knitted coat trimmed with pipings of the same color. Another model, of dusty pink, includes a circular silk skirt and a knitted blouse, with tight-fitting peplum of the same shade, and a knitted coat.

As for sweaters, the fancy crocheted variety is the smartest. The designs look like the old-fashioned battenberg lace, with sometimes a surface embroidery in silk.

A woven scottish woolen jacket suit is clever in combinations of new and different weaves in rich colorings, with hat of the same material. The sports accessories are selected to finish aptly the picture. Belts appear as an important detail on skirts and coats.

Last year and the year before we had bow-knots, and this year we are to have more bow-knots. This theme comes again after its gay and extended career as a trimming, knotting the blouse, the girdle and the sleeve, and sometimes tying itself into the very construction of the frock.

Ends and loops are draped and set into bodices, and hiplines accent the fitted as well as the flared themes. They may be enlarged to elaborate the entire skirt, or reduced, to be repeated several times on the bodice.

One little sports dress has bow drapes on the front, bow drapes on the back, little bow drapes on the sleeves, and more of the same on the pocket. Aside from this constructional bowknot, this popular and casual form of trimming has many new phases.

It competes more strongly than ever before with the buckle in fastening the girdle. Slender sashes of the fabric are bound about the waist and tied softly at one side. Sometimes these are stitched down in a shallow yoke effect at the back and left free only at the front, to be tied. This idea is used on sheer afternoon frocks as well as on sports models of sturdier fabrics.

Shaggy ribbon bows, which fall loosely from the back of sheer frocks, are sometimes fringed, and pert little bows are posed down the front of a bodice like buttons. Scarfs are tied about the waist and about the neckline.

So, it is on with the bowknot for another season or two. A casual gesture of a ribbon tied about the waist of a printed chiffon frock started all the fluttering of ribbon bows.

The ribbon girdle is no longer confined to the chiffon frock, for it is seen on the other crisper dresses as well. Sometimes, in grosgrain, it takes the tailored aspect, but more frequently it is tied at the center back, and at this point the ends may float over the skirt fullness.

The ribbons are black satin and the frock black tulle, for the youthful ones. Crushed bow-knots of velvet are frequently centered with jeweled ornaments.

The simple waistline girdles of tied ribbon, usually in a quite narrow width, make occasion for pretty color accent on the plain or neutral colored frock. Turquoise on white is seen, bright green on pale beige, and blue on pink, while in the more sedate mood black on black is much favored.

The most important accessory, perhaps, is the handbag. Beginning with the necessity for purse and shoes to match, certain rules are set forth to govern the choice of the bag, depending on the style of costume to be worn.

Antelope, though not new, is as smart for bags as ever. Reptile bags with reptile shoes are very smart. These bags are usually designed either as a back-strap, pouch or envelope, though reptile lends itself to the vagabond type of bag—that soft, careless looking affair which, somehow, lives up to its appearance. Shark skin is another novelty material which continues in vogue. Its rough stiffness makes it exceedingly durable.

In the bags which are seen on the street the most popular colors are black, blue and brown. Pearl and beaded bags are especially good for evening use. The petit point always remains the smartest for dressy afternoon costumes.

HOME BEAUTIFUL

(DR. MARIANA BERTOLA, Past Grand President N.D.G.W.)

As the Christmas season approached our Home at 555 Baker Street, San Francisco, seemed to blossom with new significance. "Peace on earth, good will to men," is a wonderful and far-reaching sentiment, but it needs a home to demonstrate its fullest meaning. The conservation of the home and of the home-spirit is the greatest work to be done today by every community in every nation of the world!

The "Home Beautiful" belongs to our Order, and herein we endeavor to foster and to live the Christmas spirit. The conservation of the Home depends upon all of us, those within the Home, and those outside of the Home. Every good home is an asset to a community. Where good homes predominate, there is the least crime.

Millions spent to combat crime, turned into the channel of home conservation, would do far more good for the young, the old, and the nations of the world. The N.D.G.W. Home endeavors to fulfill this program of conservation. Every room, except one, is now filled. Were the place larger, we could accommodate more.

We are asking the members of the Order and their friends to make substantial donations to this most worthy cause. To be the owner of much money brings with it the responsibility to expend for a good and wise purpose.

We are issuing postal cards with photographs of the Home, at five cents apiece. Five folders concerning the Home will be distributed free to any Parlor writing for them. The following letter was received from the girls in the Home, after the Thanksgiving party given them:

"To the Members of the Home Committee, Native Daughters Golden West—Dear Sisters: We wish to extend our appreciation and gratitude for the delightful party and dinner given us by the Board, Thanksgiving evening, November 27, due to Mrs. Hawkins' extraordinary ability to carry out such affairs.

"We were delighted with the Holiday atmosphere and it brought pleasant memories of our own homes. Mrs. Hawkins, Mrs. Holmes and Miss Freitag were our ardent hostesses, and added much to the pleasure of the evening. The arrangement of the tables, the decorations, and the cheery fire sending out rays of warmth, added to the joyousness of the occasion.

"We regretted that the Home Committee could not be with us, as the association with the outside members of the Home promotes sisterly feeling. Assuring you that we could not have enjoyed a dinner in our own homes any better than we did here, and expressing our sincere thanks, we are, fraternally,

"THE GIRLS OF THE N.D.G.W. HOME,
"By Cynthia Viall and Ellen Burman,
"Committee."

Many additional donations have been received at the Home. Sunday breakfasts, at 9 a. m., will be held the following dates during 1930: January 12, Mms. Foley and Noonan hostesses; February 9, Mms. Baker and Barry; March 9, Mms. Bell and Dohhin; April 13, Dr. Bertola and Palo Alto Parlor; May 11, Mrs. Durham and Miss Douglass; June 8, Dr. Heilbron and Miss Irwin. The Home Committee will meet the following dates: January 6 and 20, February 3 and 17, March 3 and 17, April 7 and 21, May 5 and 19, June 2 and 23.

OLD CALIFORNIA CITY OBSERVES 32TH ANNIVERSARY OF BEGINNING.

Monterey—This historic California city December 16 celebrated the three hundred and twenty-seventh anniversary of its beginning with ceremonies at the old Custom House. The main feature was the dedication of cypress trees in honor of Don Gaspar de Portola and Commodore John Drake Sloat.

Spanish explorers discovered Monterey Bay December 16, 1602, raised the flag of that country ashore, and named the landing place Monte Rey. July 7, 1846, Commodore Sloat of the United States Navy, in the name of this country hauled down the Spanish flag at Monterey and raised the Flag of the United States of America.

CO-OPERATE IS AN EXCELLENT THING to preach, but little results from the preaching unless co-operate be practiced. We've heard, and still hear, a great deal about co-operate, but, the record shows, the preaching, not being accompanied by practicing, the results have been anything but encouraging. Wonders can be accomplished by co-operation—of the preached-and-practiced, but not of the preached-exclusively, variety.

A new year is with us, and if every member of the Order will, during 1930, join in exemplifying, by action and not words, co-operation, the Order will make the greatest progress in its history. Now's the necessary and the opportune time. Let's make co-operate the practiced watch-word for 1930.

This thing co-operate brings to mind the following lines by Thos. E. Pickerill, entitled "The Mocking Bird." When it comes to making promises, as the result of preached co-operation, many are "there a million," but when it comes to practicing co-operation, they hedge, and, as the mocking-bird "Quoth in sad lament: Co-operate? Like hell!":

The mocking bird sat in a tree,
The hour was growing late;
He chirped the word he heard that night,
"Co-op-erate!"

Then snugly placed his head 'neath wing
And slept. Dawn broke anew;
The night before the town folks met
Their pledges to renew

To build the town, to make it grow!
A sumptuous banquet spread
And hundreds who, for show to make,
Had loudly spoke and said:

"We'll do it now, we'll make things hum,
We'll work together great;
We'll do the things that should be done,
We'll co-op-erate!"

Lo, how the swell of speaker's voice
Can move to promise all;
But when the oratory stops,
Emotion's feathers fall.

And so 'twas ever thus; in crowds
We boldly sign the pledge;
But when collection day comes 'round,
By ones, why 'er—we hedge.

As said before, the mocking bird,
When dawn broke night-time's spell,
Could only quoth in sad lament:
"Co-operate? Like hell!"

"Deestreck Skule."

San Bernardino—"The Deestreck Skule," a humorous entertainment sponsored by Arrowhead No. 110 and Lugonia No. 241 N.D.G.W. was a great success, attended by 300. Pranks that actually happened during school days provided much of the evening's fun.

Leslie Maloche was the teacher, and John Cadd impersonated the red-headed, barefoot terror of the school. Others appearing in the cast of fifty included: Louis Wolff, Strong Bemis, M. H. Bellamy, R. W. Brazelton, Elmer Harris, Lily Tompkins, Mary Rooney, J. Souther, Lynn Reed, Leslie Case, Fred Kramer, Monte Weeks, Eva DeLong, H. Moore, Rhoda Smith, Thelma Nett, Cleo Jones and Arlene Webster.

The affair was under the management of Charles Frost, general chairman, who was assisted by George McDoland, Freida Fox, Eva Bemis and President Lois Poling of Lugonia. Others on the general committee were William Keir, Bess Gregory and E. G. Motchman.

Terminating a year of great activity and accomplishments, President Donald E. VanLuven and Recording Secretary "Bob" Brazelton sent this message to the members of Arrowhead: "We realize that the year 1929 will soon be history. Collectively, our Parlor and our community have fared well—but we are mindful that some of our number have been taken from us, and loss of dear ones has come to others. Where sorrow has come into our ranks, we feel deep sympathy; for the blessings of the year, we are very thankful. For the wholehearted and loyal service of our members, which is always the chief factor in a successful year's work, we are most grateful. May each one of you have only joy at Christmas and a New Year filled with good things."

Pioneers Banquetted.

Fresno—December 6 Fresno No. 25 had its annual banquet in honor of the California Pioneers. Joseph Barcroft (Madera No. 130) acted as toastmaster, and among the old-timers who spoke were S. P. Cummings, the veteran Fresno County assessor, Judge S. W. Smith and A. D. Ewing, who has long served the county as treasurer.

Reminiscences of early days were given by W. D. Crichton, veteran Fresno attorney, and Judge M. K. Harris, who hung out his shingle in Fresno in 1878. George Cosgrove, the president of the Fresno County Historical Society, spoke briefly on the work of the society and of the State Historical Association. Grand Trustee Frank M. Lane reviewed the history of the early pioneer period.

The oldest Pioneer present was A. C. McSwain, father of Walter S. McSwain (Fresno No. 25), former sheriff, who passed away several years ago. The elder McSwain is 94 years of age, and crossed the plains to California in a wagon train in 1854. He addressed the gathering, and the story of his life was told by D. E. Peckinpaugh. A delegation from Selma No. 107 was also present, headed by District Deputy Dan L. Sullivan.

December 13 a delegation from the Fresno Parlor visited Madera No. 130, the occasion being a similar banquet given by that Parlor. Past president J. Wesley Smith acted as toastmaster, and addresses were made by Joseph Barcroft, Judge Stanley Murray and Grand Trustee Frank M. Lane.

Pennsylvanian Knows His California.

Santa Cruz—The old-timers night staged by Santa Cruz No. 90 was a great success. The tables were in autumn colors, and across the wall outlined in green fir, was a banner, "Welcome, Old Timers." Enoch Alzina was chairman of the arrangements committee, and was assisted by Frank Leonasio, Fred Kober, Ben Crews, J. T. Nittler, James Barrett and President F. E. Burns. The Parlor's orchestra furnished music during disposal of the turkey and trimmings.

A. E. Osburn, born in Pennsylvania but much interested and well versed in California history, was the main speaker. He portrayed the coming of the Portola expedition and referred to the founding of San Diego Mission, now extinct. During the evening Brother Rodgers spoke on Butano Forest, the preservation of which is being promoted by the Parlor.

Butano Forest contains 3,000 acres of virgin timber. It is situated in San Mateo County, just north of the Big Basin State Park in Santa Cruz County. In the destruction of Butano Forest the fire hazard to the Big Basin would be greatly enhanced. On two occasions the forest has been saved from destruction, apparently by Providence. "To commercialize this landmark would be a colossal crime," said Rodgers.

Reminiscences Related.

Merced—Yosemite No. 24 observed its forty-sixth institution anniversary at a gathering December 9 which featured reminiscences. W. J. Stockton, 90 years of age, told of the early days in and about Los Banos and also sang a song. District Attorney L. T. Milburn sketched the history of Mariposa County, with particular reference to the Fremont Grant. D. K. Stoddard explained old-time pictures flashed upon a screen. Other speakers were A. E. Howard and George Conway, and the "Haywire" orchestra supplied merry music.

Messages of greetings from several unable to attend were read. J. C. Cocanour had charge of the supper, and John R. Graham looked after the program. During the evening D. K. Stoddard was selected as president of the Parlor for the January-July term.

The Fifty-third Grand Parlor will meet at Merced in May, and in honor of the event Yosemite Parlor is endeavoring to have California poppies planted throughout Merced County. Many property owners in Merced City have already seeded their yards to the state flower.

Flags Presented Court.
Nevada City—Hydraulic No. 56 and Quartz No. 58 (Grass Valley) presented a Flag of the United States of America and a California State (Bear) Flag to the Nevada County Superior Court December 5. The presentation address was delivered by Past Grand President Hilliard E. Welch, who recounted the history of the flags, and Judge Kaslan Tuttle responded for the court.

Among the many in attendance at the ceremonies were representatives of the Nevada City high school—the executive committee of the student body, the Boy Scouts troop and the Camp-fire Girls—and representatives of the Nevada City grammar school.

County Class Initiation.
Courtland—The Sacramento County Parlors sponsored a class initiation held here December 7, and among the many in attendance was a large delegation from Stockton No. 7 of the adjoining county, San Joaquin. The ritual was exemplified by a team from San Joaquin Assembly of the Past Presidents Association composed of R. J. Marraccini, M. V. Wilson, W. A. Strong, W. M. Gregg, C. J. Frerichs, J. W. Kerrick, W. P. Rothenbush and R. D. Dorsey.

At the conclusion of the ceremonies a turkey banquet was served by Victory No. 216 N.D.G.W. Among the many speakers at the festive board were Miss Esther R. Sullivan, Grand President N.D.G.W., and Charles L. Dodge, Grand President N.S.G.W.

Membership Drive.
Santa Ana—Santa Ana No. 265 has under way a membership drive, and indications are that by the middle of January it will have doubled its membership. District Deputy Frank B. Hart is in charge, and President C. E. Price named a committee to assist him. Grand First Vice-president John T. Newell paid an official visit to the Parlor December 19.

San Rafael—Mount Tamalpais No. 64 promptly accepted a challenge from Sea Point No. 158 (Sausalito) to have another ritual contest, this time between teams composed of past presidents. The last contest, concluded a month ago, was between the regular officers of both Parlors, and in every respect was voted a tremendous success. It resulted in a substantial membership increase, record-breaking attendances and perfection in the ritual.

Both Parlors plan to keep up a spirit of friendly rivalry as a means of promoting the Order's best interests, and a second trophy will be secured, to be presented to the Parlor making the best two out of three scores.

Annual Turkey Feast.
Ferndale—Ferndale No. 93 had its annual turkey dinner December 16, plates being set for 103 members. Much to the credit of Chas. Kistner, who had charge of the feast, the bird and the trimmings could not have been better. Three of the remaining five charter members—J. A. Shaw, D. A. Francis, and A. V. Chapin—were among those present. Speeches, with N. J. Lund as toastmaster, were in order after the feast.

Ferndale has invited Oneonta No. 71 N.D.G.W. to hold joint installation ceremonies January 20. H. D. Calanchini, J. N. D. Hindley, V. O. Givins, L. R. Cadoni and Louis Lanini have charge of the arrangements.

Casa Grande.
Petaluma—The General Vallejo adobe near this city, one of the many historic landmarks of Sonoma County and the property of Petaluma No. 27, has been given the name originally bestowed on it by its builder, Casa Grande, and everyone is requested to apply that title to the structure in future. An exhaustive search of records resulted in ascertaining that Casa Grande is its true name.

The Parlor has received from the Grand Parlor $500 to assist in preserving the building, and December 8 the members had a working party at the property, replacing the old roof with a new one of split shaker, precisely the same in design as originally used.

Home Coming.
Vallejo—Vallejo No. 77 staged a home coming for the old-timers, many of whom responded, as did also the following grand officers: Grand President Charles L. Dodge, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Marshal Arthur J. Cleu, Grand Trustee Harmon D. Skillin and Grand Inside Sentinel Joseph Clavo.

After the business session, presided over by W. J. Tormey, came an Italian dinner, where addresses were made by the visiting officials and

A BIT O' FARMING

PREPARED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY M. H. ELLIS

PLANTING TIME IS HERE FOR THE ORCHARDIST. Rains have fallen, and from one end of California to the other there will be added more orchards to the already great acreage in the state. That production already is about as high as the markets can absorb, holds back planting operations only partially. Each year witnesses the increase of the orchard area.

The question is, what to plant? Looking over the economic crop studies made by the University of California, it appears that there is no sure bet in planting any fruit. There is one thing sure, however, the orchard planted on poor land, with a fruit not adapted to the soil and where water is scarce, will be a failure right from the start. Competition has become too great to try to engage in the industry under such conditions on even terms with the orchardist who has good soil, plenty of water and a thorough knowledge of the business.

Each season, some particular fruit crop is likely to bring a good price. The result is, that there is a rush to plant that fruit. It would be far safer, if the orchardist is going on generalities, to plant the one that is down; it is likely to have its up by the time his trees are bearing.

The careful man, before he invests his time and money in an orchard today, will take a careful look at the situation. He will study the prospects, examine the soil, look to the markets and consider every factor. There may be room for more orchards, but they must be planted under the most favorable conditions of soil and water and with a prospect of the most intelligent care.

IRRIGATION IN THE WINTER.

While irrigation of trees cannot be neglected as soon as the crop is off the trees, it is very doubtful indeed if it does any good whatever after the trees become dormant. If a winter cover crop is being raised and moisture is needed for that, well and good; if the water is intended for the trees, the chances are it will be wasted. The trees, in experiments so far conducted and where the practice has been noted elsewhere, show no tendency to produce better crops the year following, nor do they make better growth or give any evidence of better condition. Give the trees the water they need in the fall after harvest, to set fruit buds and get ready for the coming year, then forget watering them again until the soil auger shows need of irrigation in the spring or summer.

MEDITERRANEAN FRUIT FLY.

So far as is known, the menace of the Mediterranean fruit fly is removed, for the time being at least. Radical, almost desperate measures in Florida appear to have cleaned up the infestation. More than likely there will be another outbreak, although it is hoped there may not. The preventive is eternal vigilance; the remedy, if it should appear, is prompt action.

To this end, the campaign of education should be continued—growers everywhere should be on their guard. It is not difficult to stop such a pest as this, or the foot-and-mouth disease, if it is recognized quickly and action is prompt. Just now, as far as the fruit fly is concerned, the battle must not be considered won until time enough has passed to make sure that the last fly is eradicated. Probably only one fly caused the millions of loss in Florida, and another single fly could soon have progeny enough to cause just as great damage.

CHICK SEASON ON HAND.

The baby chick season is almost here. Before the poultryman knows it, it will be time to get the crop of chicks to prepare for replacements in the laying flock. The most successful poultrymen have found that it pays to spend a few cents more per chick and get stock from pedigreed birds that will produce more eggs than to buy the common run. It takes no more care or expense to raise a 150- or 200-egg hen than a 100- or 125-egg hrd. Get good chicks. Competition is too stiff to try to make money in the poultry business with poor stock.

GET GOOD TURKEYS, TOO.

The same thing applies to turkeys. Be sure the stock is good. The difference between turkeys at market time that weigh 12 and 14 pounds will be 75c to $1.25. If the turkey grower has his own breeding stock, the thing to do is to breed up as rapidly as possible. Good toms will be the cheapest way. But the turkey business is rapidly going the way of the chicken industry; growers are fast turning to hatcheries for their poults. Care must be taken, in this event, to determine that the poults come from good stock. As with chicks, a few cents more paid for young birds from good stock will be more than repaid at Thanksgiving or Christmas time. The added pounds may mean the difference between loss and profit.

RESTING ALFALFA LAND.

When alfalfa "runs out" and re-seeding becomes necessary, it will be found a good practice to plant another crop before planting alfalfa again. Just why alfalfa does not follow itself immediately with good results has not been determined; the thing that is of most interest is that it does not. Consequently, plant oats for a winter crop and sorghum for the summer, before planting to alfalfa again. It is more than likely that the cause for shorter-lived alfalfa stands is the practice of immediately re-seeding. Some changes will have to be made in feeding during the off year, if the crop is used on the farm, but that is an adjustment not difficult to carry out.

WINTER PEARS FOR CALIFORNIA.

With the competition on Bartlett pears getting stiff and with winter varieties commanding good prices for a year or two, there has been a tendency to rush to the planting of new varieties. Growers will find plenty of competition in the winter-pear market, when plantings now made come into bearing, but if it is determined that they are a good bet for available land the selection of varieties is important. In the first place, most winter pears are partially or entirely self-sterile and must have interplants to insure pollination. There are hundreds of pear varieties, and those not well known stand a poor chance of bringing good prices. Winter Nellis, Comice, Bosc, Hardy, Clairgeau and Easter are pretty safe bets, although soil and climate must be considered.

GOOD INSECT FUMIGANT.

Ethylene oxide, one pound to 1,000 cubic feet of space, will effectively kill all kinds of clothes moths, carpet weevils, grain weevils, flour beetles and similar insects, if the room is kept closed tightly for twenty-four hours. It will penetrate grain, get into overstuffed furniture, packages of cereals, etc., and kill all insects without damage. Foodstuffs not only will not be damaged, no unpleasant odors or taste will remain. Used commercially, it is better to double the dose, or at least make it some stronger. It has one drawback: it will seriously affect germination of seeds.

PLANTING ASPARAGUS.

Choice of variety is the first consideration in planting asparagus. Mary Washington is perhaps the best, the most disease resistant. Palmetto, however, also is good. The usual practice is to plant roots: seed will require about three years, or perhaps four, to mature. Don't trim the roots. Dig a trench a foot deep, add well-rotted manure and mix with soil, leaving about eight inches depth of trench. Set the crowns two or three feet apart, spreading the roots carefully. Cover with about four inches of soil. Smaller vegetables may be planted between the roots, if they are marked with a stick at planting, as the vegetables will be out of the way before the asparagus tops come on. Don't cut asparagus the first year.

GET GRAFTING SCIONS EARLY.

If already the stock for grafting has not been cut, it should be secured at once, even though the grafting operations may not be done for two months or more. This is especially true of almonds; and peaches, pears, plums and apricots should follow soon. Pears, apples and late walnuts are exceptions; usually the wood will be dormant enough in March. Cut the whips and store them in layers of sawdust, moist sand or shavings. Sometimes, with sandy soil, they may be buried in the ground in a shady spot, but it is safer to store them inside. Grafting usually is done in February and March, but in some cases may be successfully done in April.

SOME GRAFTING HINTS.

In grafting, don't get the wax too hot, it may injure the tissues and be the cause of failure in the operation. Some growers use asphaltum, but a wax which does not contain it will be much better for the grower who is not an expert. Asphaltum, when hot, has a tendency to seep into the crevices at the union. Some grafts, as in walnuts, have a tendency to dry out. In that case protect them with a paper bag until growth starts, but be sure to remove the protection then. Avoid the cleft graft on large stubs; the limbs often split and leave weak unions. Use rather a bark or in-lay graft. Peaches, particularly, are likely to split. One bud on a scion is sufficient; to be on the safe side, leave two. Don't use sucker wood, it is too soft and may shoot out laterally instead of upward as it should.

ARTICHOKES IN SPRING.

As soon as the last pickings of artichokes have been made, remove the stalks promptly. This will result in a 50 percent increase in growth by the following December, as compared with the method of permitting buds to bloom and go to seed. When this happens the vigor of the plant is impaired and the next year's crop will be shortened. Buds of the shoots which make the coming crop are formed by January; they are near the surface of the ground, and in removing the tops care must be taken not to injure them. The practice of cutting beneath the surface of the soil loses many buds for the next season. The cutting should be done at or just above the surface.

PLANTING TREES.

When deciduous fruit trees are planted, much care should be exercised to see that they are set in the ground at the proper depth. The bud union should be just where it was in the nursery row, in relation to the surface of the soil. Hence it will be well to plant it a bit higher, so that when the soil in the hole settles, it will be just at the surface. On the other hand, if set too high in the ground, poor anchorage will result. Of the two evils, shallow planting is the lesser. For when planted too deep, soil diseases against which the stock is resistant, such as oak root fungus, may attack the trunk.

PRUNING GRAPES.

If a vineyard is situated in a district where there is likely to be frost damage, it will be a wise practice to let the pruning go as long as possible. Late cutting appears to retard early development of the vine in the spring, thus reducing the danger from early frosts. Where there is no danger from cold weather, this factor need not be taken into consideration and the pruning operations may be started any time now. The grower should know, after last year, just about what his frost hazard is and he can regulate his pruning activities accordingly.

USING A CREAM SEPARATOR.

Be sure that the cream separator is on a solid foundation, and that it sets level and remains steady. Otherwise, the bowl will be thrown out of line and uneven results are sure to follow. A separator is a piece of machinery that needs care and attention. The speed must be kept uniform. If it is turned by hand, the revolution should be timed by a watch; if it is run by power, watch the belts, pulley and motor. Variations in speed mean variations in results. The flow of milk should be steady, and uniform, too, for the same reasons.

PRUNING DECIDUOUS FRUIT TREES.

There is no one orchard operation that has caused as much discussion as pruning. There are adherents to the long-pruning system; there are those who use the old short-pruning method and swear by it. Generally speaking, the modified long pruning will be found best in most cases. But this depends on circumstances. If the water supply is short, a long-pruned tree will likely set more fruit than can be properly matured. Heavier pruning in this case should be practiced. Long pruning, too, means that the fruit must be thinned on the branches; it means that the tree must be wire braced or the limbs propped when the fruit load grows heavy. If the water supply is adequate, if the grower will brace the limbs of his trees with wires during the winter, and if he will thin the fruit next year, long pruning—or the modified system now generally used—will be likely to bring him best returns. Thin the branches rather than cut them off; provide access for light to the middle of the bearing surface and, when cuts are made, make them to laterals.

PRUNING ORANGE TREES.

Orange trees need pruning, but not too much. Pruning every winter, and those prunings light, will be found more effective than heavy prunings once every three or four years. In the first place, all dead wood should be removed. Twigs should be removed in sufficient quantity to permit the development of bearing wood on the inside of the tree. Heavy pruning encourages sucker growth. The removal of sucker growth at pruning depends on whether it is located where it is needed. Generally speaking, most of the suckers should be taken out. Prune out enough to let light into the tree; prune lightly enough not to shock the tree and force sucker growth. Leave the tree so that objects can be seen through it, but can be seen not too well.

SPRING FERTILIZATION.

Trees will use little, if any, food during the winter, but in the late winter or early spring nitrogenous fertilizers should be applied. If these are to be organic concentrates, such as tankage, fish meal, blood, etc., they should be turned under early enough so that they will decompose and the nitrogen will be available by growing time. If the fertilizer is some non-organic material, such as nitrate of soda, nitrate of lime, nitrate of ammonia, or some of the others, put them on the ground so that the rains may take them into the soil. Citrus trees require at least two pounds of nitrogen a year. It should not all be concentrates, however; enough bulk, such as is provided by straw, manure or cover crops, should be provided to make humus and keep up the tilth.

PROTECT TREES FROM MICE.

In districts where field mice are likely to attack young orchards, and this is particularly likely to occur in the colder parts of the state, get the trash away from the trees and place guards of wire netting around the trunks, extending from well beneath the soil surface to about six inches above.

CALIFORNIA HAPPENINGS OF FIFTY YEARS AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

JANUARY 8, 1880, GEORGE CLEMENT Perkins became the fourteenth Governor of California, succeeding William Irwin. The day was clear overhead, but extremely muddy underfoot. Escorted by several companies of the National Guard through the principal streets of Sacramento, the governor-elect and the governor proceeded to the State Capitol where, in the assembly chamber, Senator Perkins took the oath of office and delivered his inaugural address. Thus began a Republican administration of the state government which sent the Democratic warhorses out into the cold world to seek new pastures.

The inaugural ball, given by the citizens of Sacramento January 13, was a brilliant affair. Dancing progressed in the assembly and the senate chambers, while a collation was served in the rotunda of the Capitol. Tea, coffee, milk and water were the only beverages served; those with champagne appetites had to satisfy themselves elsewhere, as gone were the days of uncorking hospitality in the state building.

The Legislature met Monday, January 5. The New Constitution having changed the time of convening from December to January, the forty-night holiday recess was dispensed with and the law-making body was provided with fourteen additional working days. The Senate was composed of twenty-two Republicans, eight Democrats and one Workingman, while the Assembly had forty-one Republicans, seventeen Democrats, seventeen Workingmen and five miscellaneous members. George S. Baker of Santa Clara was chosen president protem of the Senate, and John F. Cowdery of San Francisco was selected as speaker of the Assembly. During the month the Legislature was occupied in enacting statutes to put into effect provisions of the New Constitution, and nothing else of importance was done.

New Year Day was clear and cold, with freezing temperature prevailing nearly the whole day. The social custom of making New Year calls was as popular as ever.

Two storms of moderate intensity swept over the state during the month, giving a rainfall of 1.42 inches and bringing the season's total to 7.37 inches.

The mining stock market began the year in the dumps, with the lowest prices quoted for a decade and little doing.

The Capital Savings Bank of Sacramento closed its doors January 1. It was in a solvent condition, having more depositors than borrowers, and later paid all its obligations in full.

George M. Berry, popular San Francisco politician and Sheriff Nunan's bookkeeper, disappeared January 1. Investigation showed he had gotten away with $18,000 of the sheriff's funds, as well as stolen $40,000 from a building and loan association of which he was the secretary.

SIERRA MINE HAS BIG CLEANUP.

A total eclipse of the sun occurred January 11, and many journeyed to Fresno and Colusa Counties to witness the phenomenon. It began at 2:30 p.m., was total at 4:53, and the sun set partially eclipsed. There will be another total eclipse April 28, 1930.

Judge R. J. Barnett, veteran of the Mexican War and pioneer of San Jose, Santa Clara County, committed suicide January 9 because he was going blind.

Hollister, San Benito County, and surrounding country were stirred by an earthquake January 9, and Mono County had a severe shock at 10 a.m. of the 7th.

Judge John Akers, having a field plowed January 5 on the Sespe Rancho near Santa Paula, Ventura County, unearthed a cache of Mexican and Peruvian pesos, some bearing the mint date of 1810.

Rev. Henderson from Kentucky was lecturing in the state on "Our Girls, Grave and Gay." He deplored the fact that fashions of the time were preventing them from becoming mothers like their grandmothers, and said their accomplishments were of a frivolous nature. He advised wives to feed well their husbands, if they wanted to keep them true and devoted.

Wells Fargo & Co. reported the precious metals produced in California during 1879 had a valuation of $18,190,273, while the value of those produced in Nevada State was $21,997,714.

Placers paying four cents to the pan, reported from Hopland, Sonoma County, caused a rush there.

The Bald Mountain Gravel Mine Co. near Downieville, Sierra County, January 25 cleaned up 399 ounces of gold worth $7,000. Its cleanups for some time averaged 300 ounces a day.

W. H. Nash, running a tunnel near Coulterville, Mariposa County, uncovered at a depth of over sixty feet a maul and several wedges made of white oak and fashioned by a sharp cutting tool. Trees five feet in diameter were growing above the tunnel.

Along with a sleet storm January 9, Nevada City, Nevada County, had a shower of worms. They numbered millions and were from one to two inches in length, white in color and transparent.

A man named Hazelton had some Chinamen cutting wood in Shasta County. Felling a tree in a hollow of which thirteen rattlesnakes were wintering, the Chinks quit the job.

The ship "Natalie," aboard which Napoleon escaped from Elba to France, arrived at Monterey in 1834, bringing a colony of Mexicans for settlement in Sonoma County. Subsequently it was wrecked in Monterey Bay, and this month, at low tide, the sunken hull came into view.

Exports of California's 1879 grain crop to Europe, to January 1, totaled 7,041,055 cents, valued at $13,380,865. The state's grain crop now exceeded its gold yield.

FOUR LOSE LIFE IN FIRE.

Charles Parkhurst, early-day stage driver known from Stockton to Santa Barbara as a first-class jehu, died January 8 at Watsonville, Santa Cruz County. Then it was discovered that "he" was a woman who, for thirty years, had concealed her sex, mingled with men and voted as Charles D. Parkhurst. She was 55 years of age, and claimed to be originally from New Hampshire.

A two-story dwelling house on Union street, near Powell, San Francisco, burned January 6. Mrs. Daniel Haskins and her three children—Annie, aged 19; Edward, aged 4, and an infant—all in the upper story of the place were unable to escape and burned to death.

The Trocadero house, a roadside resort near Golden Gate Park, San Francisco, burned January 5, causing a $20,000 loss.

Korn & Hirschfeld's general merchandise store at Los Banos, Merced County, burned January 21 with a loss of $50,000.

Lauser & Troxel's general merchandise store and several other buildings went up in smoke, with a $20,000 loss, at Dayton, Butte County, January 8.

At San Andreas, Calaveras County, Dick Russell's livery stable and thirteen horses, along with several other buildings, burned January 24, with a $20,000 loss.

A six-day female pedestrian tournament at Sacramento City, starting January 5 with eighteen contestants, was won by Mme. Tourtillat, a French dame, who hiked 362 miles. Frau Von Berg, a German dame from the Rhine, took second money, hiking 340 miles.

Judge Stone of Stanislaus County, summoned from his bed in Modesto New Year night to admit a prisoner to bail, found on arrival at the court house members of the bar assembled, and they presented him with an elegant gold watch and chain.

J. J. Owen, editor "San Jose Mercury," was lecturing to men only throughout the state on "The Evils of Overpopulation." He contended the population was fast outstripping food production and that soon enough food could not be produced to feed the world's inhabitants. Controlling propagation of humans was the remedy suggested.

The S. W. T. Club—the meaning being a mystery—had a leap-year party at Sacramento City which was unique in every detail. The young women managing the affair passed out invitations to the men, sent escorts after them, made them wall flowers awaiting invitations to waltz, and ran things generally with a high hand.

William Gruss, while hunting near Oakland, Alameda County, saw a movement in a clump of bushes and, thinking it was caused by an animal, fired. He killed a 9-year-old girl named Whitcomb and seriously injured her 20-year-old sister.

Smoking his pipe, John C. Meredith, January 24, passed by a twenty-five pound keg of powder just opened at the St. John, Glenn County, quicksilver mine. A spark from the pipe dropped into the keg, the powder exploded, and Meredith was horribly mutilated.

JANUARY 15 DEADLINE DATE FOR RECEIVING 1930 LICENSE PLATES.
The 1930 automobile license renewal season—expected by state officials to break all previous records in history—opened at all branches of the State Division of Motor Vehicles December 15.
It will be illegal to drive with 1929 plates after January 15, unless the driver can show new plates have been applied for. After February 1, the license fee will be doubled, a penalty of 100 percent being required by law.
The fee for the ordinary automobile plates is $3, as heretofore. This is the fee also for trailers, motorcycles and commercial vehicles weighing less than 3,000 pounds unladen. Fees for heavier commercial vehicles are based on the weight.
For those who cannot make a special trip to the division offices or who are reluctant to stand in line, Frank G. Snook, the division chief, points out the simpler and easier way is to make application by mail, by forwarding the amount of the fee and the certificate of registration. Whether the motorist applies for plates in person or by mail, any changes of address should be printed on the certificate before turning it in. The law also requires that the county in which the applicant resides be designated.
Extra clerks are at all branch offices to handle the rush. It is anticipated that more than 1,500,000 licenses will have been renewed by January 15, the "deadline" date.

INTERNATIONAL HIGHWAY.
An international highway connecting California and the Pacific Northwest with British Columbia, the Yukon territory and Alaska is the objective of legislation pending in the Federal Congress, where bills have been introduced authorizing an investigation of the feasibility of such a project and providing an appropriation of $25,000 for a commission of three to study the plan.
The proposed route would connect existing roads along the Pacific Coast states into British Columbia with Alaskan roads, the gap to be covered between the Canadian-United States line and Fairbanks, Alaska, being some 2,000 miles. The Federal Interior Department, the Canadian government and Alaska Territory are collaborating in the plans.

FAST SUM FOR HIGHWAYS.
During 1930, California plans one of the greatest highway development programs in its history. The State Department of Public Works estimates the expenditures will total $88,030,000—$38,030,000 to be spent on state highways and $50,000,000 on county roads.
A total of $10,000,000 in state highway contracts will be offered to bidders during the first six months of 1930, and for the second six months the contracts offered will reach a total of $7,800,000. Expenditures to complete projects either under way or now being advertised will total $14,590,000. Maintenance expenditures will amount to $5,640,000, which will be equally divided between half-year periods.
Constitutional—California's gasoline tax has again been held constitutional by the United States Supreme Court.

AUTO INDUSTRY CONDITIONS AS VIEWED BY FINANCIAL GIANT.

The gigantic size of the automobile industry and the relatively short space of time in which its growth occurred have made many people concerned as to its stability, said the December news letter of the National City Bank of New York, but the past record of the industry shows that it has always been able to solve its own problems as they arose. In the midst of the stock market break the shares of leading motor companies were driven down severely under forced liquidation, and the public has not been fully informed upon the strong financial position of the industry.

A compilation of the assets of the leading companies, and particularly of the amount of cash and securities in their treasuries, makes a remarkable showing. . . . Aside from this impressive picture of the financial strength and liquidity of the motor industry, a number of encouraging local news reports have come from the trade during the past month and show the general trend. . . . Industries allied with automobile manufacturing are completing also an unusually active year. Makers of parts and accessories will as a group doubtless show a substantial gain in their 1929 profits, and the accessory industry has now become so important and diversified that some of the leading companies will make more money this year than the entire General Motors organization made ten years ago.

Tire production points to a new high record of 60,000,000 casings of all types, and earnings should be substantial in spite of any writing down of inventory that may be necessitated by the decline in crude rubber prices in the last few weeks.

Gasoline consumption this year will be 15 percent larger than last year and will aid in the further recovery of earnings in the oil industry, although prices are still depressed from the heavy crude production which in 1928 amounted to 900,100,000 barrels and in 1929 will approximate 1,000,000,000 barrels. Since the first of October, however, real progress has been made toward curtailment and output for the country as a whole has been cut from 2,900,000 barrels daily to slightly over 2,600,000 barrels. Most of the reduction has taken place in the California and Oklahoma-Kansas fields, while Texas declined slightly and the combined total of the remaining fields is unchanged.

MAKING PROGRESS.

Progress is being made in the efforts of the eleven Western states to obtain legislation providing for the construction of improved highways across unreserved public lands, untaxed Indian lands and other Federal Government reservations to connect with the federal-aid highway system in the United States.

A concerted drive to secure passage of such legislation in both houses of the Federal Congress has been launched, and it is hoped the appropriation for such roads will be increased to $12,500,000, with a provision that roads forming important links in the federal-aid highway system be given preference in the building programs.

EYESORES TO DISAPPEAR.

Advertising signs along the highways leading into Yosemite National Park will soon be a thing of the past, a big majority of the landowners along the routes having agreed to banish the eyesores from their property as soon as present leases expire.

SUGGESTIONS FOR CAREFREE AND ACCIDENT-FREE MOTORING.
Motoring advice is given freely as the air for automobile tires, and often the motorist may weary of the constant repetition of reminders and suggestions. But the factor of safety is so largely dependent on individual responsibility, that the old adage of "dripping water wearing the hardest stone" seems to apply to this subject. The most popular form of motoring advice is that contained in brief summaries of the salient points for carefree and accident-free motoring. One of the best of these put forth in some time is passed along as a timely decalogue for keeping out of both jail and hospital, not to mention saving fines and smashed fenders. Here are the ten wholesome suggestions in this decalogue:
Keep the car in sound condition.
Keep the car under control; you are always in danger if you cannot stop in the insured clear distance ahead.
Keep your eyes on the road; one second's inattention may mean disaster.
Never fight for the right of way.
Go along with the procession; you have no more right to "drag" traffic than you have to jeopardize yourself and others by unnecessary "cutting in."
Be as courteous on the road as you are in your own home.
Know the traffic rules, and obey them.
Take pride in your driving skill; if normal people are nervous while riding with you, something is wrong with your driving.
Don't mix liquor, worry or anger with gasoline.
Study local maps, and experiment for shorter and less-congested routes.

CALIFORNIA DOES NOT HAVE COMPULSORY INSURANCE LAW.
Considerable misunderstanding, it appears, has resulted from the California law which went into effect last August fixing the financial responsibility of motorists. Many have been accepting statements that the Legislature enacted a compulsory insurance law, which is not a fact. While it is generally admitted that, under present-day conditions, it is highly advisable to carry insurance on all motor vehicles, the law does not demand it. It does provide, however, that if a judgment against a motorist remains unpaid, that motorist forfeits his license and may not obtain another until the judgment pending is paid and guarantee is given that he will be able to meet reasonable judgments in the future if the court should impose such.

REGISTRATION RECORD.
During 1929, for the first time, California passed the two-million-mark in motor-vehicle registrations—2,015,418. The increase, compared with 1928, was 184,813.
Showing the steady increase in registrations are these figures: 1909, 10,600; 1914, 123,516; 1919, 477,450; 1924, 1,350,752; 1929, 2,015,418.

They All Do It—Every state in the nation and the District of Columbia now collect a gas tax, the average being 3.07 cents.

Mileage Increases—Compared with about 100 miles ten years ago, the average day's drive of motor tourists now is 234 miles.

THE BIG CITY THAT KNOWS HOW

COMES OF AGE

THE CALIFORNIA DISTRICT OF THE United States Forest Service has come of age, according to report of District Forester S. B. Show. Twenty-one years ago, in December 1908, the San Francisco headquarters of the national forests of the state had its beginning. Theodore Roosevelt, a staunch supporter of the forest conservation movement, was then president, and Gifford Pinchot, a member of the famous president's "tennis cabinet," was chief forester at Washington. It was Pinchot who issued the order establishing the California district headquarters.

The first land to be set aside in California for forest conservation purposes was the San Gabriel Timberland Reserve in California South, created by presidential proclamation in 1892. This reserve covered 555,000 acres and was the nucleus of the California national forest system which has been expanded to eighteen federal forests covering one-fifth of the land area of the state.

The early day "forest reserves," as the national forests were then called, were first administered by the Federal Interior Department, but were not placed under any form of supervision until 1897. In 1905 the "reserves" were transferred to the Agricultural Department and placed under the immediate administration of the bureau of forestry. In order to deal on the ground with local forest problems, inspection districts were organized in the West by the bureau in 1907. These were later changed to administrative units known as national forest districts, one of which was the California district, including the federal forests in California and in a small portion of southwestern Nevada and southern Oregon. The name "forest reserves" was changed to national forests in 1905.

Forty-three officers whose names appeared on the California district roster of December 1908 are still with the forest service in this state. Prominent among those of the first administrative force of the California district who have since left the federal forest service are M. B. Pratt, state forester of California, and R. F. Hammatt, secretary-manager California Redwood Association.

JOHN McDOUGALD JOURNEYS ON.

John Edmond McDougald, one of the few remaining boys who, in 1875, joined the Independence Day parade in San Francisco out of which developed the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, is no more, having journeyed on to the unknown land December 20.

"Honest John," as he was known by thousands of friends, was born at Coloma, El Dorado County, June 5, 1853, and came to San Francisco as a youngster. He responded to the invitation of General A. M. Winn, Founder of the Order of Native Sons, to march in the Fourth of July parade in 1875, and July 10 of that year became a charter member of California Parlor No. 1.

As delegate or officer, he attended many sessions of the Grand Parlor. At Nevada City, in 1887, he was elected a Grand Trustee, and at Vallejo, in 1904, he was chosen Grand Treasurer, and continued to so serve the Order to the time of his passing. He was very active in all Native Son affairs, and was a member of the San Francisco Extension of the Order Committee.

For twenty-six years, John McDougald served faithfully the City and County of San Francisco as treasurer. He had a host of friends, both within and without the Order of Native Sons, and his passing is keenly regretted by those who knew him.

EARLY DAYS RECALLED.

Recent abandonment of the antiquated cable street-car line along Pacific avenue, San Francisco, resulted in this comment in the "Placer Herald" of Auburn, Placer County:

"The cable cars were invented by A. J. Hallidie, Placer resident of the '50s and later San Francisco wire manufacturer and University of California regent. San Francisco's first cable car was used on the Clay-street hill in 1873. Hallidie always said the idea of cable cars came to him from a wire cable used for mining purposes, built by him on the Middle Fork of the American River below Forest Hill in the '50s."

BIG CROWD AT BENEFIT BALL.

The annual ball of the San Francisco Parlors of Native Sons and Native Daughters for the benefit of the homeless children drew a crowd of more than 10,000 to the Civic Auditorium Thanksgiving Eve. James L. Foley was the chairman, and Mrs. W. H. Urmey the secretary of the arrangements committee.

Sheriff William J. Fitzgerald was the floor director, and was assisted by Louis F. Erb and George W. Schoenfeld. Twin Peaks Parlor No. 185 N.D.G.W. won first prize in the drill contest.

SEWING CLUB LUNCHEON.

The sewing club of Dolores Parlor No. 169 N.D.G.W. had a delightful luncheon recently at the Native Daughter Home, when twenty members attended the final meeting of the year. The table was attractively decorated with autumn flowers and individual favors. The club was organized three years ago by Grand Marshal Evelyn I. Carlson, and twice a year a generous quantity of garments, all hand made, are sent the Central Homeless Children Committee. The club disbands during the winter months and resumes its charitable work in the spring. The Parlor made an attractive showing at the benefit ball for the homeless children, and made a most gratifying record in ticket selling.

Members of Dolores enjoyed a Christmas party December 11. Kids' costumes were worn, and prizes were awarded those lucky at games. Refreshments concluded a very pleasant evening, presided over by Myrtle Ross and an enthusiastic committee. Officers of the Parlor will be installed January 8 at private ceremonies.

GRAND PRESIDENT VISITS.

Castro Parlor No. 178 N.D.G.W. recently received an official visit from Grand President Esther R. Sullivan, and following a supper was escorted to the meeting-place, where the ritual was exemplified by the Parlor's corps of efficient officers. Accompanying Grand President Sullivan were Past Grand President Mae Himes Noonan, Grand Inside Sentinel Millie Rock, Supervising Deputies Anna Theusen and Ethel Stuhr, District Deputy Agnes Curry and delegations from fifteen Parlors. Dainty refreshments, at tables carrying out the holiday spirit and colors, were served at the meeting's conclusion.

December 18 the Parlor had its annual Christmas tree party for kiddies under 12, each child receiving a gift, a balloon and a bag of candy. At the mardi gras ball for the benefit of the homeless children Castro was represented by sixty-eighty members in a bridal parade; all were prettily gowned, and the picture was a pleasing one.

The last Tuesday of each month is given over to welfare work. A large committee of the Parlor visits Letterman Hospital, taking refreshments and putting on a program in ward 19. December 21 a Christmas party was staged. Each patient received a box containing a gift, fruit and candy. A program was presented, and punch and home-made cake were served.

GRAND TRUSTEE VISITS.

December 10, Grand Trustee Charles A. Koenig paid an official visit to Stanford Parlor No. 76, N.S.G.W. and brought with him a delegation from Golden Gate Parlor No. 29, led by President Harry Young. Five candidates were initiated, and President William F. Weisgerber of Stanford and his corps of officers rendered the ritualistic work in a highly commendable fashion.

Grand Trustee Koenig complimented the president on condition of affairs in Stanford Parlor and for the way the meeting was conducted and the ritual rendered. Speeches were made by Grand Second Vice-president Dr. Frank Gonzales, Grand Trustee J. Hartley Russell, Harry W. Gactjen, President Young of Golden Gate and Past President Arthur T. Poheim of Stanford Parlor. The meeting closed with refreshments served by Past President Frank A. Biedermann.

SAN BENITO COUNTY RECORDS

REVEAL LYNCHING, WITH HUMOR.

"County Clerk Elmer Dowdy dug up a piece of history about our 'big little city of history' the other day," said the December 6 "Mission News" of San Juan, San Benito County, "in which a good inside view of the short shrift malefactors were given in the days of 1877 is depicted. Also, the incident reveals a somewhat humorous side to a tragedy—how swiftly and smoothly our forefathers moved to cover up their mistakes, even when made with good intentions.

"It appears there was one Faustino Arajo, around 23 years old, who was cutting up somewhat bloodthirstily in our historic hamlet back in 1877, and during his lawbreaking peregrinations made the mistake of shooting and badly wounding one Manuel Butron, who stood much higher in the esteem of his townsmen than did Arajo. Report spread Butron was dead—curious wide-eyed children and awed adults had 'seen the body,' laid out in a house adjacent to the Alameda.

"A posse was quickly organized, despite Constable Charlie Gross' swift arrest and jailing of the supposed murderer, Arajo. The posse visited the jail and, in Constable Gross' own words, 'a crowd of persons, armed with shotguns, demanded the keys of the jail. . . they surrounded me. One or two seized me from behind as others seized my hands, held me, took my pistol and keys away, and took me away from the jail.' Incidentally, to add to the constable's testimony at the inquest on the lynched man, the posse took the wanted man away from the jail too, for a few hours later his luckless body was seen dangling to the breeze from a tree on the Alameda.

"Then came the disconcerting part of the whole incident—the 'dead man' got up and left his bier, meaning his funeral couch and not the foaming suds they used to serve out in those days, and lived to a ripe old age, it might be said, dying only a few years ago. But there is still a better kick in the historical incident. The coroner's jury drawn to hold an inquest over Arajo's body actually had several members involved in the lynching. Yet a verdict was brought in that the unwanted and unmissed had man 'died of strangulation with a rope at the hand of a person or persons unknown'."

Adam Farish, Pioneer of 1849, came to California from Tennessee, and accumulated wealth from the mines of Nevada and Yuba Counties. As the founder of the family fortune, it was his cherished wish that all the members of the family should finally rest near the scenes of his early successes. Accordingly, the bodies of all but John Bolton Farish, who died November 14, were disinterred from the Masonic cemetery in San Francisco and December 5 entombed at Timbuctoo.

BERMUDA GRASS IN LAWN.

When Bermuda grass gets started in a lawn, it requires more time to keep it down than most people are willing to give. It is hard to eradicate, and once given a good start cannot be killed out without plowing up the lawn. In the summer, Bermuda makes a good lawn, requiring less water than other grass and making a sod that will withstand any kind of treatment. But in the winter, it turns brown; that spoils its usefulness.

But if rye grass is sown upon the surface, just raked in a bit and wetted down, it will give a good, green surface all winter. In the spring it gives place to the Bermuda again. If one cares to take the trouble, and indeed it is little trouble, an alternating lawn can be kept that will be green the year round. A complete fertilizer applied at planting time, and again in the spring, will prove a great help.

(SAN DIEGO CHAMBER COMMERCE.)

INTRODUCING SAN DIEGO IN THESE pages, for a series of articles concerning its activities and progress, let it be said that San Diego is the southwesternmost city of size in the United States, located on San Diego Bay, one of the ten greatest natural harbors in the world landlocked, except for the Silver Gate, by Point Loma and North Island, Coronado and the Silver Strand. It is a rapidly growing city of 160,000 population and, largely because of its setting, rated one of the most beautiful. The municipal area is twenty miles in length along the Pacific Ocean and San Diego Bay and ten miles in maximum width. It is sixteen miles from the Mexican border, several smaller cities intervening.

Railway service is by two transcontinental railroads, and many steamship lines make the harbor a port of call. Numerous southern transcontinental highways, under various names, designate San Diego their Pacific terminus as the shortest route to the ocean, and over paved road from the Colorado River westward. Within the city, 467 miles of paved streets, and a system throughout the County of San Diego, invite motor sightseeing. Numerous air lines augment rail, water and highway transportation.

Formerly regarded principally as a year-around resort, the city has in the past few years attained considerable industrial and commercial importance. The mean average temperature is 61 degrees, winter and summer, varying not more than ten degrees and causing unique tribute to this most equable climate known that "San Diego uses the shortest thermometer in the world."

Strategic location from national defense viewpoint, together with climatic conditions, have caused establishment of many army and navy institutions ashore, besides operations afloat. Notable among these are Rockwell Field and the Naval Air Station on North Island, leading aviation establishments of the army and the navy; Marine Corps Base, Naval Training Station, Naval Hospital, Destroyer Base, Fort Rosecrans and the headquarters of the Eleventh Naval District.

Oldest settlement on the Pacific Coast of the United States, San Diego was established in 1769 by an expedition of Conquistadores and Franciscan missionaries from New Spain. Fra Junipero Serra, leader of the missionaries, is the historical hero of the implantation of christianity on this coast. The first mission of California's famous chain of twenty-one, San Diego de Alcalá, was dedicated July 16, 1769, in proximity of a rude fortification, or presidio, set up by the soldiery.

As contact point between New Spain and California, San Diego was prominent throughout the Spanish, the Mexican, and the American successions of possession. It served as the capital of California, off and on, in both the Spanish and the Mexican regimes, and the American Flag first was raised here over California soil. It is the "Plymouth Rock" of the Pacific, visited in 1542 by Juan Rodrigues Cabrillo and claimed for Spain, but not settled upon until 1769, although visited in the meantime by Viscaino in 1602.

With their mission, the padres constructed the first dam and irrigation ditches, as forerunners of the extensive systems that have transformed the land today. They also planted the first grapes and olives in this San Diego Mission enclosure, heralding these industries. Cattle raising, however, was the first great success of the mission era, and San Diego was known around the world early last century as a hide market.

Soon followed a gigantic whaling industry and, thereafter, one thing and another, which included, in 1886, the most frantic land boom ever experienced in any locality on the face of the earth. That put San Diego on the modern map, so to speak, and after its collapse a steady progress ensued, with the Panama-California Exposition of 1915-1916 marking a secured position in international acquaintance.

Among points of special interest to the visitor may be mentioned: Balboa Park, 1400 acres in the center of the city, flanked on one side by the business district and on the others by residential areas. Scene of the 1915-1916 exposition, many buildings of which are maintained and house a "cultural center" and which set the architectural style example for modern California South building. A paradise of semi-tropical flora.

San Diego Zoological Gardens, largest west of the Mississippi and especially noted for natural-habitat exhibit of wild life from all climes, a feature enabled out-of-doors by climatic conditions.

Presidio Hill, scene of old fort and original mission, now occupied by a beautiful historical museum and park.

Old San Diego, below Presidio Hill, rich in lore of the "Days of the Dons." Some of the original homes remain standing, including that glorified by Helen Hunt Jackson as "Ramona's Marriage Place," which is now maintained as a sightseeing place filled with historical relics.

La Playa, landing place of Cabrillo in 1542 on the bay shore of Point Loma, a historic Portuguese fisherfolk village.

Old Spanish Lighthouse, structure on the crest of Point Loma, superseded in present service by a modern one located near the water's edge.

Old Mission, ruins about to be restored at a site up the San Diego River valley to which removed a few years after founding on Presidio Hill to escape the influence of the garrison.

San Pasqual Battlefield, where General Kearney's overland force, joined by troops from San Diego, fought the battle that ended the Mexican War in California.

La Jolla, picturesque suburb on the ocean front, with cliffs and caves and coves of peculiar formation.

Torrey Pines Park, an area of fascinating cliffs and erosion overgrown with Torrey pines, a species nowhere else found on mainland and in only one other spot, off-shore island location. Improved with highway and trails and an inviting lodge of indian architecture.

Sunset Cliffs, in Spalding Park on the Point Loma shore, weirdly carved caves depicting centuries of sea erosion of the rock cliffs.

Many others, too numerous to mention here, and, across the Mexican border, Tijuana and other interesting places.

NATIVE SON PLEADS FOR RESTO- RATION CALIFORNIA'S FIRST MISSION.

Resuming the campaign inaugurated by San Diego Parlor No. 108 N.S.G.W. for the restoration of San Diego Mission, District Deputy Albert V. Mayrhofer, chairman of the restoration committee, said in the course of a recent radio address:

"On July 1, 1769, there stood at Old Town, San Diego, a friar of the Franciscan order who had completed that day a long journey on foot from Lower California. His name was Junipero Serra, and he was destined to become one of the great figures in American history—the founder of the chain of California missions and the originator of a unique system of government which was to afford the history of this country some of its most splendid pages.

"It was perhaps on this very day that Father Serra, looking out over the blue waters of San Diego Bay and then up the wide valley which stretched back into the foothills, first visioned the extent and importance of the task that lay before him. If he did see into the future, he beheld a series of great structures running along the Pacific coast from San Diego to San Francisco. He saw each one with its church and towers, its cloister and gardens, its walks and fountains. He saw around each one the cultivated fields; he saw the herds of cattle and flocks of sheep which were to bring riches to the country; he saw the olive trees and the oranges, the berries and the flowers, which were to spring up under the loving care of the padres and the Indians; and, above all else, he saw the crowds of Indians filling the chapels, he saw them learning the arts of civilization, he saw them brought from the darkness of pagan superstition to the light of christian training.

"Father Serra founded his first church near the presidio at Old Town, and here that church remained until 1774, or five years and one month. Here the padres had baptized more than 100 Indians, of whom 97 made their home at the church. Then the church was moved two leagues, or about six miles, up Mission Valley to its present site, the Mission San Diego de Alcalá. How sacred this ground is, how deeply it will stir the hearts of Americans, will be known only in the future. Certain it is that when the story of the Mission San Diego de Alcalá is known familiarly to the people of this country, the first mission will take its place among the most historic buildings in all the Western Hemisphere.

"Send it to the Laundry"

"For it was at Mission San Diego de Alcalá that plans were made for the missions which were to follow—more than twenty of them. It was here that Father Luis Jaume, the first martyr of the missions, was murdered in an attempt upon the mission by hostile Indians. It was here that the first great steps were taken in christianizing and civilizing the natives, and it was here that Father Serra and his Franciscan brothers first proved that the ignorant and debased California Indian could be taught all the arts of the White man—that he could become a herdsman, a farmer, a carver of statues, a painter of pictures, a builder of churches. It was here that Father Serra proved that the Indian could be reclaimed from his ignorance and savagery and that he could be made a christian citizen of a civilized land.

"Historians have told us how well the padres labored at Mission San Diego de Alcalá, how thoroughly they planned the extension of their work, and how dear the first mission became to them. It was the mission at which the incoming missionaries made their first stop in California; it was the last one to which they said goodbye when returning to Mexico. It was the mission to which the padres of the other missions turned for consolation and advice in adversity and trouble, just as it was the mission which they loved as the mother and chief of all the missions.

"But it was fated that the work of the mission at San Diego, in common with that of all the missions of California, should not endure long. Vast changes were to come about—Mexico was to revolt from Spain, and the United States was to acquire from Mexico in turn the great country which we now know and love as the State of California. Greedy and avaricious men were to work for the destruction of the missions and all that they stood for, and it was fated that these men were to succeed in dissolving the missions and bring to naught all the efforts of the padres.

"When these operations of destruction were put under way, Mission San Diego was doomed to dissolution. The padres were removed, the Indians were killed or driven into the hills, the great fields were appropriated and wasted, the herds of cattle and the flocks of sheep were dissipated. Then came a day when the great mission was deserted. Its patios were empty, its workshops were silent, its gardens were filled with weeds. Time, the relentless destroyer, began its labors. Slowly, yet too quickly, Mission San Diego crumbled. The storms beat upon it; despoilers carried away its woodwork; the hard white plaster which covered and protected its adobe walls fell away, and soon there was left of the queen of the missions only a name—and a single tottering wall.

"Time passed, and a great city, still clinging to the name of San Diego, began to grow around the Harbor of the Sun. People came from the GHOST TOWN WILL DISAPPEAR.

Stockton (San Joaquin County)—Texas Bar, a roaring Calaveras County gold town of 1849 that once boasted several hundred inhabitants, will be submerged by waters of the Calaveras flood-control dam, being promoted by this city. The dead in the old cemetery, however, will be removed, the City Council having agreed to bear the expense.

In Memoriam

MARGARET E. GRANVILLE.

We, your committee appointed to adopt resolutions of sympathy and respect to the memory of our late sister, Margaret E. Granville, herewith submit the following:

Whereas, It has pleased God to remove from our midst our beloved sister, Margaret E. Granville; and whereas, Minerva Parlor No. 2 N.D.G.W. has lost a faithful member and efficient officer who took an active interest in its affairs, ready and willing always to assist in promoting the welfare of our Order, and was at all times a true friend and, by her kindly ways and sweet personality, held the respect and affection of all who knew her; therefore, be it Resolved, That we, the members of Minerva Parlor No. 2 N.D.G.W., hereby express our heartfelt grief and regret at the loss of our beloved friend and sister, and extend to her bereaved family our deepest sympathy, and sincerely hope that their sorrow will be tempered in the thought that God, in His infinite mercy, has taken her to her eternal reward. Though lost from sight, to memory dear.

LENA LEVALL, ANNA G. QUINN, SARAH BLACK, Committee.

San Francisco, November 20, 1929.

EMMA LUESCHER NORDGREN.

The third time within a few months death has invaded the ranks of Veritas Parlor No. 75 N.D.G.W. and taken from our midst another sister. This time a charter member, Emma Luescher Nordgren, the last member of her family, has answered her Maker's call; she was beloved by all for her kindness, her charity and her unselfish devotion to the Parlor she so loved. Her exceptional qualities will ever serve as an inspiration to those with whom she associated. Therefore, be it Resolved That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of our Parlor and that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

MOLLIE CLOUGH, MARGARET GAMBINI, MARGARET THORNTON, Committee.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

UNIQUE CHARACTER PASSES.

Emperor Norton I, self-asserted "Emperor of California" and "Protector of Mexico," dropped dead on the sidewalk of Dupont street, San Francisco, January 17. Thus passed away one of the most unique and renowned characters that ever walked the streets of San Francisco. Joshua A. Norton was born at London, England, in 1817, of Jewish parentage and came to California from Cbill in November 1848. For a decade he was a prosperous merchant and a successful real estate investor, and became wealthy. In the '60s, becoming imbued with the idea he could corner the rice market and reap untold profits from Chinese consumers, he bought the visible supply of rice in San Francisco and, as well, the cargoes enroute from Cbina, and for a time prospered. Then a combine of importers broke the market flat and Norton became bankrupt. In a little time he became demented, and obsessed with the idea he was a regal personage he assumed the title of "Emperor of California," afterwards adding to it, "Protector of Mexico." Dressed in a blue coat of military cut with big epaulets upon each shoulder, with a feather stuck in his hat and a booked cane for a scepter he began to perambulate the city. From time to time he issued proclamations to his loyal subjects that were assiduously published in the newspapers and evoked universal comment and laughter from an amused public. He entered theatres at will and picked tidbits from the free-lunch tables without any pecuniary compunctions. He was temperate in habit, and a well-read and well-versed man. When short of money he issued "imperial" script, which generous subjects took in lieu of cash for purchases or made loans at a value of about one cent on the dollar. He was the only man in San Francisco who wore a goatee on the end of his nose. He belonged to a Masonic lodge in his prosperous days and, when he became afflicted, several generous friends kept his dues regularly paid so that the popular old "emperor" died a Mason.

In the Bonanza mine at Howland Flat, January 20, a blast was fired at the bottom of the 120-foot shaft. Waiting a half-hour, J. A. McDonald descended to ascertain the result. Not returning, Wm. Lucas went down to see what the trouble was, and he not returning, George Rolfe descended. He, too, failed to return, and the other miners, becoming alarmed, sent down one of their number fastened to a rope, and he discovered the three men dead from foul air.

January 2 three Germans, who were still celebrating the advent of the new year, drove their mule team onto the railroad crossing near Napa City. The mules balked as a train came along, and two of the celebrants were killed outright and the third was mortally wounded. A lad named Bidwell, 8 years of age, was driving a gang plow at Central City, Santa Barbara County, January 3. The team ran away, and he was killed.

At Ukiah, Mendocino County, the little son of Mrs. Reynolds climbed up to look at goldfish swimming in a large bowl. Losing his balance, he fell in and was drowned.

VAST ARMY TO BE EMPLOYED IN ROAD AND STREET CONSTRUCTION.

San Francisco—With every indication that the Federal Congress will increase federal-aid appropriations to stimulate road building throughout the country, expenditures for highway and street construction and maintenance in 1930 will exceed $2,500,000,000 and furnish employment to 625,000 people. These figures are reported by the California State Automobile Association on the basis of data gathered in every state.

It is pointed out that this vast program will have a big influence in justifying the billions of dollars to be spent in other channels during 1930.

CALIFORNIA'S NATIONAL FORESTS.

The largest of the several national forests in California is the Santa Barbara, containing 1,775,673 acres of land. The smallest is the Cleveland, with 380,589 acres. Each of the others has an acreage in excess of one million.

Whereas, Our Heavenly Father, in His infinite wisdom, has seen fit to call Sister Ordescha Everhart Todd from our midst; and whereas, we realize our Heavenly Father is just and merciful, yet we are deeply grieved, and mourn the loss of our sister's loving companionship; therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the members of South Butte Parlor No. 226 Native Daughters of the Golden West, at Sutter, do hereby tender to the husband, little son and mother of our dear sister, deceased, our heartfelt sympathy in this, our mutual loss; and be it further resolved, that these resolutions be recorded upon the books of our Parlor and that a copy be sent to the bereaved family and to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

habited the section, even before the founding of San Fernando Mission, cut off the tops of the large oak trees which grew in these hills and fired their kilns with the timber.

An interesting report of a Spanish padre who led an expedition from San Gabriel Mission, to locate a site for another mission midway between San Gabriel and San Buena Ventura, has been preserved, in which he described the early rancherias and the work of the "Gentiles," which included the firing of the lime kilns. It is presumed from these early records that the park site which has been tendered Cahuenga Parlor is close to a location once considered for San Fernando Mission, but which was later abandoned when the padres discovered that there was a "scarcity of timber."

Recently members of the Parlor staged a large outdoor barbecue to dedicate the park site, and are planning to mark it with a bronze tablet. The Parlor has not yet decided whether to accept title to the property, or to deed it to the City of Los Angeles as a permanent landmark.

THE BOYS ARE SURE MOST KIND.

From M. J. McGowan, a member of Los Angeles Parlor No. 45 N.S.G.W. residing at Albany, Alameda County, The Grizzly Bear received the following lines, with the request that they be published:

When I see the things the boys have done,
 I'm certainly glad I'm a Native Son;
 Glad that when I was young and gay,
 I was with the boys all the way;
 Glad I helped with all my might,
 The boys to make all wrong things right;
 Glad when I see the good we've done—
 Besides, it was lots of fun.
 And now, when I'm old and blind,
 All the boys are sure most kind.

CONSTANT PROGRESS

The Story of SAN PEDRO, WILMINGTON

(STANLEY A. WHEELER.)

ANCIENT GREECE FIRST DEMONstrated to the world how a great city, with the center of its populace living inland, could reach out to the seacoast for a harbor.
Athens established its port at Piraeus, seven miles away from the Acropolis. In the twentieth century the City of Los Angeles reached three times as far to build a port at San Pedro and Wilmington. The Athenian and the Los Angeles "shoestring" strips were both provided with the best means of transportation known at the time of building.

Greece, with her harbor assured, set about in a systematic manner to develop her trade. Soon every port in the eastern Mediterranean was well acquainted with galleys owned by Athenian shipping magnates. Even the distant ports of the Black Sea were reached, where goods of the Western world of the time were traded for Russian grain.

California South, with its harbor assured, set out to acquire a goodly share of Pacific and world commerce, and has been most successful. Cargoes of all classes, passing over Los Angeles Harbor docks during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1929, had a total weight of 27,290,856 tons and were valued at $1,009,647,083.

Behind this astounding record of harbor development is the story of a great engineering feat. Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo, the Spanish navigator, sailed into San Pedro Bay in 1542, a few days less than fifty years after Columbus first landed in America. He found little more than a series of flat lands, marshes and dry hills. A scant Indian population met him at the water's edge.

Today, the San Pedro and Wilmington waterfronts of Los Angeles Harbor and the adjoining Long Beach Harbor present nearly forty miles of deep water, well protected from the surge of the open sea.
Nearly twenty miles of this combined deep-water frontage is highly improved with modern steamship terminals. The outer harbor district provides safe anchorage for scores of merchant ships, and is for seven months of each year the operating base of the United States battle fleet, the most powerful single unit of Uncle Sam's navy.

The City of Los Angeles has expended some $25,000,000 to build piers and wharves, dredge out slips and install protecting walls. Railroads have combined with the city to connect up every terminal with transcontinental lines. An elaborate system of highways is still building. And in addition, the Federal Government has spent millions on the port.

For all this expenditure the great Pacific Southwest has contributed its purchasing power and its production of goods to keep the port busy. Los Angeles Harbor today leads the world in oil exports, and lumber imports. It leads the Pacific in the exportation of citrus fruits, borax and cotton.

During the last fiscal year 7,532 commercial ships, of 20,992,415 net tons, arrived at the port. One hundred and sixty steamship companies send their vessels here regularly.

Recent government figures show that ships bound to and from Los Angeles Harbor maintain the Panama Canal in the tolls they pay.

Surrounding the harbor are the communities of San Pedro and Wilmington, once independent cities but now a part of the City of Los Angeles. Although a political part of the larger city, they each maintain their individual civic identity. Together, San Pedro and Wilmington have a population in excess of 60,000 people.

Historically, the harbor has an interesting and important background. A dozen Spanish navigators mention the spot. Captain George Vancouver called here more than once. It was he who named Point Fermin, the promontory to the west of the port entrance.

To Wilmington came the camel trains from Yuma, under order of the Federal Government. At the same place the fathers of San Gabriel Mission had several boats built and launched. During the World War some fifty commercial steamers were built at the port.

Constant progress has been the story of San Pedro and Wilmington.

TRIBUTE TO SAN PEDRO.

From Edward Shanahan of San Pedro, The Grizzly Bear received the following for publication:

"San Pedro you are beautiful,
The fairest I have seen.
I have scaled the Galty mountains,
Likewise the Cascades green,
Through Ireland's plains
And green domains,
The coral reefs of southern seas,—
And now I'm back again.
Point Firmin Palisades, I love you!
You are good enough for me.
Your hills of rarest grandeur
Are sloping to the sea,
In morning's air you look so fair,—
An ocean's gem 'tis true;
Your mountains tower to the skies,
Hugged by the ocean's blue.
I'll build my home here by the sea,
A wanderlust no more to be."

annual Christmas party December 19, when gifts were exchanged among the members. Supper was served at tables decorated with holiday colors. December 20 the Parlor sponsored a theater party for the benefit of its veteran welfare fund. Rudecinda is taking a great interest in the disabled veterans, and had a prominent part in dispensing Christmas cheer at the National Soldiers Home at Sawtelle.

Officers of the Parlor, with Mary Dever as president, will be installed at public ceremonies January 16. Rudecinda will assist District Deputy Florence Dodson-Schonemann, one of its members, in installing the officers of Verdugo Parlor at Glendale.

INSTALLATION THIS MONTH.

Sepulveda Parlor No. 263 N.S.G.W. received an official visit December 6 from Grand First Vice-president John T. Newell. Officers were elected, J. P. Paralien being chosen president. Installation will be held in January, with District Deputy Edgar C. Crowell presiding. For the January-July term the Parlor has a program of numerous activities mapped out.

far ends of the earth to enjoy the matchless climate of this part of Southern California and to find here the substance of their dreams. Many of them were familiar with the story of the old mission—as it began to be called—and those who did not know that story soon learned it. And the more they learned about the old mission the better they loved it, and they began to long for its restoration. Attempt after attempt was made to give back to the mission some of its former glory, but the task was too great. Citizens gave freely of their time and their money to preserve even the traces of the historic old structure, but a definite movement for the restoration of the mission could not be advanced.

"Matters stood thus until this year. Then men said again: 'This is the first and the queen of all the missions. From this sacred spot the civilization and christianity of California began. All that is glorious in the history of the state radiates from Mission San Diego, and that mission is San Diego's greatest treasure, even though it be but a mud wall. Let the mission be restored, not only for San Diego, not only for the great State of California, but let it be restored for all the world!'"

PIONEER OF 1846 CELEBRATES NINETY-FIFTH BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY.

Jamestown (Tuolumne County)—Mrs. Leanna C. Donner-App, California Pioneer, celebrated December 5 her ninety-fifth birthday anniversary, and was the recipient of congratulatory messages from all parts of the state.

Mrs. App is a daughter of Captain George Donner of the Reed-Donner Party which left Illinois by covered wagon in 1846 for California. The last day of October of that year the party, then constituting eighty-one souls, ascended the Sierra Nevada and were hemmed in by winter snows. They camped along the shores of Donner Lake, Nevada County, where many perished. September 26, 1852, Leanna Donner became the wife of John App. She is an honorary member of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West.

NEW CALIFORNIA BASE MAP PUBLISHED BY FEDERAL GOVERNMENT.

The Federal Interior Department's geological survey has just published a new base map of California in two sections, each measuring 44 x 64 inches, and in two colors, black and blue. The features shown include state, county and township lines, Indian reservations, national monuments, railroads, streams, cities and villages.

California includes within its boundaries the highest and the lowest points of land in continental United States. Mount Whitney is 14,496 feet above sea level, and a point in Death Valley is 276 feet below sea level. The difference in altitude between these two points, which are but eighty-six miles apart, is therefore 14,772 feet, or about 2.8 miles.

LOOKING FORWARD WITH OPTIMISM TO 1930

(Executive Secretary,

HOLLYWOOD CHAMBER COMMERCE.)

WHEN THIS APPEARS IN PRINT the year 1929 will have passed into history. Hollywood has much to be proud of and more to be thankful for in its accomplishments during the year 1929, and looks forward with confidence to 1930.

The progress in development of the major highway program has been outstanding. Steps looking toward the eventual widening of Highland avenue as another great outlet to the south for the Cahuenga Pass traffic have been completed and condemnation proceedings are now under way. This program involves the widening of Highland avenue from the mouth of the Cahuenga

Pass to Santa Monica boulevard from its present width of 70 feet to a new width of 100 feet. This will provide space for a standard 74-foot roadway with 13-foot sidewalks, and will materially relieve the rapidly increasing traffic flow to and from the pass as well as assisting in handling the enormous traffic going to and from the Hollywood Bowl and Pilgrimage Play during the summer months.

While these steps were being taken on Highland avenue, final proceedings in the condemnation of property necessary to complete the so-called "five finger" program were taken, and the actual work of opening the new streets and the paving of the new streets and the old ones to their new width should be under way by the first of May 1930. This project involves the widening of Cahuenga boulevard from the foot of the pass to its intersection with Yuca to a width of 94 feet. This widening is then carried along Yuca in a slightly diagonal route to the intersection of Vine and Yuca, thence across Vine into Argyle and along Argyle into Franklin. This width will provide a 74-foot roadway with 10-foot sidewalks along the streets mentioned, giving a continuous 70- to 74-foot roadway from the pass to Vine and Melrose.

Other streets affected are Cahuenga from Sunset boulevard through to Melrose, this street being given a through connection south of Sunset boulevard. The new and old street will be made 80 feet in width with 56-foot roadways and 12-foot sidewalks. Wilcox will also be opened from Sunset to Santa Monica at a width of 70 feet. Ivar will be widened from Yuca to Hollywood boulevard to a width of 70 feet, and then opened as a new street from Hollywood boulevard to Sunset boulevard, where it will make a direct connection with the old Cahuenga boulevard. Cole avenue will be opened from Santa Monica boulevard northerly to Homewood, where a short diagonal street will connect it into the new Cahuenga.

The entire cost of this program, including the cost of property and improvements, will be something over $5,000,000. A part of the widening and improvement work on La Brea from Santa Monica boulevard has been completed and the remaining portion from Sunset boulevard to Hollywood boulevard will be completed early in 1930, thus giving another through artery from Hollywood boulevard to the far south.

In the meantime, plans for the paving of Sunset boulevard from Normandie to Havenhurst have been completed and should be under actual construction by April or May. This project involves a total cost of about $500,000, of which some $110,000 will be paid from public funds.

Progress has also been made in the way of city buildings. A new police station has been completed. An emergency hospital is nearly completed, and a new fire station for the central Hollywood district is being planned, construction to begin early this year.

In spite of serious difficulties, the Hollywood Bowl season during the summer was the most successful ever conducted, and there is every reason to expect the coming year to produce even better results and greater satisfaction. The same is true of the Pilgrimage Play, Hollywood's other great summer attraction, except that we had the misfortune to sustain a great deal of damage to the property of the Pilgrimage Play by grass and brush fires which completely burned off the beautiful canyon growth depended on as a background for the play. The theatre building itself was also somewhat damaged

Plans are now under way to build a permanent Pilgrimage Play structure upon the same site, and it is hoped this structure will be under way early this year. The new theatre will be fireproof and will provide seating for approximately 1,800. New improvements over the present arrangements for getting in and out of the theater and grounds will be provided under the new plans.

While building permits have fallen off for the entire City of Los Angeles to some degree, no material change has been made for the Hollywood district. Hollywood building permits for 1929, with December estimated, will run close to $20,000,000, bringing the total for the last five years to something over $100,000,000. When it is realized that this building is being done by a community with a little over 150,000 population and an area of about twenty-four square miles, it will give some idea of the tremendous commercial progress of this section.

Another way to state these figures is by comparison, as follows: Hollywood represents about 10 percent of the population and 6 percent of the area of the City of Los Angeles, while its building permits represent nearly 20 percent of the city. A still more interesting comparison is to note the place which the Hollywood district holds among the cities of the entire Pacific Coast as to building production: They place Los Angeles, of course, first, San Francisco second, Seattle third, and Hollywood fourth, putting it ahead of such cities as Tacoma, Washington; Portland, Oregon; Oakland, San Diego, Sacramento and other well-known California cities.

Bank clearings for 1929 will reach a total of $500,000,000, a tremendous increase over any previous year, and postal receipts will be at least $550,000.

The outstanding development in buildings during the year has been the construction of high-class apartments which are attracting a heavily increasing number of well-to-do people to the Hollywood district.

The year closed with the most outstanding preparations for Christmas business ever made by the Hollywood merchants, the high points of which were the three nights of December 2, 3 and 4, when Hollywood boulevard, between La Brea and Vine, was illuminated with the most magnificent display of searchlights and Christmas-tree lighting effects ever arranged for any American city. Merchants generally report a very satisfactory Christmas business, and are looking forward with optimism to 1930.

DWELLERS IN THE HILLS.

The student poem which won the annual Emily Chamberlain Cook prize in poetry at the University of California for 1929 has been published in booklet form by the University Press. The prize is offered for the best unpublished verse by undergraduates. The prize winner was Adele Francis Levi, senior student, registered from San Rafael, Marin County. The poem, entitled "Dwellers in the Hills," follows:

When the long ashen wands lean to the sky,
And the windy hill is blue to the moon,
There echoes the thin lone cry
Of dwellers in the hills,
In the high gloom.

When over the deep tinkling grass,
A marvelous dream whirls madly,
And a thousand lights behind pass
To and fro—from the hills sady
Croon the dwellers in the high gloom,
In the hills.

Those who dwell upon the mountains
Shut the lights in their tears,
Draw the curtains,
Pressing their empty throats to the years;
Lonely sinners,
Passing hands over eyes in a smoky tomb,
From the far blue hills, for the high gloom.

"Friendship seems to me to have sprung rather from nature than from a sense of want, and more from an attachment of the mind with a certain feeling of affection, than from a calculation how much advantage it would afford."—Cicero.

GRIZZLY GROWLS

"Indications are that the coming year [1930] will be a good one in the industrial world and that labor will, in the main, find continuous employment," said Representative Kopp, chairman of the labor committee in the Federal House of Representatives, December 14.

"The crash in the stock market demonstrated how far-reaching may be the harmful results of the gambling mania. We have generally thought of these results as being limited to the participants and their immediate families; but we now see that gambling may wreck the prosperity of the nation, and in its place bring chaos and depression. We have had a narrow escape. . . .

"The experience through which the American people have just passed will prove of real value if from it they learn the lesson that gambling will not make either themselves or the nation prosperous, and that in the end every form of gambling will turn out to be a delusion and a snare."

The total net cost of state government in California soared to a new high mark of $108,644,173.55 for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1929, an increase of more than $18,000,000 over the preceding year, according to the annual cost-of-government tabulation which State Controller Ray L. Riley has been issuing since 1924. Here are some very interesting figures, showing the mounting cost to the taxpayers of this state for the privilege of being governed:

1925	.....	76,631,297.91
1926	.....	82,835,251.33
1927	.....	87,597,756.25
1928	.....	89,866,787.05
1929	.....	108,644,173.55

"This is a gain of 70 percent in five years," says Controller Riley, "an amazing rate of increase when set down in comparison with the increase in property valuations during the same period, or when computed as against population gains. For the year just ended [1929] the increase is more than 20 percent over the preceding year. That, also, commands attention, for it is the present that gives us most vital concern.

"The question all California citizens must face dispassionately is simply this: Can taxable property and the individual taxpayer carry the load?"

A recent decision in the Federal Court at Los Angeles will open wide the door for another influx of Jap females—similar to the "peaceful invasion" of a horde of "picture brides" a few years back—to breed citizens of this country whose first allegiance is to Japan, unless means are taken to close this latest loophole.

The decision is to the effect that the wife of a Jap engaged in trade in the United States has a right, under the United States-Japan trade treaty, to enter and remain in this country so long as her husband's status of a "treaty trader" is maintained.

If allowed to stand, this decision means that the Federal Exclusion Law and the California Alien Land Law will be totally worthless, as protections against the Yellow menace. It means that every Jap in this country will now become a "treaty trader," and that he will have a "wife" in the homeland to bring over to carry on for his worshiped mikado.

This decision should be fought, and fought hard and unitedly, by all those who are desirous of keeping this state a White man's land. If it be allowed to stand, then California is lost!

The people of the United States were given a most welcome Christmas present when, December 16, President Herbert Hoover attached his signature to the Federal Congress resolution providing for a $160,000,000 reduction in normal individual and corporation income taxes for 1929.

Taxpayers with net incomes between $4,000 and $8,000 will pay two percent instead of three; those whose incomes exceed $8,000 will pay four percent instead of five; those whose incomes are less than $4,000 will pay one-half of one percent. Corporation income taxes will be reduced one percent.

As part of a problem suggested and financed by the Social Science Research Council of America, Associate Professor Paul S. Taylor of the University of California department of economics has published a booklet of statistics on the number of Negro, Jap and Mexican children between the ages of 5 and 15 years in California, showing their numbers are increasing more rapidly than the school population in general.

Think over these figures: The Japs increased from 10,151 in 1900 to 41,356 in 1910 and to 71,952 in 1920. He declines to estimate the number in 1930, but we'll venture the assertion that there are not less than 150,000 of them here.

"But it is clearly evident," says Professor Taylor, "that in all of these cases there has been a heavy increase in numbers between 1920 and 1927, and that the groups specially considered in this study [Negro, Jap and Mexican] have advanced relatively faster than the general population. This appears to be true to a small extent of the Negro population, to a somewhat greater extent of the Japanese population, and to a vastiy greater extent of the Mexican population."

"Langsdorff's Narrative of the Rezanov Voyage to Nueva California in 1806" is well illustrated and has a most complete index. Typographically, it is a gem, a worthy addition to the "California reprints"—"Voyage of the Sonora," "The Shirley Letters," etc.—of Thomas C. Russell. All the books are hand-set by him, and he also does the presswork. All of them are highly recommended to collectors of Californiana and admirers of the unusual in books. —C.M.H.

It will be perceived from this that Rezanov was no less daring in forming his projects for the hindng of the two nations, than quick in laying the foundation for the means of carrying them out." Rezanov, however, never returned to San Francisco, having been thrown from a horse, while enroute to Saint Petersburg, and killed.

CALIFORNIA HAPPENINGS OF FIFTY YEARS AGO

Thomas R. Jones

(COMPILED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR.)

FEBRUARY 1880 HAD FIVE SUNDAYS, noteworthy in that the situation has not occurred since, and can only occur in a leap year, and then only when both the first and the last days of the month are Sundays.

Three mild storms during the month brought 1.774 inches of rainfall, making the season's total to date over 9 inches. At the Sierra Summit there was 10 feet of snow.

Washington's Birthday, February 22, was so cold and rainy parades and other outdoor celebration features that had been planned were abandoned.

Riverside City had its second annual Citrus Fair February 24, and the 15,000 people who attended boosted the southern counties as a citrus fruit growing section of the state.

February 11, 3,000 unemployed workmen assembled at the San Francisco sand lot and paraded to the offices of the Central Pacific Railroad, where they demanded an interview with President Leland Stanford and Vice-President Charles Crocker. Both being out of the city, General Superintendent A. N. Towne heard their demands, that the Chinese must go, and promised an answer later.

Then followed a series of meetings, and delegations visited employers of Chinese, demanding that, in accordance with California's New Constitution, all Chinese labor be dispensed with by corporations. At one sand lot gathering a collection was taken, the funds to be used to pay for constructing a gallows from which to hang recalcitrant employers of Chinese. To many, the condition of public affairs appeared ominous, and fear of trouble was general, but the month passed without any serious outbreaks on the part of the anti-Chinese leaders.

A close observer of the time gathered statistics which showed that the Central Pacific was employing but eight Chinamen in California North, and they were not laborers; that seventy-five percent of the unemployed were Irishmen looking for shirt-sleeve and not white-collar jobs; that the largest employers of Chinese were Jewish companies manufacturing shoes, cigars, etc. Therefore, he opined, "the unemployment situation is one for the Irish, the Jews and the Chinks, and not the Americans, to solve."

The Supreme Encampment of the Order of Caucasians—numerically strong in the mining counties of the state and organized to make the Chinese go—met in annual session at Sacramento City February 2, fifty-seven delegates being in attendance. A. A. Smith of Nevada County was elected supreme chief, Sam Scott of Amador County vice, and W. B. G. Keller of Sacramento secretary.

BANKS REFUSE DEPOSITS.

The State Fish Commission published this month statistics of salmon fishing in the Sacramento and San Joaquin Rivers, showing that from September 15, 1878, to August 1, 1879, 4,482,250 salmon had been caught. This was a decrease, compared with the previous year, of about 2,000,000.

One of the state's largest attended weddings occurred at Los Angeles City February 18. Nearly the whole population assembled at the Synagogue, where Miss Rachel Edelman, daughter of Rabbi Edelman, became the bride of Wm. T. Barrett of Florida.

The California baseball club of San Francisco went to Sacramento and defeated the Capital City club by a score of 3 to 1.

While a California South championship baseball game was in progress at Santa Paula, Ventura County, Ed. Barbour, captain of the home team, had his leg broken by a hurled bat, and the accident let the Ventura club win.

A female pedestrian match at Nevada City, Nevada County, was won by Sadie Donley who, in five days, tramped 259 miles.

A rock overturned by a hunter along Austin Creek, Sonoma County, revealed the wintering quarters of nine rattlesnakes.

The State Legislature appropriated $30,000 to transform the "governor's mansion" at Fifteenth and L streets, Sacramento, into a state printing office. This "mansion" was constructed before California elected a bachelor governor, and he had no use for it, hence it went into desuetude.

Unable to loan their surplus funds, San Francisco savings banks refused to receive more deposits this month. Borrowers had quit doing business, on account of the unsettled condition of public affairs. One bank, it was said, was refusing an average of $30,000 a day in deposits.

Sacramento Parlor No. 3 N.S.G.W. of Sacramento City had its third annual party, a Saint Valentine's Day function, February 13, and entertained over a thousand guests. Clarence E. Parker, the floor director, was assisted by George Kohler, Ed. F. Cohn, E. B. Carson, John Barret and John T. Stafford.

School children at play in Browns Valley, Yuba County, unearthed a cache of five twenty-dollar gold pieces minted in 1856.

August Alviso, resident of Alameda County since 1854, died at Livermore, February 3. He was born at Mission Dolores, San Francisco, in 1809, and was the owner of Rancho Las Positas in Alameda Valley.

Isaiah C. Woods, manager of Adams & Co. Express in the '50s and a man of state prominence at the time of the company's disastrous failure, died at Vallejo, Solano County, February 16.

FIRES VERY DESTRUCTIVE.

R. Burnell, who represented Amador County in the State Legislature during the '60s, died at Napa City, February 18.

Dr. H. H. Toland, California's most prominent physician, died at San Francisco, February 27. He came to the state in 1851 from South Carolina, and founded the Toland Medical College of San Francisco which, in 1872, he presented to the University of California. His practice among the poor in San Francisco was enormous, his waiting room being daily crowded with impecunious sufferers to whom he administered without charge.

Thomas Hughes, 84-year-old Irishman who for a quarter century lived in a 8x10 cabin at Sebastopol, in eastern Sacramento County, was found dead in a bed composed of sheep skins and potato sacks. Apparently a poverty-stricken, derelict miner, he had for years gone about dressed in overalls patched with barley sacks and had subsisted on potatoes and flapjacks. Following his death, a belt around his waist, was found to contain thirty twenty-dollar gold coins, and thirty-three ounces of gold dust worth $600. The gold coins were of Kellogg & Co., San Francisco 1854, mintage.

A bug, working destruction as a wood borer, was discovered in Tehama County. It had a gimlet-shaped head, and when hit upon the head with a hammer it exploded with a noise like a percussion cap.

A meteor shot across the sky in San Luis Obispo County the night of February 11. It lasted a minute and a half, and then exploded into a million brilliant fragments.

Three Sacramento City inventors, Rae, Brewer and Waterhouse, patented an improvement to the electric light which eliminated the flicker—a fault Edison had not removed.

Governor George C. Perkins gave his first reception in Sacramento February 6. The State Fair Pavilion was transformed into a place of beauty, and the occasion was a gala one, attended by over 3,000. A special train, with guests and an orchestra, was run from San Francisco.

Fires during the month were very destructive. February 1, the mercantile establishment of Lausen & Troxel at Dayton, Butte County, was destroyed; loss $17,000.

Russell's livery stable, with eighteen horses and twelve stages and other vehicles, burned at San Andreas, Calaveras County; loss $20,000.

Several fine dwellings at Marysville, Yuba County, burned February 3; loss $10,000.

A Post-street fire in San Francisco, February 5, consumed several buildings, in one of which, a wash house, eleven Chinese were cremated.

NATIONAL SAN BERNARDINO ORANGE SHOW

(E. M. GORE.)

THE SPOTLIGHT OF NATIONAL INTEREST is soon to turn in the direction of San Bernardino, permanent home of the National Orange Show, where the nation's annual citrus exposition will be held February 13 to 23. More elaborate with entertainment features than ever before, and decidedly more colorful as far as attractive scheme is concerned, the 1930 classic is expected to attract considerably more than a million visitors from all parts of the world, and from many foreign countries. A number of feature exhibits and rack displays this year there will be used more than millions of oranges and other citrus fruits, thousands of dollars will be expended in exhibiting myriads of fantastic designs of dresses, flowers and drapings, which will form make-up materials of these exhibits, the officials state. Like a scene from some of the most wonderfully weird corner of Fairyland, the interior of the Orange Show exposition building will be this year, for the "Land of Make Believe" has been selected as the "motif" or the atmosphere around which is builded the dozens of architectural exhibits.

One of the outstanding features of the 1930 show will be a fashion parade, by a brilliant array of movie queens who, in the temptingly gaudy manner that only the movie queens can, will show the latest fashions from Hollywood. Even Paris, one time without a threat to rival in the style world, will possibly have representatives on hand to observe the fashion models that come direct from the Capital of France.

"Band of all nations" is another entirely new feature that will be introduced for the first time in the National Orange Show at San Bernardino. This band includes a celebrated group of forty-two musical artists who, with the pre-eminence of musical instruments of more than twenty countries, will conduct one of the most strikingly novel programs of music that has ever been given to the visitors of the National Orange Show. And there will be feature exhibits galore, including the "Fairyland" theme, and they are certainly expected to bid well for their just share of attention.

Many communities and organizations are spending more money than they have ever spent on an orange show before, in order that the fortieth anniversary of the Orange Show may be an epoch maker. This is bound to be appreciated by the visitors. The feature exhibitors that have been registered with the Orange Show include: Riverside, Redlands, Orange, Santa Ana, Ventura County, Pomona, Corona, Colton, Los Angeles County, Ontario, Upland, Pasadena, Fresno County, Fontana, Pacific Electric, and the Department of Agriculture, Cucamonga and San Dimas.

Governor C. C. Young has promised to be present on the premiere night of the show, February 13, when he will make a short address which will be broadcast to the world. On the premiere evening he will also present the diamond-studded medals to the champion orange grower and the champion lemon-grower of the state. That first night is sure to be one of the most dazzling of the other ten nights and ten days of carnival enthusiasm to follow in picturesque San Bernardino.

A box of championship oranges will be sent to the White House at Washington for presidential approval; governors of the forty-eight states are also on the list for a prize-winning box of choice California oranges. Being publicized by such appetizing tactics, who can say that the California orange will not retain the tremendous popularity it has achieved?

(DELMAR H. WILLIAMS.)

In where Sierra's summits crowned with snow look out across Nevada's wide plateau where the Western Ocean's power is spent to shape the margin of a continent; in where the heavens pour libations on the densely wooded hills of Oregon where a tropic sun's unhampered glow shines on the northern rim of Mexico. ### GRIZZLY GROWLS

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

THE GRIZZLY BEAR FOR JANUARY in an editorial footnote to a news item chronicling the birthday anniversary a survivor of the Reed-Donner Party hand of intrepid California Pioneers overtaken high in the Sierra by tragedy, said: "Mrs. App, contrary to news items appearing in the press of the state during the month of January, is not the sole surviving member of the Reed-Donner Party."

As a result, several inquiries, by mail and otherwise, were received, some of them intimating the editor was wrong in his statement. One from Oakland, says: "In the minds of many Mrs. App is known as the last living person of the Donner Party. Would you, as a matter of general information, publish the names of living members of the party?" And so, the information is given:

MRS. LEANNA C. DONNER-APP, a resident of Jamestown, Tuolumne County.
 MRS. NAOMI L. PIKE-SCHENCK, a resident of The Dalles, Oregon State.

MRS. ISABELLA BREEN-McMAHON, a resident of the City of San Francisco.

From Mrs. Schenck, under date of January 14, the editor received the following letter: "I have taken The Grizzly Bear ever since its first publication, and have always been interested in the Pioneers. I have never known any of the survivors of the Donner Party. I have had letters from Patty Reed-Lewis [deceased]. I have never met a survivor of the Donner Party."

"I am the only survivor of the Murphy family, seven of whom perished at Donner Lake. My mother, Mrs. Harriet Francis Murphy-Pike, was of the 'Forlorn Hope' that rescued the remaining ones. We always lived in Northern California. Marysville was my childhood home and was named for an aunt [Mary Murphy-Chillaud] who survived [but passed on many years ago]. I passed my eighty-sixth birthday November 13 of last year, and am the last of my immediate family.

"I saw the notice of Mrs. App, and am glad to know that I am not the 'last leaf.' I have been told of Oregonians who were with the Donner Party—that is, they started with the Donner Party, but branched off to Oregon, and escaped the tragedy of Donner Lake. Further than that, I do not know."

Mrs. Isabella Breen-McMahon is a daughter of Patrick and Margaret Breen, who were among the forty-eight of the party rescued but had long since died. She is an aunt of Gertrude Breen, the recording secretary of San Juan Baptist Parlor No. 179 N.D.G.W. at San Juan, San Benito County, where the Breen family settled. Mrs. Leanna C. Donner-App, as well known, is a daughter of George Donner, elected captain of the party enroute to California.

Mrs. Schenck, in her letter above quoted, refers to dear "Patty" (Mrs. Martha J.) Reed-Lewis. The editor knew her well, and spent many most pleasant hours visiting with her at her Santa Cruz home. It was her father, James Frazier Reed, who organized the party and because of that fact, The Grizzly Bear always refers to what is generally termed the Donner Party, as the Reed-Donner Party.

There are now before the Federal Congress two bills proposing to apply the quota to Mexican immigration—one introduced by Representative Johnson of Washington, and the other by Representative Box of Texas. Out of them should come, at the hands of the national law-making body, a measure which will materially lessen the number of not-needed and undesirable Mexican peons brought into California to further enrich dollar-worshipping corporations and individuals. Not only do these people cost the taxpayers thousands of dollars, as public charges, but they are, indirectly, largely responsible for the serious unemployment situation among white citizens of the state.

STRICTLY HOME COOKING

The hills are being opposed by organizations and individuals that were in the forefront of those opposed to excluding the Japs and other negligible-to-citizenship and socially-dangerous elements. In fact, those interests have their minds steadily fixed on the dollar of today they give heed to the future well-being of this state. That opposition should prove the very best argument in favor of applying the quota to Mexico.

No county of the state is more hurdened with Mexicans than San Bernardino, hence this quotation from a recent editorial in the "San Bernardino Sun": "We hesitate to discuss the disagreeable features of unrestricted Mexican immigration, but all of Southern California slumbers on in almost total oblivion to the perils of the existing situation. . . ."

"This newspaper has never denied but that there is work for Mexican labor in Southern California, work that the Mexican does best. But we do deny that there is justification for extending to such limits as exist today the volume of work reserved for Mexicans.

"Those big employers and the representatives of the horticultural industry of San Bernardino county have an obligation that extends beyond their own conception of what is best for themselves. They will either shortly take account of the unorganized sentiment in Southern California regarding the Mexican situation or they will face an aroused populace that will eventually appeal to the nation for the protection that this land of sunshine and flowers is entitled to have in order to remain a land where White Americans can labor and earn the right to live."

The Grizzly Bear has long been "harping" on the menace of the Japs, the Mexis, the Hindus, the Filipinos and other undesirables, and has no apologies whatever to offer. It has presented facts and figures proving that California is overhurdened with them. The editor is in receipt of the following, from Charles M. Goethe of Sacramento, president Immigration Study Commission:

"Just a line of appreciation because of your articles on Mexican immigration. . . . Announcement of the practical use of a cotton-picking machine, with $10 per bale higher sales than handpicking, disposes of another argument for cheap Mexican labor. However, profit making should not eclipse social dangers from cheap labor immigration.

"On one California charity roll recently was a Mexican family of sixteen children. The average old-stock American family averages three children. Sixteen to three—over five to one—is enough competition for an ever-vanishing food supply. Consider, however, these differential birth rates in FUTURE generations: From a 1 to 1 start, a Mexican couple, at the above rate, will have 256 grandchildren to our 9; of great-grandchildren, 'twill be 4,096 to 27. These peons, too, are usually pathetically low-powered.

"Ought not every citizen urge his senators and his congressman to force to a vote the Box bill, placing Mexico under the same quota as Great Britain, Ireland and Germany?" Every citizen interested in California's welfare should!

CALIFORNIA'S WONDERLAND

CITY AND COUNTY

STATE FLAG PRESENTED

THE OFFICE OF THE MAYOR OF LOS Angeles is now, for the first time, adorned with a replica of California's State (Bear) Flag,—California Republic Flag—having been presented by Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W. January 13. The presentation was made by Mrs. Arthur Wright, president, who was introduced by Mrs. Harry Leigh Bentley, chairman of the Parlor's history and landmarks committee. She said the day was most appropriate, being the anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of Cahuenga, in Los Angeles County, by General John C. Fremont of the United States forces and General Andres Pico of the Mexican forces, which made California a part of the American Nation.

President Wright, in presenting the flag to Mayor John C. Porter, said the muslin used in making the original flag was supplied by Mrs. John Sears; the paint was obtained from a wheelwright's shop, and William Todd was the "artist" who painted the design. The California Republic Flag was raised at Sonoma, June 14, 1846, by a small band of American citizens, in revolt against the Mexican regime in California, commanded by Captain Ezekiel Merritt. It was lowered July 11 of the same year when, at Monterey, Commodore John Drake Sloat hoisted the Flag of the United States of America. The flag was adopted as California's state flag in 1911, by act of the State Legislature. In tribute to the historic flag, Mrs. Wright concluded: "Dear old flag! When the streams shall cease to flow adown our mountain sides, when the oaks shall no longer cast their shadows across our fertile valleys—esto perpetuum—he thou forever!"

Mayor Porter responded briefly, expressing pleasure at having the state's official flag as a companion to the Flag of the United States of America in the official quarters of the head of the Los Angeles City government.

(Note—a small group of Los Angeles women have recently been agitating a change in the design of the California State (Bear) Flag, but they have had little encouragement and will make far-less progress. The suggestion is preposterous—in fact, ludicrous,—and should be ignored. No one familiar with California's history, and in sympathy with the aims of the Bear Flag Party, would for a moment desire any change in the flag's design. It is very likely that this agitation is linked with the smouldering, hut not entirely dead, desire for a division of the State of California.—Editor.)

LAXITY REGARDING ALIENS CONDEMNED.

Speaking before the Los Angeles Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, January 21, Paul Stinchfield of San Francisco, state president of the organization, condemned alien-control laxity on the part of the Federal Government and urged better enforcement of quota regulations.

"If you would take the trouble to investigate," he said, "the subtle propaganda being carried on against our citizens military training camps and the reserve officers training corps in our high-schools and universities, as well as that against our navy, you would find that although this activity apparently emanates from American groups of religionists and pacifists, it in fact emanates from Russia, a country where all the youth are under compulsory military training."

He contended the immigration law passed by the Federal Congress is not accomplishing its purpose, "owing to the aggressive pressure on Congress by aliens and hyphenated groups, so completely organized, so generously financed and so militantly united."

"Approximately 200,000 persons are remaining here illegally each year. The greater number of them are smuggled over the border. Dr. Laughlin of the Carnegie Institution of Washington is authority for the statement that while the states are spending $27,000,000 annually to care for aliens in institutions—jails, hospitals and asylums—the nation itself is spending less than $2,000,000 annually for the immigration service. We must see to it that Congress passes remedial legislation with an appropriation of funds sufficient to enable the immigration department to apprehend, punish and deport those aliens who are here illegally."

A resolution was passed urging the Federal Congress not only to provide more for the immigration service and the deportation of undesirable aliens, but to enact legislation providing for the registration of all alien residents of the United States.

ships in their early-day trek to California, arrived at Rancho San Francisco, in Los Angeles County. All of that band of notable Pioneers have passed on.

February 3, La Mesa Club, at its clubrooms in the Central Manufacturing District, will honor the "Jayhawkers" and some of their descendants at a supper-meeting to which all Native Sons and Native Daughters and their families are invited. Reservations should be made through Secretary A. G. Rlvern, 606 1/2 Hall Justice.

President J. A. McNaughton will extend the club's welcome, and the speakers will include E. W. Mecum and Wm. A. Wiley, descendants of the "Jayhawkers," and Senator R. F. Del Valle. Musical numbers will include "California, Here I Come" and "I Love You, California."

BENEFIT DANCE FOR HOMELESS.

The Native Sons and Native Daughters will have their annual dance for the benefit of the homeless children at Elk Temple, Parkview and West Sixth, February 15. Good music will be provided. The door prize will be an airplane trip to San Francisco and return, and a waltz prize will also be awarded. Mrs. Arthur Wright heads the arrangements committee.

This charity ball is being sponsored by the N.S.G.W. and N.D.G.W. Joint Homeless Children Committee of Los Angeles and Orange Counties, of which Irving Baxter is the chairman and Annie L. Adair the secretary. The homeless children work of these Orders is deserving of the support and encouragement of everyone. Tickets for the dance are but $1.25.

"POPPY" NIGHT BIG SUCCESS.

Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W. has added to its list of monthly social functions a "poppy" evening, originated by Mrs. Gertrude Allen for the purpose of making poppies to be used as decorations. The first, held January 29, was a wonderful success and most enjoyable. Miss Grace J. Norton, the social hostess of the Parlor, and her committee served refreshments. During the past month No. 124 was well represented at the several installations in county Parlors.

Los Angeles' February program includes: 12th, card party, Mrs. H. C. Douglas, chairman, assisted by an able committee; 19th, initiation; 26th, "poppy" night, Mrs. Gertrude Allen, hostess.

IN NEW QUARTERS.

The final meeting-night of Los Angeles Parlor No. 45 N.S.G.W. in its old home, N.S.G.W. Hall, was a very stormy one, "weatherically" speaking, but a goodly number of members, including several of the old guard, were out to participate in the abandonment party January 9. A program was presented, several appropriate addresses were made and refreshments were served.

The Parlor is now meeting every Friday night in Forester building, 1329 South Hope street, where it has quite attractive accommodations. At the first meeting there, January 17, officers were installed by District Deputy Burrell D. Neighbours, Roland F. Nichols becoming president. The annual formal dinner dance was held January 24 at the Uplifters Club, Santa Monica Canyon, with Elmer F. Englebracht and Julius O. Leuschner in charge. Los Angeles will have initiation February 14; and the good of the order committee will present a program February 28.

"EDUCATIONAL NIGHT" INNOVATION.

Officers of Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W. were installed January 10 by District Deputy Eldred L. Meyer, Superior Judge B. Rey Schauer becoming president. A past president ring was presented District Deputy Ralph Harbison, the presentation being made, on the Parlor's behalf, by District Deputy Burrell D. Neighbours.

Judge Schauer has introduced an innovation in Ramona which should prove enlightening. He has set aside one meeting-night of each month as "educational night," when some person, not necessarily a Native, will deliver an address. January 17, Superior Judge Leon Yankwich, a native of Roumania, spoke on "Californiaization," and his remarks were thoroughly enjoyed. He was escorted to the rostrum by William J. Hunsaker and Edwin A. Meserve. Several superior court judges, not members of the Order, have evidenced an interest in Ramona's welfare by contributing a substantial sum which will be awarded for attendance and new members during Judge Schauer's term.

Ramona's calendar for February includes: 14th, initiation, at which all neighboring Parlors have been invited to have representatives, and distribution by Walter M. Slosson of additional "Bear Club" pins; 21st, "educational night," real surprise promised; 28th, Boy Scouts of America night, featuring Ramona Troop, sponsored by No. 109. The Parlor has referred to its history and landmarks committee the suggestion to properly mark the historic sites, both in Los Angeles County, where gold was first discovered in California, and the camping-place of the "Jayhawkers."

A committee made up of some of Los Angeles' most prominent citizens identified with Ramona has been organized to bring about a large increase in the Parlor's membership, and a systematic program to that end has been outlined. The committee is officered by: Dr. John A. Schwamm, chairman; Past Grand President Herman C. Lichtenberger, vice-chairman; William C. Taylor, secretary.

OVATION FOR PRESIDENT.

Officers of Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W. were installed January 14 by District Deputy Gertrude Allen, Mrs. A. O. Evans becoming president and Mrs. Ruth Parris recording secretary. An ovation was given the retiring president, Mrs. Arthur Wright, following a report in which she gave a resume of the worthwhile things undertaken by the Parlor during her year as president, the principal one being the inauguration of the project to erect, and present to the City of Los Angeles, a statue of Felipe de Neve, founder of the city.

The outstanding event in December was the tea party for the benefit of the homeless children—a garment shower for the wee folks at White Memorial Hospital. Mrs. A. O. Evans was chairman of a committee which arranged a delightful program.

Californiana will sponsor a bridge luncheon at the Civics and Philanthropy Club, 1419 South Wilton place, February 12. It will be the first of a series of parties for the benefit of the Felipe de Neve statue fund. The committee of arrangements includes Mms. Charles Van Valkenburg (chairman), Charles Jacobson and G. R. Williamson, who announce delightful features for the event, as well as bandsome prizes.

SILVER CUP FOR NEW NATIVE.

Hollywood Parlor No. 196 N.S.G.W. officers were installed January 20 by District Deputy Al Cron, John C. Gorman becoming president. Provision was made for Secretary Ed. Riley to pay a visit to San Diego City to witness the graduation of his daughter from the high-school there. Trustee Henry Sloss provided the evening's refreshments.

During the evening President Gorman presented a silver cup to Past President Earle P. Thompson for his young son, Earl Richard. It is the custom of the Parlor to make such a presentation to every new native son arrival in its member's homes. February 17 Hollywood will initiate a class of candidates, several applications being on file.

U. S. C. SEMI-CENTENNIAL ODE MUSIC COMPETITION.

The University of Southern California, in commemoration of its semi-centennial anniversary celebration, announces a competition, ending March 15, 1930, for a musical setting of a prize-winning anniversary ode written by Miss Floy Bernice Palmer, '29. The ode will be chanted by a chorus of 1,500 Trojan students and alumni during the golden jubilee of the university to be held in June at Los Angeles.

Rules governing the competition are as follows: 1—The music must be original, unpublished, and unperformed. 2—Manuscripts should bear a non-de-plume on the title page, accompanied by a sealed envelope containing the name and address of the composer. 3—The composer must submit a full score containing the vocal and orchestra parts, and a piano score with indicated instrumentation for orchestra; arrangement for solo voices and a mixed chorus is desired. 4—Although copyright will remain with the composer, the University of Southern California reserves the right to perform the composition as frequently as desired, and to make necessary duplication of the parts for such performances. 5—Music of a dignified character, befitting the event, is desired. 6—Manuscripts must be in the hands of the Ode Judging Committee, 3551 University Avenue, Los Angeles, not later than 6 o'clock, March 15. 7—A cash prize of fifty dollars will be awarded the composer of the winning music. 8—The ode poem and further information may be procured from Dr. Allison Gaw, University of Southern California, who is chairman of the semi-centennial ode committee.

CO-OPERATE!

The February dance at El Patio Ballroom, under the auspices of the N.S.G.W. and N.D.G.W. Interparlor Committee, will be held Thursday, the 20th. These dances are monthly affairs, and as the proceeds will be used for the 1931 Admission Day celebration in Los Angeles, Burrell D. Neighbours, chairman Interparlor, urges co-operation on the part of all members of both Orders.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

Joseph A. Adair Sr. (Ramona N.S.) was a visitor last month to Modesto, Stanislaus County. Miss Grace S. Stoermer (Past Grand President N.D.) was a visitor last month to San Francisco.

Samuel M. Shortridge Jr. (Menlo N.S.) of Menlo Park, San Mateo County, was a New Year Eve visitor.

Mrs. Philip Henry (Los Angeles N.D.) is the proud mother of a native daughter, born December 29.

Mrs. Arthur Wright (Californiana N.D.) entertained the executive council of the Homeless Children Committee at her home January 17. Delicious refreshments were served and a happy time was spent recalling early-day customs.

In honor of the birthday of their daughter, Miss Estelle H. Campbell (Long Beach N.D.), Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Campbell entertained at dinner at the International Sunshine Club-house, New Year Eve. The tables were decorated in red and yellow, and 1930 was ushered in with speaking and singing.

"BOOSTING" HAS GOOD RESULT.

Glendale—The departure of 1929 and the arrival of 1930 were celebrated by Glendale Parlor No. 264 N.S.G.W. at a New Year Eve party which attracted a considerable crowd, among them several Santa Monica couples who were attracted through the "boosting" of Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 N.S.G.W. Dancing was the evening's attraction, and at midnight supper was served.

January 7 the Parlor's officers were installed by District Deputy Al Cron, Leslie Henderson becoming president. An old-fashion "mulligan stew," prepared by one who "knows how," followed the ceremonies. January 21 plans to advance the interests of the Parlor were given consideration. Past President Clarence N. Lechner gave a very interesting account of a recent trip to Death Valley and Dante's Point.

AWAKENED!

"CONTRADICTORY AS THIS STATEMENT may appear to be," says L. O. Head, vice-president San Francisco Chamber Commerce, "San Francisco's greatest 1929 industrial development was not in industry itself, nor was it in either new industries secured or established plants which expanded. Our greatest industrial development was an awakening, on the part of local citizens, to the need for industry."

"Historians would probably refer to 1929 as the beginning of San Francisco's 'industrial renaissance.' Possibly in no other period of the city's entire life has there been so much said, written and thought of regarding the problem of building the city industrially."

"During 1928 the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce industrial committee came to the conclusion that one of the greatest problems was to create a greater interest in the minds of the public regarding this city's industrial possibilities. Strange as it may seem, our greatest problem was to sell industrial San Francisco to itself, rather than to outsiders. Too many San Franciscans are over-impressed with the industrial development of other Pacific Coast cities, instead of seeing the tremendous possibilities for industry here. Another example of believing that the grass on the other side of the fence is greener, before we have attempted to see how green the grass might become on our own soil if given proper cultivation."

Grand Trustee Koenig was making his official visit and was accompanied by many members of Golden Gate Parlor No. 29. He complimented South San Francisco on its consistent growth since inception, and pointed out that but once in its career did it show a membership loss. Assets have grown along with the membership, and at the close of 1929 the Parlor had a membership of 828 and assets of $42,000. Complimenting them for the splendid manner in which they conducted the ritual ceremonies, District Deputy Dillon installed the newly-elected officers, Lloyd Doering becoming president.

At the meeting's conclusion a turkey banquet was served, with Grand Secretary John T. Regan as toastmaster. Grand President Dodge was the principal speaker and outlined the workings of the Order and offered suggestions for its future growth. At the conclusion of his remarks he presented, on behalf of South San Francisco, a handsome emblematic ring to Past President John Reid. Other speakers were Grand Trustee Skillin, Sheriff R. R. Veale of Contra Costa County, Harry W. Gaetjen, Frank C. Merritt, George W. Schonfeld, Eugene H. O'Donnell; Adolph Eberhart, forty years recording secretary Golden Gate Parlor and district deputy for South San Francisco at the time of its institution; Harry Romick, chairman of the San Francisco Extension of the Order Committee; W. Leslie Power and Ernest Luhr. Others in attendance were Past Grand President Judge Frank H. Dunne, Percy C. Long, former Grand Trustee, and John P. Coghlan.

In addition to the addresses, a musical program was presented under the leadership of Ed. Keating, Carl Prignitz and George Nilan, assisted at the piano by Ed Schoeppe. Lloyd Dornell, Bert Cuevas and Ed Keating favored with vocal solos, and Charles Prisens, newly initiated, was heard in an accordion solo.

SURPRISE DONATION.

The N.D.G.W. club breakfasts at the Native Daughter Home the second Sunday of each month are becoming popular. They are get-together meetings of the members of the Orders of Native Sons and Native Daughters. The largest attendance was recorded January 12.

George C. Holberton of the Down Town Association addressed the gathering on "What It Means to a Community to Support Manufactures." Past Grand President Mae Himes Noonan delivered the prayer. Past Grand President Dr. Mariana Bertola, chairman of the Home Committee, brought to mind that the day was the anniversary of the Home's dedication; she reported its success beyond every expectation. Miss Mildred M. Gibson and Charles C. Breslin rendered vocal selections, accompanied by Miss Helen Gibson. Portola Parlor No. 172 N.D.G.W. gave a surprise donation of $153 for the furnishing of a room and a name-plate, "Portola."

Past Grand Presidents Emma Gruber Foley and Mae Himes Noonan were the hostesses. Past Grand President Eliza D. Keith, Grand Marshal Evelyn I. Carlson and representatives from the following Parlors were noted present: N.S.G.W.—California No. 1, Pacific No. 10, Bret Harte No. 260. N.D.G.W.—Minerva No. 2, Alta No. 3, Oro Fino No. 9, Golden State No. 50, Orinda No. 56, Las Lomas No. 72, Darina No. 114, Keith No. 137, Presidio No. 148, Guadalupe No. 153, Dolores No. 169, Linda Rosa No. 170, Portola No. 172, Laurel No. 6, Ano Nuevo No. 180, Marinita No. 198, Aloha No. 106.

VISIT YOSEMITE.

Several members of the Friday Luncheon Club N.S.G.W. of San Francisco, accompanied by their wives and children, spent New Year in Yosemite Valley. Enroute they visited the historic Mariposa County court house.

Included in the party were Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Trustees Charles A. Koenig, Harmon D. Skillin and J. Hartley Russell, Joseph Rose, John S. Ramsay, Harry W. Gaetjen, Frank M. Buckley and George W. Schonfeld.

HUGE SUCCESS.

The New Year Eve dinner dance of Stanford Parlor No. 76 N.S.G.W. to welcome 1930 was a huge success. It was the final social event of the administration of William E. Welsgerber as president. A vote of thanks was given the arrangements committee: Frank F. Morris (chairman), Theodore Schmidt, Louis N. Roesch, Frank A. Biedermann, William F. Burke Jr., Charles T. O'Knee.

PAST PRESIDENT FETED.

Past Presidents Association No. 1 N.D.G.W. recently feted Grand Marshal Evelyn I. Carlson at a banquet, the occasion being her retirement as past president of the association. Mrs. May Barry presided as chairwoman, and Katherine Keating of Dolores Parlor No. 169 presented the guest of honor with a lovely gift from the past presidents of that Parlor, of which Mrs. Carlson is a past president.

The tables were beautifully decorated with flowers, and in addition to Past Grand Presidents May C. Boldemann, Margaret G. Hill, Emma G. Foley and Eliza D. Keith, sixty-five members of the association were in attendance.

OFFICERS COMMENDED.

Grand President Esther R. Sullivan paid an official visit to Golden State Parlor No. 50 N.D.G.W. January 15, and preceding the meeting a dinner was served at the Native Daughter Home in her honor.

Representatives of fifteen Parlors were in attendance, also Grand Secretary Sullie R. Thaler, Grand Marshal Evelyn I. Carlson, Grand Inside Sentinel Mille Rock, Past Grand President Margaret Grote-Hill and eight district deputies. The officers of the Parlor were commended for perfect rendition of the ritual. Tokens were presented the Grand President and District Deputy Romick.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY DANCE.

Buena Vista Parlor No. 68 N.D.G.W. will have a complimentary Washington's Birthday dance Thursday evening, February 20, at the Native Daughter Home, 555 Baker Street.

SUCCESSFUL TERM PROMISED.

Officers of Dolores Parlor No. 169 N.D.G.W. were installed January 8 by District Deputy Agnes McVerry, Lulu Rafferty becoming president. Under her guidance a successful term is promised.

At the close of the ceremonies a banquet was enjoyed by the sixty members present and the officers of Dolores Parlor No. 208 N.S.G.W., who were guests of the evening. The tables were decorated in carnival effect, and games were enjoyed.

Dolores celebrated its twenty-first institution anniversary January 21, the program being in charge of Myrtle Ross.

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATED.

In the presence of a large assemblage, officers of Castro Parlor No. 178 N.D.G.W. were publicly installed January 15 by District Deputy Agnes Curry, Vera Glander becoming president. December 18 Georgia Nelson and a committee took scrapbooks, balloons and candy to the children in wards 29 and 30 of San Francisco Hospital. Sixty little shut-ins were pleased, and now the committee is planning a Saint Valentine Day surprise for them.

January 23 the Parlor celebrated its twentieth institution anniversary. Many surprises were presented by the arrangements committee, headed by Gabrielle Sandersfeld and Cora Stobing.

CHILDREN MADE HAPPY.

The Christmas party of Twin Peaks Parlor No. 185 N.D.G.W. was very successful. Pearl Allen's clever steppers provided entertainment, and Santa Claus presented toys and candy to the children. Refreshments were served at prettily decorated tables. Gladys McCarthy, social chairman, was in charge. The veteran welfare committee paid a Christmas visit to Letterman Hospital and presented well-filled boxes to the men. The children in the tubercular ward of San Francisco Hospital were visited by the child welfare committee and were made happy with dolls, toys, etc. Hannah Sandell has been untiring in her efforts as chairman of this committee. The homeless children sewing meetings have been resumed, and a well attended meeting was held at the home of Alice Johnson.

Officers of the Parlor and those of Twin Peaks Parlor No. 214 N.S.G.W. were installed at joint public ceremonies, Loretta Gavigan and Albert Solari becoming the respective presidents. Margaret Dodsworth and Edward McCarthy were presented with past president emblems. Dancing was enjoyed after the ceremonies.

TAX BURDEN, BASED ON TRUE VALUE, OF CALIFORNIA CITIES.

The latest available adjusted tax-rate table on true value, made for the purpose of fair comparison among cities, has been made public by the California Taxpayers' Association of Los Angeles. It is based on a comprehensive study of the comparative tax rates of 255 cities of the nation.

The California cities included in the list, with the actual tax burden on $1,000 of true value, are:

San Francisco .....	$15.00
San Diego .....	20.60
Los Angeles .....	21.30
Long Beach .....	21.55
San Jose .....	22.04
Fresno .....	28.55
Oakland .....	29.80
Berkeley .....	32.22
Alameda .....	34.44
Sacramento .....	39.80

HOUSING MACHINERY PAYS.

Lack of housing of farm machinery costs the farmers of California more each year than the houses would cost, by far. If machinery is stored under proper shelter it lengthens the life of the machine, reduces repair and replacement costs and keeps the machine in much better working order. It may, and often does, avoid costly delays during the season when the machine is in use. While there may be some machines that do not suffer a great deal from exposure to sun and rain, generally speaking it is a paying proposition to put every farm implement and machine under shelter every day that it is not being used. All wood parts should be painted; all polished and bearing surfaces should be covered with grease. The machinery shed should have walls as well as a roof; chickens, hogs and cattle have no business around machinery.

'49 Celebration—Marysville, Yuba County, is sponsoring a Trails of '49 celebration for February 8.

In Memoriam

HAZEL SCATENA.
To the Officers and Members of Dolores Parlor No. 169 N.D.G.W.—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect to the memory of our late sister, Hazel Scatena, herewith submit same: The Angel of Death has again entered our sacred portals and taken from our midst our dearly beloved sister, Hazel Scatena. We tenderly condole with the bereaved family in their hour of trial and affliction and commend them for consolation to Him Who doeth all things well. Let us not think of her as dead, but as having preceded us to that golden shore where she now dwells as one of the daughters of that better land and where she waits to welcome us as we, too, shall pass through that Golden Gate.

By her death a fond husband has lost a devoted companion, the mother a loving daughter, the family one of its dearest ties, Dolores Parlor a sister whose kind disposition endeared herself to all, and the Order a loyal Native Daughter of the Golden West.

"Then let our sorrow cease to flow,
God has recalled His own,
But let our hearts in every woe
Still say, 'Thy will be done!'"

Resolved, That our charter be draped in mourning, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes, that an engraved copy be sent to the bereaved husband, and that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

EXAMPLE MAN'S CONSIDERATION NATURE'S MANY FAVORS

George H. White

(SAN DIEGO CHAMBER COMMERCE)

RATED ONE OF THE MOST BEAUTIFUL cities in the world, San Diego serves as an excellent example of man's consideration of Nature's favors in improving a selected site for metropolitan habitation. How much credit may be accorded to those of successive generations who have participated Diego Bay with its terraced shores could scarcely escape being picturesque, whatever man built on those shores. That improvement is rigidly governed, however, and the creation of Balboa Park in the interior of mesas and canyons back from the waterfront illustrates the care and the foresight exercised.

This airport, for landplanes and seaplanes, close to the business heart of San Diego and served by steam and electric railways and paved streets, is now ready for use after reclamation of tidelands, and January 1 became the operative base of several air lines. It is rated one of the finest airports in America.

in this improvement may be a matter of question. The influence of the natural setting may have guided many in the same paths, but it is pleasingly apparent to the visitor that they have done well and that a most desirable unanimity of purpose must be behind this city building.

The development of Balboa Park is one instance among the many. Sparkling San Organization of the Panama-California Exposition of 1915-16 brought about the improvement of this park, which has become internationally famed. Many years before, however, San Diegans had set aside the 1400-acre area against the time when ways and means could be provided for that improvement. It was a gigantic undertaking for the City of San Diego, prior to the exposition, to finance a world's fair, but the burden was assumed and successfully carried because it would constitute a permanent investment in beautifying the city and gaining civic housing. In succession to the exposition, these buildings, either rehabilitated or replaced by permanently constructed ones through donations by public-spirited citizens impressed by the civic benefits possible, have now become the seat of a comprehensive cultural center. And the extensive plantings have transformed an expanse of sage brush into a notable landscape of semi-tropical flora.

THE CALIFORNIA BUILDING IN BALBOA PARK, SAN DIEGO.

The architecture of the buildings, moreover, revealed a happy foresight on the part of the community, and its selection follows back into history to the original choice of San Diego shores for the founding of a city. Spaniards, coming from New Spain, founded the city, but the influence of Spanish architecture had practically vanished until the Panama-California Exposition adopted the Spanish-Colonial style, as used in New Spain, or Mexico, and set a pattern that, in very few years, has dominated the architecture of all California South.

In the cultural center, which may be said entirely due to the environment created, are included a fine arts gallery of real merit, a great outdoor organ and musical pavilion where the San Diego symphony orchestra is at home and from which programs are regularly broadcast by radio, a museum of natural history, a scientific museum and a scientific library, a little theatre, an academy of fine arts, and other institutions including the San Diego zoological gardens, which are recognized as the finest in the West in point of collections and facilities of exhibition.

The visitor to San Diego will readily find many points of absorbing interest, the more according to the degree in which he cares for historical spots and monuments that record the beginning of civilization on the West Coast, but he should not fail to devote time to Balboa Park as an example of modern community enterprise in this city and an example of gaining the most for the money in public improvement projects.

NATIVE SONS HEAR ABOUT STATE PARKS.
With District Deputy Albert V. Mayrhofer officiating, officers of San Diego Parlor No. 108 N.S.G.W. were installed January 15, Fred Kal and becoming president. Mayrhofer was elected recording secretary, succeeding Dan E. Shafer. The meeting, largely attended, was an enthusiastic one, and plans for a very active year for the Parlor were outlined, to include a substantial membership increase.

Following the installation ceremonies there was a social season at which Tam Deering talked on state parks. Entertainment features were introduced, and a spanish lunch was served. John Smith had charge of the entertainment, and Jack Spencer was chairman of the attendance committee.

NATIVE DAUGHTERS INSTALL.

San Diego Parlor No. 208 N.D.G.W. made elaborate preparations for the installation of its newly-elected officers January 28. District Deputy Nellie M. Cline officiated, and there was a large attendance of members and visitors.

Supervising Deputy Rosina Hertzbrun was general chairman of the arrangements committee, and was assisted by Ann Wood, Marion Stough, Pearl Simpson, President Mable BURGERT and Secretary Elsie Case.

SPRING SUITS ARE FIRST OF ALL concerned with flares. These disposed of, the next point in question concerns the exact definition of the waistline in the suit jacket. The nip-in, and even the molded effect, claims attention and has a youthful allure. Possibly the helted suit will outnumber its fitted rivals, since it gives the accented line at the waist and is still much more easily adjusted to the average figure than the suit cut on shaped lines. The longer suitcoat on nearly straight lines may be helted to a better line for the larger figure.

Some of the jackets which are helted are so short that the little section below the helts is almost like a ruffie, and others are so long that they are practically in the ensemble class, and with these the helts is a keep-it or leave-it proposition. With a helts which is separate, there is no doubt that the helted jacket gives the spring suit a much smarter appearance this year.

The blouse steps into the front row of prominence. A stimulating feature of the new blouses is that there is so much variety from every angle—cut, fabric, neckline, sleeves and length. They present brand-new interest in the matter of length, if they are not tuckins, as the majority are, or extremely long.

The "very long" overblouse, or tunic, is best described as of the length of one of last year's very short dresses. It is helted at normal, and provides a type that should appeal to the tall woman who is a little uncertain about the waist and skirt vogue plus longer skirts.

Necklines are more interesting, too, because collar ideas are being developed. Not the soft scarf lines associated with the crepe satin blouse, but the precise regulation lines of tailored neckwear.

Sleeves turn up in any length, and any length may be above the elbow, below the elbow, or down in conventional manner to the wrist. As already noted, the short sleeve is smarter than the sleeveless state in blouses.

The spring phase of the scarf is a cravat scarf, and it should be oblong, between sixty and seventy-two inches long, so that when the ends are knotted they reach the bust-line. Many of these scarfs are of the silk fabric of the blouse. Others are of the same woolen as the suit of sports type or of the coats that have matching linings.

Plain crepes are usually seen with touches of tweed, the familiar formula in suits. Or if there is a printed silk blouse, the scarf is printed also. Whichever way the scarf is worn, it adheres to the ohlong shape, outclassing the triangles and squares of last season.

Sweaters have gradually been becoming more and more like blouses, indicating the dress-makers' tendency in the manner in which collar, helts and jahot effects are woven into the sweater itself. An interesting effect of lingerie detail is a new item.

The beauty and durability of the silk chenille sweater suits, also the hand-knitted two- and three-piece models, have been enhanced by the use of subtle color combinations and designs.

Early spring foundation garments have definitely established the fact that princess lines and higher waistlines are now generally accepted. Even the woman of large proportions has been considered for the fitted silhouette.

One-piece combinations, in sizes well over the average figure, are designed with features that control the waist in a manner to achieve the effect of slimmness, and at the same time arranging the brassiere section higher, giving a longer and more slender impression.

This is a "lacey" season, lingerie being hordered with laces of twelve to sixteen inches in width, with yokes that cut deeply into hodies, then extend further in the form of applique. Lace herthas and lace insertions are artistically posed, and frequently garments are all lace. The possibility of lighter laces returning is said to be remote.

Deeper-hued laces in combination with pastel shades result in an almost unanimous selection of rose-heige or castor laces. The latter is seen with golden tints, usually of alencon pattern.

Dance sets are of much less importance, the reason being that they create ugly lines under fitted frocks.

Panties are circularly cut and have fitted yokes extending about the entire waist. Usually they hutton at the side or center hack. Petticoats are well represented, and in everything the ensemble motif is accented.

The question as to whether gloves will remain long for Spring, or get longer, is an interesting one. There will be an era of longer gloves, due to the strong demand that has been accorded suedes. This is described as another case of history repeating itself. It must be remembered, however, it takes about three years for any style to be accepted. Colors are white and eggshell, with rose-heige outstanding for spring.

This season, more than ever before, handhags will keep pace with costumes. There is a wealth of different materials to choose from, including silks; linens, cottons and sheer woollens, to be developed into hags of the soft type. The scarf and the heret frequently accompany the hag.

The iden of matching footwear to handbags is equally important. No one color is acclaimed, but all hues have a place. Among the materials are plain and printed linen, hand-blocked and hand-loomed silk crepe, plain or printed oilcloth, kasha and tweed in monochrome pastels and also in mixtures.

While the vagabond type of bag is popular, the medium pouch with selftop-strap is approved in felt, knitted ngora and chenille, to match up with the popular beret.

Children's hosiery for the coming season offers several new ideas. For instance, the new wide-striped socks in varying lengths match the latest striped effects in children's sweaters.
Little girl socks have cuffs designed in the most popular hair-ribbon colors and patterns.

Linked to the well-known gingham frocks, are the new socks designed to exactly match the fabric in range of color combinations, and they make an attractive accessory for young girls' sport and school fashions.

EL CAPITAN
(ESTHER CRONE.)

El Capitan, for peerless size,
A record for ages past;
A rock that with Gibraltar vies,
Whose might is sure to last.

He wears a crown of royal birth
And stands in proud array,
A mighty monarch of the earth,
Whose kingdom none can sway.

A sentinel to Yosemite he stands,
Within the Valley's gate,
Proving the work of mighty hands,
With contour true and great.

Who could but worship at his shrine,
Or fail to bend the knee?
King of stone, supreme, divine,
Reign thou through Eternity!

GOVERNMENT CHARTS SHOW WHICH FOODS SUPPLY ESSENTIAL ELEMENTS.

For food growth and development the human system needs sufficient amounts of protein, calcium, phosphorus and vitamins in the diet. A new series of charts prepared by the Federal Agricultural Department's bureau of home economics illustrates how the growth of small experimental animals is stimulated or retarded by feeding or withholding the foods that provide the necessary factors for proper bodily development.
Rats and guinea pigs are used in such studies for various reasons: they are small, easily handled and cared for, and their growth and development are rapid, so that results are obtained in a relatively short time, and they will eat practically all kinds of food.

The charts show, for example, the effect of protein on growth in two ways—the necessity of protein not only of good quality but of adequate quantity. As a guide to food selection, a group of common foods, such as meat, milk and cheese, known to be good sources of efficient protein, completes the chart.

Following the same plan, other charts show the need for a good supply of calcium, phosphorus, and vitamins A, B and C in the food eaten regularly, and picture the foods that can be depended on to furnish these dietary essentials.

Teachers, extension workers, club leaders and others interested in good nutrition may obtain the set by sending 50 cents in coin or postal order (not stamps) to the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

PRUNE ROSE BUSHES.

Before the dormant season ends, prune the rose bushes. The amount of pruning depends on the variety and the purpose of production. Heavier pruning is necessary with the vigorous hybrid perpetuals than with the weaker tea roses. Bush, tree and vine roses must, of course, be pruned with an eye for their shape and purpose. In general, if fine specimens are wanted, prune heavily; if a mass of less nearly perfect blossoms are wanted for garden display, use the knife more sparingly. Cut out old, weak canes, leaving three to six in the cases of the bush types.

CITIES GET WATER FROM FORESTS.

The importance of keeping the watersheds of California free from fire is emphasized in a recent report of the California district of the United States Forest Service, which states that 122 cities of the state, with a total population of 3,000,000 persons, draw their domestic and municipal water supplies from the federal forests.

A BIT O' FARMING

PREPARED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY M. H. ELLIS

CALIFORNIA'S FRUIT CROP LAST year brought $261,454,000 to the growers of the state, according to figures of the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service in its preliminary estimate. This total compares with $218,949,000 for 1928. Thus last year, with a fruit crop cut almost in two by heavy spring frosts, the orchards returned over $42,000,000 more to the farmers than did the normal crop of the preceding year.

Of course, those figures do not tell the whole story. While the state is undoubtedly richer as a result of a curtailed crop and consequent higher prices, there are individual growers, hundreds of them, who suffered severely through the loss of almost all of their crops, if not the entire yield. Those farmers in districts which escaped the frosts, of course made huge profits.

One lesson is pointed, without a doubt: short crops of high quality mean good prices. If the frost would judiciously thin some of the fruit from each orchard, all the producers would profit. But Nature does not do things that way. The growers, then, until markets absorb all the offerings at a profit, must take things in their own hands, if they are going to reap the highest gains for their investment and labor. Heavy thinning, to produce better fruit, is one means of accomplishing this. Dumping half the crop after it ripens is little short of criminal; promoting quality and keeping poor fruit from the market is wisdom. This procedure has been recommended by the College of Agriculture for some years and alert growers and shippers have urged it; the consummation of the practice will be years in coming.

In the meantime, the farmer who was caught by the frost last year will have no one but himself to blame for a repetition of his losses. The cost of fighting frost is about $5 an acre per night. Fifty large sized oil heaters are needed to the acre; more must be used if they are small or if solid fuel is used. This does not take into consideration the banking of heaters on the windward side, where necessary. Thermometers should be tested, heaters should be filled and placed in the orchard, and the frost warnings sent by wire, radio and other means should be carefully heeded. There is no use of firing heaters unnecessarily; there is need of getting them going when the temperature drops to the danger point.

BURN THE BRUSH PILE.

Taking for granted that pruning has been done by this time—that the limbs and twigs have been gathered into a pile or piles and that all other refuse in the orchard has been taken up with the pruning refuse—burn it. Or take the consequences of shot hole borers, flat head borers, peach twig borers, brown rot, and other insects and fungus diseases. Not all brush taken from the orchard is dangerous; perhaps none of it is; but there is pretty good reason to believe that some pests or diseases will find refuge in it. Further, the keeping of the brush serves no good purpose. Haul it to the roadside or other safe place and let the enemies of good fruit and profits go up in smoke.

THRICE A DAY MILKING.

When the dairy industry started in America, with the farmer keeping a cow or two for his own use, he milked twice a day, when other chores around the farm were done. So the practice began, and so it has been followed. Cows on test for record have been milked three or four times a day, for it has been admitted that more milkings brought more milk; it always was contended, however, that this increase of milk was not enough to pay for the extra labor and feed. But now, the United States Department of Agriculture, at its experimental farm at Beltsville, Maryland, reports the results of tests made with a herd of 600 cows, good milkers and poor, milked three times a day. The increase in milk was 21.2 percent, the increase in butterfat 22.4 percent, the net increase in cash, $43 a cow per year. Now, when dairies are operated as a business, not as a sideline to general farming operations, it may pay the dairyman to figure out if he can increase his profits with an extra milking.

GRAFTING WAX AND HEATER.

Grafting wax is purchasable at orchard supply stores; good wax is easily obtainable. However, if the orchardist chooses to make his own, try this: one pound of beeswax, two pounds of resin, a quart of linseed oil and four tablespoons of turpentine. Or this: a pound of beeswax, five pounds of resin, a pint of linseed oil and an ounce of lampblack. Or a pint of flour may be substituted for the lampblack. Melt together with a gentle heat and keep melted during grafting, but avoid overheating. A simple, and good, heater for wax during grafting may be made by using a lamp with a metal base and chimney inside a tin can, about ten inches high and eight in diameter. Cut a hole in the lid so that a can containing the wax will rest upon the chimney, which is notched to provide ventilation. Holes must be punched in the bottom of the can for ventilation. A bail may be attached for carrying and for hanging to limbs while in use.

BABY CHICK TIME IS HERE.

Chicks can be purchased now for flock replacement. February, March and April are the months for baby chicks in most parts of California. Earlier, they may go into a fall molt; later, they may not come into egg production while prices are best. There is danger, of course, the February chicks may start laying before cool weather comes, then molt and stop. That is a problem of care and feeding. The whole point is to prevent laying before the pullets have reached their full growth. The beginner may, on the whole, do better with March chicks; the experienced egg producer will want his chicks this month.

TREE SURGERY.

The orchardist who knows his business will, when pruning, see that all cuts are made to a lateral, and in its direction, so that no stub remains and so that the bark will heal over the wound, closing it. When stubs are left, there will be decay, not only causing the rotting of the stub, but of the tissues down into the larger limbs. There is an old prune orchard in the northern part of the state where hundreds of dollars have been spent in tree surgery to overcome just this sort of thing. If the trees are worth while, it pays; it pays better never to let the condition arise. In treating such decay, all the affected wood must be chiseled out and the cavity disinfected with bichloride of mercury, 1 to 500. Coat the cavity with a good asphaltum paint after it is dry, and then fill with cement, not too moist. It will not pay to bother with secondary branches, but in the trunk it usually is well worth while.

PLANT BUSH BERRIES NOW.

While strawberries planted now will do well, they will not give the yield that could have been secured had they been set out last fall. But this is the time to plant bush berries, granted the soil is in proper condition. The Advance Blackberry, rated as an evergreen, is an exception; it should be transplanted in April. In planting bush berries, the grower will do well to consider the Youngberry, which is advancing so rapidly in popularity. Its care does not differ materially from that of other trailers, and its fruit is creating a demand that has not been met by production up to the present time.

CHLOROSIS OF PEARS.

In many sections of the state an excess of lime in the soil causes a chlorotic condition of the trees, evidenced by yellow leaves. This has been especially noticeable in pear districts, the result of a lack of iron caused by the lime in the soil. Dr. J. P. Bennett of the University of California has found that by boring holes in the trunk of the tree and inserting a soluble iron salt, such as iron sulphate, iron chloride or iron nitrate, chlorosis is overcome. The dose is .01 of an ounce in trees an inch in diameter, .05 for trees two inches in diameter, .25 for a five-inch tree and an ounce for a ten-inch tree. One hole is bored for each inch of the diameter of the tree, equally spaced around the circumference, and placed at about the soil level. The holes are covered with grafting wax.

PREVENTING RESERVOIR LEAKAGE.

Asphalt oil will prevent leakage of water from reservoirs, if carefully applied. The procedure found best is to apply about a gallon of hot oil to a square yard of surface, and mix it in with a harrow. A second application of like proportions follows, to get good penetration. A third coat of heavy 90 percent road oil seals the surface, which may be sanded to improve the appearance. Where water is valuable, and in most parts of the state it is, the water-proofing will be repaid many times over in a few seasons.

PLANT BEETS EARLY.

The greatest enemy of sugar beets in California has been found to be the beet leaf hopper, which carries the germ of a disease that has wrought havoc in certain years. No remedy for the disease has been found, but it has been ascertained that if beets are planted early they will have come along so near to maturity by the time the leaf hopper appears with its disease that little damage will be done. Many forehanded growers have their beet crops not only planted, but up and growing; there is no known advantage in late planting, and the early crop ordinarily escapes damage. The College of Agriculture of the University of California is attacking the problem from a breeding standpoint, but selecting plants which resist the disease, and propagating them, again selecting and breeding. One very promising variety has been developed which, tried in Russia, has been returned here and found still resistant, proving that the resistant qualities are well fixed. A similar test has been made in Germany, the results of which will not be known until this season.

DAMAGE FROM PROTECTED ANIMALS.

It is estimated that deer in the north coast counties have damaged orchards to the extent of a million dollars in a single year. The deer are protected, of course, and the farmer merely has to take his losses and bear them. Squirrels in other districts have done not inconsiderable damage to the nut crops; they are protected, too. Just what is to be done about such situations seems a problem. The farmers feel that, in districts where deer come from game preserves owned by the state, the state should afford protection or pay damages. Certainly some cognizance of the situation should be taken by the authorities; the farmers are organizing to see that notice of the depredations is brought to the State Fish and Game Commission. If redress cannot be secured there, the matter probably will be brought before the next Legislature.

NOW FOR FERTILIZATION.

The time approaches rapidly when the orchardist must take whatever steps he plans for spring fertilization. Whether it be organic or non-organic, the fertilizer must get under at the right time. Cover crops should be permitted to grow to as near maturity as possible, without depriving the soil of water that may be needed by the trees. If irrigation water is available in plentiful quantities, let the crop come near to seeding. Disc it in, rather than plow, running the disc over the ground until the growth is chopped up and worked under. Manure should have been applied last fall for the best results, but it is not too late now to benefit from its application. Commercial fertilizers, with readily available plant food, should be put on at once, before the rains cease, if not already applied.

California has become awakened to the fact that trees will not produce year after year, unless the soil is kept rich in plant food. Citrus growers more than any other class spend money freely and obtain results in proportion. Cover crops and manures furnish nitrogen and add humus to the soil; they will benefit any area. Commercial fertilizers should be applied with a knowledge of soil deficiencies and needs. Both have an important place in the fertilization program.

SPRAYING BUSH FRUITS.

This is the month to control many of the berry diseases, such as redherry or blackberries, cane blight, leaf spot and others. Redberry, common to Himalaya blackberries, is caused by the redberry mite, which prevents maturity of the fruit. The remedy is a spray in February or early March, a gallon of lime-sulphur to fifteen of water. This spray also will do much toward the control of rose scale which, however, will not be a problem if the bushes are pruned regularly and consistently. Cane blight is characterized by dead patches upon the canes, often entirely girdling them. Cut out the affected canes, and while still dormant spray with Bordeaux mixture, 4-5-50.

POLLINATION PROBLEMS.

In recent years, pollination problems have been brought more and more to the fore in fruit production. This is particularly true in plums, where many varieties are self sterile, many more partially so. In these instances the cure is interplanting with varieties that will pollinate the others, or grafting of such varieties to the trees. In any event, pollination is accomplished in great part by insects, especially bees. Hence, many orchardists have established colonies of bees; others rent bees for the purpose. The presence of bees in the orchard at blossoming time can hardly be overestimated. In years of adverse weather, when insects cannot work during the blossoming period, the yields are light. If there are no bees, the results are naturally the same. There is the problem of maintaining the bees during the rest of the year; but whether rented or owned, the bee is indispensable in the orchard.

DIP FOR POTATO SEED.

Before planting potatoes, it is well to soak the seed in a corrosive sublimate solution or one of formaldehyde. The former is given preference, and is used one ounce to eight gallons of water. Formaldehyde is used one pound to thirty gallons. Soak for an hour and a half to two hours, and disease controlled in this way will be pretty effectually cared for.

CALIFORNIA'S MOTORING PROBLEM

Ernest McGaffey

(Manager Magazine Bureau Automobile Club Southern California.)

WITH THE STEADY INCREASE IN the use of automotive vehicles all through the state, California is faced with a motoring problem which continues to become more and more complicated. As 1929 closed and 1930 took the center of the stage, it was only too apparent that the difficulties growing out of the practically universal vogue of the automobile, auto truck, bus, trailer and motorcycle are steadily multiplying. The motorization of the state is so complete, and its dominance in a number of transportation channels is so marked, that the problem of handling the situation in such a manner as to give it the greatest possible scope with the least possible loss, is one that requires the most careful and rigid consideration!

To begin with, California must reduce the number of automobile killings and injuries. It can be done! Not over night, nor in a day or a week. It is just as well to face the matter squarely. California's record for 1929, in this respect, is the worst in the United States, and infinitely worse than its own record for 1928. Allowing for all the excuses and alibis that can be brought forward, and the record is a tragic one, allowing also for those involuntary suicides listed as grade-crossing "accidents," there was no reason for wiping out approximately 2,000 men, women and children through automotive fatalities in 365 days in the Golden State. While we have more automobiles to the population, and in the southern thirteen counties particularly a much longer season (the year round in these counties), the absence of snow, sleet and heavy rainstorms removes various perils of the streets and highways, and should be a substantial retarding element as regards such casualties.

Some of the expert students of city accidents arising from the deaths of pedestrians at much-used crossings contend that all such crossings should be provided with overhead pedestrian bridges, with a space wide enough to allow free access coming and going across the streets, the structures to be high enough to permit fire engines and other vehicles to pass under. Any vehicle such as a surface railway repair truck might be built in sections, so it could pass under and be "telescoped" out at the point of use, or built to lie down in transit and raised, locked and made rigid when in use. Down-town crossings, being guarded by signals and traffic officers, need not be so protected. The construction of school tunnels for Los Angeles school children is pointed to as giving absolute protection, and the overhead bridges are urged as a safeguard for all pedestrians.

That such structures would not be an aid to any aesthetic survey of the street crossings is cheerfully admitted by the supporters of such a plan, but they argue that a cluttering up of the street intersections with the dead and dying from automobile accidents is signally unbecoming and, in fact, a disgrace to civilization. Economically, they say, it would be a saving in dollars and cents. And as to the agony and grief caused by the losses of husband and wife, father, mother, sister, brother and children, their argument is that every life saved is worth a dozen bridges, if indeed such calamities can be, by any stretch of imagination, made a matter of computation.

The increasing muddle as to parking space in down-town streets is really in its very infancy, in the judgment of some students of the situation. All of the rules, regulations, laws and ordinances invoked do not widen narrow streets, nor lessen the steady-growing volume of urban traffic. Such futile attempts do not even touch the fringe of the situation. The trouble lies deeper, and the remedy has not as yet been applied, to hark to a number of the men who have investigated the conditions. In the down-town business area, so say these authorities, the street cars must be absolutely removed from the surface and put underground. Subways, they claim, are the only possible solution to that angle of congestion.

This, they assert, would leave infinitely more room for automotive vehicles, and lessen substantially the tendency to accidents. But, retort the opponents of a subway system, that would encourage and undoubtedly bring about a flooding of the business districts with more automobiles and this would result in confusion worse confounded. The answer to this contention, say the subway proponents, rests in the second necessity forced on the city by automotive traffic. That is the building of commodious garages, from thirty to forty stories in height, in or immediately adjacent to the down-town districts. But in many cities the ordinances do not allow the construction of edifices of such a height. Very well, pass another ordinance, for fifty- and even seventy-story buildings are being erected in the United States. Modern engineering is performing miracles in building, compared to the old four- and six-story days.

As the widening of business streets in most large cities would be prohibitive, the ingenuity of man must adopt the most practical way of solving traffic problems without widening the streets. Elevated structures for the street cars to travel over have not proved either practical or satisfactory. They obstruct vision, pollute the air, deafen the ears with noise, and are clumsy and out of date. The question of elevated automobile speedways is receiving considerable attention, and some rather extensive experimentation. In Chicago, the Wacker highway was an initial launching of one of these aerial thoroughfares which attracted much attention, and the City of St. Louis has lately announced a plan for embarking on a grand loop elevated highway along exceedingly ambitious lines.

All of these reachings out to meet the crucial situation show that engineers and builders, inventors, dreamers and businessmen are vitally interested in bettering the present situation. One of the crying needs for action is the universal distribution of the automobile, truck, stage and bus throughout America. Seventy-six percent of the world's automobiles and automotive vehicles are owned and used in the United States. Here in California South there are 1,088,459, and in California as a whole 1,859,523, according to the figures furnished by the State Motor Vehicle Department. In ten years from now, say the experts, automotive traffic will have doubled in Los Angeles County. That is to say, in one California county alone approximately two million automobiles, trucks and busses will be travelling the streets and highways.

It looks like drastic steps are compellable to meet this crisis. Certainly no half-way measures are going to suffice. Each month parking gets

Native Daughters of the Golden West

“WITH THE NEW YEAR, 1930, having just started, and with the knowledge that every person has made many splendid resolutions, we trust that this means that every member of our noble Order, the Native Daughters of the Golden West, has definitely outlined with resolution plans so that the Loyalty Pledge for the New Home will be fulfilled.

“No greater nor more worthwhile work could be engaged in than for every member to assist with its realization one hundred percent. We are banded together and pledged to help those among our membership who may need assistance, and we have the most wonderful opportunity, with the Loyalty Pledge, to assist those members who, in their declining years, may need the comforts and environment of a home. To keep this Home always as a haven of rest, a place where care and fraternal love may prevail, each one of us, as a member, must do our part. Thus, if every member will work and talk for the liquidation of the two mortgages, the only indebtedness against the Home, and personally do her part as well as assist her local Parlor to send its full quota of the Pledge, the debt will be lifted.

“It is true that most definite results were accomplished with the Loyalty Pledge prior to the Grand Parlor of 1929, and that with the contributions received during and immediately following that Grand Parlor it was possible for the Grand Secretary to deposit a sum totaling $11,500 to offset the first mortgage of $40,000. To every individual member who sent in her contribution, as well as to every Subordinate Parlor that fulfilled its quota one hundred percent, sincere thanks and grateful appreciation are here-with extended.

“If every member who has thus far not contributed a free-will offering or who has not earned personally the amount of the Loyalty Pledge, but intends to do so, will respond, every dollar still owing—not alone the balance due on the first mortgage, but the total amount of the second mortgage, which is $16,500,—will be liquidated. This second mortgage is the total amount due to the Subordinate Parlors which so willingly loaned, from their Parlor assets, sums of from $100 to $1,000, which was for the furniture fund.

“So, both mortgages, totaling $56,500, plus all interest which has been paid or will be paid, may, by the entire membership of the Order fulfilling their Loyalty Pledge, be liquidated one hundred percent.

“The biggest and best publicity our Order could receive, and the most valuable as a membership campaign slogan, would be the fact that we would be able to broadcast that, as a fraternal order, we were able successfully to liquidate an indebtedness of $56,500 within two years from the date of laying the cornerstone of the new Home.

“This fact could be used as a best seller not alone for increasing the membership of the Order, but as a means of arousing interest so that many new Parlors might be instituted. So, this message to each and every member and to every Subordinate Parlor: FULFILL YOUR LOYALTY PLEDGE!

“Remember that the best gift we, as an Order, gave to ourselves last year was the new Home, dedicated January 12. As the first anniversary has just passed, may we not pledge, each of us, dear sisters, to personally contribute and to assist the Parlors with which we are affiliated to contribute, until the total amount due for the Loyalty Pledge has been remitted to the Grand Secretary's office?

“It is the desire of the Home Committee to place within the Home, upon a bronze scroll, the name and number of all Subordinate Parlors which have contributed their quotas to the Loyalty Pledge, and it is therefore the earnest wish that each and every Parlor will be so listed. Where there is a will to do, there will always be found a way; aim high and look upward, and you will reach your goal!

“Kindly put forth every effort, that both mortgages may be canceled during the next Grand Parlor session, which will be held in Oakland this coming June.”—DR. LOUISE CAROLINE HEILBRON, Past Grand President, chairman Loyalty Pledge Committee.

Tribute to Pioneer Mothers.

Sonoma—Sonoma No. 209 paid tribute to the Pioneer Mothers by dedicating with most impressive ceremonies an illuminated redwood Christmas tree to their memory. A bronze tablet, resting upon a concrete base at the foot of the tree was draped with a California State (Bear) Flag. With appropriate remarks President Gertrude Groskoff unveiled the plaque, which reads: “Planted by R. B. Lyons 1865. Dedicated by Sonoma N.D.G.W. to the Pioneer Mothers of Sonoma December 24, 1929.”

W. L. Murphy was master of ceremonies, carolers sang several appropriate selections, and State Senator Herbert Slater, the chief speaker, paid deserved tribute to the mothers of all times, and particularly the Pioneer Mothers, and commended Sonoma Parlor for its wonderful tribute to them.

No. 209 and Sonoma No. 111 N.S.G.W. had their first annual Christmas party December 23. A play put on by a rural school was much enjoyed. Santa Claus distributed gifts, dancing was indulged in and a pot-luck supper was served.

President Showered.

Mariposa—Mariposa No. 63 sponsored three recent pleasant social affairs. A benefit card party was well attended, and during the supper hour a musical program was enjoyed. January 3 the annual birthday party was held, the families and the holiday guests of members being the special guests. Each member was responsible for some “stunt” or game, and thus entertainment in keeping with the gay spirit of the holidays was presented. Dainty refreshments were served.

President Isabelle Rowland lost her home and its entire contents by fire during November, so, at an afternoon tea, the Parlor arranged for a surprise miscellaneous shower in her behalf. Veritas No. 75 (Merced) joined in the affair. Following tea, served at tables beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums in all the autumn shades, Mrs. Rowland was escorted to a large table laden with attractively tied bundles. Opening them, there were displayed a full supply of household linens, bedding, aluminum ware and many warm garments for the two small boys of the family.

Dream Realized.

San Juan—Members of San Juan Bautista No. 179 long cherished the hope that some time an electrically lighted cross would mark the spot where the Franciscan fathers, 150 years ago, raised a large wooden cross.

The general public co-operating, their dream has been realized, and there now stands upon the hill a beautifully illuminated concrete cross that can be seen for miles in every direction.

A Lovely Picture.

Santa Ana—In honor of its institution anniversary, Santa Ana No. 235 had its annual Christmas party December 23. Long tables were set in the form of a “U,” at the opening of which an elaborately decorated tree scintillating with color presented a lovely picture. Tall red tapers in crystal holders and bright holly berries added a gay note to the appointments. Down the centers of the table formation and at each intersection were tiny sleighs driven by Santa Clauses, and miniature sleighs loaded with candies and nuts marked each place. Among the guests were ten members of Long Beach No. 154 and fourteen from Grace No. 242 (Fullerton), among the latter Mrs. Nellie Cline, Lucanna McFadden and Mattie Edwards, formerly charter members of No. 235. During the delicious turkey dinner all other lights were turned off, leaving but the mellow glow of the tapers upon the tables and the vari-colored lights upon the tree. After the dinner there was a short business session.

Mrs. Bertha Hitt, organizer of Santa Ana, was the honored guest and speaker of the evening. She briefly sketched the Parlor's institution and paid high tribute to Miss Sue J. Irwin, the then Grand President, who officiated and installed the charter officers, with Mrs. Carl Mock as president. She recalled driving about the territory with Mrs. Clara Gerken and Clara Cooke looking for eligibles and securing 100 charter members. District Deputy Kate McFadyen complimented the president, Genevieve S. Hickey, the committee and the members for efforts put forth in making the evening such a success.

At the January 13 meeting of the Parlor the officers were drilled in preparation for installation January 27. An amusing and pleasant hour was spent when Mrs. Bertha Hill distributed questionnaires in a memory contest, prize winners at which were Mrs. Rose Ford and Marguerite Dickinson. District Deputy Eunice Fox, accompanied by a corps of officers, went to San Pedro January 16 and installed the officers of Rudecinda No. 230.

Pioneer Days Recalled.

Saint Helena—La Junta No. 203, prior to installation of officers January 7, enjoyed a fine turkey dinner, prepared by a committee composed of Mrs. Marlon Gaylord, Esther Thompson, Katherine Goodman, Marguerite Alexander and Miss Josephine Jackse. The table decorations, unique and very appropriate, recalled California's pioneer days; log cabins amid forests of pine and fir, and at each cover a tiny tin plate, filled with yellow candles, to represent the implement used by the early-day miners to recover the gold found in the hills of the state.

Following an hour about the happy festive board, District Deputy Maye Bradley installed the officers, Mrs. Agnes Street becoming president. Miss Zuleta Bellani, on behalf of the Parlor, presented gifts to the district deputy and to Mrs. Celeste Thorsen, retiring past president. Members of the Parlor accompanied District Deputy Bradley to Calistoga, January 20, where she installed the officers of Calistoga No. 145 at a joint ceremony with Calistoga No. 86 N.S.G.W. La Junta and Saint Helena No. 53 N.S.G.W. are making arrangements for their annual carnival dance, to be given February 15 for the benefit of the homeless children. They hope to raise a large sum, and thereby maintain their splendid record.

Annual Bull Best Ever.

Etna—Eschsoltzia No. 112 had a very successful meeting December 18, when four candidates were initiated, the officers delivering their charges in a letter-perfect manner; two of the candidates are daughters of a Pioneer of 1852. At the close of the ceremonies a hot chicken pie supper was served. The table decorations were miniature Christmas trees and red candles. Bernice Smith, Agnes Calloway and Nancy Smith acted as hostesses for the occasion.

The Christmas ball, sponsored annually by the Parlor, was the best ever held. In keeping with the season the hall was decorated with evergreens and red bells. The grand march was led by the members of Etna No. 192 N.S.G.W. and Eschsoltzia. The Parlor's entire staff of officers have been elected to serve another term. Grand Organist Minna Kane Horn was a visitor to Yreka during the holidays.

Surprise for Retiring President.

Sacramento—La Bandera No. 110 entertained Miss Thelma Derr, retiring president, with a surprise party January 3. There were games, for which prizes were awarded, and refreshments were served in the banquet-room, the tables being decorated in red flowers, tapers and favors. Each place had an individual miniature candle and holder, and when the candles were lighted the result was very effective. Mrs. Sadie C. Murphy, the newly-elected president, presented Miss Derr with a gift. The committee in charge was Sadie C. Murphy (chairman), Lucie Roberts, Elsie O'Brien, Margaret Corcoran, Grand Outside Sentinel Edna Briggs, Flora Schmittgen and Ada Peterson.

Looked Charming.

Oakland—Piedmont No. 87 and Piedmont No. 120 N.S.G.W. had joint installation of officers January 9. Mrs. Edna Gade of Bear Flag No. 151 officiated for the Daughters. Miss Pauline Griswold, the new president of No. 87, looked charming in a pale yellow satin dress; she carried a bouquet of gorgeous yellow roses, the gift of Mrs. Mae Ward, chairman of the evening. Following the ceremonies dancing, to music furnished by Al Weber of No. 120 and his orchestra, was enjoyed.

Joint Installation.

Courtland—Officers of Victory No. 216 and Courtland No. 106 N.S.G.W. were jointly installed January 4, Margaret Wiedmann and George Burke becoming the respective presidents. A buffet supper followed the ceremonies. Victory's committee of arrangements included Marie Goodman (chairman), Agueda Lample, Ethel Miller, B. Doris Fisher and Alicia Buckley.

Altar Flag Presented Sons.

Lincoln—Preceded by a turkey dinner, the officers of Placer No. 138 and Silver Star No. 63 N.S.G.W. were jointly installed January 15 by District Deputies Alice Railey and Harry Schroe-

Native Sons of the Golden West

WHILE THE FIFTY-THIRD GRAND Parlor of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West will not convene, in the City of Merced, until May, already considerable interest is being shown—much earlier than in the past several years.

Yosemite Parlor No. 24 has charge of the housing and entertainment of the Grand Parlor, and as D. K. Stoddard is the president of the Parlor and as such heads its arrangements committee, those who anticipate attending the session can look forward to an exceptionally good time, and they will not be disappointed.

Stoddard says that, as May will be the diamond anniversary of Merced County, a program in keeping with the importance of the occasion will be featured.

Until just recently, it was the general opinion that there would be at least four, and possibly five, candidates for Grand Third Vice-president. But something has caused the potential candidates to decline to make their intentions definitely known at this time. Some important conferences are billed for an early date, and following them the "hat" or "hats" will come into the ring.

At this writing, there is every prospect of a three-cornered campaign for Grand Treasurer, to succeed the lately-deceased John E. McDougald, who long held the office.

The Grizzly Bear communicated with all "rumored" candidates for the usually contested offices, and thereby gleaned this information:

Ben. Harrison (Arrowhead No. 110) of San Bernardino, incumbent, and Samuel M. Shortridge Jr. (Menlo No. 185) of Menlo Park are candidates for the Board of Grand Trustees, seven to be chosen.

Grand Outside Sentinel Horace J. Leavitt (Mount Bally No. 87) of Weaverville seeks advancement to Grand Inside Sentinel.

Unless the usual procedure is "shot to pieces"—and there is nothing at all to indicate that it is even contemplated—Grand First Vice-president John T. Newell (Los Angeles No. 45) of Los Angeles will succeed Charles L. Dodge (Carquinez No. 205) of Martinez as Grand President. Grand Second Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez (Pacific No. 10) of San Francisco will be advanced to Grand First Vice-president, and Grand Vice-President Seth Millington (Colusa No. 69) of Gridley will step up to Grand Second Vice-president. The efficient and ever-willing Grand Secretary, John T. Regan (South San Francisco No. 157) of San Francisco, is not likely to be opposed for re-election.

Some very important announcements may be looked for in The Grizzly Bear for March.—C.M.H.

School Dedicated.

Pescadero—The Pescadero grammar school was dedicated by the grand officers January 19. Addresses were delivered by Grand President Charles L. Dodge and Past Grand President Charles A. Thompson; Mrs. Weeks, secretary Pescadero school trustees, and Miss Abbott, superintendent San Mateo County schools.

In behalf of Pebble Beach No. 230, President Stanley Steel presented to the school a Flag of the United States of America and a California State (Bear) Flag. A flag-raising ceremony followed, the students of the school participating.

Complete Success.

San Bernardino—The annual New Year Eve dance of Arrowhead No. 110 and Lugonia No. 241 N.D.G.W. at the Municipal Auditorium was a complete success, over 600 couples dancing the old year out and the new year in. The arrangements committee was headed by Charles Frost for Arrowhead and Francis Wixom for Lugonia.

Old Firm Dissolves.

Oroville—Officers of Argonaut No. 8 and Gold of Ophir No. 190 N.D.G.W. were jointly installed January 15 by Will Hibbard and District Deputy Myrtle Bernardo, George E. Tegrunde and Norma Levulett becoming the respective presidents. Gold of Ophir presented a gift to District Deputy Bernardo and a past president's pin to Ruth Brown.

Following the ceremonies a delicious banquet was served. Ben F. Hudspeth, Butte County recorder, gave an address on the European background of early California history. Arrangements for the evening were in charge of a committee composed of Jessie Hoover, Laura Kloss, Rosa Crum, Esther Lepper, Jake Bump, William Bartley and Cyril Macdonald.

Dual Anniversary.

Napa—Past Grand President Frank L. Coombs observed two anniversaries December 28—the seventy-sixth of his birth and the fiftieth of his marriage. He is the son of the late Nathan Coombs, who came to California in 1842 and in 1848 laid out the City of Napa, where Frank was born.

Historical Association Elects.

Fresno—At the annual meeting of the California State Historical Association December 27, Past Grand President Ithillard E. Welch was elected president, and Dr. Owen C. Coy of the University of Southern California was retained as director. Vice-presidents chosen include W. H. Ellison, Ben R. Walker, Phil Bekeart and Allen Wright.

Flags Presented Court.

San Rafael—The Marin County Parlor are among the first to comply with the Grand Parlor legislation regarding presentation of flags to the courts. January 10 a delegation of representative members from Mount Tamalpais No. 64, Sea Point No. 158 (Sausalito) and Nicasio No. 183, headed by City Attorney Jordan L. Martinelli, past president of Mount Tamalpais, called on Edward I. Butler, also a member of No. 64 and judge of the Superior Court of Marin County, and in well-chosen language, on behalf of the Parlor presented the court with a set of beautiful silk flags with curved walnut bases.

There were present a large number of applicants for final naturalization papers, and it was a peculiarly favorable and fitting time for such a presentation. Martinelli reviewed the history of the two flags and their significance. Judge Butler responded, and assured the visitors he was very grateful for the gift, which he accepted on behalf of the Superior Court of Marin County. "They will remain permanently in this courtroom," he said, "as reminders of the undying principles for which those two flags and the founders of this great nation stand, and in memory of those hardy Pioneers who founded this great state, the romantic history of which is unique in the annals of civilization."

Walter E. Grady, for several years recording secretary of Mount Tamalpais, hopped aboard an airplane, flew to Reno, Nevada State, and took unto himself a bride. As the newly-weds reside in San Francisco, the Parlor loses its most efficient secretary. His resignation was accepted with much reluctance and many regrets.

Workers Enulogized.

Menlo Park—Menlo No. 185 added nine new names to its membership-roll January 16, the ritual being impressively exemplified by the officers of the Parlor. Among the many visitors were Grand Second Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez and District Deputy Frank W. Bammann.

A fine banquet, prepared by Al Arellanes and John Orton, was served after the meeting. Many good addresses were made, especially that of Dr. Gonzalez, and B. G. Larricou and J. Blanchard were enulogized for their good work in securing new members.

Seven Parlors in Joint Installation.

Sacramento—The three local Parlors of Native Sons—Sacramento No. 3, Sunset No. 26 and Sutter Fort No. 241—and the four Native Daughter Parlors—Califia No. 22, La Bandera No. 110, Sutter No. 111, Caloma No. 212—joined forces for installation January 10. Dancing followed the ceremonies.

District Deputies Edith Kelly and June Longshore officiated, and the new presidents include: Grand Trustee Irving D. Gibson of No. 3, F. A. Atkins of No. 26, J. J. Sinnott of No. 241, Edna Brackley of No. 22, Sadie Murphy of No. 110, Elsie Beskeen of No. 111, Mildred Wiseman of No. 212.

Charter Member Memorialized.

Napa—In the elubroom of Napa No. 62 is a radio, dedicated December 23 to the memory of the late Charles E. Levinson, charter member and for years the financial secretary of the Parlor. The eulogy was delivered by Edward L. Weber.

The occasion was one of festivity. A class of candidates were initiated, a turkey banquet was served under the direction of William R. Johnson, chairman of the evening, and an elaborate

GOOD WOMAN PASSES ON

San Francisco—Mrs. Leonie Jung, mother of the late Fred H. Jung, for several years Grand Secretary N.S.G.W., passed away December 22. She was a native of Alsace Lorraine, aged 85. Many of the old-time Native Sons will remember her as a frequent attendant at Grand Parlor gatherings, as she always accompanied Fred.

In Memoriam

EMILY DOWERS.

Whereas, It has pleased our Heavenly Father, in His divine wisdom, to remove from our midst and associations our beloved sister Emily Dowers; and whereas, in the passing of Sister Dowers, Amapola Parlor No. 80 N.S.G.W. mourns the loss of one of its loyal and faithful members, one who held seriously those cardinal virtues of our Order that endeared her to all of her sisters; therefore, be it

Resolved, That while we will miss our departed sister, nevertheless the memory of her associations will ever remain fresh in our minds, and that we do extend the hand of sympathy to the bereaved family in this, their hour of sorrow; and he it further resolved, that these resolutions be spread in full upon the minutes of this meeting, that a copy be sent the family of our departed sister, and that a copy be mailed The Grizzly Bear for publication.

AUTOMOTIVE INDUSTRY REACHED PRODUCTION PEAK LAST YEAR.

The automotive industry of the United States achieved its largest yearly production in 1929, when 5,651,000 autos and trucks, having a wholesale value of $3,483,900,000, were placed on the market, according to statistics released January 13 at the Federal Commerce Department's automotive division. These figures compare with a total production of 4,601,130 units in 1928, having a wholesale value of $3,162,798,880.

During 1929, the motorist paid an average of $812 for a car, while the average retail price of trucks amounted to $877. The automotive industry also proved to be one of the largest employers of labor, using in 1929 4,300,000 workers either directly or in allied lines.

Besides a record year in the production of machines, the industry manufactured parts and accessories for replacement, as well as service equipment, with a wholesale value of $920,000,000, and turned out rubber tires for replacement worth $600,000,000.

World registration of motor vehicles at the close of 1929 reached 34,700,000, of which 26,700,000, or 76 percent, were within the United States. The world registration in 1928 was 31,778,203, of which 24,493,124 were within the United States.

According to the figures, the motoring public paid a total of $925,000,000 in taxes on motor vehicles, included in the levy being $415,000,000 on gasoline consumption. During the previous year the total taxation amounted to $807,887,967, including $304,871,766 on gasoline consumption.

It is pointed out that the automobile industry and the motoring public consumed 297,000,000 barrels of gasoline for the year. This represents 80 percent of the total gasoline consumed in all industries.

Sixty-seven percent of all plate glass produced was consumed in the production of cars. Nineteen percent of the iron and steel produced, 15 percent of the copper, 18 percent of the lumber and hardwood and 27 percent of the lead went into the manufacture of automobiles.

Crude rubber used by the motor industry aggregated 913,920,000 pounds. Cotton fabrics used in tires totaled 287,000,000 pounds.

Highway improvement work in 1929 brought the total of surfaced highway in the United States to 660,000 miles. The total miles of highway of all kinds aggregate 3,016,281. Street and highway expenditures in 1929 totaled $2,000,000,000.

STATE HIGHWAY PATROL TO BE CONSIDERABLY AUGMENTED.

Eugene W. Biscailuz, superintendent of the state highway patrol, has requested boards of supervisors throughout the state to submit lists of names from which 122 additional members of the patrol will be selected for immediate duty. The step is preliminary to the organization of a strong night patrol for the highways. Forty-five counties will receive additional officers under this arrangement.

Applicants for such places must be between the ages of 23 and 36, of sound moral character, in good physical condition and with previous experience in riding a motorcycle. They are required to take and pass a civil service examination, appointments being made from the eligible list thus created. Application should be made direct to the supervisors of the county in which the applicant resides.

AUTO DEATHS INCREASE.

Figures made public January 14 by the National Safety Council showed 31,500 persons were killed in auto accidents in thirty-one states during 1929—13 percent more than in 1928. Auto fatalities in California increased 20 percent.

DRUNKEN AUTO DRIVER MOST DANGEROUS TYPE ROAD CRIMINAL.
Warfare waged against the drunken auto driver continuously during 1929 by state traffic officers resulted in the revocation of the driving licenses of 708 such persons for periods of one year or more. Drunken driving exceeded all other causes of revocation, being responsible for nearly two-thirds of all revocations for the year. The records show 1,162 persons in all were given official invitations to put their cars away for a year and try walking for a change.
Declaring the drunken driver to be the most dangerous type of criminal upon the road today, Frank G. Snook, chief of the State Division of Motor Vehicles, says every effort will be continued to get them off the road.

WISE PROGNOSTICATOR MADE DECIDEDLY POOR PROPHECY.
The Automobile Club of Southern California, with headquarters in Los Angeles, became 29 years of age December 13. In less than three decades it has increased to nearly 3,000 times its original size.
A few years after the club was incorporated, in 1900, one of the leading citizens of Los Angeles prophesied the auto might amount to something after all, since it would relieve the congestion in the streets of the town by doing away with horses. This wise prognosticator, however, apparently did not foresee that for each horse displaced a score of automobiles would develop, so that his traffic congestion relief is still in the future.

EXTREMELY DANGEROUS.
When the weather and the car motor are cold, there is a great temptation to close the garage door and "warm 'er up" a bit. The practice, however, is extremely hazardous. When in a garage with the motor running, keep the doors and windows open.

Statistics show that deaths from carbon monoxide poisoning are steadily increasing. Remember this about carbon monoxide: you cannot see, smell or taste it, but it is deadly!

MISSING LINK NEAR COMPLETION.
When the spring tide of motor-tourist travel begins moving across the Sierra, those to or from California North will have available the Lincoln highway across Nevada State as an improved through route.
Early completion of the "missing link" in that state—which has prevented through travel from coast to coast along that highway—is anticipated.

USE MORE OIL AND GAS.
California motorists use nearly 50 percent more gas and oil than do the average motorists of the country. For all of the United States, the average annual expenditure is estimated at approximately $126, while in California the average is $185.

GOOD BUSINESS SUGGESTION.
At a conference on street and highway safety in Washington, D. C., last December, it was stated that auto manufacturers are considering making an allowance to dealers of $35 for each car traded in and sent to the junk pile. The thought is, that this plan would prove not only a safety measure but good business.

Good Tires Necessary.—During the rainy season good tires are a necessity. Badly worn ones should be laid away for use in the dry season, and replaced by tires upon which there is plenty of tread to provide traction.

Double Fees.—It is now unlawful to drive a car without the 1930 license plates. Those who have not secured the plates must now pay a double fee.

NEW LOS ANGELES—VENTURA SHORELINE ROUTE POPULAR.

The new section of state highway along the Pacific Ocean route of Ventura City is proving popular. This new route beside the sea may be reached from Ventura by way of Oxnard and Point Magu, and adds some fifty miles of remarkable seaside driving through virgin country to the attractions of travel along the coast route.

From Point Magu south along the shore to the Los Angeles beaches, this excellent new section of highway skirts gigantic cliffs, dips down to the sea, then up again over foothills, circles small bays and rugged points, and is flanked constantly by the pounding white-capped surf on a shore lined with great, jagged rocks, or smooth strands of beach. The panorama of rolling coastal hills and vales along the sea practically untouched by civilization's hand is fascinating.

The new section of road stretches for fifty-seven miles from Oxnard to Santa Monica, offering a new diverting route to the Los Angeles area, the fourth route available south from Ventura. It constitutes a direct route to the Los Angeles beaches for those who wish to reach this objective without driving through the metropolitan area. Completion of this section makes available a continuous drive from Gaviota, north of Santa Barbara City, to San Diego City in sight of the sea practically the entire distance. It also closes a gap that provides a direct route for motorists southbound to San Diego.

REPUTATION ASSURES STABILITY OF AUTOMOTIVE INDUSTRY.

Having advanced to a point where the mechanical element is a secondary factor in the selection of its product and where beauty and comfort and minor innovations are the foremost attractions, the automotive industry entered 1930 with an important asset—reputation—that will go a long way in assuring its stability and realizing its enormous potentialities, according to the Federal Commerce Department's automotive division.

Despite the phenomenal development of the automobile in the last twenty years the number of potential new owners is greater than it was in 1910, when the auto vehicle was still a novelty, for the population of the world increases in proportion to new car production by approximately three persons to one automobile.

TO CLEAN UPHOLSTERY.

If the upholstery of a car has been allowed to become dirty from continued use, it may be safely and thoroughly washed with ordinary soap and water without removing from the car. Rub with the "nap" or "pile;" not against it. Use plenty of suds, but have them thick and not watery. Use as little water as possible. When washed, rinse the cloth with clean water and wring fairly dry, the idea being to keep from wetting the padding under the upholstery as much as possible. Wipe off several times with a cloth entirely dry, at the end of the job. After washing, open all doors and windows of the car so air may circulate freely; this will guard against the car smelling damp or musty after washing.

NORTHERN AUTOISTS CHOOSE NEW HEAD.

D. W. Lafferty of Santa Rosa, Sonoma County, is the new president of the California State Automobile Association, with headquarters in San Francisco. He was elected January 16.

The association, the organization of California North autoists, now has a membership in excess of 91,000, an increase for 1929 of 10,979.

STATE LIABLE.

The constitutionality of the act of the 1929 State Legislature making the state liable for damages caused by accidents involving autos owned by the state or operated by employes on state business was upheld by the California Supreme Court, January 9.

SAVE A LIFE!

With the slogan "Yield the right-of-way; waste a minute—save a life," the California Committee on Public Safety launched its 1930 safety campaign.

The state highway patrol and the police departments of sixty-five major California cities are co-operating with the committee.

Cleaning Spark Plug—Cleaning an oily spark plug may be quickly accomplished if it be inverted and filled with gasoline; then light the gas and allow it to burn off. The heat causes the oil to dry and the carbon and oil residue may then be scraped off.

Consult One Who Knows—The generator of a car needs very little attention, but when it does give trouble a reputable electrician should be consulted.

MOJAVE DESERT A REGION OF GREAT CONTRASTS

"THE MOHAVE DESERT REGION, California, a Geographic, Geologic and Hydrologic Reconnaissance," is the title of an elaborate report by David G. Thompson issued by the Federal Interior Department's geological survey. It covers an area of about 25,000 square miles of desert, "including San Bernardino County, the largest county in the United States, and parts of Los Angeles, Kern, Riverside and Inyo Counties."

The Mojave Desert, in southeastern California, may well be called a region of contrasts. Bordered on the east by one of the large rivers of the United States, the Colorado, the region itself contains only two streams that are called rivers, and these scarcely deserve the name for they are entirely dry in most of their length for many months at a stretch. Although the desert is primarily a region of low rainfall, some parts having a mean annual precipitation of less than two inches and periods of more than two years and a half without rain, parts of the San Gabriel Mountains, which border it on the south, have a mean annual rainfall of thirty-five inches and a recorded maximum of fifty-five inches.

There is abundant evidence in the desert that, in spite of its scarcity, water has played a large part in carving the varied physical features of the region. In contradiction to the old idea that all water in the desert is "alkali" water, many wells and springs in the region yield water that is less mineralized than that used for the public supply in some towns and cities in more humid parts of the United States.

Because of the dryness of the soil throughout most of the region, its plants and animals are peculiarly adapted to living on a minimum of moisture. Small plants spring up after the light winter rain and form a beautiful carpet of brilliant-colored flowers, only to wither quickly and remain dormant for many months. Larger tree-like plants, such as the Joshua tree or giant yucca, send out many rootlets close to the surface to gather in the small quantity of moisture that percolates into the ground only a few inches before it is evaporated. Some of the animals—rabbits, mice, lizards and land tortoises—live far from known water supplies and presumably obtain enough moisture to sustain life by eating seeds and twigs. On the other hand, in certain parts of the Mojave Desert there are moisture-loving plants such as are found in humid regions, including the willow and cottonwood. These and other types more peculiar to the desert are indicators to the prospector and rancher that water lies not far below the surface. In some localities it is not unusual to see water-loving birds, such as ducks, geese and wading birds.

A striking feature of the Mojave Desert is the presence of many so-called "dry lakes," or playas, devoid of vegetation. Some of them are covered with alkali and are soft and rough, but others, covering many square miles, are hard and perfectly smooth, forming veritable race tracks. In contrast to the aridity of the region at the present time, there is evidence that at a period not far back in geologic history several of these "dry lakes" were covered by large permanent lakes. One, Searles Lake, in the northwest corner of San Bernardino County, covered about 285 square miles and was 600 feet or more deep. Another, which has been named Lake Mojave, covered 75 to 100 square miles and was 40 feet or more deep.

The first White man to enter this region was a Spanish priest named Garces, in the eventful year of 1776. In 1920 the population of the region was about 15,000. Although so sparsely populated, the region has produced abundantly of its natural resources, and there is opportunity for further development. The products of greatest value come from mineral deposits which, since 1880, have yielded more than $100,000,000, chiefly in gold, silver, tungsten, borax, potash and cement.

Agriculture is confined to certain valleys where water for irrigation can be obtained from near-by mountains or from wells. The successful reclamation of large areas of Western arid land by irrigation has led many persons to believe that it is only a matter of time until the whole of the desert will be productive. They have endured hardships and discomforts, as indeed did those who have been successful, but numerous deserted shacks and plots of cleared land showing a second growth of desert vegetation bear evidence that in many places only failure has resulted.

In this arid region, the prime necessity is water. To the careful observer, it becomes increasingly evident that the quantity of water available from all sources is not sufficient to irrigate more than a small part of the desert. It is estimated that more than 2,000,000 acres of land in the Mojave Desert region would be suitable for agriculture if water were available, but it is believed that probably not more than about one-twentieth of that area can eventually be irrigated, and only a small part of the region is adapted to dry farming.

The report, covering 750 pages and containing many maps and other informative features, is listed as "Geological Survey Water-Supply Paper 578." It may be obtained for $2 by addressing the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C.

more difficult, and congestion in the down-town streets increases. Merchants and customers alike complain, and no permanent relief is in sight. The streets are not safe for the city fire departments, police patrol cars or hospital vans. Numerous accidents grow out of the rapid traveling necessitated by these three departments, despite their warning sirens, and some of these result fatally. None of these departments can drive slowly, or even at moderate speed, and the congested condition of the streets makes their work extra hazardous.

In the rural districts much can be done in the way of widening and straightening roads and highways, in order to prevent accidents and to accelerate traffic. Much has been done in this respect by eliminating curves, widening highways by adding "shoulders," or even additional paving, and through other improvements. California already has a very notable system of state and county highways, and this system is destined to be in time the finest network of motoring highways in the world. This will be because the climate, as a rule, does not bring sudden, severe and destructive changes in the weather, and also because of its great number of automobiles (second only to New York) the gasoline tax will provide ample funds for future road building and maintenance.

But even with these advantages the people of the state cannot afford to rest on their oars. Eternal vigilance is the price of progress. And it behooves all lovers of California to prepare vigilantly and effectively for the responsibility which is certain to come with the approaching years. This applies to city and country alike, for the automobile situation—pleasure car, truck, trailer, bus, stage and even motorcycle—affects each and every citizen of the state. Only by intelligent and universal co-operation can order be brought out of chaos, and while chaos is not precisely the situation now, it has got a rather troublesome "toe-hold" on us at present.

Practically everyone agrees on either "over" or "under" transit at grades where surface highways and steam or electric railway crossings meet—usually underground passages. The sole difficulty is the cost. No remedy has ever been found, or will ever be discovered, for saving the luntles, men and women, who flirt with death at the grade crossings. Only by compelling them to use fool-proof means of ingress and egress can they be prevented from taking chances. And by having only one path to cross a track, they will be obliged to take that course. It is not merely the better way, it is the only way.

Procrastination is the thief of time! It is more! It is the harbinger of disaster. Los Angeles, the largest city in the United States west of the Mississippi, cannot afford to approach this matter, so vital to its future, in any small-town spirit. It is a problem to be grappled with wholeheartedly, resolutely and courageously. Seattle razed its hills, filled up low spaces with the earth and builded superbly on the leveled areas. San Francisco rose phoenix-like from the ashes of a devastating conflagration to a more stately grandeur and a more assured future. Los Angeles has the opportunity of again demonstrating its vision, its ability and its faith, as it has in many a noted achievement, by solving, in a degree commensurate with its pressing importance, the motoring problem which confronts it.

RUDECINDA HAS NEW OFFICERS.
 Officers of Rudecinda Parlor No. 230 N.D.G.W. were installed January 16 by District Deputy Eunice Fox, Mary Dever becoming president. The hall was beautifully decorated with poinsettias, and the officers-elect, as well as the installing officers, carried arm hoquets of red carnations. Anna Spickler presented Letitia Sarciaux, retiring president, with an emblematic ring, a remembrance was given District Deputy Fox, and a basket of beautiful flowers was presented President Dever.

Following the installation ceremonies a program, provided partly from the americanization class of the San Pedro evening high-school was presented: Vocal duet, Messrs. Torres and Bernudez; vocal duet, Mrs. Don Montague and Francis Perry; group of songs, Mr. Clark, accompanied by Miss Robbins. Supper followed the program. Arrangements for the evening were in charge of Margaret Dever.

January 28 several members of the Parlor accompanied District Deputy Florence Dodson Schoneman to Glendale, where she installed the officers of Verdugo Parlor No. 240. Grand President Esther R. Sullivan will officially visit Rudecinda March 6, and plans for her welcome are under way. Long Beach Parlor No. 154 will join with the Parlor for this occasion.

NATIVE SONS INSTALL.
 With District Deputy E. C. Crowell officiating, officers of Sepulveda Parlor No. 263 N.S.G.W. were installed January 17, John P. Paralieu becoming the president. The ceremonies were followed by a program and refreshments.

Past President William A. Reuter, financial secretary of the Parlor, has been confined to his Wilmington home for more than a month with a serious illness.

PROGRESS MADE IN SHORTHAND, AS IN EVERY OTHER CALLING.
 Shorthand, in one form or another, is as old as civilization. Its origin is obscured in antiquity, but historical data shows that its age almost approximates that of the written language. The first shorthand of which there is record was in 1500. This, and other succeeding publications during the next two centuries, proved to be of little commercial value, due to crude and unintelligent hieroglyphics. In the eighteenth century Byron edited a shorthand system which formed the foundation for commercial shorthand. Since that time, changes and improvements have been rapid.

For many years the stroke systems were very popular and filled the needs of the times, but the enormous stride in business made by America in the last quarter-century left its industries and professions crying for thousands of rapid shorthand writers. Necessity demanded a system rapidly learned, rapidly written and accurately transcribed. Hence, the ABC shorthand came into existence, and has, it is claimed, proven a sensational success.

The ABC method was introduced into California in 1923, by the Jane Cowle Secretarial Studios of Los Angeles. It is nationally known, accurate, speedy and easily transcribed. Jane Cowle, who was formerly a teacher in the public schools, says the method may be mastered in from six to eight weeks and, once learned, is never forgotten.

CALIFORNIA'S ESTIMATED POPULATION

CALIFORNIA'S POPULATION, IF AN ESTIMATE of the State Education Department, based on school attendance, be correct, is 5,769,568. Compared with the department's 1928 estimate, the increase during 1929 was 137,638. The 1920 federal census credited the state with a population of 3,426,861.

The estimate, made public December 30, lists Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland, San Diego, Long Beach, Sacramento, Pasadena, Berkeley, San Jose, Fresno, Stockton, Glendale and San Bernardino, in the order here given, as the state's largest cities.

Los Angeles County is listed as having a population of 2,322,035 in 1929 and 2,220,364 in 1928, an increase of 101,671 for the year. The year's population increase for the whole state, according to the estimate, was 137,638, so this one county accounted for 73 percent of that increase. Within its confines are 40 percent of the state's population. The figures for Los Angeles City are 1,452,121 (1929) and 1,377,664 (1928), a gain for the year of 74,457.

Somewhat of a surprise is the estimated loss of population in several cities, among them Oakland, Fresno, Pasadena, Santa Monica and Stockton. Estimates of the population of the several counties of the state follow:

SPRING GARDEN SETTING FOR NATIVE DAUGHTER INSTALLATION.

More than 300 members and friends witnessed the public installation of the officers of Long Beach Parlor No. 154 N.D.G.W., January 16, when Lillian Mullin Lasater became the president. District Deputy Rosalie Hyde was the installing officer and was assisted by the presidents and past presidents of neighboring Parlors; Mrs. Francis Griffith was the chairman. The hall was transformed by Mrs. Daisy Hanson and her committee into a spring garden for the occasion. Many beautiful gifts were presented President Lasater, and District Deputy Hyde, Mrs. Julia Arborn, retiring president, and Mrs. Lucretia Coates, retiring past president, were recipients of remembrances. Mrs. Kate McFadyden, retiring recording secretary and the Parlor's first president, was presented with a beautiful bouquet in appreciation of her twenty-three years' service to No. 154.

A program, arranged by Mrs. Zelma Palstine, was thoroughly enjoyed: Vocal quartet, "California," Miss Frances Henry, Mrs. Zelma Palstine, Stanley Coates, John Bruce, accompanied by Mrs. Marjorie Grover; address, "Activities of the Native Sons," Superior Judge Percy Hight; vocal solo, "Trees," Mrs. Lois Johnson, accompanied by Miss Olive Easton; address, "Activities of the Native Daughters," Miss Marvel Thomas; address, "Days of Old," A. Perry Harris; violin selections, "Indian Love Call" and "Sweetest Story Ever Told," Mrs. Ruby Brown, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Frank Harnett; readings, Miss Vergene Tranger. Refreshments were served under the chairmanship of Mrs. Gussie Tabor.

Among the many visitors were Mrs. Lois Johnson, Miss Olive Easton, Miss Lily Tompkins and Miss Lois Poling of Lugonia Parlor No. 241, San Bernardino, and A. P. Harris of San Francisco, a past president of Pacific Parlor No. 10 N.S.G.W.

Long Beach Parlor will celebrate its twenty-third institution anniversary February 6, with Mrs. Violet Henshilwood as chairman. Past presidents of the Parlor will be honored guests of the evening, and past presidents of all the southland Parlors have been especially invited. Mrs. Adeline Pierce, mother of Julia Arborn

NATIVE SONS ELECT OFFICERS.

Long Beach Parlor No. 239 N.S.G.W. elected officers January 9 and retained Paul McFadyen as president for the January-July term. William Brady was selected for secretary, to succeed W. E. Hann. The officers-elect will be installed February 13.

"THE END OF THE RAINBOW"

ROSE TOURNAMENT PRIZE WINNER. Pasadena—Beverly Hills, Los Angeles County, was awarded the grand prize in the annual Tournament of Roses parade January 1. Its float, "The End of the Rainbow," built of more than a million separate blooms, depicted four pots of gold, with the precious metal represented by yellow pompons, overflowing before replicas of four Beverly Hills homes at the ends of the enormous flowered rainbow.

Glendale, Los Angeles County, won the second major prize. Its float depicted a scene of California gold-rush days, with an aurora borealis in flowers splashing behind mountain ranges whence real water flowed.

In the division devoted to floats of municipalities, prizes were awarded the following cities: San Francisco first, Los Angeles second, San Jose third and Fresno fourth.

RELIC OF INDIAN DAYS.

San Juan (San Benito County) — Excavators working near San Juan Bautista Mission uncovered a huge flat-surfaced stone — weighing approximately a thousand pounds and measuring more than four feet across — that matches perfectly one which has long been in the mission churchyard. Father Francis Caffrey of the mission believes the stone was used by the Indians, centuries ago, to grind their corn.

Horse Show—The Los Angeles National Horse Show is billed for March 1-8.

Imperial Fair—The Imperial County Fair will be held at Imperial, February 25 to March 2.

TAKING MEASURE OF THE PAST year's activities and planning ahead for another period of service to a well-rounded community program, Reina del Mar Parlor No. 126 Native Daughters of the Golden West, at Santa Barbara, spent an inspiring evening January 21, when Mrs. John Mitchell was installed as president.

HOLLYWOOD, THE UNIQUE

The Beautiful Residential Section of Greater Los Angeles
Where Art, Science and Industry are Happily Combined

PROGRESS MARCHED FORWARD

M. F. Palmer

(PRESIDENT HOLLYWOOD CHAMBER COMMERCE.)

HOLLYWOOD, IN THE YEAR JUST passed, witnessed one of the greatest building eras in its history, both as regards residential and apartment house units and business structures. Present indications are that within a few years the hills and valleys of Hollywood will become one of the world's most beautiful residence areas, while the level section of the city will be devoted entirely to business structures, apartment houses and hotels.

The past year was one marked by the forward march of progress. Statistics covering Hollywood's bank clearing, building permits and postoffice receipts give a birdseye view of the commercial importance attached to the Hollywood district, and the following figures and comparisons have been compiled for ready reference:

Bank clearings, more than $500,000,000 for 1929, as contrasted with $415,348,676.12 for 1928. Postal receipts, at least $525,000 in 1929, as against $473,547.23 for the preceding year. Building permits for 1929, $17,867,266, for 1928, $18,240,100.

During the past year building permits were granted for sixty apartment buildings, total value $6,280,123, and of these nineteen were four stories or more in height; for seventy-five flats, costing $1,026,698; seventy-six stores, $1,412,189; 308 dwellings, $2,641,459; alterations, $1,953,866, and miscellaneous permits, $4,533,351.

Among the larger new structures gained by Hollywood during the past year are the eight-story hospital erected by the Federation of Jewish Welfare at 4831 Fountain avenue at a cost of more than $1,000,000, the American Legion Clubhouse, the First Methodist Church on North Highland avenue, the Mountain States Life building on Ivar, the Hollywood Center building on Hollywood boulevard at Cherokee, the Christie building on Hollywood boulevard, the Mayer building at Western avenue and Hollywood boulevard, Bancroft junior high school on Las Palmas, college of the sisters of the Immaculate Heart at Western and Franklin avenues, and the Greek Theatre at Griffith Park.

In the meantime, progress has been made on major street plans. Important among these activities have been the adoption of final ordinances for the widening of Highland avenue, from Cahuenga pass to Santa Monica boulevard, from its present width of seventy feet to a new width of one hundred feet. La Brea avenue from Hollywood boulevard to Santa Monica is in process of being widened at this time; paving from Santa Monica to Sunset will be completed shortly, and paving and widening between Sunset and Hollywood boulevard will follow.

Other important improvements completed are the widening and paving of Fairfax avenue, the widening and paving of Gower and the completion of the Fountain-Myra project, which provides direct connections from Hyperion to Santa Monica and Sunset boulevards. The completion of the widening and paving of Vermont avenue in the Hollywood district completes another link in the major street program of the community. Further developments now actively under way or in the planning stage include the opening, widening and paving of Virgil from Sunset to Third street, the paving of Laurel Canyon road for its entire unpaved length, the building of an additional roadway through the Caluenga pass and the widening and paving of Dark Canyon road, or Hollywood way, as one of the main arteries to connect with the new highway.

Steps are also being taken looking to an additional road through Weid Canyon, in case the present Hollywood reservoir is abandoned, while to the east a road and tunnel are being projected through the mountains by way of Bronson avenue and Brush Canyon. Progress was made during the year in transportation facilities. Increased bus service—including a new north and south line on La Brea and a new link in the Beverly Hills-Hollywood-land line, together with an entire new bus line operating between Hollywood and the Santa Monica beaches by way of the University of California at Westwood—has done much, and will do more, for the business interests of the community, as well as giving large residential areas direct connection with Hollywood.

annually provides milk for a large group of under-nourished and needy children. The very nature of this enterprise brought it success from the very start and, with the establishment of the Community Chest which incorporated the Milk Fund, the Native Daughters provided a team of workers for the annual chest drive.

The new president heads the team this year. She will be assisted by Mrs. A. C. Warren, Mrs. William Vick, Miss Christina Moller, Mrs. Wesley McCormick, Miss Marian Arroqui, Miss Elizabeth Hollow, Miss Inez Sharpe and Miss Emma Martin.

A printed survey of the Parlor's work for the past year has been placed in the hands of each member, to serve as a reminder of continued responsibilities. Among these activities are the patriotic observance of Lincoln's Birthday, Memorial Day, the Fourth of July and Admission Day; constant emphasis upon the preservation of land-

Stormer, in her program for clearing off the indebtedness of the Native Daughter Home in San Francisco, and in uniting the Parlors of the southland for the purpose of giving to other organizations an appreciation of traditions.

Those who, with Mrs. Mitchell, will serve as leaders of the Parlor this year are: Mrs. William Quinn, past president; Mrs. A. C. ## FIFTY YEARS AGO

The State Normal School at San Jose, Santa Clara County, burned February 10; loss $250,000, insurance $59,000.

DILATORY CLERK PREVENTS HANGING.

San Bernardino City had another fire, which destroyed eight stores; loss $20,000.

The 7-year-old daughter of James Johnson was fatally burned at Gilroy, Santa Clara County, February 10, through her dress catching fire from a kitchen stove.

A Chico, Butte County, Chinaman married an Indian squaw, an unusual event, and took her to Chinatown to reside. Unfamiliar with the use of a coal-oil lamp, she attempted to fill it while lighted and the resultant explosion caused her to be burned to death.

An Oakland, Alameda County, saloon keeper named Lenz, refused to sell any more liquor to an intoxicated customer named McFadden. Getting into an argument, they opened fire at each other and one of the bullets struck in the breast and killed Mrs. Wm. Stetson, the mother of three small children, passing on the opposite side of the street. It was impossible to determine which of the two fired the fatal shot.

At Jackson, Amador County, John Bales and Robert Vernier engaged in a bowie knife duel at an Italian dance, February 1. Both were killed.

Charles Colby was sentenced to be hanged at Santa Cruz City, February 20, but the clerk of the State Supreme Court failed to send the order of the court dismissing a writ of certiorari and the sheriff could not proceed. More than a thousand citizens gathered about the jail and threatened to hang Colby, if the sheriff failed to do so. At 3 p.m. the governor reprieved the condemned man until March 5, and the irate citizens, concluding that would give the dilatory court clerk sufficient time to attend to his duty, dispersed.

T. H. Brummett, editor of the "Enterprise," and G. W. Carlton, editor of the "Telegraph," Hollister, San Benito County, weeklies, were abusing each other in their columns. Carlton finally called Brummett a horse thief, and promised to prove the charge. February 12, Brummett started for the court house to file a criminal libel charge, and met Carlton upon the steps. Following a few words, Carlton shot and killed Brummett, claiming the latter had reached toward his hip pocket.

—another Native Son!

Every Westerner has a right to be proud of this California gasoline—its wonderful records! Made by special process by a California company from California crudes—owned and directed by California men—it is proving its wonderful mileage and power superiority by an unbroken string of speedway victories and by its steadily increasing sales of thousands of gallons every month! Try Richfield in your own car today—note the difference!

It was found in a stratum of ground laid down during pliocene times, perhaps 7,000,000 years ago.

In the report of the find, the possibility is noted that the skull is actually several million years older than the stratum of ground in which it was uncovered, because the nodule of sandstone does not conform to the surrounding soil and might well have been washed out of some older stratum. This theory is supported by the fact that the skull is more primitive in type than other pliocene whale skulls found elsewhere.

KEEP MILK DARK.

Milk exposed to sunlight will develop an off flavor in ten minutes; forty-five minutes will give it such a "cardboardy" taste that it may be refused by children. Milk should be kept from the light, in a cool place, if it is to be properly cared for. Exposed to the light through clear glass, it will not taste right to children and if they drink it, it will be under protest. If it is not kept cool, the bacteria count will mount and it may be unfit for the child. It is little short of criminal to let the milk in clear glass bottles stand in the sunshine.

"A public official who uses the power of his office to defeat or weaken the operation of an existing constitutional statute lessens respect for law and betrays a public trust."—Harry A. Garfield.

MARCH 1850 CAME IN LIKE TH proverbial lion, and established th record of being the coldest March y experienced in California. A cold sle storm prevailed throughout the sta the first week, and was followed by terrific gale from the north that, for three day unroofed buildings, uprooted trees and did othe damage. The United States District Court during th month declared the provision in California' New Constitution, prohibiting corporations fror employing Chinese, unconstitutional, and th "teapot tempest" began to simmer. This deci sion, followed March 30 by a San Francisc election at which the Citizens bested the Work ingmen by about 7,000 majority, caused th feeling that "something is going to happen" t disappear.

The Great Eastern quicksilver mine, comply ing with the provision of the New Constitutio prohibiting corporations from employing Chi nese, discharged its Chinks and then could find no White men to replace them. The Whites had blacklisted the quicksilver mines through fea of becoming salivated.

The horse upon which a prospector named Snow was riding along a trail above Spring Gulch, Tuolumne County, lost its footing, rolle down the hillside and landed against a ledge o rock. In its struggle to regain a footing th horse kicked off a piece of rock which Snow dis covered was more than half gold. The ledge thirty feet long and three feet wide, was of un ordi nary thickness.

It was estimated that 1,500,000 grapevines had been set out in Los Angeles County this season. Inside of five years, it was expected, the productio of wine would be doubled and, as the demand for export was increasing, a great source of wealth would develop.

Dr. Glenn, the wheat-raising baron of Colusa County, had this season increased his wheat-sown acreage to 10,000.

A citrus fair held at Pasadena, Los Angeles County, March 24 was in celebration of what the San Gabriel Orange Association had done in converting the Rancho San Paequal into orange groves through the efforts of the Indiana colony.

Luther Edge and Pat Lordomer, employed to keep geese off grain-sown land of the Moulton ranch in Butte County, from November 1 to February 1 killed 7,800 of the birds. They plucked 300 pounds of feathers from the geese and then hurned the hodies.

A severe shock of earthquake aroused Cal ifornia South at 10:30 p. m. of March 5.

At Anaheim, Orange County, seven masked men came into the store of R. L. Crowder March 3. They bound him and three others, and then robbed them of $600 and escaped.

During a gale March 13 five men, at different points, were toppled off boats into San Francisco Bay and drowned.

Counterfeit five-dollar gold pieces were in circulation throughout the state. They were made of gold, all right, but of light weight, and at the United States Mint were worth but $3.60.

Fifty-two cowboys from Kansas arrived by emigrant train March 1. They had been employed to drive 25,000 head of cattle east of the Rocky Mountains. Among them were six Negro banjoists and melody singers who entertained crowds enroute.

CHAGRINED DOCTOR SUICIDES.

Los Angeles County was having an epidemic of whooping cough and measles. There were fifty-one cases of measles in the small town of El Monte.

A San Francisco White man was found to be a leper. It was thought he became afflicted three years previously when working in a Sacramento County vineyard adjacent to a gang of Chinamen. What to do with him was puzzling the health authorities.

"UNCLE SAM'S CAMELS"

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

"UNCLE SAM'S CAMELS," EDITED by Lewis Burt Lesley, M.A., associate professor of history at the San Diego State Teachers College, is the title of an exceptionally interesting and valuable volume from the Harvard University Press of Cambridge, Massachusetts. It has to do with an important episode in the development of the Far West—an experiment made by the United States Government, under the direction of Secretary of War Jefferson Davis, of importing camels from Asia to provide transportation across the Great American Desert.

"Buried away in government reports and in books not generally handled by the public," says Dr. Lesley, "is a story of unflinching interest, that of the first and last 'Camel Brigade' which made its way from San Antonio, Texas, to Bakersfield, California, in the late fifties of the last century. For many years after this unusual experiment frequent reports were made to incredulous listeners concerning camels sighted from trails and camps. Such statements were labelled as effects of mirages so common to the desert area and invariably suffered the fate of the alleged 'fish story.' We now know that real camels were wandering the desert wastes, and the story of the transplantation of these animals from the Near East to our own country involved a governmental experiment of great importance. . . .

"By the year 1850, the problem of the unification of the East and the West was acute. The Mexican War and the discovery of gold in California had been episodes calling for immediate governmental aid for the new frontier. In the Southwest there was the frontier to be protected, routes of communication to be laid out, preparations made for the onward march of empire."

February 15, 1856, the store-ship "Supply" left Smyrna with thirty-three camels, which were landed at Indianola, Texas, May 14 of that year. The following year some of the herd were placed at the disposal of Lieutenant Edward Fitzgerald Beale, chosen to head an expedition ordered, by the secretary of war, to survey a wagon-road from Fort Defiance, New Mexico, to the Colorado River.

Accompanying Lieutenant Beale was May Humphreys Stacey, a youth of 19 who later, through distinguished service, became a colonel in the United States Army. He kept a journal, which is published for the first time in "Uncle Sam's Camels." That document, together with the log kept by Lieutenant Beale, tell the story of the "Camel Brigade" in detail. The expedition, with the camels, left San Antonio, Texas, June 25, 1857, and arrived at the Colorado River October 18 of that year.

"We know very little about the camel corps from the date of the crossing of the Colorado to the arrival at the Tejon Ranch, near what is now Bakersfield, California," opens the chapter sub-titled "The Camel Dispersion." Then follow these statements regarding camels in California:

"On the way to Tejon, from the Colorado, two of the camels were detached from the main party and were taken through Los Angeles, where they arrived on November 10, 1857, and remained two days. The camels had been brought through Cajon Pass, and made the journey from San Bernardino to Los Angeles, a distance of sixty-five miles, in eight hours."

"After his arrival at Tejon, Beale placed a group of the camels in a camp high up in the mountains on the estate in order to test the ability of the animals to withstand cold. There the camels lived 'in two or three feet of snow, fattening and thriving wonderfully all the while'."

"About January 6, 1858, Beale commenced his winter journey Eastward in order to test the practicability of the road he had just surveyed for winter transit. He took with him twenty men and fourteen camels. . . . Beale stopped in Los Angeles, enroute to the Colorado, and the following item appeared in the Los Angeles Star on January 8, 1858: 'Gen. Beale and about fourteen camels stalked into town last Friday week and gave our streets quite an Oriental aspect.' . . . The remainder of the camels were left at Fort Tejon and at the ranch. On July 21, 1858, the following item appeared in the Los Angeles Star: 'The camels, eight in number, came into town from Fort Tejon, after provisions for that camp. The largest ones can pack a ton and can travel sixteen miles an hour.'

"Late in September, 1860, Captain W. S. Hancock of Los Angeles, desirous of establishing a new type of express between Los Angeles and Fort Mojave, sent out a camel in charge of 'Greek George,' who had been one of the drivers in Beale's corps. This trial trip was a miserable failure, and the ship of the desert 'foundered at sea' and died of exhaustion en route to the fort."

"Lieutenant Beale, it will be recalled, had turned over to the Quartermaster in Los Angeles a herd of twenty-eight camels in 1861. These animals were kept at Fort Tejon until June of that year, when the fort was partially dismantled and a large part of the army property was moved into Los Angeles. Along with this baggage came the camels, and for several months they were corralled near the Quartermaster's Office on Main Street. In October they were moved to larger quarters in a yard on Second Street.

"We next hear of these camels stationed near San Pedro, California, and frequently they were used for transportation of freight between the harbor and Los Angeles, although remaining in possession of the Government. In January, 1863, another effort was made to use the animals for transportation between southern California and the East, and an express of camels was sent out from San Pedro with Tucson, Arizona, as its destination. This experiment was a failure.

"Lieutenant Beale was meanwhile complaining to the Government about the enforced idleness of the camels and, in 1862, wrote to Secretary of War Stanton offering to take all of the remainder of the herd in California and give a bond for their safe return whenever the Government should demand them. These camels Beale apparently planned to add to the little group then corralled on his ranch at Tejon. This offer was refused by the Government.

"As the year 1863 wore on, the United States Government grew more cognizant of the complaints concerning the camels in California and at Fort Yuma. In November of that year orders were received to transport the animals to the arsenal at Benicia, California, north of San Francisco, where they were to be disposed of at a public auction. Thirty-four camels were driven northward to Benicia. A correspondent of the 'San Francisco Daily Evening Bulletin,' in the issue of January 8, 1864, writes as follows from Santa Barbara, California: 'The Government troop of camels passed through here from Los Angeles on December 30, 1863, on their way to Benicia, in charge of Captain Dempfill, U.S.A., with six men. . . . Ranchero hands run wild with fear when they see them.'

"The Government auction of the camels was held on February 26, 1864. The entire herd at Benicia was sold to a man by the name of Samuel McLenaghan. McLenaghan sold three of the camels to a friend for use in an outfit known as Wilson's Circus with headquarters near Sacramento, California. The remaining thirty-one animals were taken to McLenaghan's ranch in Sonoma County, California. On April 2, 1864, McLenaghan appeared in Sacramento with ten of the camels for use in packing freight from Sacramento to the Nevada Territory."

"Thus endeth the story of the camels of the West. Many factors operated to bring the experiment to a disastrous conclusion, but no doubt the greatest factor was the advent of the Civil War. The war, first of all, took from the camels their best friend, Major Wayne, and even Beale was too busy to protect the animals against their enemies. Few officers at the army camps understood them, and every Indian and mule driver did what he could to get rid of the camels. And at the close of the war came the railroads, a development that narrowly restricted the field in which the animals could be employed. Idleness was fatal to these beasts, and they soon passed out of the pages of history, but not before they had aided in the solution of the problem of how to hold the new West for the Government.

"A well-known historian of the westward movement has said, 'It is certain that the attempt to solve the problem was real, and that this (camel episode) was only one among many

UNDESIRABLES RESPONSIBLE FOR UNEMPLOYMENT

EDITORS OF THE CALIFORNIA PRESS Association, while traveling thru Mexico, recently and receiving entertainment from the Mexican government, had a conference with members of the Mexican press, and thereafter wired California's Senators and Congressmen in Washington and several departments of the Federal Government, urging postponement of any restriction of Mexican immigration until the facts could be ascertained by a federal commission. This caused the California Joint Immigration Committee, representing the American Legion, the State Federation of Labor and the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, to issue the following statement bristling with pertinent facts which have been repeatedly called to the attention of the general public by The Grizzly Bear:

"There are two sides to the Mexican immigration question: one involving the alleged necessity for cheap labor for certain purposes; the other dealing with the results to American labor, American standards and citizenship, from the permanent addition to our population of a great mass of the least-intelligent and the least-assimilable of all the alien groups which have settled among us. Most of the Mexicans, as Indian peons, are not even eligible for American citizenship.

"Our Mexican population is now well over 2,000,000, and apparently nearer 3,000,000; in 1850 our Negro population was about 3,000,000, and is now over 10,000,000 although the Negro is less prolific than the Mexican; our Mexican population is being swelled annually by from 75,000 to 100,000, coming in legally and illegally, in addition to increases by birth.

"Ten percent of California's total appropriation for education is expended for Mexican children, most of them alien; they number in counties of the lower San Joaquin Valley and Southern California from 12 percent to 25 percent of the total school registration, while in certain towns and communities the percentage runs up to 40 and 50 percent.

"There is little or no return to Mexico of seasonal agricultural labor, as claimed, the recurring decrease of such labor near the border being occasioned by the Mexicans seeking better jobs in other occupations and other districts. . . . Unemployment cannot be cured by speeding up production under President Hoover's plan while we still admit floods of Mexican peons.

"Their disease record is bad, many being afflicted with tuberculosis and other diseases. A few years ago they brought black smallpox into Los Angeles, costing 200 lives. In 1925-26 they were responsible for the pneumonic and bubonic plague epidemics in that city, which cost the taxpayers $2,270,000 in remedial and defensive measures.

"Their criminal record is had, as indicated by the records of state, county and city authorities in California and elsewhere. The report of the Commissioner General of Immigration for 1929 shows that the Mexicans constituted a large portion of the deportees in that year, including 37 percent of those convicted of crime, 50 percent of those criminal at the time of entry, and 75 percent of the immoral class."

The statement regarding unemployment applies, too, to the Japs, the Filipinos, the Hindus, and other undesirables who have flocked into California. Get rid of all of them, imported mostly by wealthy corporations and white-collar farmers to further fatten their pocketbooks, and there will be plenty of employment for every White citizen and the state will advance as never before.—C.M.H.

this year is different from that of previous years. Instead of a joint initiation at the close of the drive, each of the Parlors will initiate its candidates during the month.

March 29 the initiates will be honor-guests at a reception in the auditorium of the Native Sons Building, to which all grand officers and Past Grand Presidents will be specially invited, and to which all members of the Order will be welcome. Grand President Dodge will extend greetings to the new members. An oration, by a speaker yet to be selected, will be delivered, and a program of vaudeville talent will be presented. As an added feature the newly-organized Native Son band will make its initial appearance in concert.

Awards in the membership drive will be made to Parlors as follows: first, for the largest numerical gain; second, largest percentage gain. The Parlors have been segregated into membership classes, and four awards will be made the Parlor in each class making the largest numerical gain. The several classes include: first, Parlors Nos. 72, 76, 157, 214, 232; second, Parlors Nos. 1, 10, 38, 49, 194, 231; third, Parlors Nos. 29, 52, 137, 154, 160, 187, 202, 208; fourth, Parlors Nos. 104, 105, 118, 189, 222, 234, 242, 260, 270.

The committee conducting the Grand President Charles L. Dodge initiation is made up of Charles F. Wolters (chairman), Jesse H. Miller,

The San Francisco Extension of the Order Committee will, at the Merced Grand Parlor in May, be a contender for this year's Admission Day, September 9, celebration. "San Francisco needs and wants this celebration," say those interested in the Order's welfare, "and no effort will be spared to arrange a celebration that will be highly creditable to the Order."

UNTING EFFORTS APPRECIATED.

Santa Cruz Parlor No. 26 N.D.G.W., Past Grand President Genevieve Watson-Baker and Mrs. May Rose Barry were joint hostesses at the Native Daughter Home breakfast February 9. VALENTINE PARTY.
 Dolores Parlor No. 169 N.D.G.W. initiated three candidates February 12 and at the close of the ceremonies enjoyed a valentine party. Boldemann and District Deputy Agnes McVerry.

March 28 another class of candidates will be initiated and a Saint Patrick's party will be staged.

GRAND PRESIDENT VISITS.

Carlson, Grand Inside Sentinel Millie Rock, Past Grand Presidents Mae Himes Noonan, Margaret Grote-Hill and Eliza D. Keith, and District Deputy Elizabeth Muller. Emma Christen was presented with a membership pin, and her daughter, Betty Christen, entertained with a recitation. The meeting-hall was beautifully decorated for the occasion and a delightful repast was served in the banquet-hall.

GOLD DISCOVERY SITE MARKER

SUNDAY, MARCH 9, THE HISTORY AND landmarks committee of Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W., Adolfo G. Rivera chairman, will unveil a temporary tablet over a mound of granite boulders—unearthed in Placeritos Canyon after being hidden by brush and debris for three-quarters of a century—marking the site where, March 9, 1842, the first minted gold of which there is any record was discovered in California, by Francisco Lopez. The story of this gold discovery, together with the Philadelphia mint record pertaining thereto, have frequently been referred to in The Grizzly Bear.

Speakers will include Mrs. Frances Lopez-Bilderrain, a descendant of the discoverer; Senator R. F. Del Valle, whose grandfather owned the land where the gold was found; Judge A. B. Perkins, representing the Chamber of Commerce and Kiwanis Club of Newhall.

These two organizations are enthusiastic for the erection of a monument of native granite upon the historic site, the boulders therein to be donated by every southland Parlor of Native Sons and Native Daughters, and every other organization and individual particularly interested. It is also proposed that the land be purchased and converted into a public park.

In addition to the tablet dedication there will be a tree planting ceremony, conducted by Herman C. Lichtenberger, Past Grand President N.S.G.W. Then the assemblage will trek to Walker's beautiful oak grove, two miles up the canyon, and view the trails from the mining section over the mountains to San Fernando, the old workings of the placer miners, the ruins of a stone building erected in the Mexican-Italian village in 1843, and the gold diggings in the canyon.

FORMAL U.C.L.A. DEDICATION.

Formal dedication of the new buildings and campus of the University of California at Los Angeles will take place March 27 and 28. An elaborate program is being worked out for the event, which will be participated in by prominent personages, including an imposing group of speakers selected from among the leading scholars and educators of the world.

The dedication will mark the formal opening of the university in its new home. It is pointed out, however, that the student body, in excess of 5,500, and the faculty, numbering approximately 300, have occupied the new buildings on the new campus since last September. The university, known as the youngest among the institutions of higher education of America, is occupying its new campus of 384 acres of an estimated value of $5,000,000, with buildings and improvements valued at approximately $4,000,000.

"Our university is growing in importance and significance every day," states Director Ernest Carroll Moore. "Its advancement pleases and amazes us, and we are indeed proud of our progress. Our buildings and improvements on our new campus are of a most substantial nature, and have elicited favorable commendation as to their beauty and style of architecture, as well as their adaptation to university work. The architects tell me these buildings will endure for a thousand years. Kerckoff Hall, the result of a generous gift to the university, although it will not be completed by the time of the dedication, is destined to be our most beautiful structure. Other buildings are under contemplation for construction within the next few months."

BENEFIT FOR WORTHY PROJECT.

For Saturday night, March 15, the Native Daughter and Native Son Parlors of Los Angeles County are sponsoring a benefit performance of the "Mission Play" in the playhouse at San Gabriel. All funds raised will be used to plant a garden at San Gabriel Mission dedicated to the memory of the Pioneer Mothers and Fathers.

The garden project had its inception in Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W., but aroused so much interest and grew to such proportions that all the Parlors of the county were invited to co-operate, and all promptly and favorably responded.

Charles G. Adams, landscape architect, has donated his services, and has prepared plans for a beautiful garden which will include fountain and arbor, along with shrubs and flowers common to the early mission settlements.

This worthy project should be largely attended—the mission playhouse, in fact, should be packed to overflowing. Tickets may be obtained at the Parlors, at the playhouse box office, or from the committee:

Marvel Thomas (chairman), Flora Holy, Ruth Ruiz, Irene Eden, Regina Martz, Eliza Quinn, Ralph Harbison, Adolfo Rivera, Owen C. Adams and M. U. Rosenthal.

specialties. The grand march was led by John T. Newell, Grand First Vice-president N.S.G.W. and his wife, followed by Herman C. Lichtenberger, Past Grand President N.S.G.W. and Mrs. Annie L. Adair, secretary of the joint committee. The hospitality committee for the evening included Mrs. Arthur Wright, chairman of the executive committee, and the Misses Grace Norton, Florence Steinike, Irene Eden and Ruth Ruiz.

MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN.
Los Angeles Parlor No. 45 N.S.G.W. among its other activities has inaugurated a membership campaign, and to stimulate interest, $50 as a first reward for results has been donated by Frank J. Beers; $25, second award, by Earl H. LeMoine; $10 third award, by Leslie A. Packard, and $10, fourth award, by Owen S. Adams. As a special reward for the member making the best showing by October 1, First Vice-President Elmer F. Engelbracht will provide four grand opera tickets. The Parlor is organizing baseball and bowling teams, and its history committee, William O. Gilkey, chairman, is most active. The Parlor's March program includes: 7th, moving pictures, out of the ordinary; 14th, initiation; 28th, ladies night, introducing special features.

"COMMUNISM IN THE SCHOOLS."
One of the most instructive and interesting of the luncheon meetings of Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W. was that of February 11, when Colonel Roy Smith of the Better America League gave an enlightening address on "Communism in the Schools." Following this there was a brief business session of the Parlor, presided over by President Ora May Evans, and several applications for membership were filed. Grand President Esther R. Sullivan will officially visit the Parlor March 11, and at that time a large class will be initiated. After the meeting cards were enjoyed, awards going to Inez Sitton and Isabella Granz. The Parlor's program committee hopes to augment attendance by providing social events after the meetings.

The first benefit, February 12, for Californiana's Felipe de Neve statue fund was an outstanding event, both socially and financially. Mms. Charles Van Valkenberg, Charles Jacobson and G. R. Williamson were the hostesses. The state flower, the golden poppy, was much in evidence and harmonized beautifully with the vivid valentine motif. Following luncheon bridge and five hundred were enjoyed, and late in the afternoon Sam Glass and the Orpheus Four entertained with musical numbers.

EIGHTEEN INITIATED.
Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W. had a "corking" good meeting February 14, very largely attended and overflowing with enthusiasm. A class of eighteen candidates were initiated, the first direct result of the labors of the membership committee, Dr. John A. Schwamm, chair-

CALIFORNIA AT ITS BEST— SANTA BARBARA

SANTA BARBARA IS CALIFORNIA at its best! The state has no better climate or history, nor any city whose romance and history are more colorful. In 1542 Santa Barbara became known for its scenic beauty, for in that year Juan Roderiguez Cabrillo, sailing from Puerto de Navidad with two ships, discovered the Channel Island "and the mainland, where a lovely valley nestling in a natural amphitheater of hills met the vision." So enchanting did it prove to the beauty-loving dons that they thereupon claimed California as their own and held it as a Spanish possession for nearly three hundred years.

Many bold navigators of the sixteenth century, including the redoubtable Sir Francis Drake, visited these shores, and on Saint Barbara's day, December 4, 1602, Sebastian Vizcaino, heading an expedition for Philip III of Spain, entered the roadstead. So it happened that Saint Barbara, patron of mariners and architects, loaned her name to the channel, the mission, the city and the county. Corroborating Cabrillo's earlier statement, Vizcaino wrote to his sovereign that "this land has a genial climate, and its waters are good, judging from the variety and luxuriant growth of trees and plants."

Though long planned, it was 150 years before the settlement of Alta California was ordered. Then came the founding of the twenty-one California missions by the Franciscan fathers and the presidios, or military establishments, to guard them.

The Presidio of Santa Barbara was established April 21, 1782, by General Neve and Padre Jnnipero Serra. The latter's untimely death occurring two years later, it fell to Padre Firmin de Lasuen to consecrate on Saint Barbara's day, 1786, the spot where the venerable mission stands today.

Santa Barbara is the tenth of the famous missions whose Franciscan missionaries directed the development of the new land, created a distinctive architecture, and introduced many of the arts, crafts and sciences of California civilization.

The mission is Santa Barbara's most distinguished landmark, in that it is the only mission in California which has an unbroken record of service under the Franciscans for more than one hundred and forty-three years. It has long been known as the "queen of all the missions," and has been preserved for the inspiration of future generations.

This background of romance, so carefully treasured, has subtly affected much of the civic and social development of Santa Bar-

PIONEER'S BIRTHDAY RECALLS HISTORY

EVELYN EBY.
 (Chairman Publicity Committee,
 Reina del Mar N.D.G.W.)

With a brilliant pageant of history recorded within her memory through actually growing up with the West, Mrs. Jane A. Kimberly celebrated her ninety-first birthday anniversary in her Santa Barbara home February 13. Many friends, aware of the rare privilege of knowing one to whom history has been a vivid experience, joined in paying homage to her on her natal anniversary. Always generous in time and thought, Mrs. Kimberly has given to the state of her adoption many reminiscences of historic interest and upon the roster of California Pioneers her name and the names of members of her family will find a prominent place.

Mrs. Kimberly's father, P. G. Merritt, founded the first Republican newspaper in San Francisco in the early sixties. In 1862, she and the rest of her family sailed for California on the side-wheeler "Cortez," which passed through the Santa Barbara Channel on her birthday anniversary. Among the passengers who made the voyage on the same boat with the Merritt family were Governor Peter Burnett, the first American governor of California, and the late Mrs. William Hollister, then Miss James.

San Francisco was a growing town of 75,000 population in those days. Among the souvenirs of her first years in California, Mrs. Kimberly treasures one of the official mourning badges worn after the assassination of Abraham Lincoln. News of the country's tragedy was brought to San Francisco by pony express, which established a new record of seven days and seventeen hours. Describing the effect of the news upon San Francisco, Mrs. Kimberly recalled the funeral cortege which, headed by military bands, included a hearse with a flag-graped coffin and an effigy of Lincoln. The mourning badges were of white satin, printed in black with the birth and death dates of the martyred president.

Mrs. Kimberly came to Santa Barbara as a bride following her marriage to the late Captain Morse Kimberly, who came to California in 1851. Only ten American families lived in Santa Barbara at that time. Captain Kimberly spent considerable time on Santa Cruz Island, off the coast of Santa Barbara, where he salvaged a number of things when the side-wheeler "Winfield Scott" sank off Anacapa Island. He was there when Captain Nidever brought the lone Indian woman of Sau Nicholas Island back to civilization. Later, with a government claim on San Nicholas Island, he stocked it with sheep. Sheep and pigs were also taken by him to Santa Cruz Island.

Santa Barbara in its zest for the preservation of its early history and customs, as shown in the annual Old Spanish Days celebration, has found an authoritative and fascinating assistant in Mrs. Kimberly, whose vivid recollections have added materially to the wealth of information now available on California's days of romance.

Soon after moving to Santa Barbara she made the acquaintance of Governor Pico, the last governor of California under Mexican regime. Don Pablo de la Guerra, judge in three counties, headed the famous De la Guerra family in whose beautiful home, still standing in the heart of Santa Barbara's business district, the social life of early California found its most brilliant expression.

Always active in the community enterprises of Santa Barbara, Mrs. Kimberly was one of the founders of the Trinity Episcopal Church, which she had the honor of naming for old Trinity Church in New York.

Despite the vividness of her historical experiences, Mrs. Kimberly does not live entirely in the past. She takes an active interest in state and national affairs, as well as in world-wide events.

Although essentially a Californian by reason of her many years of residence in this state, Mrs. Kimberly recalls also early girlhood experiences in other parts of the country. In her infancy she moved from New York to Galveston in the Republic of Texas. Sam Houston was president of the republic, and the war with Mexico was among the exciting events of the period. The name of General Santa Ana spelled terror to the New York girl and her youthful companions, according to her reminiscences. With her sister, the late Mrs. James Ord, Mrs. Kimberly made bags to hold the powder for the guns used in a salute when Texas was admitted into the union.

Leaving Texas in 1854, Mrs. Kimberly's family sailed to New Orleans on the "Orizaba," the same boat which carried her between San Francisco and Santa Barbara a number of times later on, and which sank off Point Conception a number of years ago. From New Orleans the family went to Philadelphia, where Mrs. Kimberly attended school until the removal of the family to California.

Among those to observe the ninety-first birthday anniversary of Mrs. Kimberly were members of Reina del Mar Parlor No. 126 Native Daughters of the Golden West, who sent her flowers and a message of appreciation for her contribution and loyalty to the Golden Bear State.

COMMUNITY CHEST SUPPORTED.

The greatest money-raising campaign ever staged in Santa Barbara came to a successful close February 17, when over 900 men and women completed a six-day canvass of the city in the interest of the Community Chest. During 1930, $171,877 will be used to conduct efficiently the work of fourteen affiliated social service agencies.

Ever since the establishment of the Milk Fund in 1917 by Reina del Mar Parlor No. 126 Native Daughters of the Golden West, it has been, and continues to be, one of the most popular of the agencies in the Community Chest. The reason for this is apparent, when one considers that the fund goes to aid the most helpless groups in the community, including babies, orphaned children, delicate and undernourished school-children, the needy, the sick and the aged.

C. Warren, first vice-president.

The Milk Fund, faithfully sponsored by the Native Daughters as part of the state-wide program of children's work being carried on by the Order, was originally financed by the sale of tags printed for the Milk Fund drive and managed by the Native Sons and Native Daughters with the assistance of practically all other semi-civic organizations in the city.

The old adobe standing where Neighborhood House now stands was always the center of the Milk Fund work. When the Community Chest was founded, in 1924, it took over the support of the Milk Fund, along with the other thirteen welfare agencies, but the Native Daughters have always maintained their personal interest in it and worked diligently with a team recruited from the Parlor's members for assured support.

A feature of interest this year was the window decorated during chest week to create interest in the campaign. Mrs. Donald Eby and Mrs. Louis Nichols were responsible for this arrangement, the thought of the Milk Fund being carried out in wax figures and posters depicting the giving of milk to the needy of Santa Barbara.

Reina del Mar was well represented in this most successful Community Chest campaign, in that Mrs. U. Dardl, past president of the Parlor, acted as one of the nine majors responsible for the organization of teams and most successfully completed her required quota. Reina del Mar's newly-elected president, Mrs. John Mitchell, captained the Parlor's team for the drive, assisted by Mrs. A. C. Warren, Mrs. Wm. Vlek, Miss Christina Moller, Mrs. Wesley McCormick, Miss Marian Arroqui, Miss Elizabeth Hollow, Miss Inez Sharpe and Miss Emma Martin.

TO MARK HISTORIC LANDMARKS.

Members of Santa Barbara Parlor No. 116 N.S.G.W., have outlined a program to mark and preserve places of historical interest in and about Santa Barbara. Preliminary plans were made at a meeting of the committee—President A. C. Dinsmore, George Black, Owen O'Neill, C. Livermore, Dan Taylor and W. McCormick—at the home of County Purchasing Agent John L. Stewart.

Among some of the landmarks which will be marked are the Santa Barbara Presidio, erected in 1782; Refugio Beach, where the Pirate Bouchard is said to have landed in 1818; painted rocks near Cuyama, San Marcos Pass, and the Covarrubias adobe. A huge monument in honor of some historic figure, to be erected on the waterfront, is also being given serious consideration.

fall from the trap, it required twelve minutes for him to strangle to death.

CHAMPION HUNTER.

A Mexican renegade, Noriega, who, during his career, had killed four men, and another Mexican, Urbano, were found, killed, near San Andreas, Calaveras County, March 26.

It was discovered that the belle of Suisun, conceded the prettiest girl in Solano County, was not up to date in spelling. A letter to her favored admirer, accidentally and unfortunately dropped, but later picked up, began: "Deer Gosef—Mi luv."

A coterie of the Sacramento Gun Club had an informal smoker in the back room of a gunshop one evening at which trap shooting was the subject of conversation. A well-known dentist, who had a reputation of being a good shot, strolled in and being asked his opinion on trap shooting replied: "I expect this pulling the trigger at hats, pigeons and glass halls has its exhilarating moments, but give me big game for thrills. You know, when I came here in '50 the Sacramento Valley was alive with herds of elk, deer and antelope. I went one afternoon in the fall of '50 up the Putah, in Yolo County, on a hunt, riding a horse so that I could get within rifle shot of a herd. The valley, too, was covered with big shade-giving oaks. Suddenly I saw some distance away a noble elk standing beneath the shade of an oak, and dismounted. A little to one side was an uprooted oak whose roots held aloft, about seven feet high, a rampart of soil. Getting this between the elk and myself, I stalked to it and, knocking a hole through the earth with the muzzle of my rifle, got a shot at him without being seen. I took careful aim, and thought I saw him drop. Reloading I looked again through my peephole and was astonished to see him still standing there under the oak. I fired again, and thought I saw him drop. Reloading, I looked again, and to my astonishment there he stood, hut, to my surprise, he had lost his antlers. I shot again, repeating this performance eleven times. At last he dropped, and stayed dropped. Chagrined at my poor marksmanship, I then went to the oak tree and you can imagine my surprise to find eleven elk lying upon the ground dead. The first elk I shot was the sentinel of the herd that was resting in the shade of the oak and, as each one dropped, another arose and took the animal's place until I had annihilated the whole herd." The gang puffed their pipes, and thought. After a few moments of silence one inquisitive listener asked, "Did you eat them all, doc?"

John McDougal, mining on the North Fork of the Feather River above Oroville, Butte County, reported a mammoth halibone fell in front of his cabin door March 5. It was ten feet in cir-

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER

THE PRINTED CHIFFON DINNER AND evening dresses for spring and summer take advantage of the favor in which black and white are held, separately and together, and are effective and different enough to support a vogue of their own. Great sprawling, and even spectacular, designs have an appeal which might be questionable in color. We also have many floral designs in taf-feta.

For those who have been waiting for gray "to make good" as a fashion over a period of three years, this spring shows more encouraging signs. The shades are wearable, in that they have the warm and becoming overtone of mauve or rose, rather than the cold clear grays which so many object to on the ground of their non-flattering effect.

With pink in fashion, the popularity extends to the accessory and trimming accents of day-time wear. Gray and pink make a combination of unmistakable appeal.

Black and white, and navy and white, in place of the navy and beige of former years, are the staples of the moment. Even these are re-freshed through the featuring of patterns in which the white is predominant. Pale colors on dark grounds follow closely and are somewhat more novel.

Black, navy, green and brown grounds are favored in these, while floral, spotted or leaf motifs appear on some in a single shade, such as citron, water green, pale pink, light blue or champagne. Occasionally a more effective pattern is obtained by using white or eggshell as a relief between the dark ground and the single color of the print. All gay shades are combined with white for summer.

The ultra long skirt in evening fashions is again held responsible for a change in footwear, fabric, rather than design, now going in for its share of attention.

There is a greater demand for the satin slipper for evening wear and, considering that this fabric has not been so popular during the past season, and also because only the point of the toe is visible, satin, with its high luster, is deemed more effective than dull crepe. Satin makes a bright fabric contrast with the duller weaves, and intensifies color contrast when it is employed.

Accessories for evening which play a stellar role are slippers, handbags, artificial flowers and jewelry. Aside from types, these may be selected from the standpoint of color, forming another link in the choice of correct details for the gown. Then there is the fluttering square of chiffon, which should repeat the color of slipper or flower. And since the mode is flirtatious, why should not the fan be brought back?

Collections of sports suits for spring wear divulge some important facts and interesting suggestions concerning both the styling of blouses and the use of fabrics. The idea is to contrast the blouse in color fabric, or the blouse color with the jacket.

Short sleeves are now assuming considerable importance. In the knitted jumper, one notes that the puffing of the short sleeve is effected by a ribbed border.

Embroidery promises to play a more important part in sports blouses this season than for some time past.

Collars are often sponsored of a contrasting fabric. One sees the wide wale, as well as the narrow wale, pique collar on jersey mannish suits. The novelty feminine models resort to bows and fluting cape collars, and are most effective on the sleeveless blouse. Voiles, dotted swisses and flowered lawns are important.

Embroidered batistes and hand-blocked linens have both been leaders for dresses with coats of plain material. Pin tucks or tiny pleats give fullness to the straight-from-the-shoulder silhouette.

A favorite treatment in dotted swiss frocks employs colored dots, with the frock divided into gore-like sections by pipings in the color of the dot. Collars and cuffs also introduce contrasting bindings, or embroidered edges in colors.

The youthful and extremely feminine stylings, which distinguish the lingerie blouses and add greatly to their charm, are the tucked and pleated jabots, often edged with val lace or held in place with tiny pearl buttons. These are joined to the blouse at the point of the "V"-shaped neckline. Wide and narrow frills, and ties which end in long tabs, are good. Pastel shades are favored for these blouses, such as light shades of yellow, peach, flesh pink, blue and green.

Hats for spring show the flaring lines, but moderated for the tailored hat. The straw hat has the greatest importance for the early days, with lacy straw insets and bandings used as inset trimmings on bakau, panamalaque, sisol and ballibunt.

In fact, on almost all of the straw bodies straw laces are used to accomplish the effect of the dressy hats without applied trimmings, and have solved the problem of the dressy hats without fussiness.

The new straws are receiving attention. These are soft and pliable, and very well adapted to the model. Draped ends and folded lines are required now. The lifted brim and the molded crown fit the head perfectly. One must observe individual requirements, if she would look her best.

It seems that the sun-tan shades are to be even better than they were last spring. Beach sand, picrust and hacienda are leading.

In the straw laces, real thread lace is imitated in many patterns. Some of these are exact duplicates of cluny and venise. Interesting stitchings give another fresh touch to the conventional pattern, either over the entire crown and brim or just as part of the hat.

Materials are important. Linen and shantung are used in the same way, and as insets or drapes through the straw of the crown, on many new models. The slanted line goes with the turned-up or rolled-up brim, and there is much novelty in the way the brims are manipulated so that there will be no effect of harshness when treated in innumerable ways.

The one point necessary is, that the hats be smart, becoming and feminine. In general, all agree this will be a good straw season.

Felts are used as much as ever, but not for the formal hats, unless "dressed up" quite a bit.

ALMOND BLOSSOMS

(MINNA MCGARVEY.)

When the almond trees are blooming in the valleys and the hills

And the meadow lark is caroling his mellow shakes and trills,

Ah! 'tis then the land is fairest, for it seems a magic loom

Has woven snowy patterns, when the almonds are in bloom.

Fleecy sheep in sunny meadows, filmy clouds in skies of blue—

So the trees are brightly burdened, 'tis a fragrant hurden too;

And it fills the heart with rapture as we breathe the rare perfume

And feast the eyes with beauty, when the almonds are in bloom.

They're as light as flutt'ring feather brushed from unseen angel's wing,

And the fairy petals circle, stirred by breezes sweet of Spring;

And they lift and sift and settle, falling soft as downy plume

Where one can dream, and worship, when the almonds are in bloom.

And at night when stars are shining and the moon is sailing high,

And the Milky Way is lighting up its pathway through the sky,

Never can there be in Heaven, nor on earth, a space of gloom,

For trees, like stars, are gleaming, when the almonds are in bloom!

"By law and punishment, by social agitation and discussion, society can regulate and form itself in a more or less haphazard or chance way. But through education society can formulate its own purposes, can organize its own means and resources, and thus shape itself with definiteness and economy in the direction in which it wishes to move."—John Dewey.

A BIT O' FARMING

PREPARED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY M. H. ELLIS

NOT AT ALL OPTIMISTIC IS THE OUTLOOK for the agricultural industry generally in California this year, according to the predictions of Dr. H. R. Wellman of the University of California. In deciduous fruits, apples, pears, grapes, clingstone peaches and prunes have no future that warrants expansion of acreage. Plums and freestone peaches are in the best condition, although apricots may be profitable if planted in the right localities. Almonds have a fairly good prospect, but there is no reason for planting walnuts. Rice, barley and wheat are expected to be in about the same position as last year. The outlook for potatoes is decidedly poor this year; asparagus, beans and sugar-beets can stand no expansion of acreage. Beef cattle and sheep, which have enjoyed good years, probably will start on the down trend; in fact, sheep already have done so. Dairy products will face more severe competition. Poultry prices probably will be lower. Hogs are the brightest spot in the outlook picture.

The gloom in the outlook reflects that of industry and employment. With industry curtailing output and with employment off about 5 percent, the buying power naturally is decreased. Last year frost curtailed production of fruits, and the short crop brought more money than the heavy one of the year before. This year production probably will be normal, and prices will be lower.

In the face of conditions as they are, any expansion of agricultural production in California is unwarranted. We are ahead of consumption in nearly all lines. This does not mean there is no future for California agriculture; it does mean that right now the plantings are as heavy as the markets warrant. California farmers must adopt practices leading to economy of operation and increasing of quality, if they are to make profits in the face of increasing production; they must encourage new markets, as well.

LIGHT IRRIGATION.

Irrigation will soon be necessary in California, if it is not already so by the time this is printed. In using water, it is well to remember that there is little benefit to be obtained by a so-called "light irrigation." When a small amount of water is applied, it does not spread evenly down through the soil; it merely wets down a distance, depending upon the amount used. Hence, if a light irrigation is employed, only those roots near the surface will profit; those deeper in the soil will get no moisture. A thorough wetting of the soil is preferable, and if the auger shows moisture is not needed every time water is in the ditch, it need not be applied. Don't over-irrigate and bring up the water table with attendant alkali. Neither is it well, of course, to give the trees too little water. Make a study of the soil, and irrigate when it is dry; don't irrigate when it is wet. The greater danger is in too much water. Soil is not ruined by lack of water; it may easily be damaged by too much.

NEMATODES IN THE GARDEN.

Nematodes often attack garden plants, both vegetable and flower, and are a serious pest once they are established in the soil. Two methods generally are used in ridding the soil of the pests. One, used in large areas on farms, is not adapted to gardens. It consists of crop rotation, of planting crops immune to the nematodes, thereby starving them out.

The other method used is that of sterilizing the soil by steam or by chemicals. In greenhouses, steam is used, and effectively. However, where steam is not available, cyanide or carbon bisulphide may be used; all vegetation is destroyed for the year through this method. Take an iron rod or stick, make a hole, insert the chemical and cover the hole. The fumes penetrate over a radius of about eighteen inches and kill the pests. There are, though, many plants that are resistant to nematodes, and in most instances a beautiful flower garden may be maintained by selecting these.

RAISING DAIRY CALVES.

In the face of increasing competition in the dairy industry, the dairyman must continue to breed up his herd for production. In raising calves, only those from high producing cows, sired by a purebred bull of known production, should be saved for introduction into the milking herd. Calves that are small, weak or unhealthy at birth are difficult to raise, require more attention and a longer growing period, have a higher mortality, and as a result cost more to raise. The first calf usually is smaller than those which follow, but otherwise may prove as good. Females twin to males usually are sterile; other twins will not be impaired as to breeding powers. Only under very unusual conditions is it profitable to attempt to produce veal from dairy bull calves; they are better disposed of at birth.

ALFALFA LEAF SPOT.

If alfalfa leaf spot appears in the hay fields, the crop should be cut at once, regardless of the stage of growth, and the hay removed from the field. Subsequent cuttings are not so likely to have the disease, as the greatest damage is usually in the spring. Withholding irrigation will also reduce the spread of the disease, which is caused by a fungus and appears as brown spots, about a sixteenth of an inch in diameter. Usually these spots are on the upper surface of the leaves, although in severe attacks they may penetrate the leaves and appear on the under side as well. The consequent dropping of the leaves not only reduces the crop, but impairs the vigor of the plants.

CONTROL OF CABBAGE BUGS.

With the advent of spring, cabbage hogs appear and some crops, such as cabbage, kale, mustard and turnips, may be severely affected. The control begins in the winter, through the removal of the old host plants that may carry the insects through. If the insects make a strong attack in large numbers, the best plan is to destroy the crop and bugs at once, and then replant. Sprays do little good; calcium cyanide dust may wipe out the pests, but not until all tops of plants used for food are thoroughly washed should they be eaten.

WATCH FLATHEAD BORER.

Spring is the time to fight the flathead borers; it does little good to wait until summer or fall when they have entered the tree. Usually the borer, a yellowish-white worm, a half to three-quarters inch in length and with a distinctly flat head, attacks newly planted trees. The adult beetle lays her eggs in the spring at the base of the tree and the small worms enter the bark through abrasions, usually sunburn wounds. Whitewashing the young tree when it is planted is an excellent preventive, being sure the protective coat is replenished if washed off by the rain. Or use tree protectors, set well below the surface. Whale or fish oil soap are good repellents. In any treatment, be sure it is applied below the crown, beneath the soil surface.

ROTTING OF GARDEN SEEDS.

Some seeds in the garden, such as beans, squashes and melons, are likely to rot if planted just before a cold, rainy spell of weather. As the gardener has no knowledge of the weather for two or three weeks ahead, he must take other precautions if he desires an early crop. In small gardens, these vegetables may be planted in boxes and transplanted upon the development of two true leaves. The ground then can be prepared, and in case of vining beans, such as Kentucky Wonder, the strong or poles may be made ready. Planted in boxes, the seed can be protected from too much water, can be placed in the warmest available location and thus given a good start. In transplanting, if the sun is warm give them the shade of a shingle and see that they have plenty of water.

CITRUS APHIS REMEDY.

When citrus aphis appears, as it may in the spring, much damage is liable to follow unless prompt measures are taken to repel the invaders in the groves. The damage to new budwood and blossoms often is serious. Lime-sulphur, 2 percent strength, combined with nicotine-sulphate and whale oil soap, the latter five pounds to 100 gallons, should give satisfactory results if thoroughly sprayed on the trees. No time is to be lost, it should be borne in mind, in applying the spray when the first appearance of the aphid is made on the trees.

FORCE POISON IN.

In applying the first spray for codling moth on pears and apples, be sure there is sufficient force carrying the arsenate of lead to drive it into the calyx cups. The stamens and pistils form enough protection to prevent the spray from entering, if it is in mist form; when they drop off the poison is likely to be removed and the way opened for the entry of the codling moth larva. A driving spray, applied so that it strikes the calyx cup, will fill it with poison and effectually prevent the codling moth from making a home in the embryo pear or apple. Later sprays applied on the fruit, of course, may be in the mist form; the endeavor then is to cover the fruit and not to force the poison into it.

TAMARIX FOR WINDBREAK.

In planting the Athel Tamarix for windbreak, as was done quite extensively throughout the state during the past winter, most farmers quite properly set the plants rather close together to guard against losses. With the growth started, however, and indications as to the thriftiness of the plants, it is well to thin the stand to some three feet in the row. Later it will be found that six feet is close enough for two of these plants. They do not need stubbing back or pruning to fill the gaps; they do that quite naturally, and most effectively.

USE INORGANIC FERTILIZERS NOW.

Inorganic, or commercial, fertilizers may be applied now with assurance that good results will follow. Nitrate of soda, ammonium sulphate, calcium nitrate and similar fertilizers, worked into the soils now through cultivation or rain, will have their nitrogen ready for use when the trees are most in need of it. Large amounts of nitrogen are required during the fruit setting and early growing period; in the event of a cold, wet spring, bacterial action will be slow and organic matter which naturally supplies nitrogen may be delayed so that the tree will suffer. Sulphate and muriate of potash and phosphates, simple or in complete mixtures, may be applied during the spring and summer as they are needed. Lime and sulphur should have been applied earlier, if they are to exert their full force as soil amendments, but it is not too late to put them on now if there is evidence the soil needs them. The money and labor will not be wasted, by any means.

GET THE GARDEN GOING.

The garden should be brought right up to date this month. All work delayed through inopportune weather, stress of other duties or procrastination, should be done right now. The ground should be turned with plow or spade, as soon as the soil condition is right, and the seed beds for the vegetables may be prepared. While it is still a bit too early for tender varieties in localities where there is frost danger, planting time is here in earnest, and the gardener who is willing to take a chance may be rewarded by yields days ahead of his neighbor, or he may have to replant.

CUT WORM CURE.

Here is just about the best remedy known for the troublesome cut worm that makes its appearance so regularly every spring: Stir a pound of white arsenic with two quarts of molasses and four gallons of water; grind a dozen lemons or oranges in a meat grinder, rinds and all, and add to the liquid; then pour this slowly over twenty-five pounds of bran to get an even mixture. More or less water may be required, according to the coarseness of the bran. A moist mash is preferable to a wet one because it is not as likely to harden in the sun. Sprinkle the mash around the plants where the cut worms are operating; they like it, and will feed heavily to their own doom.

SPRAY FOR GRAPE MEASLES.

It is just about time to spray for grape measles; little good will be accomplished after the end of March. After pruning is finished, as it should have been long before this, the application of three pounds of sodium arsenate to fifty gallons of water will be the most effective means of stopping the development of the disease on vines.

MERCED NATIVE SON GRAND PARLOR

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

THE FIFTY-THIRD GRAND PARLOR of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West will be in session at Merced City the week of May 19, and at the same time Merced County will celebrate its seventy-fifth, diamond, anniversary. Accordingly, there is unusual enthusiasm, and an exceptionally good program of entertainment is being prepared.

Yosemite Parlor No. 24, in charge of the Grand Parlor arrangements, has a general committee which meets nearly every day. D. K. Stoddard, the veteran Native Son, is the chairman, and T. W. Fowler the secretary of the committee. The Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants' Association, the American Legion and Veritas Parlor No. 75 N.D.G.W. are working hand in hand with Yosemite.

A house committee, I. H. Reuter chairman, is listing all available rooms, and assurance is given that accommodations will be plentiful.

The program committee is mapping out one of the best programs ever presented for the enjoyment of Grand Parlor members. Business and pleasure will be intermingled, so that the visitors will not be in constant motion.

Two outstanding features will be the placing of a marker upon the old court house at Snelling, and a visit to the "ghost town" of Hornitos, where a real Western mining camp may be seen and where a barbecue will be served, with the Mariposa County Natives as hosts and hostesses.

"Advise the clan to come along," says Secretary T. W. Fowler in a letter to The Grizzly Bear. "We want them to come prepared to indulge in real physical exercise, because we do not expect them to get any time for rest. Our Native Daughters are with us one hundred percent, so the ladies should all come, too. Merced will be a garden of California poppies."

The legislation adopted at last year's Grand Parlor, requiring every member of the Grand Parlor to pay a registration fee of $2.50, will be in effect at the Merced session. As provided by the legislation, the total will be turned over to Yosemite Parlor for entertainment purposes.

GRAND PARLOR OFFICE SEEKERS.

"Conferencing" regarding the Grand Third Vice-presidency continues. There may, and there may not, be four contestants for the office. So far, Grand Trustee Frank M. Lane is the only "prospective" who has definitely announced his candidacy. Replies, to date, to The Grizzly Bear's queries directed to the numerous "rumored" candidates for Grand Parlor offices make possible the presentation of the following line-up:

For Grand President—Grand First Vice-president John T. Newell (Los Angeles No. 45) of Los Angeles.

For Grand First Vice-president—Grand Second Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez (Pacific No. 10) of San Francisco.

For Grand Second Vice-President—Seth Millington (Colusa No. 69) of Gridley.

For Grand Third Vice-president—Grand Trustee Frank M. Lane (Fresno No. 25) of Fresno.

For Grand Secretary—John T. Regan (South San Francisco No. 157) of San Francisco, incumbent.

San Francisco will, it is certain, ask for this year's Admission Day (September 9) celebration. So far as The Grizzly Bear knows, no place has been mentioned for next year's Grand Parlor, although Eureka, Humboldt County, and Los Angeles City have been mentioned as possible seekers of that honor.

HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENTS WILL FACILITATE SOUTH TO NORTH TRAFFIC.
 Motor travel between the San Joaquin Valley and California South will be facilitated, and traffic congestion in the Newhall tunnel section of the inland route relieved, through the completion of a new route via Weldon Canyon some time this summer. One and one-fourth miles will be saved by the new road. A bridge crossing the Santa Clara River and a grade separation at the railroad line just south of Castaic are included in the project. This stretch will extend from a point south of the present narrow bridge over the railroad through Weldon Canyon to Castaic Junction.

With a minimum of grades and curves and of standard width, it is one of the vital planning projects in the interest of motor travel. The new route will help to bring the Bakersfield region and California North closer to the south and, when eventually tied in with the new road planned to run parallel to the present Ridge route, will mean a saving of at least an hour in travel time and nearly nine miles in distance.

In line with this and the new Ridge route project, the major planning scheme for travel will include a by-pass route for through traffic to extend from the bridge across the railroad tracks just south of Newhall tunnel along the east side, skirting San Fernando, and leading through Altadena to Foothill boulevard.

The new Ridge route, an outstanding improvement in the highway development program for California, will follow lower levels, have one-fifth the number of curves of the present route and a maximum grade of but 6 percent. It will extend from Castaic on the present route via Violin Canyon to a point near Gorman, 28.5 miles in length. The entire project will be about three years in building.

TREMENDOUS ECONOMIC LOSS.

In the past six years, the economic loss from motor-vehicle accidents averaged $25 for every resident of the United States. The total loss is estimated at $3,000,000,000, and one person in six has been directly affected.

The sad part is, that the major portion of this tremendous economic loss could have been prevented, for 90 percent of the motor-vehicle accidents are due to carelessness, recklessness and drunk driving.

MULTIPLE OWNERSHIP NOT UNUSUAL.

According to a nation-wide survey, over 20 percent of the country's auto owners have two or more vehicles. It is not unusual to find one car for each member of fairly large families.

California, it is believed, is well in the lead in multiple car ownership, as the records show several require from two to four motor-vehicle licenses each year.

VESTA Costs Less per Month of Service

LARGEST "DIVVY" AUTO FEES
IN HISTORY OF CALIFORNIA MADE.
The State Division of Motor Vehicles February 5 apportioned the huge sum of $8,390,870, collected in motor-vehicle license fees during 1929, to the fifty-eight counties of the state and to the State Division of Highways for road building and repair.

The apportionment, largest in the history of the state, was nearly $600,000 in excess of 1928, due largely to the amazing increase for the year in motor-vehicle registrations. It was based on fee-paid registrations of vehicles totaling 2,026,868, an increase of 9 percent, or 167,436, over 1928. One-half of the amount, $4,195,435, went direct to the several counties and the balance to the state's road construction department.
With 823,620 cars, 40 percent of the state's total, registered from Los Angeles County, that county received the lion's share of the money, $1,704,819. San Francisco, with the second largest number of registered vehicles, 155,295, received $321,446, and Alameda County, with the third largest number, 143,422, got $296,870.

CALIFORNIA, WORLD'S PLAYGROUND.
ATTRACTS THOUSANDS MOTOR TOURISTS.
Records of the State Division of Motor Vehicles and the California highway patrol revealed February 12 that motorists from every state in the union and practically every important country in the world visited California during the tourist season of 1929.

The time-honored slogan of California hoosters that the state is the "playground of the nation" changed to the "playground of the world," for even such obscure countries as New Zealand, Guam and Panama sent their quota of pleasure seekers by motor.
Under the law providing that visitors' permits he issued for non-resident cars in the state ten days or more, 90,083 such permits were issued last year. It is estimated that 170,000 visitor cars, each carrying three persons, came into the state. These tourists spent millions of dollars here, and many remained to make their home in the land of sunshine, fruits and flowers.
California offers extremely liberal registration inducements for the out-of-state motorists, as they may stay here six months without securing a state license. It is predicted that all records for the number of such visitors will be broken during the 1930 vacation season.

TO AID NATIONAL PARKS TRAVEL.
California will receive from the Federal Government $675,451, for construction of forest roads in and adjacent to the national forests. The allotment is the largest for any state.
The money, available after July 1, must be devoted to the construction and maintenance of roads and trails that will facilitate travel to the national parks.

SOUTH COUNTIES MAY UNITE TO PROMOTE HIGHWAYS BUILDING.
 First steps toward the organization of the Southern California Good Roads Association were so successful, it is believed that within a short time the thirteen counties of the lower end of the state will be united for the purpose of studying the highway situation not only to promote the building of highways but to bring about a study of proposed road developments that will show whether new proposals are for the best interests of all communities concerned.
 At a preliminary meeting it was pointed out that the need was never greater than now for unity among the thirteen southern counties for an understanding of the highway situation.

PREMIER MOTORING STATE.
 California's position as the premier motoring state of the nation is demonstrated by the fact that, during 1929, motorists of the state spent $350,000,000 for 1,265,000,000 gallons of gasoline and oil—the largest total for any state during the year.

PRACTICE COURTESY.
 More courtesy on the part of motorists at intersections will help minimize the number of collisions. The law alone cannot prevent accidents at these points, for motorists must do their part by observing the law and adopting courtesy as the watchword.

HUGE GRANITE MONUMENT MARKS NOTED PATHFINDER'S ROUTE.
 Ontario (San Bernardino County)—Marking the path through this section taken by Juan Bautista de Anza on his march northward in 1773, an eight-ton granite monument, appropriately inscribed with a bronze plaque, was unveiled February 12, Lincoln's Birthday.
 Boy Scouts of America had a prominent part in procuring the marker and in the presentation of a colorful pageant which accompanied its dedication. Professor Frank Palmer told of Anza's resting at the site on his way to Monterey, California, and Mayor Francis P. Williams unveiled the monument.

GAS TAXES RUN INTO MILLIONS.
 During 1929 California collected gasoline taxes totaling $37,224,524, according to the State Board of Equalization. The collections last year exceeded those of 1928 by $4,512,860.

"PROGRESS" IS DEFINED IN "Webster's International Dictionary" as a moving or going forward; a proceeding onward, as from one point or degree to one further advanced. Real progress is in no sense associated with standing still or going backward. Any organization which desires to be identified with progress must, of necessity, move onward and upward always. To stand still is equivalent to going backward, and going backward is not only most discouraging, but, if permitted to become chronic, leads straight and fast to complete dissolution.

"Progress" is the watchword! But, without whole-hearted co-operation and determination, it can lead nowhere. Shout progress, and then contribute generously of your energy, and the course will be onward and upward.—C.M.H.

Grand Treasurer Vacancy Filled.

San Francisco—The Board of Grand Officers met January 25, those in attendance being Grand President Charles L. Dodge, who presided, Junior Past Grand President James A. Wilson, Grand First Vice-president John T. Newell, Grand Second Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez, Grand Third Vice-president Seth Millington, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Trustees Frank M. Lane, Ben Harrison, Irving D. Gibson, Charles A. Koenig, J. Hartley Russell, A. W. Garcelon and Harmon D. Skillin.

A letter was received from the regents of the University of California expressing thanks for the $3,000 in support of the N.S.G.W. history fellowship fund.

The Grand Secretary was directed to get an official ruling from the United States authorities relative to the use of Flags of the United States of America in decorating the graves of deceased members of the Order Memorial Day.

The Interparlor Committee, Southern District, called attention to a group of Los Angeles women desirous of changing the California State (Bear) Flag design. The Grand Secretary was directed to communicate with the Subordinate Parlor relative thereto.

D. G. Blackiston tendered the Grand Parlor a portrait of Grand Secretary Regan and, on motion, the same was accepted with thanks.

Communications pertaining to the restoration of San Miguel Mission were referred to the Grand Parlor Landmarks Committee.

The committee appointed to investigate the proposal to bring about consolidation of some of the San Francisco Parlors reported progress.

The following resolution on the death of Grand Treasurer John E. McDougald was adopted:

"Whereas, The Great Ruler of the Universe has called from the ranks of our fraternity one of our charter members, and who was one of the most loyal and beloved sons of California; and whereas, during the many years of his membership in this Order and in the Grand Parlor—one year of which he served as Grand Treasurer and over twenty-five years as Grand Treasurer—he endeared himself to all by his close attention to duty, his integrity in public and private life, and his genial good fellowship; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the Board of Grand Officers N.S.G.W., in meeting assembled on Saturday, January 25, 1930, express deep regret at the passing of our beloved brother and fellow grand officer, John E. McDougald, and extend our sympathy to his family; and be it further resolved, that when we adjourn this meeting we do so out of respect to his memory, and that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to his family."

Three names were submitted as candidates for the office of Grand Treasurer, made vacant through the death of John E. McDougald: John A. Corotto of San Jose No. 22, Walton E. Holmes of Sunset No. 26 (Sacramento) and Frank M. Buckley of National No. 118 (San Francisco). Buckley was selected, and he was installed by Junior Past Grand President Wilson.

Following a general discussion of matters pertaining to the welfare of the Order, particularly that of membership, the board adjourned to the call of Grand President Dodge.

Four in One.

Santa Rosa—Native Sons and Native Daughters of Sonoma, Marin, Mendocino and San Francisco Counties gathered in force at Native Sons Hall February 7 for four functions.

Santa Rosa No. 28 N.S.G.W. initiated four candidates, a picked team from Sonoma County Past Presidents Assembly exemplifying the ritual. The officers of Santa Rosa No. 217 N.D.G.W., headed by President Hazel Brown, initiated one candidate; Past Grand President Emma Gruber-Foley and Supervising Deputy Ethel Stuhr were guests of honor. Officers of Sonoma County Past Presidents Association N.S.G.W. were installed by James Stanley, Henry Seegelken of Santa Rosa becoming governor.

At the conclusion of these separate meetings there was a joint banquet, served by the Santa Rosa Natives. Entertainment features were presented and there were several addresses by both visiting and local Natives.

Santa Rosa No. 28 will celebrate its forty-sixth institution anniversary March 20, when a large class of candidates will be initiated. The officers of Mount Tamalpais No. 64 (San Rafael) will exemplify the ritual, and the drum and bugle corps of that Parlor will head a street parade preceding the ceremonies. A banquet and dancing will follow the meeting.

Home-Parlor Visited.

Fresno—Grand Trustee Frank M. Lane visited his home-Parlor, Fresno No. 25, February 14, and the newly-installed officers, headed by Max Pollard, initiated a class of candidates. Members of Selma No. 107 and Madera No. 130 were guests of the occasion.

There was a program of entertainment, in charge of Lucius Powers Jr., and refreshments were served under the supervision of E. E. Burke. The invitational dance given by the Parlor February 7 was largely attended and greatly enjoyed. Pbil Wolfe was the master of ceremonies.

Highly Honored.

Pasadena—Charles H. Prisk, editor and publisher of the "Pasadena Star-News," has been selected for the 1929 Arthur Noble Award, presented annually to the local resident adjudged the most valuable citizen. He has long been affiliated with Quartz No. 53 of Grass Valley.

The judges, named by the Board of City Directors, reported: "We are unanimously of the opinion that the Arthur Noble Award for 1929 should be made to Mr. Prisk because of his publishing of the 'Pasadena Star-News' and that any further explanation of the choice would seem unnecessary."

To Have Glee Club.

Saint Helena—District Deputy Henry Pocal, accompanied by a large delegation of Calistogans, installed the officers of Saint Helena No. 53 February 3, Theodore Corbella becoming president. Perry Blake was the recipient of a handsome past president's jewel. The meeting was enlivened by the singing of peppy songs, Walter Metzner being the director. Plans are afoot to develop a glee club in the Parlor.

At the banquet board President Corbella presided as toastmaster, and among the speakers were the following: C. A. Carroll, C. E. Butler, Ed. Light, Father McKeon and Felix Salmina Jr. of Calistoga; Walter Metzner, J. L. Goodman and Perry Blake of Saint Helena.

Good Time.

Fort Bragg—Officers of Alder Glen No. 200 and Fort Bragg No. 210 N.D.G.W. were jointly installed by District Deputies Ralph Todd and Edna Kunzler, H. S. Nobman and Florence Anderson becoming the respective presidents. Cards and dancing followed the ceremonies, and lunch was served. A good time was had by the many in attendance.

Trusts Unmercifully Flayed.

San Rafael—Officers of Mount Tamalpais No. 64 and Marinita No. 198 N.D.G.W. were jointly installed by District Deputy J. S. Rosa and Supervising Deputy Ethel Stuhr, Frank Kelly and Mae Welsh becoming the respective presidents. The hall was beautifully decorated with California poppies and greenery.

Following the ceremonies a delicious repast was served at tables made attractive by the use of blue crepe paper and flowers. City Attorney Jordan L. Martinelli presided at the festal board and in introducing the speakers entertained in his usual happy manner. H. R. De Gregory, introduced as Antonio Luigi, Marin County's Pucinelli, flayed the trusts, particularly the corset trust, unmercifully, in a barbarous mixture of bad English and worse Italian; his address was declared a classic, recommended to budding politicians for study. Mount Tamalpais' hawaiian trio rendered a number of pleasing popular melodies, and H. R. Cole contributed a number of the latest song hits.

Other speakers included B. J. Brusatori, retiring president Mount Tamalpais; Mae Welsh, president Marinita; Emma Gruber Foley, Past Grand President N.D.G.W.; Frank Kelly, president Mount Tamalpais; Evelyn I. Carlson, Grand Marshal N.D.G.W.; Supervising Deputy Ethel Stuhr and District Deputy J. S. Rosa. All praised the entertainment committee in the highest terms and lauded the installing officers for faultless work.

South San Francisco Parlor No. 157 has accepted an invitation to pay a visit to Mount Tamalpais March 17. As that is Saint Patrick's Day, President Frank Kelly is arranging a regular "Irish night," and declares it will be one of the greatest successes ever held by the Parlor. who instituted No. 64 forty-five years ago, is expected to be among the many prominent guests. Sea Point No. 153 (Sausalito) had a young timers' night February 19 and Mount Tamalpais sent over a big delegation, who enjoyed the feature hugely.

Open Baseball Challenge.

San Bernardino—W. Donald Keir, chairman of the athletic committee of Arrowhead No. 110 announces the baseball team of the Parlor and the team of Sepulveda No. 263 will play a game at San Pedro, March 2. He also issues an open challenge to all California South Parlors for a game or series of games. Any athletic manager may get in touch with him at 327 Third street, San Bernardino.

In a game with the Itanford Iron Works team February 9, the Arrowheadites came out victorious, the final score being 12 to 6.

Everybody Happy.

Arcata—To keep the womenfolks in a peaceable frame of mind, Arcata No. 20 sponsored a ladies' night February 6. Each member of the Parlor was privileged to bring one guest. Everyone reported a very enjoyable evening, progressive whist being the main diversion.

Awards were made Miss Allen McAlister, Mrs. Berneice Titlow, Geraldine Spellenberg, Esther McDonald, Jean Getchell, Edna Hunt and Dalinda Rocha, Grand Trustee A. W. Garcelon, J. W. McPherson, William Peters and W. S. Monroe. Following cards all adjourned to the banquet-room, where a repast was enjoyed. All the members of the Parlor enthusiastically approved of the affair which, by the way, is an annual event with Arcata.

Benefit Ball for Homeless.

Oakland—The N.S.G.W. and N.D.G.W. Joint Homeless Children Committee of Alameda County has selected March 15 as the date for its annual benefit ball at the Oakland Auditorium. The affair this year, it is hoped, will be a greater success than that of last year, when $3,017.50 was netted.

Numerous sub-committees have been appointed to arrange the details, the chairman of each being: J. J. Dignan, publicity; Frank Rigney, tickets; Grand Marshal Arthur J. Clen, printing; E. F. Garrison, box sales; May Mead, committee photographs; Ed. T. Schnaar, booster; Grand Secretary Sallie R. Thaler, entertainment.

Officers of the joint committee are: Richard M. Hamb, chairman; Ray B. Felton, secretary; E. Frank Garrison, treasurer; Josephine Clark, Sallie R. Thaler, William C. Latham, vice-chairmen.

Delicious refreshments, prepared by a very capable committee under the leadership of Mrs. Aurelia Butler, were served. Dancing followed. Community singing was a delightful feature of the evening.

JOHN JOSEPH HOULLIHAN.

Whereas, in the wisdom of our Heavenly Father, Brother John Joseph Houllihan has been called to his eternal rest; and whereas, in his passing General Winn Parlor No. 32 N.S.G.W. has lost a faithful member of many years' standing who was always a booster for the Parlor and for everything for which it stands; therefore, be it Resolved, That the members of General Winn Parlor No. 32 Native Sons of the Golden West extend their most heartfelt sympathy to the members of Brother Houllihan's family in this, their sad hour of bereavement, and sincerely pray that their sorrow may be tempered in the thought that God, in His infinite mercy, knows best; and he it further resolved, that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the Parlor in memory of Brother Houllihan and that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

J. P. McDONNELL.

Whereas, It has pleased our Heavenly Father, in His divine wisdom, to remove from our midst and associations our highly esteemed and beloved brother, John P. McDonnell, and whereas, in the passing of Brother McDonnell, Sebastopol Parlor
No. 143 N.S.G.W. mourns the loss of one of its loyal and faithful members, one who ever held seriously these cardinal virtues of our Order; therefore, be it Resolved, That while we will miss our departed brother, nevertheless the memory of his associations will ever remain fresh in our memory, and that we extend the hand of sympathy to the he-reaved family in this, their hour of sorrow; and be it further resolved, that these resolutions be spread in full upon the minutes of this meeting; that a copy be sent the family of our departed brother, and that a copy be mailed The Grizzly Bear for publication.

Native Daughters of the Golden West

THE FORTY-THIRD GRAND PARLOR of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West, in session last year at Santa Cruz City, delegated to the incoming Grand President, Miss Esther R. Sullivan, and the Board of Grand Trustees power to select the meeting-place for the Forty-fourth (1930) Grand Parlor. In accordance with that legislation a conference was held at Santa Cruz City during the Admission Day celebration last year and, as reported in The Grizzly Bear for October 1929, Oakland, Alameda County was selected.

The legislation enacted at last year's Grand Parlor also stipulated that this year's Grand Parlor be its own hostess, and so, arrangements for the session will be in charge of the Board of Grand Officers. The Oakland and Alameda County Parlors will, of course, co-operate, and an exceptionally interesting session is anticipated.

The Oakland Grand Parlor will be in session the week of June 16. Time moves swiftly, however, and candidates for Grand Parlor offices are getting in line. Replies received by The Grizzly Bear to inquiries sent to numerous prospective candidates brought responses from:

Grand Outside Sentinel Edna B. Briggs (La Bandera No. 110) of Sacramento, who is a candidate for Grand Inside Sentinel.

Grand Organist Minna K. Horn (Eschscholtzia No. 112) of Etna, who is a candidate for Grand Outside Sentinel.

Grand Vice-president Estelle Evans (Antioch No. 223) of Pittsburg will, in all probability, be advanced to Grand President, and Grand President Esther R. Sullivan (Marysville No. 162) will automatically become the Past Grand President. The Grizzly Bear for April will probably be enabled to give additional information regarding candidates for Grand Parlor offices.—C.M.H.

Loyalty Pledge Paid in Full.

Chico—The official visit February 13 of Grand President Esther R. Sullivan was an event of great pleasure for the members of Annie K. Bidwell No. 168. Supper, at which baskets of marigolds formed the principal table decorations, preceded the meeting. Among the visitors were Grand Trustee Sadie Brainard, Supervising Deputy Ina Wells and District Deputy Edith Brock.

Miss Sullivan spoke of the Order's several activities, stressing the importance of the Native Daughter Home. At the conclusion of her remarks the Parlor paid in full its Loyalty Pledge of $5 per member. One candidate was initiated.

Spring flowers in pink, lavender and yellow adorned the dining-hall, where refreshments were served later in the evening, and the place cards were valentine girls. Three of the younger members, Misses Doris Detrick, June Wright and Lila Roohr, attired as old-fashioned girls, served the refreshments. Those active in perfecting the plans for the evening were Mrs. Josephine Alexander, Rurie Lyle and Edna Boyd.

Benefit Carnival for Kiddies.

Saint Helena—La Junta No. 203 and Saint Helena No. 53 N.S.G.W. had their annual benefit for the homeless children, this year in the nature of a carnival, February 15. It was a big success in every particular. At midnight supper was served by the Native Daughters. J. L. Goodman was general chairman of the arrangements committee.

Officers Installed.

Nevada City—Officers of Laurel No. 6 were installed February 5 by Mrs. Olive Vincent, Mrs. Adeline O'Connor becoming president. Mrs. Lydia Gleason, retiring president, was presented with an emblematic pin.

At beautifully decorated tables a fine collation was served at the ceremonies' conclusion. Among the speakers were Past Grand President Alison F. Watt and District Deputy Margaret Fortier.

College Quartet Favors President.

Santa Ana—District Deputy Kate McFadyen, assisted by a corps of acting grand officers from Long Beach, installed the officers of Santa Ana No. 235 January 27, Mrs. Genevieve Hiskey being retained as president. Miss Marilinda Taylor, a talented musician, was initiated. Mrs. Helen Powers-Cervantes favored with beautiful vocal selections.

As a special favor to President Hiskey, a quartet of junior college students—Misses Frances Harper, Audrey Smidt, Katherine Kirven and Nada Hill—were heard in delightful numbers. They were accompanied by Miss Myrtle Martin, and under the directorship of Miss Frances Beeson, director of music in the Santa Ana schools. The Parlor's needle club met at the home of Mrs. Anna Headwith and accomplished quite a lot of sewing. A public card party was held February 27 at the home of President Genevieve Hiskey.

Mrs. Neil Hubbard-Arnold-Walsh, a member of the Parlor, passed away February 10 survived by a husband and three children. She was born at Santa Ana April 11, 1890.

Plans for the entertainment of Grand President Esther Sullivan, who will officially visit Santa Ana March 10, are well under way.

Living Christmas Tree Planted.

Petaluma—At ceremonies under the auspices of Petaluma No. 222 a living Christmas tree was planted in the Hill Plaza February 11. Preceding the ceremonies there was a parade in which the Parlor's uniformed drill team, led by Captain Annie Dickson, participated. Mayor William J. Farrell was master of ceremonies.

State Senator Herbert W. Slater was the speaker, and he lauded the Native Daughters for their tree planting as well as for their work in finding homes for homeless children, which is, he said, "planting human trees in environments where they will grow to become sturdy branches in future citizenship." February 4 a bridge party, greatly enjoyed, was held:

Brilliant Affair.
San Jose—"New members' night," featured by San Jose No. 81, emblematic pins were presented fourteen new members of the Parlor. A pleasing program was presented and delicious viands were served. The decorations were asparagus fern and red carnations.
Installation of officers, with District Deputy affair. Gifts were presented President Myrtle

Visitors from all the Santa Clara County Parlors were in attendance. Being the anniversary of the discovery of gold in California the decorations were in blue and gold, and there were a generous number of "gold nuggets," both large and small. Supper was enjoyed.

History Relies Augmented.
Oroville—The valuable and interesting collection of California history relics being gathered by Gold of Ophir No. 190 was augmented February 5 by the receipt of several books, among them:
The tragic story of the Reed-Donner Party, autographed by Martha Jane (Patty) Reed-
Lewis, Elizabeth Donner-Houghton and Frances Donner-Wilder; "The Garland," dated 1853, and sent to a Butte County miner; a Bible owned by William Herman, who arrived in Strawberry Valley in 1850 and died two years later; a tiny Bible found in 1852 in a roadhouse between Oroville and Marysville.

Also received was an invitation to what is claimed to have been the second official hanging ever held in Butte County—that of Ah Lee, a Chinaman, who was executed in the jail yard at Oroville, November 26, 1883. The first hanging was that of a White man, in very early times.

Many Joyous Affairs Planned.
San Bernardino—The new year has been full of interesting events for the members of Lu-gonia No. 241, and many joyous affairs are planned for the near-future. Of paramount interest are the plans for the pioneer pageant to be given in June. Another interesting event is a dance, to be held by Lagonia and Arrowhead No. 110
N.S.G.W. early in March.

February 12 the Parlor had a card party, which was attended by several members of Arrowhead; Marguerite McKenzie and Grace Clark English were the hostesses of the evening. A large number of the members gathered at the home of Marguerite Bell early in the month and enjoyed sewing garments for the homeless children. President Lois Poling has named Thelma Nett, Gladys Case Baker and Frances Wixom a committee to arrange for the official visit of Grand President Esther R. Sullivan to the Parlor March 12.

The Twentieth National Orange Show proved an attraction for the members of Lugonia and Arrowhead, who gathered at the picnic grounds for supper February 19, and then visited the citrus classie in a body. The day was designated Native Sons and Native Daughters day and a special program was presented.

NAMES ASSOCIATED WITH STATE'S HISTORY GIVEN LOOKOUT STATIONS.

Fire lookout stations being erected in Amador, Tuolumne and Santa Clara Counties have been given names of historical interest by the State Division of Forestry.

Mount Zion, in Amador County, in honor of five ministers who mined in the vicinity and, according to early settlers, held revival meetings at the foot of Mount Zion.

American Camp, in Tuolumne County, because of the prevalence of Americans in a nearby mining camp. In the neighborhood were Italian Bar, inhabited by Italians, and French Camp, populated by Frenchmen.

Copernicus Peak, in Santa Clara County near Mount Hamilton Observatory, in honor of Copernicus, the Polish astronomer who discovered the system of planetary revolutions.

OLD TIMER PROVIDES FOR PRESERVATION VIRGIN TIMBER.

Sant Rosa (Sonoma County)—William Henry Bones, recently deceased old-timer, bequeathed to this county three acres of virgin timber near Occidental for public park purposes, with the stipulation that the timber shall never be cut, except for improvement.

The will provides that, should Sonoma County for any reason fail to accept the gift, the property shall be given to the Grand Parlor of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West.

'We are simply delighted with your wonderful gift of nine dozen pairs of light-weight wool socks, individually and so attractively wrapped. They have come at a most necessary and opportune time. We are having so many requests for this article from our non-compensated patients, and your wonderfully generous gift will fill a very great demand. We cannot thank you enough for this service to our men, and please assure all of the members of your organization of the pleasure and comfort which their kindness has made possible to our patients.'

CONSTRUCTION, IT IS SAID, IS THE measuring rod of progress—the balance wheel of business, a regulator of business fluctuations; its growth contributes to the expanding wealth of a community and its development is a measuring rod of progress in the arts of living, of industry and of commerce. If this be true, and its truth seems self-evident, then Long Beach may well be proud of its construction activities during 1929 and those under way and projected during 1930.

Compared with $16,244,555 in 1928, the year 1929 closed a phenomenal building construction period totaling $18,149,585, of which $8,950,430 included housing for 3,198 families in 1,761 single, double and multi-family structures, and 202 guest rooms in seven hotels—almost 50 percent of the total volume of all building. Industrial buildings valued at $3,664,470 made up the next largest classification; then followed $2,639,810 for commercial buildings, and $2,278,300 for non-residential construction.

Bank deposits in 1929 totaled $65,000,000; bank clearings, $455,777,615; assessed valuations, $218,400,000; school enrollment, 28,369; postal receipts, $687,317. New business totaling 358,000 horsepower was contracted for by a distributor of electricity during the year and it is anticipated an increase of 15 percent in the total connected load will be shown at the conclusion of 1930. In new subdivision activity, Long Beach opened twenty-three tracts with 1,737 lots during 1929, while transactions recorded from deeds, trust deeds and mortgages filed totaled $35,171,046.

In public work, the city completed projects costing $2,501,204 during the year, including fifty-one miles of water mains, thirty-two miles gas mains, twenty-nine miles curb, twenty-eight miles sidewalks, thirty miles sanitary sewers, twelve miles street lighting; $1,000,000 harbor construction; $950,000 pleasure pier; $97,000 police and fire structures; $189,000 bluff retaining wall; $835,000 paved streets and alleys; bridges, $317,000; golf course, $13,000; park improvements, $111,000; municipal buildings, $135,000.

That Long Beach will ride strongly on a prosperous period is shown in the report for 1930, wherein private and public projects valued at $37,652,000 are planned and expected to be in course of construction within six months.

Adjoining Long Beach on the northeast, a land company has dedicated 8,000 acres to ultimate development of a modern industrial community involving an expenditure of several millions of dollars in preliminary work. Already some of the largest industrial corporations of the nation have acquired large sites for factories, and erection of plants is scheduled to start shortly. This big project is barely under way, but considerable progress was made during 1929. A development company has acquired a large tract upon which a $5,000,000 nitrogen fixation plant is to be erected; an aircraft corporation has purchased a thirty-acre site adjoining ing, and will erect an aircraft manufacturing plant there; a second aircraft corporation has purchased a twenty-one-acre site, and will build an aircraft factory also. Several smaller industrial corporations are arranging for construction of factories upon sites acquired in this new tract. With the completion of this big development project, Long Beach will have one of the most modern industrial areas in the United States.

The erection of a $10,000,000 motor-car plant in the harbor has immeasurably brightened the future of the city's industrial prospects. It will be thrown open March 1, with approximately 2,000 employes, 1,500 of whom will have been transferred from the Los Angeles branch.

The Southern California Edison plant at Long Beach, largest producer of power on the West Coast, plans an extension program toward a total capacity of 1,280,000 horsepower involving an aggregate outlay of $100,000,000 at its Long Beach plant, which bespeaks unquestioning confidence in this section's future, a confidence most substantially founded in the minds of men who are best in a position to know, a confidence which cannot but impress and inspire anyone who comes in contact with it through inspection of the tremendous, truly indescribable plant which is growing even larger and more powerful at Long Beach Harbor.

Signal Hill oil field, adjacent to Long Beach, continues to produce a great quantity of oil and gas; refinery operations are normal, due to over-production facing the industry throughout the United States. The daily average production for 1929 was 200,000 barrels, from approximately 980 wells. In the petroleum industry alone there are 8,000 employes engaged, with monthly wages totaling $1,260,000. Exclusive of the petroleum industry there are approximately 107 manufacturing and jobbing plants, with a capital investment of $35,000,000, 4,851 regular employes and a payroll of $6,130,760 annually.

A nationally known corporation with assets of approximately $130,000,000 has purchased a fifteen-acre site at the harbor and will erect a $5,000,000 manufacturing plant and terminal giving employment to 1,500 men and women. This corporation is recognized as one of the largest manufacturers of vegetable-oil products and soap in America. Preliminary survey work has been completed and construction is scheduled to start early in 1930 with completion set for November or December.

Building and loan associations of Long Beach registered a gain of $6,000,000 during 1929 and the city now ranks as one of the outstanding communities in the state in this respect. Resources of strictly Long Beach institutions are in excess of $41,000,000. The average investment for every man, woman and child in Long Beach in building and loan associations is more than $250, according to figures based on population estimates of the building and loan commissioner. A local survey shows that Long Beach has close to 10 percent of the total building-loan resources of the state.

As a wholesale and retail trading point, Long Beach has developed in a striking manner. The development that retail stores, particularly the large department stores, have enjoyed here during the last year has established Long Beach as a suburban trading center for surrounding territory with a population estimated at 200,000 persons, comprising thirty-eight flourishing towns. As a place to do business, Long Beach possesses advantages unexcelled by any other city in America. With low freight rates, a deep-water harbor, three transcontinental railroads, and an interurban electrical and motor-bus system reaching fifty-two towns and cities, Long Beach is well equipped to compete favorably in commercial and industrial fields.

Money for sound commercial purposes has been easy in Long Beach since 1922, according to the ratio of loans to deposits in leading commercial banks. Bank deposits have steadily increased from $30,497,507 in 1920 to $65,000,000 in 1930; bank clearings in 1929 were $28,730,363 in excess of 1928 figures; postal receipts totaled $687,317 for the year as against $639,386 for 1928; population has increased from 55,593 in 1920 to 166,500 at present.

One lively prospect for Long Beach in 1930 not heretofore mentioned is a copper refinery, electrically operated, with no smoke or fumes, on property adjoining the city to the north. This project involves the Clark interests, whose Arizona mines are the largest in America, and inasmuch as the property is part of the Clark estate, the logic of such a connection between mine and Long Beach Harbor is readily apparent.

Expansion scouts of another mammoth corporation have investigated the Long Beach section, and are understood to have made favorable reports.

To bring harbor and factory into still more friendly and helpful relations, Long Beach is now building a belt line railroad, open to all rail transportation companies, and it is proposed to extend this system to nearby manufacturing centers, thus providing Long Beach with the most adequately equipped connections between sea and rail carriers on the Pacific Coast. Special attention is also being given to truck highway feeders for Long Beach Harbor with broad, well-paved boulevards reaching up and down the coast and to all important interior points. These roads have encouraged the establishment of bus lines, radiating in all directions from Long Beach, which now has been selected as the Pacific terminal for a transcontinental motor stage line with north and south tributaries.

Aptly described as the "California Riviera," Long Beach offers everything to the newcomer in the way of attractions and recreation. A location of glorious charm—beautifully spread out in panorama on a terraced bluff overlooking the Pacific Ocean—with ten miles of scenic shoreline, the finest south-facing, wind-protected beach on the Pacific Coast—A PERFECT HOMELAND AND PLAYLAND. Long Beach has been acclaimed near and far for its fine residential districts overlooking the blue Pacific Ocean.

The Long Beach tax rate is also very attractive, encouraging the owning of property, the city rate being $1.50 per $100 valuation and the county rate $2.81 per $100, based on less than 50 percent property valuation. Investments in

(SAN DIEGO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.)

WHAT IS THIS GOLDEN STATE worth today, 388 years after Cabrillo, 161 years after Serra, 82 years after gold and state sobriquet —not in measure of joy of living nor historic environment, but in tangible value for that commonplace matter of taxation?

Perhaps The Grizzly Bear is not an inappropriate place to bring that up. No doubt the Native Sons and the Native Daughters are keenly interested in the levies in which Alta California has grown and come to share an anxiety general throughout the nation at this time. Possibly when San Diego, the birthplace of California, the scene of earliest settlement, may still offer a guide in a systematic county-wide revaluation and reassessment completed last year and now in effect.

This appraisal of San Diego County, which the Serra crowd reported was "a country of joyous aspect," says this bit of the Golden State alone is worth $560,000,000 of anybody's money whether he would prefer to live here or in Alaska or in Africa. That is cash value, and was computed on an inventory of no fewer than 150,000 parcels of real property. The assessor, having liberty to do about what he pleases about it and having a certain amount of money to raise, elected to levy taxes on a basis of 40 percent of that valuation.

Now, we come to the offer of guidance, for what it may be worth. It is a plan of keeping books on values, and keeping them up to date, open to the public. The Board of Supervisors of San Diego County believed it was worth $315,000 and so ordered it. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States has judged it worthy of explanation at length in its tax publication, "The Public Dollar," taking text from an article in "San Diego Magazine." Why not give such pocketbook material to readers of other classes of publications? Here is a gist, therefore, of the plan designed to aid native and adopted taxpayers and keep assessors in line:

"Primarily, this inventory was made for assessment equalization purposes, and for a great many years the need for it was apparent; but the mass of data compiled has already become a 'public reference library' for those interested in buying or selling real property and improvements, and also as a check on bank and other appraisals, and as a general standard of values based on specific field data.

"In this new reference library the public has available a complete set of land classification books containing indexed plats of every section or square mile in the county. One may turn to the land in which he is interested and find a comprehensive delineation of the physical conditions affecting the property. These plats show in great detail for each ownership the kind and quality of the soil, the area of the different types and the approximate topography of the same. Other plats corresponding to those showing permanent topography give the age, kind, area and condition of permanent crop, such as orchard, vineyard, alfalfa, etcetra, and the improved and unimproved lands. The appraised values were placed after careful survey of soil, crop and ground cover, with special districting and zoning as to topography, water, climate, rainfall and frost conditions.

"Another section of the library contains complete and up-to-date 'block' books showing each of the 550,000 parcels of land in the county, together with boundary lines and the name of the present owner. A score of large steel filing cabinets contain structural classification sheets giving a description and diagram of every structure in the county, including all types from office buildings to small barns and out-houses. This data is carried upon individual building description sheets showing dimensions, type of construction, special features and the replacement and depreciated cost as of March 1, 1929.

"Aerial mapping of the county as a foundation for the survey, while relatively unimportant, was a more spectacular feature of the work, taking advantage of the advance of aviation in co-ordination with photography and engineering. Approximately 6,000 aerial photographs rectified to scale comprise the aerial survey which, if space were available, readily could be made into a gigantic mosaic photograph of the county. Much of the classification data was transferred from these photographs for the classification books, which required also 4,500 tracings and the same number of negatives and work prints. Similarly, the 'block' books required 9,000 tracings and 9,000 negatives from which work prints were made. Supplementing the books is a county scale map delineated in 111 sectional sheets of approximately nine square feet each which, if joined on a flat surface, would provide a map of about 20x50 feet in size.

"The complete record, or new public reference library, comprises 200 bound volumes and twenty sectional files. More than a year in compilation, the county board of supervisors has wisely provided that it shall be kept up to date from year to year. There is now a permanent force of five appraisers who have been trained in the work, each specializing in the several classes of property. This work is not expected to prove difficult, since corrected duplicates and prints may be made, in line with improvements and changes of ownerships, from the set of records now provided.

"It was not to be expected that everyone or even a majority of property owners would be completely satisfied in any appraisalment related to taxation, and it may be regarded remarkable that from the coverage and complete revision of 550,000 parcels, a total of only 312 objections were formally presented to the board of equalization. A great many of these, it developed, were grounded on a misapprehension that the revaluation made by the appraisers was the assessable valuation to be computed later by the county assessor on the appraisal figures acquired. The county assessment now represents, roughly, 40 percent of the appraised valuation. The valuation for levy of taxes is $235,986,336 as compared to the appraisalment of $560,729,401 and includes personal property. In the total appraisalment, the City of San Diego represents $392,836,070, other cities, towns and rural areas combined $167,893,331."

MISSION FUND NEARS COMPLETION.

Deputy Grand President Albert V. Mayrhofer of the Native Sons reports that during the past month additional contributions to the fund being accumulated for the restoration of Mission San Diego de Alcalá—$5,000 from James W. Coffroth, $2,000 from San Diego Knights Columbus Council, $1,000 from Miss Ellen Browning Scripps and $1,000 from a group of San Diego citizens—were received. All money contributed is placed in a trust fund, where it will be held until the full amount required, $60,000, is in hand.

Plans are so far advanced it will be possible to commence the actual work of restoring the historic landmark within forty-eight hours after the fund, which now lacks less than $10,000, is completed. Contributions may be sent to Albert V. Mayrhofer, California Savings and Commercial Bank, San Diego. Among the contributors to date are the Grand Parlor N.S.G.W., $2,500, and San Diego Parlor No. 108 N.S.G.W. and San Diego Parlor No. 208 N.D.G.W., $1,500 jointly.

NATIVE DAUGHTER ACTIVITIES.

San Diego Parlor No. 208 N.D.G.W. entertained many visitors January 28, including District Deputy Nellie M. Kline and a large delegation from Grace Parlor No. 242 (Fullerton). The meeting was preceded by a dinner at which the table decorations carried out the Spanish motif, and at its conclusion light refreshments were served. Supervising Deputy Rosina M. Hertzbrun was general chairman of the evening.

February 25 a pot-luck supper was served, the committee in charge being Mrs. Louise Miller, Mary Jane Wood, Helen Hill, Della Crolie, Jane Florentin, Edna Wall, Bertha Mueller Landt, and the Misses Grace Burgert and Martha Klindt.

Past presidents of the Parlor recently met at the home of Mrs. Alice Heilbron Damarus and organized a past presidents association, the purpose of which is to work for the advancement of the state, the community and the Order. Miss Irma Heilbron was elected president, Miss Elsie Frank treasurer and Miss Marion Stough secretary. Mrs. Jane Florentin entertained the association at her home February 28. California history is at present being given consideration.

The Parlor is looking forward with much anticipation of pleasure to the official visit of Grand President Esther R. Sullivan, March 8. Past Grand President Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, charter president of No. 208, is also expected to pay a visit at the same time. In honor of the Grand President and other grand officers who may accompany her a 5:30 supper-banquet will Declaring that the unique redwood forests, ocean beaches, mountains, deserts and other areas of scenic, recreational, scientific and historic interest in California could be utilized to make the state the playground of the world, and calling attention to the fact that San Diego County is particularly rich in areas of that character.

San Diego Parlor No. 108 N.S.G.W. has passed a resolution urging San Diego County to match the State of California to the extent of $750,000 in the acquisition of state parksites within the county.

PHILADELPHIA MINT RECEIPT

RECALLS CALIFORNIA'S GOLDEN '50S.

"When California gold miners of the days of forty-nine had dug or washed their precious metal from the earth, they were a long way from having their wealth safely deposited for future use," recently said the "Record" of Lompoc, Santa Barbara County. "They had to exchange their precious nuggets and dust for currency at a rate which caused them considerable loss, or they could ship it East to the mint in Philadelphia, where it would be turned into coins and bars of gold.

"A reminder of the days when Wells Fargo bullion shipments were sent East from the California gold fields was given today by seeing a United States Mint receipt for 291.2 ounces of raw gold issued to William Parks, father of Lyman B. Parks of Lompoc, May 26, 1853. The gold was sent to Philadelphia, refined and coined.

"The 291.2 ounces of gold sent in by William Parks came out 290.18 ounces of pure gold, indicating a nearly perfect degree of purity of the deposit worked in California. The value of this was $5,281.73. The silver in Parks' shipment was worth $34.44, and the mint charges were $41.10. This left a credit of $5,277.07 for the California miner for the net results of his three years' effort.

"The scene of Parks' mining was Kings River in what was then Mariposa County. Parks acquired the title of 'Colonel' for his efforts in fighting the Indians in the West. In 1853 he went to Missouri and bought a farm with the proceeds of his part in the gold rush. The former California miner always wished to return to California, although he told his children he believed California never would become settled, on account of the depredations of the Indians. But he was unable to sell his farm for a satisfactory figure, and he ended his days on the flat plains of Missouri, far from the scene of his hectic youth. It remained for his son to come to California to see the once wild state which has now become the nation's playground."

CALIFORNIA HEAVY CONTRIBUTOR.

California was fifth, among the states of the nation, in amount of internal revenue taxes paid the Federal Government during 1929. The total, $164,078,934, exceeded the 1928 payments by $23,102,037. Income taxes made up $141,789,816 of the 1929 total.

"CALIFORNIA"

Series of Nine Volumes; Powell Publishing Co.,
Los Angeles; Price, $5.00 Per Volume.

The story of the building of California is set forth in these nine volumes, six of which have had distribution, and the three remaining ones will soon be ready for delivery. Each volume is a complete story in itself, and is the work of a well-known authority. The volumes at hand include:

"Pathfinders," by Dr. Robert Gless Cleland, author of "History of California, American Period," etc. A record of historical adventure, describing the activities and the accomplishments of some of those who played leading roles in the drama of the West. "Wherever possible," says Dr. Cleland, "the text of each chapter has been based upon the original narrative of some member or members of the expedition in question." Illustrated by Howard Simon; maps, bibliography and index.

"Spanish Arcadia," by Nellie Van de Grift Sanchez, author of "Spanish and Indian Place Names of California," etc. "For the real romance of California's story," says Mrs. Sanchez, "we must turn to the Mexican period. . . . Nearly every prominent Californian of that epoch set down his recollections in writing. . . . Through these reminiscences it is possible to form a quite accurate picture of the daily lives of the Californians of that period." Illustrated by Franz Geritz; bibliography and index.

"Gold Days," by Dr. Owen Cochran Coy, director California State Historical Association. Depicts life in California preceding and during the gold era, the first two chapters dealing with the period before the 1848 gold discovery of James W. Marshall at Coloma, El Dorado County, which started the stampede Californiaward. Reference is made to many of the states "ghost" towns. Illustrated by Franz Geritz; maps, bibliography and index.

"Oxcart To Airplane," by Dr. Rockwell D. Hunt and William S. Ament, the former author of "Genesis of California's First Constitution," etc. "Transportation, travel, communication—these are prime essentials in the onward march of human progress," says Dr. Hunt. "And the improvement in the mechanics and technic of transportation has been so marvelous since the first American made his way across the wilderness and the desert into California as to constitute an amazing epoch in the annals of human history. . . . There are more than seven wonders in the modern world of transportation and communication." Illustrated by Franz Geritz; bibliography and index.

"Outdoor Heritage," by Harold Child Bryant. Deals with the natural resources and the wild life of California. "Nature's book is open for all to read," says the author, "and it is more inspiring than one set in type. . . . Living things are about us everywhere. . . . As I have traveled the length and breadth of the State of California I have found few dull moments. . . . May these printed words lead many to know first hand, to study and to appreciate the state's natural resources." Illustrated by Aries Fayer; bibliography and index.

"Land of Homes," by Frank J. Taylor. "There is no typical California," says the author. "The contrasts within the long state, the variety of life within the realm, make it practically impossible to generalize in describing the land. . . . Men came into [the various] sections of the state to build homes. . . . It is the totality of their efforts whereof we write,—It is California, Land of Homes." Illustrated by Virginia deS. Litchfield; index.

The volumes yet to be distributed include: "The Great Trek," "Songs and Stories" and "March of Industry."

History articles by Dr. Cleland, Mrs. Sanchez, Dr. Coy and Dr. Hunt have appeared from time to time in The Grizzly Bear, and considerable of the material in the volumes devoted to "Pathfinders," "Spanish Arcadia," "Gold Days" and "Oxcart To Airplane" has had publication in these columns.—C.M.H.

LONG BEACH

income property and buildings are attractive, owing to the splendid combination of permanent and tourist population. In per capita wealth Long Beach ranks among the leading cities of the nation; and from statistics compiled by the Chamber of Commerce and associated offices, it has been determined that, based on present population of 166,500 and using U. S. Government averages as compiled by statisticians and published information by the U. S. Internal Revenue Department, 22,980 persons receive a yearly income of $1,750 and up in Long Beach.

The truth is, Long Beach is at the threshold of a marvelous development. With new qualities now entering into the metropolitan calculations, qualities which have determined and measured the success of every great city, there is dependable assurance that Long Beach's growth will be more rapid, and at the same time more steady and stable, than ever before.

ANNIVERSARY PARTY.

Past presidents and charter members of Long Beach Parlor No. 154 N.D.G.W. were guests of honor at the twenty-third institution anniversary celebration of the Parlor February 6. Other special guests were District Deputy Rosalie Hyde, and members of Santa Monica Bay and Santa Ana Parlors. President Lillian Lasater was toastmistress at the banquet. "California," led by Mrs. O. P. Palestine, was sung by the assemblage. An interesting address on the "Origin of the Parlor," with names of charter members and past presidents, was given by District Deputy Kate McFadyen, the first president of the Parlor. District Deputy Hyde gave an appropriate reading and addresses were made by several past presidents. The tables were beautifully decorated with yellow flowers, smilax, runners, green tapers, and individual birthday candles in miniature candleholders. California poppies were presented members and guests. A large and beautiful birthday cake, presented by Charter Member Elnora Martin, was the centerpiece of the guests-of-honor table. Violet T. Henshilwood, in charge of arrangements, was assisted by Elizabeth Ellsworth, Irma Sanders, Kittie Dillon, Elnora Martin and Mildred Peirson.

A very successful card party in charge of Eleanor Johnson was given January 30. Frances Griffith entertained at her home February 8. The thimble club was recently entertained at a covered-dish luncheon and quilting bee by Kittie Dillon and Frances Griffith. The Parlor deeply regrets the passing of Miss Estelle Campbell, a beloved member who was ever a loyal and earnest worker for the Order.

March 6, Long Beach and Rudecinda Parlor will receive an official visit from Grand President Esther R. Sullivan, the joint meeting to be held at San Pedro. President Lillian Lasater of No. 154 and President Mary Dever of No. 230 will entertain Miss Sullivan and other grand officers at supper in Long Beach preceding the meeting. All members of the Order are invited.

man. In the not-far-distant future a noon-time initiation is to be featured, and the committee anticipates in the neighborhood of 200 candidates for that event.

Previous to the meeting there was an Italian feast, under the supervision of First Vice-president Ray Russell, and during the evening Walter Slosson presented additional "1930 Bear Club" pins. Speakers of the evening were Edwin A. Meserve, Past Grand President Herman C. Lichtenherger, President B. Rey Schauer, Joseph H. Dunn and others. Dunn, who spoke for the initiates, said everyone had regrets, and one of his chief regrets was that he had waited so many years to identify himself with the Order.

Ramona's program for March includes: 14th, class initiation, to be preceded by one of Charlie Gassagne's world-renowned "feeds" at 6 o'clock; 21st, educational night, when Edwin A. Meserve will speak on "The Significance of the Bear Flag;" 28th, program under auspices good of the order committee. March 8, Ramona's troop of Boy Scouts of America will be taken through an airplane factory at Santa Monica.

HISTORIC WELL TO HAVE ATTENTION.

Glendale—Glendale Parlor No. 264 N.S.G.W. and Verdugo Parlor No. 240 N.D.G.W. have plans under way for a barbecue, early in May, at the ranch of Philip Begue, a member of No. 240, in Tujunga. A joint committee, composed of Ray J. McGrath (chairman), Clarence Lechner, W. Joseph Ford, Mrs. Ella Mae Madden and Mrs. Rose Bartels, has charge of the arrangements.

At the same time it is planned to mark the historic well on the Begue ranch. This well, it is claimed, was used by the early-day padres on their way from San Gabriel Mission to San Fernando Mission. The ranch was at one time the home of Sister Elsie, when she conducted a school for Indian children. From the school the mountain peak, Sister Elsie's Peak, recently changed to Mount Lukens, derived its name. If sufficient interest is shown, the Begue people have agreed to preserve the historic well by placing a fence around it.

MAY PRESENT BEAR FLAG TO CITY.

Through the untiring efforts of Miss Ruth Ruiz, Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W. has organized a drill team with Carl Mueller as drillmaster. The first meeting, February 19, was largely attended. Mrs. Edith Douglas had an "at home" for the sewing circle February 25, and it was heartily enjoyed. President Irene Eden has appointed the following Admission Day committee: Carrie Kessner, Lucy Dudley, Flora Holy, Mary McAnany.

The Americanization committee of the Parlor, headed by Harriet W. Martin, has been instructed to look into the matter of procuring a California State (Bear) Flag for presentation to the City of Los Angeles to float above the City Hall along with the Flag of the United States of America.

Grand President Esther R. Sullivan will officially visit No. 124 March 5. Previous to the meeting a 6:30 supper will be served at the Women's Athletic Club, to which all Native Daughters are welcome. Reservations must be made through Social Hostess Grace Norton, AT. 8648, or President Irene Eden, GA. 1427. Other events on Los Angeles' March program are: card party, 12th, Matilda Ramhand, chairman, assisted by Patricia Eaton; "bunco" party, 26th, sponsored by the drill team.

EVERYONE GLAD.

"Gene" Murphy night at Hollywood Parlor No. 196 N.S.G.W. February 17 brought out a big crowd, not only of members of Hollywood, but of all neighboring Parlors, who desired to show that they appreciate the loyalty and generosity of genial "Gene." A clever master of ceremonies got the crowd going, and as a result everyone was glad that he was there.

Splendid entertainment numbers—a banjo artist, a clever imitator and a good singer—were introduced, and there were brief addresses by Superior Judges B. Roy Schauer and Samuel R. Blinke, Henry G. Bodkin and "Gene" Murphy. The latter said he belonged to a great many organizations, but in none is there that spirit of genuine comradeship which exists among the Native Sons. A specially prepared feast closed a delightful evening.

BRIDE SHOWERED.

Glendale—Officers of Verdugo No. 240 N.S.G.W. were installed by District Deputy Florence Dodson Schoneman, Mrs. Benlah Van Laven becoming the president. Addresses were delivered by Mrs. Schoneman and Mrs. Hazel Hansen, the latter, who retired as president, thanking the officers and members for their co-operation. Presentations were made to Mrs. Ella Mae Madden, Mrs. Schoneman and Mrs. Hansen. The hall was decorated for the ceremonies with peach and palms.

Special guests were Judge and Mrs. Donald Van Laven of San Bernardino. The Judge, a brother-in-law of Verdugo's new president and a past president of Arrowhead Parlor No. 110 N.S.G.W., gave a brief talk. The event concluded with a program arranged by Mrs. Kathryn Burke. The reception committee included Past Presidents Clytelle Hewitt, Ida Hohrden Gilman, Dorin Phillips and Ella Mae Madden.

February 11, the Parlor gave a shower for Mrs. Kathryn Trogea-Burke, a recent bride, who received many beautiful gifts. A supper was served in the banquet-room, which was artistically decorated, the color scheme being carried out in yellow.

BEACH DINNER-DANCE.

Ocean Park—Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 N.S.G.W. initiated several candidates during February. President Phil P. Romero has an energetic membership committee working, and applications are coming in fast. The younger members of the Parlor are much enthused and, led by District Deputy Eldred L. Meyer, are advancing the Order's interests in the Santa Monica Bay district. At every Native Son function, No. 267 is represented by a large delegation.

March 12, the Parlor will sponsor a dinner-dance at the Deauville, one of the most renowned of all the beach clubs. An eight-course dinner will be served, a good orchestra will provide music, and surprise entertainment features will be introduced. Reservations, $2 per plate, may be made through Harry T. Honn, chairman of the arrangements committee, 1709 West Eighth street, phone Exposition 0935. All Native Sons and Daughters, with their friends, are welcome and will be warmly greeted.

MONTHLY DANCES POPULAR.

Reseda—Cahuenga Parlor No. 268 N.S.G.W. initiated several candidates February 7, the ritual being exemplified by members of Glendale Parlor No. 264 N.S.G.W. Refreshments were served. The monthly public dances are proving quite popular.

January 22 the Parlor conducted the funeral ceremonies of Robert F. Straubinger, one of its members, who died January 20 at Calabassas, where he was born February 11, 1893.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

William I. Hortenstine (Hollywood N.S.) was a visitor last month to San Francisco.

Miss Madeline Romano became the bride of Antonio Berenetto (Ramona N.S.) February 16.

Samuel M. Shortridge Jr. (Menlo N.S.) of Menlo Park, San Mateo County, was a visitor last month.

Mrs. Annie L. Adair and Mary K. Corcoran (both Los Angeles N.D.) were in Santa Barbara last month in the interest of the homeless children work.

HAPPY DAYS AT FOX CARTRAIL.

In 1890, William Fox showed magic-lantern slides in Fourteenth street, New York. In 1896, he presented Edison's first "moon picksher." In 1926, Fox-Case offered the first talking-motion picture with the sound track on film.

Now, in 1930, the same William Fox is presenting "Grandeur" film, the long-awaited triple-division invention which, it is believed, will revolutionize entertainment and give spectators more thrills.

The first "Grandeur" is "Happy Days," an original melody romance which features Will Rogers, Ann Pennington, Janet Gaynor, Charles Farrell, Victor McLaglen, Edmund Lowe, Warner Baxter and countless other Fox players who intrigued for the privilege of being in the picture.

"Grandeur" is said to further lessen the gap

Bowing in resignation to the inevitable decree of Almighty God, which ended his earthly existence, we voice our profound gratitude that he was spared so long to serve his family, his friends and his state so well, and that there has been left to us an example so worthy of all emulation.

between illusion and real life. Its sponsors claim for it that it gives stereoscopic or third-dimension effects, together with the magnification of distance.

The film, which is double the width of the old standard-size film permits of a wide and more deeply etched sound track, which is said to give a more perfect reproduction of the human voice.

The new invention is being shown on a triple-view screen of unprecedented proportions which fills the entire proscenium arch of the Fox Carthay Circle Theater, where "Happy Days" had its premier February 28 and will continue for some time, as there has been an unprecedented advance sale of seats.

In Memoriam

ANTONIO ORFILA.

The officers and members of Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W., in regular meeting assembled, do resolve:

In the fullness of time Antonio Orfila, born in the Pueblo de Los Angeles, California, on the 13th day of the month of May, 1865 A.D., a noble and good man, whose life was one of useful and distinguished service, was called to his reward in the city of his birth.

Wherefore, it is fitting that his brother Native Sons should join in expression of appreciation of those qualities of mind and character which made his life an inspiration and cause us to hold his memory in affectionate veneration.

Because as a son, he was dutiful and ever cognizant of all filial duties towards his parents, we honor him; because in the ordinary walks of life, he was ever solicitous to extend the "hand of the Good Samaritan" to any Native Son and friend who sought his help and advice; a friend in need and a friend in deed, no one left him without a smile of satisfaction and gratitude. Ever appreciative of the smallest kindness rendered him, his friends rated him as "One of Nature's Noblemen," because as a man, his soul was enshrined by the spirit of Brotherly Love, ever gentle and jovial, and he applied, in all his relations, the Golden Rule, we loved him; because as a lawyer, he was able, faithful and diligent and exemplified the highest ideals of his profession, we respected him; the rare intellectual attainments, his forensic and pre-eminence legal ability, broad knowledge of men and affairs, uniform courtesy and high ideals, with which he adorned his profession, caused our judiciary to honor and respect him.

CALIFORNIA'S 1929 MINERAL PRODUCTION

CALIFORNIA'S 1929 MINERAL PRODUCTION is estimated by the State Division of Mines, Walter W. Bradley, state mineralogist, at $398,018,000, an increase of approximately $65,000,000, compared with the 1928 production. More than fifty mineral substances are on the state's commercial list.

Petroleum accounted largely for the increase in the estimated total, the 1929 production exceeding that of 1928 by approximately 60,000,000 barrels. There was also an increase in the quantity of natural gas utilized.

The gold yield decreased about $2,500,000 compared with 1928, the drop being chargeable both to the Mother Lode mines and the dredges. The silver yield also showed a decrease, due to the closing of the San Bernardino County silver mines. Copper shipments increased, and quicksilver exceeded the 1928 production by about 2,000 flasks.

All the structural materials recorded decreases of about 10 percent, due to a lessening of construction work during the year. Estimated values for 1929 follow:

Metals: gold, $8,393,000; copper, $5,952,000; quicksilver, $1,098,000; silver, $569,000; lead, $81,000; miscellaneous, $350,000.

Structural materials: cement, $22,000,000; crushed rock, sand and gravel, $16,000,000; brick and hollow tile, $5,000,000; miscellaneous, $1,975,000.

Salines (potash, salt, etc.), $8,800,000; "Industrials," $5,800,000.

Petroleum, $289,000,000; natural gas, $33,000,000.

NATIVE SON NEWS.

Encouraged by the success of past presidents night last year, Sepulveda Parlor No. 263 N.S.G.W. will repeat the event March 7. A large committee under Clyde H. Foot and O.R.C. Grow is in charge of arrangements. Other Parlors in the southern part of the state have been invited to attend. Sepulveda has eleven past presidents who will be honored that night, including Roman D. Sepulveda, James H. Dodson Sr., James H. Dodson Jr., William A. Reuter, Edwin E. Baldwin, William F. Durr, Willard Buchanan, Clyde H. Foot, Stanley A. Wheeler, Vincent E. Hopkins and Joseph A. Brannen.

William A. Reuter, financial secretary of the Parlor, has been confined to his Wilmington home for more than two months with a serious illness; a recent visitor was his brother, I. H. Reuter, of Merced, former Grand Trustee. Bernard Paraliou, weight seven pounds, was a recent arrival at the San Pedro home of John P. Paraliou, president Sepulveda; Mrs. Paraliou is a member of Rudecinda Parlor No. 230 N.D.G.W., Arthur Loomis, a member of the Parlor, sailed for Honolulu on a vacation trip February 12.

Four generations in one family gathered together in February at the San Pedro home of Edwin E. Baldwin, past president Sepulveda. The family line included George S. Lee Sr. of Lower Lake; his daughter, Mrs. Edwin E. Baldwin; her son, Richard Baldwin, and little Richard Baldwin Jr., great grandson of Lee. After a visit of several days, Lee returned to his home at Lower Lake, Lake County.

Captain Andrew J. Farrell of Sepulveda retired from the Los Angeles police force February 18, after continuous service of twenty-one years and three months, more than twelve years of which time was spent in police work at San Pedro.

SAN PEDRO, California

For his knowledge of affairs at the great harbor of Los Angeles, Captain Farrell held a high reputation among law-enforcement officials of California. He served seven years of his time at the port in detective work and at the time of retirement was in charge of the detective bureau of the San Pedro police division.

During his police career he figured in a number of spectacular cases. In April 1925 he took part in the capture of the famous "Red Rose Murderer," a case which involved police from California to North Dakota and which terminated finally in the execution-room at San Quentin. There were many other interesting affairs, all of which testify to the efficiency of Captain Farrell and to the high esteem in which he is held by fellow-officers and hundreds of friends.

Captain Farrell was born at Los Angeles. His hobbies are those of the outdoors. He kept in physical trim by long ocean swims in the vicinity of the San Pedro breakwater. Now that he has retired, he plans to see all of California in a leisurely tour. His home, however, will remain in San Pedro.

GRAND PRESIDENT TO VISIT DAUGHTERS.

At a committee meeting of Long Beach Parlor No. 154 N.D.G.W. and Rudecinda Parlor No. 230 N.D.G.W. at San Pedro February 7 plans were perfected for the official visit of Grand President Esther R. Sullivan to the Parlors in joint session at I.O.O.F. Hall, Tenth and Gaffey streets, San Pedro, March 6.

At the same time Rudecinda Parlor will observe its fifth institution anniversary. Previous to the gathering in San Pedro the Grand President will be entertained at dinner at Long Beach, Lillian Lasater and Mary Dever, respective presidents of the two Parlors, being the hostesses. Officers and members of all Parlors are invited to attend; reservations may be made through Mrs. Lasater.

The joint committee in charge of arrangements for the Grand President's visit includes: Long Beach Parlor—President Lillian Lasater; Mms. Charlotte Horton, Clara Fay, Daisy Hansen, Lucretia Coates; Miss Ellen Rogers, Rudecinda Parlor—President Mary A. Dever; Mms. Beryl Cracknell, Letitia Sarcionx, Lennie Padilla, Margaret S. Dever; Miss Dolores Entner. Hall decorations are in charge of Mrs. Dora Baly. Secretary Carrie E. Lenhouse will look after the table decorations, and the refreshments will be in charge of Mrs. Linnie Padilla.

FLEA, FLEA.

The accompanying slightly revised verse by John H. Daw came to The Grizzly Bear from Hazel G. Greenleaf of Santa Ana, who says: "John H. Daw was born in Sanel, now the town of Hopland, Mendocino County, May 23, 1860, and died at Santa Ana January 25, 1928. This rhyme is being sent in by his niece, a member of Santa Ana Parlor No. 235 N.D.G.W."

Most poets write of what they love best;
I will write of some sons of the Golden West:

Of all things on earth, I must relate,
These sons I truly and sorely hate.
When at night you retire to take your rest,
Then here comes these sons of the Golden West.

As wonderful thoughts pass through your mind,
They come slowly creeping up your spine!
Then your mind comes back to its normal state,
With thoughts too vile here to relate.

They hop, they skip, they jump and run,
It's they, not you, that's having fun.
You close your eyes, for sleep you must,
But twist and squirm like a worm in the dust.

You dream of wild animals you have to fight,
Then out of your carcass a bear takes a bite!
You wake with a scream, throw the covers and see
The animal that bit you is only a flea!

When morning comes you feebly arise
And, looking toward the heavenly skies,
You make one wish,—that wish I must tell:
That these native sons were all in hell!

"The hero we love in this land of today is the hero who lightens some fellowman's load—who makes of the mountains some pleasant highway, who makes of the desert some blossom-sown road."—Joaquin Miller.

NEW EXPLANATION OF STATE HILLS

A NEW EXPLANATION OF THE DEVELOPMENT of California's mountains and valleys, which will necessitate radical changes in geological histories and be of great importance in exploration for further oil deposits, has been published by the University of California Press. The author is B. L. Clark, associate professor of the paleontology department.

In general, his theory rests on a recognition that faulting and block movement of the earth's surface is characteristic of the Coast Ranges, rather than folding in geosynclines as was formerly believed. His first discoveries on this subject were made some five years ago while he was making a survey of the Mount Diablo district. He found that the old theories would not account for existing conditions. Further study convinced him that a new explanation was necessary.

According to Clark, the present Coast Ranges were formed as block mountains along lines of primary faulting and had a very early origin. The areas covered by some of these block mountains, which exist today, were formerly basins of deposition, into which marine waters broke again and again.

While the block or blocks underlying the basins were sinking, other blocks surrounding them were rising and forming insular masses, which supplied the sediments that filled the basins. The former blocks were negative, the latter were positive. This rising of one series of blocks and sinking of the other is accounted for on the basis of one being lighter than the other, and this corresponds to the principle of isostasy, which is now quite generally recognized by geologists.

The Valle Grande, of which the Sacramento and San Joaquin Valleys are remnants, was one of the early larger basins in the Coast Ranges. It is described as a complex fault trough, separated from large land-masses to the west by zones of faulting that disappeared under the valley soils. To the east was the great Sierra Nevada block, to the north the Klamath and Siskiyou mountain blocks, and to the south the Tehachapi land-mass.

This great inland basin was covered by marine waters many times and the sediments laid down in it were derived from the surrounding land-masses. In certain sections along the west side of the Valle Grande the sedimentary rocks exposed have a thickness of 30,000 feet, almost six miles. Great delta deposits are exposed in the folded areas along the west side of the Valle Grande that were brought in by rivers from the west. Channels or troughs connected this great inland sea or seas with the ocean at the times of submergence.

LOS ANGELES LAND SHOW ATTRACTS STATE-WIDE INTEREST.

Most of the fifty-eight counties of the state will be represented by elaborate displays at the California Land Show to be held at Los Angeles City, March 8 to 23.

Supplementing comprehensive exhibits of agricultural products, planned as the feature of the show, there will be an industrial section given over to manufactured products.

WILD LIFE IN FORESTS.

National forests and other forested and foothill areas provide some of the best of the remaining natural habitats of wild life in the western part of the country, says the Federal Agricultural Department. Because of their wild nature, many of the big animals use large areas of the forests that are too rough for livestock, or areas where livestock do not naturally go.

EASTER SUNRISE SERVICE

(WILL T. GENTZ.)

PREPARATIONS ONCE MORE ARE UNDER way to provide Hollywood and its myriad visitors at Eastertide with a surpassingly impressive sunrise service in world-renowned Hollywood Bowl. A score of public-spirited citizens, comprising leaders in business, social, religious and musical circles, have organized to meet the annual obligation and as general chairman of arrangements have named Dana Bennett, a ranking figure in the younger group of Hollywood business men, whose activities have contributed materially to the magical growth of that section in the last decade.

The choice of the civic committee was announced at Easter sunrise service headquarters in the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce, following a meeting which marked the retirement of George M. Chapman as general chairman. Chapman has headed the committee for three successive seasons, and two years ago inaugurated the pre-Easter processional, which has become a regular forerunner of the local sunrise services. He declined a proffered reappointment, but will remain active in sunrise service arrangements in an ex-officio, or committee, capacity.

The retiring chairman submitted an interesting compilation of the reports of the various vice-chairmen and the public relations department covering the services last year, which reports he characterized as being "animated with a glowing spirit of co-operation and unselfish achievement, and bristling with recommendations and suggestions helpful in the further extension of Hollywood's unique fame as a center of Easter worship." The voluntary financial response of the public, which alone is counted upon to defray the expenses of the service, was shown to have been a more unstinting one than in past years.

As Chapman tendered the gavel to his successor, the committee went on record with a rousing vote of thanks for his splendid work for the community. Immediately on assuming the chair, Bennett submitted for confirmation his slate of appointees to the chairmanship of the major sub-committees, who are to aid him in arranging and supervising the service.

Glenn M. Tindall, recently appointed business manager of the Hollywood Bowl Association, was assigned the task of framing the program. The new bowl executive brings unusual qualifications to his new civic post, General Chairman Bennett stated, due to his previous connection with the Los Angeles department of playgrounds and recreation as supervisor of music. He also arranged and directed the notable Festival of Song, presented at Hollywood Bowl in July 1928 under public-school auspices.

Mrs. Frederick D. Raymond, an outstanding worker in civic betterment, was named chairman of the committee on grounds and decoration, vice Francis William Vreeland, Bennett's original appointee, who informed the general chairman that business reasons dictated his withdrawal. Vreeland was chairman of the public relations committee last year. Mrs. Raymond is an active member of the Junior League, an organization of debutantes and the younger married set, which has distinguished itself locally and nationally for its practical interest in worthwhile enterprises of sociological import. The league's special philanthropy locally is the Los Angeles Home for Convalescent Children. She is also first vice-president of the Hollywood community chorus and acted as chairman during the early season absence of Mrs. Leiland Atherton Irish. She has served that organization and the Easter sunrise service and lily-planting committees in various capacities in past years.

Marion Bowen won hearty endorsement as Bennett's selection as chairman of public relations, safety and supplies. "Miss Bowen is the up-to-the-minute idea of the modern young woman of action and achievement," was Bennett's tribute to his appointee. "She has visited twenty-two major cities of America, doing work of untold worth in advertising our bowl in club talks, radio announcements and newspaper interviews as Mrs. Artie Mason Carter's 'right-hand man' during her bowl regency; she has seen France and Belgium as one can only see them with the intimate contacts of a bicycle tour, and she is a dyed-in-the-silk aviation enthusiast, making two or three flights every week as a duly licensed government pilot. She served a Hollywood newspaper several years as its woman's editor and is at present a feature writer and columnist on its staff."

Reappointment of Will T. Gentz, press representative of the Hollywood Bowl Association last year, as publicist of the sunrise service also was announced by Bennett.

The newly-elected general chairman has been variously engaged locally as a realtor, banker and broker. He was formerly cashier of a Hollywood bank and later aided in launching the now-extensive airplane building industry locally.

Present at the meeting, besides the retiring and newly-elected general chairmen, were Mrs. Bert Fesler, in charge of the recent Easter lily propagation drive, who reported whole-hearted co-operation on the part of social and service clubs, schools and churches; Mrs. Burdette H. Norton, Frederick D. Raymond, Miss Jessica Lawrence, Dr. Charles F. Seiter, Glenn M. Tindall, Mrs. Leiland Atherton Irish, Marion Bowen, Harrison Crawford, Eleanor Evans, D. E. Lane and William Hopper.

nia." He remained at Fort Tejon until about the 1st of January 1858, when he commenced his winter journey homeward, arriving at the Colorado January 23, 1858. "We reached the Colorado river early in the morning," he reported, "having encamped in a rainstorm the night previous a few miles from it. Shortly after leaving camp, my clerk, F. E. Kerlin, who with two of my party had been despatched the day previous in order to have my boat ready for crossing, was seen returning. Various surmises were immediately started as to the cause, and as soon as he was within speaking distance he was questioned eagerly for the news. He gave us a joyful surprise by the information that the 'General Jessup,' Captain Johnson, was at the crossing waiting to convey us to the opposite side. It is difficult to conceive the varied emotions with which this news was received. Here, in a wild, almost unknown country, inhabited only by savages, the great river of the west, hitherto declared unnavigable, had, for the first time, borne upon its bosom that emblem of civilization, a steamer.

"The enterprise of a private citizen had been rewarded by success, for the future was to lend its aid in the settlement of our vast western territory. But alas! for the poor Indians living on its banks and rich meadow land. The rapid current which washes its shores will hardly pass more rapidly away. The steam whistle of the 'General Jessup' sounded the death knell of the river race. Accompanying Captain Johnson, was Lieutenant White, of the United States army, and fifteen soldiers as an escort, which, with as many rugged mountain men, and the steamer as a fort, made a dangerous party to meddle with.

"In a few minutes after our arrival the steamer came alongside the bank, and our party was transported at once, with all our baggage, to the other side. We then swam the mules over, and bidding Captain Johnson good-bye, he was soon steaming down the river toward Fort Yuma, three hundred and fifty miles below. I confess I felt jealous of his achievement, and it is to be hoped the government will substantially reward the enterprising spirit which prompted a citizen, at his own risk and at great hazard, to undertake so perilous and uncertain an expedition. I had brought the camels with me, and as they stood on the bank, surrounded by hundreds of wild unclad savages, and mixed with these the dragoons of my escort and the steamer slowly revolving her wheels preparatory to a start, it was a curious and interesting picture."

On his homeward journey, Lieutenant Beale arrived at Fort Defiance February 21, 1858, and he concluded his report with: "A year in the wilderness ended! During this time I have conducted my party from the Gulf of Mexico to the shores of the Pacific Ocean, and back again to the eastern terminus of the road, through a country for a great part entirely unknown, and inhabited by hostile Indians, without the loss of a man. I have tested the value of the camels, marked a new road to the Pacific, and travelled 4,000 miles without an accident."

CALIFORNIA NORTH HISTORIC SITES INDICATED BY MARKERS.

Marysville (Yuba County)—Marysville Trails of '49 celebration attracted a crowd estimated at 22,000. The festivities began with the dedication of a highway marker, the morning of February 8, at Hock Farm, in Sutter County, the old home of General John A. Sutter, builder of Sutter Fort, one of the state's most noted landmarks, in Sacramento City.

The ceremonies were under the auspices of South Butte Parlor No. 226 N.D.G.W., whose president, Miss Grace Hill, reviewed the history of Sutter County. Hilliard E. Welch, Past Grand President N.S.G.W., told of General Sutter's notable record in California. Among the Native Daughters in attendance were Grand President Esther R. Sullivan, and Past Grand Presidents Allison F. Watt and Dr. Louise C. Heilbron. The marker bears this inscription: "Trails of '49, Hock Farm—Home of General John A. Sutter from 1842 to 1868."

The following day Timbuctoo, a ghost mining town of Yuba County, was honored with a marker, dedicated by Marysville Parlor No. 6 N.S.G.W. and Marysville Parlor No. 162 N.D.G.W. Speakers included Grand President Esther R. Sullivan, Past Grand President Allison F. Watt and Past Grand President Dr. Louise C. Heilbron of the Native Daughters; Past Grand President Fred H. Greely and Superior Judge E. P. McDaniel of the Native Sons. California songs were rendered by the glee club of Marysville Parlor N.D.G.W. The marker is inscribed: "Trails of '49. Site of Timbuctoo, Former Mining Town. This Building Was Erected in 1855."

Overheated Engine—If the engine of an auto overheats it may be caused by loose fan belt, too rich a gas mixture, low oil supply or leaky radiator.

CO-OPERATE!

The Grizzly Bear for January 1930 had a little tory anent co-operate which concluded with 'hos. E. Pickerill's verse, "The Mocking Bird." s a result, Carrie Kessner, affiliated with Los angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W., penned the following, "with apology to Thomas E. Pickerill," and sent it to the editor:

The mocking bird sat in a tree,
The hour was growing late,
But varlous things were on his mind
Which he must meditate.
He'd heard a lot of verblage
From citizens that day,
And being just a mocking bird
Believed what they did say.
But had he been a wise old owl,

To know that those who shout the most
Do not co-operate.

Their forte is just verbosity,
Which sometimes leads to fame,
For there are those who trust they'll do
Whatever they acclaim.

But this old world is built that way—
Some talk and others work,

Some spend their time in idleness
And all life's problems shrk.

But do not pessimistic grow,
Just do your bit each day,
Perhaps, who knows, you may instil
Some other guy that way.

And he, in turn, will some one else

And so, by doing all we can,
Co-operate like hell!

GRIZZLY GROWLS

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

THERE IS CONSIDERABLE HOPE THAT the Federal Congress will, at the present session, apply the quota to Mexico. And it should, for there are already far too many of those undesirable aliens in this country, and particularly California. The talk that they are "necessary seasonal laborers" is all buncombe, pure and simple. Mexis are brought in by the big interests because they can be hired at a low wage rate. Once here, they stay, spreading out over the country and displacing White citizens.

There is absolutely no question but that the very serious unemployment situation in California is mostly due to the presence here of vast numbers of unassimilable and ineligible-to-citizenship aliens such as the Mexis, the Japs, the Hindus, and the Filipinos. These people have employment, vast numbers of them being engaged in public work paid for by the taxpayers, while thousands of White men, many of them citizens of the country, walk the streets, seeking honest employment to support their families and themselves.

If conditions were such that these menacing aliens had difficulty in finding employment, the dangerous surplus of them would depart and others would not come. There then would be less crime, and there would be work for White men. In Ventura County, a state statute has been invoked to force the authorities to discharge every alien whose services are paid for with public funds. That course should be followed by the taxpayers of every city and county in California. If it be done in Los Angeles County and its several cities, thousands of citizens could be given employment.

Of course, the "danger of insulting that sensitive nation" is being urged as a reason for not applying the quota to Mexico—the identical argument advanced when the Federal Congress was about to pass the Jap exclusion law. The same interests that opposed the exclusion of Japs are opposed to applying the quota to Mexico—the same interests that always have been, and still are, interested solely in the accumulation of wealth, and have no concern whatever for the wellbeing of the masses and for the welfare of this state and the nation.

The Saint Clairsville, Ohio, "Gazette" of March 6 had an editorial entitled "No Sympathy for the Unemployed," in which was a quantity of good "meat" for the thinking. Quoting briefly therefrom: "If you are out of work, you are a communist, if you complain about being idle and mention so much as your family is suffering, you are a downright red. . . . By characterizing all as bad, they hope to cover up the conditions and if possible fool a majority of the people as to the need of several million citizens. . . . "One group in this Nation is riding high-handed, it bowls over any criticism, it ridicules all who warn them of their policy being wrong. . . . This tagging all that are idle as bad citizens is having a bad effect; it may be more serious than we think. It is being resented by a large class who have a little work; it is being condemned by a large group who are out of the millionaire class. There still exists in this Nation a large number who still are blessed with the milk of human kindness in their hearts, who have in their hearts sympathy for their fellow man, and who do not believe because their neighbor is idle of no fault of his own that he is a bad citizen."

The National Congress has been hearing evidence for and against prohibition, and the testimony has been most interesting and important. Of all the testimony, that submitted by those representing the Woman's National Committee for Law Enforcement comes nearest to revealing the unvarnished truth.

The committee's "political creed" was present-love him not and who condemn, as uncalled for, many of his utterances: he has done, and is doing, more to relieve the almost-intolerable atmosphere in Los Angeles, arising from the stench of corruption, than have all the so-called newspapers of the city combined.

DIVIDEND DECLARED.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Native Sons Hall Association of Los Angeles March 20 a dividend of fifty cents per share was declared, payable immediately. Grand First Vice-president John T. Newell, the chairman of the board, presided.

All bills against the association have been paid, and when the opening of Broadway is completed the corporation will have left a lot 25x160 feet on the corner of Seventeenth and Broadway. The widening will, of course, wreck the old Native Sons Hall.

TROJANS TO TOUR.

College songs and classical music will share honors on programs to be given by the Trojan band and the men's glee club of the University of Southern California when over 100 student musicians make a spring tour through California during the Easter college recess, April 11-21.

The band, which between halves of intercollegiate football games has amused thousands of fans and whose concerts over radio have entertained hundreds of thousands of listeners, is to appear "in person" before citizens of the coast, who will be able to "see and hear" its antics and music. Harold Roberts, the leader, will personally conduct the band programs, and J. Artbur Lewis will direct the glee club.

NATIVE'S COLORFUL LIFE COMES TO CLOSE IN LOS ANGELES.

One of California's oldest and most interesting daughters, Mrs. Juanita Lopez-Lazzarevich, passed away March 19 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ida R. Hunter. She had lived the whole of her colorful life of eighty-six years in the state of her birth, and many and wonderful were the tales she could narrate of the happenings in California in the days of the dons and after the Americans came into power.

She was the daughter of Francisco Lopez, kinsman of that Francisco Lopez who first discovered gold in California. Her first husband was William Warren, adventurous deputy United States marshal. After his death she married John A. Lazzarevich, a charter member of the first Masonic Lodge and a pioneer merchant in San Francisco.

FIFTY YEARS AGO
HAPPENINGS

Thomas R. Jones

APRIL, 1880, WAS THE WETTEST MONTH experienced in California since weather records were kept. Four heavy storms swept over the state beginning the first day and continuing to almost the last day, causing storm conditions to prevail throughout practically the whole month.

In the Sacramento Valley the month's rainfall totaled 11.97 inches; April 22 two inches of rain fell in two hours, the heaviest rainfall ever known in that section of the state. Sixteen feet of snow fell at the Sierra Nevada summit, making the total snow-depth there the end of the month 24 feet, something unprecedented.

Rivers rose to flood heights, and there were several drowning accidents. Levees began to break at the end of the month, and farmers commenced to pray for dry weather. The total rainfall for the season was now nearly 24 inches.

The Central Pacific Railroad had its toughest time during the month. Between Dutch Flat, Placer County, and Truckee, Nevada County, the road was blocked more than half the time with trains stuck, plows derailed, snow blockades and landslides. A landslide 40 feet deep and 600 feet long came down between Alta and Towles that had to be hydraulicked away, otherwise it would have taken a month to remove the debris. A snowslide near Emigrant Gap carried thirty-six men down the mountain side, and three of them were hurried too deep to be rescued.

The lads of Sonora, Tuolumne County, were reported as being expert "pickers," due to the heavy rains washing chispas into view in the street and the yard gullies of that town. Many worth from $1 to $5 were picked up. In Fresno County a nugget worth $707 was found.

At Remington Hill, Nevada County, a miner picked up a quartz houlder, washed into view by the heavy rains, that was gold lined and yielded over $5,000.

At Iron Mountain, Shasta County, a silver ledge, eighty feet wide and six miles long, was discovered that assayed from $160 to $600 a ton. Great excitement ensued and hundreds of locations were made.

Peter Kuhl, a farmer living near Dixon, Solano County, found at a depth of eight feet a decomposed quartz ledge that was yielding 50 cents in gold to the pan of dirt.

The twenty-third session of the California Legislature, in session 103 days, adjourned sine die April 16. The time was mostly devoted to making and amending laws to conform to the provisions of the New Constitution.

Governor George C. Perkins gave his second reception at Sacramento April 7. The grand march of over 1,000 couples was made up of prominent personages from every county of the state.

During the month B. D. Murphy was elected mayor of San Jose, Santa Clara County, and J. D. Chase was elected mayor of Santa Cruz City.

Judge Ephriam Garter, who arrived in Shasta County in 1849 and resided there ever since, died April 10. His wife, who accompanied him to California and was one of the noted Pioneer Women of the state, passed away five days later.

California South was stirred by a heavy shock of earthquake at 5:20 a.m. of April 12, and at 1:05 a.m. of the 14th San Francisco and the hay counties were shocked. No damage resulted in either instance.

KEARNEY TAKEN TO LOCKUP.

Claiming he had been defrauded out of twenty-one lots and thousands of dollars in the '50s, Rodman M. Price, ex-Governor of New Jersey, commenced suit for $1,000,000 against Squire P. Dewey, San Francisco realtor.

Charles Crocker, railroad magnate, bought the Cosmopolitan Hotel for $270,000 and announced his intention of investing millions in other San Francisco real estate. A "hoom" resulted.

A temperance lecturer named Clark was, attracting attention through asking his auditors to devote a week to prayer asking the Almighty to destroy with phylloxera every vineyard in California.

A meteor dashing across the Tuolumne County sky at 8 p.m. of April 1 threw out a myriad of greenish sparks streaked with red.

Haggin & Carr, at their ranch near Bakersfield, Kern County, had sheared 300,000 pounds of wool this season.

A silk factory in San Francisco, employing over 100 women and girls at $3 to $10 a week, was beginning to prosper.

The whaling industry at San Simeon, San Luis Obispo County, was at its height. Twenty-six whales had been captured so far this season.

Richard Seward and Millie Thurman of San Gabriel, aged respectively 72 and 70, filed a document in the Los Angeles County recorder's office affirming they had become husband and wife.

The State Supreme Court dismissing, April 10, Dennis Kearney's appeal from a jail sentence and fine, he was taken to the house of correction. With Dennis removed, the San Francisco sand lot ceased to be a place of interest.

James Rodda and Thomas McAlpine engaged in a prizefight for $250 a side near Nevada City, Nevada County, April 3, in a heavy shower of rain. At the end of eleven rounds, fought in eighteen minutes, Rodda was declared the winner on a foul.

The north-bound stage from Soledad, Monterey County, was stopped by a masked highwayman April 1. Four days later Sheriff Franks captured him in Tulare County.

A corps of the Salvation Army made its first appearance in the streets of San Francisco the afternoon of April 18.

The West Berkeley, Alameda County, giant-powder works blew up April 16. Eleven White men, twelve Chinamen and six buildings were blown to atoms.

A Chinese washhouse on Bush street, San Francisco, burned April 6, and three of the Oriental laundrymen were cremated.

The Republican Party, at a state convention in Sacramento City April 30, selected twelve delegates to the national convention to be held at Chicago in June. They were enthusiastic for James G. Blaine for president.

The California Fish Commission planted 50,000 young Eastern trout in California streams during the season.

Chinamen of Stockton, San Joaquin County, shipped to San Francisco April 19 seven and one-half tons of mushrooms gathered from the San Joaquin tule lands.

Two salmon canneries at Collinsville, Solano County, were daily canning an average of 4,500 salmon.

DISGRACEFUL SCENE FOLLOWS KILLING.

The "San Francisco Chronicle" and the DeYoungs now became the absorbing topic of interest through a succession of exciting events. April 14 Charles DeYoung went into the composing-room of the paper and announced to the fifty printers there employed that he could no longer pay them the ruling rate of 50 cents per 1,000 ems and that their pay was 45 cents from date. Forty-two of the printers walked out. Rumors of trouble had caused a crowd of several thousand to gather in the street who loudly cheered the exit of the printers and made loud threats, but did no damage to the paper.

During the week a scurrilous pamphlet was circulated, purporting to give the history of the Rev. I. S. Kalloch, now mayor of San Francisco, when a pastor in Boston. This was attributed to Charles DeYoung, who had been East and whose trial for shooting the mayor was soon to be held. At 8 p.m. of April 23 Rev. I. M. Kalloch, 30-year-old son of the mayor, entered the private office of Charles DeYoung and shot him dead. A large crowd assembled in the street and cheered Kalloch when taken in custody and followed, hooting, the dead wagon taking DeYoung's remains to the morgue, making a disgraceful scene. That the act of Kalloch was premeditated was shown by threats made in August, after his father had been shot, that if the law did not punish DeYoung he would. It was thought the law's delay provoked him to action. Mike H. DeYoung now became sole owner and publisher of the "Chronicle," which made him, subsequently, a multi-millionaire.

Rufus Morgan, San Diego apiarist, mixed toadstools with mushrooms April 5 and was fatally poisoned.

P. McCallan, early-day resident of Oroville, Butte County, fell from his horse April 9 and was killed.

Eddie Kennedy, playing baseball at Watsonville, Santa Cruz County, April 15, was hit in the head by a batted ball and soon died.

Charles Gunther of Magalia, Butte County, committed suicide by firing a wad of chewed paper into his ear.

Miss Priscilla Harrison, with two dogs, wandered into the hills near Saint Helena, Napa County, and became lost. She was not found for eight days, during which time she had neither drink nor food, had worn the shoes off her feet

REVIVE OLD SPANISH DAYS IN SANTA BARBARA

Evelyn Joyce Eby

REINA DEL MAR PARLOR N.D.G.W.)

ALREADY FAMED AS THE CITY WHERE the traditions of old Spain have been preserved in beautiful architecture and hospitable old customs, Santa Barbara plans once again to turn back endless pages in its eventful history to recall the brilliant episodes when dashing caballeros and laughing señoritas reigned supreme. Seventy-five years ago, or a hundred, into the days of the dons, Old Spanish Days will carry a populace with a laugh and smile, unfolding once more the Santa Barbara that but a few now living can even faintly recall.

Santa Barbara's seventh annual Old Spanish Days Fiesta will open August 7 and for three days the city will live in a carnival spirit of celebration that means much more than such celebrations usually do. For this event marks the commemoration of historical periods in California that should be kept alive in the minds of all people for all time. Celebrations and pageants are held in many places and for many purposes, but few have the background of such interesting history as has Santa Barbara's Old Spanish Days fest.

The night pageant, usually held the second evening in the Peabody Stadium and one of the most important features of the fiesta, will ring with the laughter and song of the dons and señoritas entertaining the vast holiday throngs.

Reina del Mar Parlor No. 126 Native Daughters of the Golden West takes a most active part in giving an outward expression to that which means so much in the life of the community—a movement of the people to keep alive the cherished memories of the past. The Parlor joins with all other organizations in Santa Barbara in perpetuating traditions.

Prior to the 1926 fiesta, Reina del Mar Parlor appointed a committee to form a group with a like committee from the Daughters of the American Revolution, Santa Barbara Chapter, for the purpose of having available at all times authentic data, names, dates and facts for the use by the fiesta committee, or any similar organization in programming pageants and historical parades.

This joint committee, known as the Santa Barbara History and Landmarks Committee, had compiled a series of articles, based upon source history, that demonstrated the relationship of the fiesta and other community celebrations with the dramatic history of Santa Barbara. Being representatives of organizations whose objectives are the perpetuation of history and the preservation of historical landmarks, this joint committee has proven one of the valuable adjuncts to the fiesta committee.

Santa Barbara Parlor No. 116 Native Sons of the Golden West has likewise been active in its sponsorship of the fiesta since its inauguration in 1924. Samuel Stanwood, a Native Son and a Santa Barbara County supervisor, has been untiring in performing multitudinous duties as president of the Old Spanish Days Committee since 1927. Harry Sweetser, another member of Santa Barbara Parlor, has been chairman of the parade committee since its beginning.

"ROMANTIC CALIFORNIA."
 The Native Daughters and the Native Sons of Santa Barbara have been highly honored this year by Charles E. Pressley, managing director of the Old Spanish Days, who was also its first president. He has dedicated a pageant, entitled "Romantic California," to the Native Sons and Daughters of the Golden West. The pageant is written as nearly historically correct as possible, and covers the highlights of history in and around the City of Santa Barbara. It dates from the discovery of this land with its primitive Indian civilization in the year 1542 to the American occupation in 1846.

The story is told in the present day by a very old man of Spanish descent and a native of California to a group of interested tourists, and is shown through the medium of eight pictured episodes, each with its preparatory prologue. As the old man weaves his story, the episodes are disclosed on a large revolving stage, which is divided into eight sets, making a complete performance of two hours without an interruption.

The first prologue opens with the old man seated before an ancient adobe house covered with many vines and flowers; he is playing a guitar. The tourists enter and interrupt him with many questions regarding the historical events of the past, which he readily answers. The scene fades from the group to the large stage, whereon is shown the daily life of the Indians in a village in this vicinity, and the landing of Cabrillo, the first discoverer, in 1542.

At the end of this scene the audience is returned to the first group and the old man continues his narrative, preparing his listeners for the next episode, which deals with the raising of the Spanish flag by Don Gaspar de Portola in 1769. The next two episodes, as approached by the old historian and pictured on the large stage, deal with the blessing of the site of the Santa Barbara Mission by Father Junipero Serra, and the building of the mission by the Indians under Father Fermin de Lasuen.

The old man continues his thread of romance and the next episode depicts the invasion in the year 1818 of the French pirate, Hyppolite Bouchard. With Bouchard's pirate crew was an American, Joseph Chapman, who remained ashore after the sacking of the Refugio Rancho, near Santa Barbara. He later married the daughter of Jose Ortega, the owner of the Refugio Rancho, and lived here all his life, enjoying the distinction of having been the first American on California soil.

At the close of this episode the old man leads his rapt listeners up to the episode picturing the camp of Luis Arguello, the commandante who was sent to California by Mexico to stir the Indians to revolt against the Spanish rule, thereby making it possible for Mexico to gain possession of California. This campaign was successful, and in 1821 Arguello raised the Mexican flag over this country, and it remained aloft for twenty-five years. During the next prologue, at the insistence of his little audience, the old man tells of the gay fiestas which were an integral part of the lives of the Californians.

The scene again fades to the large stage, where a gay and colorful fiesta is enacted. This fiesta was one of the most beautiful ever recorded, and was held in the year 1836 in celebration of the wedding of Anita, daughter of Jose de la Guerra, then commandante of the Santa Barbara Presidio, to Alfred Robinson, an Englishman. At the end of this scene, so reminiscent to the old man of his boyhood memories, he deplores the passing of the happy, casual life of the Spanish Californians and passes on to the invasion of the American army under Colonel Fremont in 1846 and the acquisition of California by America. This event is the eighth and final episode in the story. The pageant requires a cast of approximately three hundred people, and a complete musical score is synchronized throughout.

NATIVE DAUGHTER GRAND PRESIDENT SPLENDIDLY FETED IN SANTA BARBARA.

Preservation of and education in California history and the marking of historical landmarks in this state were emphasized by Reina del Mar Parlor No. 126 Native Daughters of the Golden West, in the greeting and reception accorded Grand President Esther R. Sullivan on the occasion of her official visit in Santa Barbara March 4.

Miss Sullivan and her party arrived in Santa Barbara early in the afternoon of that date and prior to the evening program paid a visit to the studio of Ettore Cadorin, sculptor, where she viewed in the making the statue of Junipero Serra, being made ready for placement in the National Statuary Hall, Washington, D.C. with the statue of Starr King. During the afternoon she also visited the beautiful Santa Barbara County Courthouse; the adobe, where the milk fund was started, and the old mission. Accompanying Miss Sullivan were her mother, and Past Grand Presidents Emma W. Humphrey, Grace S. Stoermer and Cora B. Sifford.

Mrs. Humphrey found a warm welcome awaiting her in Santa Barbara from the Native Daughters and the members of the affiliated groups she worked with as Grand President during the period the child-care program was inaugurated and placed under the sponsorship of the Native Daughters. In 1910 she presided over the initial state gathering of the Native Daughters held in Santa Barbara. Her return to the city was a joyous occasion. Her interest in child-care work placed her at the head of the Central Committee on Homeless Children, where she did an excellent piece of work. In the inauguration of a Santa Barbara child-care program she directed the activities of Reina del Mar Parlor, assisting Miss Anna E. McCaughey, who was the first chairman of the Santa Barbara Parlor's committee.

The visit of the Grand President was also the occasion for a celebration of the twentieth institution anniversary of Reina del Mar. During the score of years of its existence, this Parlor has played a most active part in local historical and civic affairs. Of special interest are the activities in child-care programs. Through the milk fund and the committee on homeless children, Reina del Mar expresses itself most forcibly in the field of social welfare endeavors. In its historical movements it is closely affiliated with the various historical societies of the community.

For the banquet that opened a full evening's program in honor of Grand President Sullivan, El Paseo, with its beautiful settings and its atmosphere of old Spanish days, was selected. Here 100 members of the Native Daughters and friends of the Order were assembled. It was an inspiring and noteworthy sight. Evening gowns and spanish shawls worn by the women blended with the settings of the establishment. Mrs. Irene Quinn, a past president of the Parlor, presided over the banquet, and in her address of welcome she stressed the co-operation of the Parlor in recognizing the existing organizations carrying on a community welfare program.

Miss Grace S. Stoermer, Past Grand President, gave a brief talk on "California's Contribution to Statuary Hall in Washington, D.C." She was a member of the committee representing the State of California when the selection of the two Californians to be honored by having their statues placed in the national hall was made. This committee selected Starr King, a minister of God and a soldier, and for whom Starr King Post of the G.A.R. was named, and Father Junipero Serra, founder of the California missions. Both are deeply loved and revered by all denominations and races. Ettore Cadornin, Santa Barbara sculptor, was commissioned to execute the statue of Junipero Serra, and Haig Patigan of San Francisco was selected to do that of Starr King. One of the honored guests at the banquet was Ettore Cadornin, and Miss Stoerner introduced him to the assemblage.

Rev. Oliver Hart Bronson, president of the Santa Barbara Ministerial Union, was the speaker of the evening and his topic was "Soul Expression Through Organization." He said, in part: "Human souls can better express themselves through organization than individually. The great danger of organization, however, is for it to become smug and self-satisfied with its functioning. This is death. The man who is satisfied with himself is dead, as the organization that is satisfied with itself is dead. Only in reaching out to contact and help others is there life, either in an organization or in a single unit." Dr. Bronson paid tributes to the work that Reina del Mar is carrying on in its program of civic endeavor.

Grand President Sullivan left with her audience a message of the transformation of California, and outlined the state's history from its settlement by the Spanish to its present-day peak. The growth of its religious, social and commercial life were dwelt upon by Miss Sullivan. In closing, she was warmly congratulatory to Reina del Mar Parlor for its accomplishments during the year just past.

Guests of honor were seated at two long tables, charmingly decorated with spring flowers and models representative of the early-day life in California. Each of the honored guests was presented by Toastmistress Quinn. Among them, and the organizations they represented, were: Rev. Lawrence Mutter, guardian Santa Barbara Mission; Rev. Father Alfred, Rev. Father Lewis, Old Mission; Harry Sweetser, Mrs. C. E. Herbert, Charles Pressley, Old Spanish Days Committee; Dr. William Ellison, State College; Mrs. Francis Price, Woman's Club; Mrs. Harvey Kiler, American Legion Auxiliary; Mrs. Taylor McDougall, Santa Barbara Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution; Mrs. Nancy Winch Emery, Neighborhood House; Mrs. H. F. Nicklin, Catholic Daughters of America; Mrs. John Mitchell, president Reina del Mar Parlor; Mrs. H. A. Spreitz, children's committee Reina del Mar Parlor; Mrs. Nellie Bateman, Spanish American War Veterans Auxiliary; Mrs. Harry Mott Whitney, chairman child-welfare section Conference of Social Work; H. F. Nicklin, member board of directors Santa Barbara Community Chest; A. C. Dinsmore, president, and H. G. Myers, district deputy, Santa Barbara Parlor Native Sons of the Golden West; Dr. Oliver Hart Bronson, president Santa Barbara Ministerial Union; Mrs. Jane Vick, district deputy Native Daughters.

During the banquet music was furnished by Loring Andrews and his spanish troubadours, and several selections were sung in Spanish. Miss Vera Pacheco, R. V. Jackson and Mrs. Daisy Prideaux favored with selections. They were accompanied by Mrs. Bernice Gerrish, who also gave a piano solo. After the banquet the members adjourned to the quarters of Reina del Mar in Pythian Castle, where the ritual was exemplified under the direction of District Deputy Jane Vick and gifts were presented.

As a mark of the esteem in which she is held by the Parlor Miss Anna E. McCaughey, charter member and beloved Native Daughter, chairman of the committee responsible for the evening's program and supervising district deputy grand president, was presented with a life membership in Reina del Mar Parlor. The certificate was in the form of a parchment scroll and hand lettered.

The Parlor's report to Grand President Sullivan was presented in a unique and pretty form. Instead of a written or oral report, the activities of the Parlor for the year were depicted in an illustrated booklet of parchment. The booklet, prepared by one of the Parlor's newest members, Mrs. Anita Nichols, is a work of art. Mrs. Nichols designed and colored the booklet, in addition to designing the decorative programs placed at each cover as a souvenir of the occasion.

GOLD DISCOVERER HONORED

(OLIVE LOPEZ.)

MADE POSSIBLE BY THE EFFORTS of Francisca Lopez de Bilderrain, his kinswoman, Francisco Lopez, Spanish aristocrat and enthusiastic prospector, has at last received belated recognition as having made the first recorded discovery of gold in California. The date was March 9, 1842, and the place was in beautiful Placeritos Canyon on the San Francisquito ranch, forty miles northwest of the City of Los Angeles. The ranch belonged to the Mission San Fernando, but following the secularization of the missions it was granted by the Mexican government to Dona Jacoba Feliz y Lopez de del Valle. The land was later sold to a Mr. Newhall.

It is probable that the mission padres previously found gold, but no records were kept. The original discoverer of the precious metal, Don Francisco Lopez, second son of Don Juan Lopez and Dona Dolores Salgado, was a native son of California. He was educated in Mexico City, specializing in history and literature, and taking a course in the College of Mining. He spent his vacations at the rancho, where he found the gold, as he was sure the stratum starting in Mexico was to be found all along the coast. Also, he kept his stock on a portion of the rancho of Dona Jacoba.

On the auspicious day when his dreams were to be realized, after many years of prospecting, he went out with his trusty servant to interview his vaqueros. He made a wonderful picture in his leather hunting clothes, handsome silver-mounted saddle, over the pommel of which he carried a rifle, and a hunting knife in his belt. In the mochilla (saddle bag) were the prospector's tools. He bade farewell to his beautiful wife, who asked him to bring her some wild onions, as it was the season for them.

At noon, being fatigued, Don Francisco and his servant lay down under a spreading liveoak to take the mid-day siesta. The tree is said to be 500 years old. When he awoke, Lopez remembered his wife's request and, going to the hillside, pulled up some of the plants. Noticing the yellow particles on the roots, he began digging feverishly and, rising to his feet, shouted: "Gold, gold! I have found it at last!"

On return to the rancho, there was great excitement and rejoicing, and the next day a trip was made to the San Fernando Mission to announce the great news to relatives and the padres. Later the authorities in Los Angeles and Mexico City were notified. Governor Alvarado bestowed an official title upon Francisco Lopez, and at the same time appointed Don Ygnacio del Valle commissioner of justice.

Don Francisco's second discovery was made at San Feliciano, in 1843, and Don Mariano Lopez found the yellow metal at College farm, near Santa Ynez Mission, in 1843.

While James W. Marshall deserves credit for starting the great rush of the gold bonanza in 1848, to Don Francisco Lopez goes the credit for discovering the precious metal six years before and, of course, these first discoveries held their influence over the future events.

Mrs. Bilderrain, having heard the story of the first discovery by her kinsman from her father, and from Dona Catalina Lopez de Lopez, her aunt who, following the custom of her illustrious uncle in celebrating high mass on the site of the discovery, gathered together on the historic spot all of the parientes (relatives), and Francisca Lopez, then a little girl, kept all of these things in her heart. She longed to see her kinsman given due honors and conducted a long search until she found the owners of the rancho, where stands the ancient tree of golden dreams.

Finally she made the acquaintance of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Walker, who reside farther up the canyon with their twelve interesting little native sons and daughters. They were delighted to hear Mrs. Bilderrain's story and offered immediately to donate an acre of ground whereon to place a monument to Francisco Lopez. Mr. Walker cleared off the grounds about the oak in preparation for the dedication ceremonies, and to his joy uncovered a rough monument of large stones which, three decades ago, had been placed at the foot of a small sycamore that had spread out its protecting branches and encircled it completely.

Mrs. Bilderrain, feeling that the Native Sons should have in charge the ceremonies which would place the name of Francisco Lopez in the annals of history where it belongs, communicated with Adolfo Rivera of Ramona Parlor No. 109 (Los Angeles), and together they prepared a program, which will long remain a thrilling memory in the hearts of the 300 people who gathered about the monument Sunday, March 9, 1930, to do honor to the discoverer of gold and to hear the story from those who are capable of giving its authentic details. Documentary evidence was presented, having been sworn to by Mrs. Bilderrain. From the San Francisco "Star," affidavits and other sources, it has been shown clearly that at least $5,000,000 worth of gold was taken from the Placeritos mines, at one time fully 6,000 miners being employed there.

The first of the gold was mined at Philadelphia.

Presiding over the ceremonies was Adolfo Rivera, assisted by officers of Ramona Parlor and its history and landmarks committee, and the officers of La Mesa and Kiwanis Clubs of Newhall and Saugus. Trees were planted in honor of Friendship, Loyalty and Charity, Past Grand President Herman C. Lichtenberger of the Native Sons conducting the ritualistic ceremonies and Van Dyke's wonderful "Salute to the Tree" being a thrilling feature. An acacia was placed in honor of Francisco Lopez. Mrs. Bilderrain has written the true story of the first discovery of gold, and the paper was read by Miss Isabel Claire Lopez, also kin to the discoverer.

The plaque on the temporary monument was unveiled by Mrs. Bilderrain at the same moment that John T. Newell, Grand First Vice-president N.S.G.W., and Mrs. Harry Leigh Bentley, chairman of history and landmarks of Californiana Parlor N.D.G.W., raised the Stars and Stripes and the Bear Flag, the official state banner. The plaque bears the inscription: "Francisco Lopez here discovered the first gold in California March 9, 1842. This plate placed March 9, 1930, by Ramona Parlor No. 109 N.S.G.W., La Mesa and Kiwanis Clubs, Newhall-Saugus."

Ex-Senator Reginaldo F. del Valle, made one of the most eloquent addresses of his long and useful career. He said the paper written by Mrs. Bilderrain was a revelation to him, and the day marked new history for the state. Historians, he said, made but brief mention of Francisco Lopez, and practically all of them had resided in the north of California and had not visited the historical scenes in California South except for short periods. He mourned the fact that places and events in California South, where the history of the state began, were not sufficiently described in histories, and then they were not correct.

Judge Perkins of Newhall said the Little Santa Clara Valley had given richly to the history of the state, the ground being hallowed by the footprints of the good Father Garces.

An orchestra of stringed instruments furnished music for the occasion, the singers being Mrs. Lucia Hernandez, Miss Ruth Ruiz and Miss Lane. The assemblage sang "The Star Spangled Banner," which echoed through the historic hills that bear the scars of the miners in their search for the precious metal which financed the Civil War.

The ancient oak tree which takes a definite place in the gold history was dedicated by John McNaughton of La Mesa Club, the plaque bearing the Spanish words: "Encino del Ensueña Dorado" (Oak of the Golden Dream).

Now, the kinspeople of Francisco Lopez feel that he has come into his own, and that future historians will give him due honor. The latest new history devotes three lines to his discovery, and the others who mention him at all call him a vaquero, cattle driver or herder. The textbooks for the public-schools should have the correct version, and to California South should be given the credit for being the scene of this momentous event. Charles J. Prudhomme, Native Son and keeper of the tower in the Los Angeles City Hall, says: "Let the truth of history be known, and let justice be done, 'though the heavens fall.'"

QUOTA FOR MEXICO APPROVED.

The N.S.G.W. and N.D.G.W. Interparlor Committee, at its regular meeting February 28, directed Secretary Fred J. Burmester to send the following message to Congressman Albert Johnson, chairman of the House Immigration Committee:

"The Interparlor Committee, representing Native Sons and Native Daughters in the southern counties of California, endorse the House Immigration Committee bill applying the quota to Mexico and other countries, and urge the bill's enactment into law. We appreciate your efforts to stem the flood of undesirable aliens."

WILL DEDICATE LANDMARK.

Feminine World's Fads and Fancies

PREPARED ESPECIALLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY ANNA STOERMER

THE GLORY OF THE SPRING COSTUME is in its accessories. The world has gone feminine. The designers have given us a brand new mode, and bestowed upon us the perfect accessories with which to complement spring frocks and ensembles.

We know for a certainty that, in changing the character of the mode itself, everything has undergone a change. Shoes and millinery, two extremes of the costume unit, have honors about even in point of importance.

Much color is apparent, and is introduced in a variety of subtle and charming ways—solid colors, pastel monotoes, two-color effects and two-tone harmonies. Because of its neutral tonings, heige clair is perhaps the most talked-of color, as it harmonizes with any color.

The new footwear is frankly feminine, suggesting a lightness and an airiness that are achieved through the use of light colors in silk and kid, with delicate applique, dainty emhroidery, punch-work and perforations. They have slender straps and higher heels, which fashion is demanding to conform with the lengthened hemline.

There is a further tendency toward longer and narrower vamps on shoes of high type. So many and varied are today's social activities that a complete shoe wardrobe is almost a necessity, such as cool, lovely linens, huckskins, indispensable lizard and watersnake. There are shoes to play, dance, walk, and be charming in.

Never before, in one season, has there been such variety in hats, with materials and styles both influenced by the new silhouette. The hat with a hrim has definitely returned, but it is a hrim with a difference, designed to reveal, rather than to conceal, the face. This effect is achieved in various ways.

The brims of the new cloche hats are shallower in the front than at the sides, and the front of the crown is frequently shorter than the back. Making the hat to fit the head is the necessary evil, then the silhouette is worked out as you would have it—off the face. Styles with draped-down sides and also brimmed styles will hold sway.

Color for the first of the season gives the palm to black, first of all, followed by navy, in bright and darker tones. Then come the browns, especially those that incline to the warm tones and have a slightly reddish cast.

Greens also are good, and many of them are almost emerald in tone. Linen blue is another color slated for summer, and it is almost universally becoming. Even though yellow has been important the last two summers, it is again to be popular. Pale shades of Nile green are next in order, and there are many who look for much white.

There is still a great deal of the self-trimmed hat worked out in the manipulation of the body. After this comes the helting trim, and in the dressy range the use of straw lace handings is especially good. Stitched hats are new for the ever-ready wear. The popular straw of the season, however, is conceded to be hakau. It is without a doubt the favorite. Following closely in its wake, and carrying out the same linen type weave, is sisol.

The feminine vogue has taken such a hold that the dressy straw laces and lacy effects are used in little caps and turbans that are worn at the moment with afternoon frocks, dinner or theater outfits.

Everybody has been so interested watching proceedings concerning skirt lengths and waistline placings, that not much has been said about the new order of skirt fullness. The great significance of this change in fullness is that it creates a new identity for fashions sufficient to make last year's clothes look demode. There are still a quantity of skirts with low-placed fullness.

Now comes the hox pleats into fashion for the tailored styling of the practical daytime clothes and to encourage a variation from the circular and flared cuts, which, to some extent, exhausted their novelty.

Many will remember the popularity of the norfolk jacket type as the most classic of the hox-pleated modes, and while this has not returned to us in its original form there are pleats here and there which are reminiscent of it. For instance, the single hox pleat down either side of a tailored blouse.

The bolero theme is favored, with the same line repeated in a peplum at the hipline. When one considers the variety in which the holero is manifested with folds, seams, little ruffles and dipping movements, the same is true of capes.

swinging at the back or the front, or in all-round versions with the same flaring movement.

Drapes, ruffles and bow-knots respond to each other on bodice and skirt, as do yokes and insets. It is only natural that the capelet sleeve and other variants of the short sleeve, having become so dominating, should spread their influence to other daytime fashions.

Short-sleeve jackets are more numerous than coats, and contribute one phase of expression in the soft type of suit made of silk.

Gloves have added inches, too, the new length to be worn with the new short-sleeve jacket suit.

Sleeves are undertaking to do their full share. Sleeves, in fact, are the sole determining feature between sports and afternoon dresses. As for sleeves to be worn with top jacket, for wear with or without the top garment, you may have any of several styles ranging from those much abbreviated to others in elbow length or reaching to the wrist. They may be plain, puffed, cuffed or with flares.

Prints, in every imaginable idea and coloring, have never been more charming than they are this year.

The lace evening gown is most fashionable. Everyone knows how practical it is, and it may be had in all colors.

Pure white is lovely, and black is always smart with black satin slippers and sheer complexion-colored hose. Flat crepe is the most popular fabric for the black street dress.

The always-favorite child of fashion is the polkadot. This year we have the pin dot at a distance. It has a plain effect and, for this reason, it is suitable for tailored dresses and jacket suits.

For sports wear, there is much talk of the importance of shantung, the leading material for outdoor wear.

Ribbons make sashes and bows, which are posed at shoulders, neck and hips or scattered over the skirt. Pastel flowers are also posed in various places upon bodices for evening wear.

FRESNO COUNTY LAYS CLAIM TO OLDEST CALIFORNIA-BORN DAUGHTER.

Mrs. Margaret Mulligan celebrated her eighty-third birthday anniversary February 15 at her ranch-home near Selma, Fresno County. In giving publicity to the event the "Selma Irrigator" said: "Mrs. Mulligan is believed to be the oldest living native daughter in California. Her father, Cyrus Alexander, came to this state in 1835, settling first in San Diego. Later he received the grant of a large tract of land in Sonoma County from the Spanish government, then in power in California, and operated the first fruit cannery in that county. A romantic incident was the fact that he and his wife were married by Captain Sutter. Mrs. Mulligan was born in Alexander Valley. In 1868 she was united in marriage to William Mulligan, and they came to Selma in 1892."

PIONEER DAY.

Yreka (Siskiyou County)—In accordance with the proclamation of President Herbert Hoover, this county will observe Pioneer Day, April 10, by marking old trails made famous during the gold-rush days.

FILIPINOS UNFITTED FOR CITIZENSHIP

DECLARING THE FILIPINOS, AS A race, are entirely unfit for American citizenship. George Steiger, judge of the police court, addressing the American Citizenship Council of San Francisco recently, declared that, in proportion to the population, the number of Filipinos hailed before his court exceeded those of any other race. "They will never make good United States citizens," he said.

"Filipinos do not bring their women with them to this country. They leave many wives on the islands, and see fit to make up to our women and girls. The race, with its 10 percent of uncivilized, has not come to a stage where it yet knows right from wrong. For thirty years our government has been caressing and petting the Filipinos, although they are not a part of the United States. With all that help they are declared not ready to govern themselves. If not, then why must we have them here mixing with our people? Let us not forget that 80 percent of the land in the Philippine Islands is not developed by the Filipinos themselves. When they come here, do they develop our land? They do not! Instead, we find them by the thousand dressed in the latest fashion, in spats and pearl cuffbuttons, walking the streets."

Paul Scharrenberg of the California Joint Immigration Committee, representing the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, the California State Federation of Labor and the American Legion, said a condition should not be created in this country similar to that in the South involving the American Negro. "I appeal to you as Americans who love the institutions of our country and want to preserve our country for the future," he said.

"We are going to have in California some day thirty or forty million people. What kind do you want them to be? The Filipino should be given his freedom and a right to work out his own problems. This country imported what it thought was cheap labor once from Africa, and created a problem not yet solved. If the importation or cheap labor really solved a problem, it would be a matter to be given weight. But do you think for a minute the children of such imported cheap labor will work in the fields as their fathers did? They want white-collar jobs. There are something like 64,000,000 natives in Japan, with an annual increase of three-fourths of a million; 435,000,000 in China; 300,000,000 in India; 36,000,000 in Java, and son on. Do we want to create a menace from all these?"

"California has the hrntt of the battle in regard to the exclusion of the Filipinos, and it has been a California problem all the time."

Answering a question as to whether Filipinos in this country actually deprived White citizens of jobs, Scharrenberg replied:

"They take away jobs as chambermaids and housemaids from middle-aged women and jobs from elevator boys, and leave able-bodied American seamen walking the streets, all because they, the Filipinos, will work for less." When asked if they also took away farm work from Whites, he declared the New Zealand and the Anstralian cane fields were manned by Whites working under much worse climatic conditions than would be found in California.

HOME BEAUTIFUL

(DR. MARIANA BERTOLA, P.G.P., Chairman N.D.G.W. Home Committee.)

We have just completed a year of activity at the Native Daughter Home, 555 Baker street, and the year's work has been very satisfactory. A total of $13,050 was paid on the bank mortgage of $40,000, besides interest at 6 percent.

"DOUGHBOY" TO BE DEDICATED.

The Grove of Memory Committee, representing all the San Francisco Native Son and Native Daughter Parlors, is rejoicing over the fact that the "Doughboy," which for some time had been planned for the Grove of Memory in Golden Gate Park, is about to become a reality, the Board of Supervisors having set aside $6,000 to help defray the expense, $10,000. The "Doughboy" will be dedicated with impressive ceremonies June 1.

The Grove of Memory contains one living redwood tree for each of the thirty-nine members of the San Francisco Parlors of Native Sons who sacrificed their lives in the service of their country in the world war. The grove is a beautiful spot in the very heart of incomparable Golden Gate Park.

RIOT OF FUN.

Past presidents of La Estrella Parlor No. 89 N.D.G.W. were entertained by a skit, written by Recording Secretary Birdie Hartman, entitled "Miss Backward's School for Forward Pupils," which proved a riot of fun. Lola Horgan, in a costume of train and bustle, was the teacher, and Alice Boldemann, Maude Koppitz, Ethel Deneri, Tillie Marks, Margaret Riordan, Maude Dunlap, Agnes Risberg and Birdie Hartman were the pupils.

Dainty refreshments, served at tables beautifully decorated in commemoration of Washington's Birthday, concluded the show. All voted the affair a tremendous success.

SONS ENTERTAINED.

Gabrielle Parlor No. 139 N.D.G.W. entertained Rincon Parlor No. 72 N.S.G.W. at a Saint Patrick's Day party March 12. With more than 125 in attendance, it proved most successful. The tables were decorated in a manner that would do old Erin proud. Corned-beef, cabbage, cake and coffee were served, and then followed appropriate songs and games.

Honored guests of the evening were Grand Inside Sentinel Millie Rock, Mrs. Hannah Barry of Mission Parlor and Mrs. Mary G. Mallen of La Estrella Parlor.

SAINT PATRICK'S BANQUET.

South San Francisco Parlor No. 157 N.S.G.W. had its annual Saint Patrick's Day banquet March 19, and 200 members of the Parlor enjoyed a well-cooked supper of corned-beef and cabbage. Among the guests, who were royally entertained, were fifteen members of Estudillo Parlor No. 223 (San Leandro), Grand Second Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez, District Deputies Luhr and Dillon, and many members from San Francisco Parlors.

Fred Squires Jr. was the toastmaster, and the remarks of the speakers and the entertainment provided by South San Francisco's well-known funsters were greatly enjoyed. As a special feature Brother O'Brien of Alameda Parlor No. 47 entertained with several snappy stories and songs.

DEL NORTE REDWOOD TRACT ADDED TO STATE PARK SYSTEM.

As a part of the state park system, California has acquired a tract of Del Norte County land, embracing 3,000 acres of spectacular seacoast scenery and giant redwoods. The state highway runs for five miles through this magnificent forest, and the project includes more than seven miles of ocean frontage.

The tract, south of Crescent City, has been designated Del Norte Coast State Park. It is regarded as one of the major attractions of California's world-renowned redwood empire.

A BIT O' FARMING

PREPARED EXPRESSLY FOR THE GRIZZLY BEAR BY M. H. ELLIS

WHILE A GENERAL TIGHTENING in the business and industrial worlds will undoubtedly be reflected in agriculture, with a result that the buying power of those dependent upon business and industry for their incomes will be shortened, there also is apt to be another side to the picture that will look somewhat better to the farmer.

City building will decline, industry will free many men from factories, business firms already are losing many employees; this cannot but result in more readily available and somewhat cheaper labor for the farm. The peak demand of agriculture for labor comes in the harvest season; with industry and business at full speed ahead, there are few who care to leave permanent positions for temporary work on farms. This year promises almost an abundance of persons who will be willing to accept such temporary employment.

The decline in prices of stocks should make money more readily available for good farm mortgages; owners of good farms should have little difficulty in financing their operations this year. Added to the condition just mentioned, the fact that the Federal Farm Board is working on the financial situation through various co-operative marketing agencies should also have a tendency to make money easier to get, and cheaper.

Farm lands, which have not moved readily in the past few years, are apt to be in demand. This demand is not likely to be brisk enough to increase prices materially, but it probably will be strong enough that good farms will be salable.

So, while the agricultural situation does not appear, in general, as promising as last year.

there are saving situations that ought to make profits in California agriculture close to normal.

GUARD AGAINST QUACKS.

Ever so often there appears some quack or fakir on the poultry horizon with chemicals or remedies for every purpose, from curing any disease known to fowls to increasing production. As a matter of fact, there is no drug or chemical, or combination of them, that will increase production. There is no reason, with the College of Agriculture available in nearly every county through its farm advisors and the State Department of Agriculture through its agricultural commissioners, for poultry producers to turn to quacks for assistance.

PLANT GOOD SEED.

Much has been said and written concerning the building up of production in livestock through breeding and better stock. Nearly every argument can be just as well used when it comes to the various crops. Good seed, clean and true to type, bred up and carefully selected for production, will far more than pay for the extra cost, just as will the use of purebred sires and certified chicks. There is much to be said, of course, in the preparation of the seedbed, the fertilization of the soil and methods of cultivation, but unless the possibilities are in the seed, no amount of extra care and work will produce maximum crops and profits.

GET LIVER FLUKE EARLY.

After the liver fluke gets into the sheep, it is a parasite hard to deal with. The remedy is in prevention; the means is the use of copper sulphate to poison the snails which are hosts of the pest. Wet, swampy areas where snails abound should be liberally treated with powdered copper carbonate. Four applications are recommended during the year, coming along in mid-summer, early fall, midwinter and late winter. The cost will be around $15 an acre; when the loss of sheep on untreated areas where the fluke abounds is considered, the control is comparatively cheap.

OIL THE SPRAY PUMP.

Most users of automobiles are careful to have the oil in the crankcase checked at regular intervals, and changed as the directions indicate. There are many orchardists who forget that one machine needs oil as much as another, and that if the spray pump is to give good service over a long period it must be given proper attention. With a new pump, oil should be changed four times in the first month, then once every six or eight weeks, according to the condition of the lubricant. Tank, nozzles, pump and hose should be flushed with clear water after the spraying operation is finished; sediment remaining within may do serious damage. Working parts should be inspected regularly and carefully, packing replaced when necessary, fittings and joints kept tight and, in short, the pump should be given a chance to perform its work through intelligent care.

SOFT SHELLED EGGS.

When the pullets begin to lay there may be difficulty at first with soft-shelled eggs. This is a dietary trouble, and can be corrected by the addition of about 2 percent of oyster-shell flour or commercial calcium carbonate to the mash. In mixing mash at home, care must be taken not to overlook this important mineral element. As the pullets go along toward maturity the trouble probably will disappear if a well-balanced ration is fed.

GOOD FARM PRACTICES.

Some farm practices found worth while and which, if put in use, will prove profitable for the average farmer, include: building up of soils by fertilization and crop rotation; reduction of labor costs through the utilization of modern agricultural implements and machinery; testing the milk cows and culling out the ones that are not adding to the profit side of the ledger; the hauling of manure from the barn direct to the field before it loses much of its value in the barnyard; a family garden and a family orchard large enough to furnish all supplies along this line; leguminous cover crops in the orchard to furnish nitrogen and humus for the soil; breeding up of all livestock through purebred sires of desirable qualities; and the intelligent use of publications of the College of Agriculture, the State Department of Agriculture and the United States Department of Agriculture.

WATCH GROUND SQUIRRELS.

The ground squirrel is not at all a desirable addition to the livestock of the farm. In the orchard this rodent may not kill trees, although often it is responsible, but it does do a considerable damage in the almond grove when the nuts fall. Wherever the ground squirrel may be getting in its work, it should be wiped out. The time for doing so may be now, if the soil is not too dry. When the soil is fairly moist to wet, jute or rag balls the size of small apples, soaked with carbon bisulphide, should be rolled into the burrows; after a minute, throw a lighted match in and after the explosion cover the entrance. When feed gets short in the summer, scatter poison grain along the trails, or use fresh fruit and strychnine. Both are dangerous to domestic animals.

PLOWING THE SOIL.

In spring or summer plowing the soil should be turned over as completely and as smoothly as possible, otherwise the flat capillary movement of soil moisture is disturbed. Before land on which there is a growth of weeds or cover crop is plowed, it is a good plan to disk this down before the furrows are turned. In the fall, smooth furrows are not so necessary; if the ground is left a bit rough it has a tendency to catch and hold more moisture. Plows are being improved and, where tractor drawn, they can be secured with pulverizers attached that plow, mix and pulverize the soil so that a good seedbed is prepared in a single operation.

TO PREVENT MILK FEVER.

Some cows are addicted to milk fever at freshening time, whether from a constitutional weakness or improper diet. Whatever the cause, a handful of linseed oil meal in the grain ration at milking time during pregnancy will do much to prevent the trouble. The day before calving she should be drenched with 16 to 20 ounces of Epsom salts. Thus treated, the cow is quite likely to avoid milk fever; she may have no symptoms of it.

BLACK END OF PEARS.

Black end or hard end of pears has been conceded a result of planting on Japanese root stock. The obvious remedy is to change the root stock, which can be done by inarching, and this is about the proper time of the year for treatment. Use French seedlings, plant them about the tree, cut off the ends and graft them into the trunk above the union. As they develop the tree gets the benefit of the French roots; when the development is far enough along the old roots may be severed. One orchardist has found that planting of alfalfa in his pear orchard has lessened the black end on his pears. This is possible, of course, only where plenty of water is available for irrigation.

SAVING GIRDLER TREES.

Mice, rabbits and squirrels are rodents that may have caused trouble in the orchard last winter. Quite often it will be found that trees have been completely girdled during the winter, when food was hard to obtain. Bridge grafting and inarching are the only methods of saving such trees. If the trees are worth while, in an orchard that has a good start, then the bridge graft or inarch should be used.

In bridge grafting the scion is grafted from a point below the girdle to one above, or from the root to the trunk. Others prefer inarching, the use of seedlings planted about the trunk, and the cut-off ends grafted in. Often when the root system is not satisfactory, either on account of the kind of rootstock or when it has not developed properly, it may be well to inarch rather than bridge graft; if the stock is satisfactory and the tree has grown a good root system, bridge grafting may be preferred.

RHUBARB A GOOD CROP.

One of the best truck crops and one of the best for the family garden, is rhubarb. In the first place, it has few insect enemies and diseases to bother it. Aphis is practically the only one, and nicodust easily controls that trouble. It is not as perishable as most other crops; it may be cut this week or next. Little hand labor is required, and this in the winter when labor usually can be secured easily. In the family garden it is almost indispensable, coming at a time when there is nothing else fresh to take its place in sauce or pies. It makes an excellent interplant for young orchards. Its roots penetrate deep and open the soil for moisture penetration. The roots may be sold when the trees no longer permit its growth. Rhubarb is a good bet.

WATCH THE WEEDS.

Weeds take moisture from the soil, as well as available plant food; they should not be allowed to grow anywhere on the farm or in the garden. Careful cultivation for the killing of weeds is at all times necessary, as the greatest losses of moisture from the soil are due to transpiration through the leaves of plants. In gardens, the weeds should be pulled or hoed deeply enough that they will not come up again. In orchards, cultivation should be thorough and the weeds effectually subdued. Having done that, however, nothing is gained through any further cultivation; time and money are wasted in cultivation where there are no weeds.

COCCIDIOSIS OF CHICKS.

Of primary importance to the egg producer in rearing young chicks is the prevention of coccidiosis. This may be accomplished by strict sanitation and by the addition of milk to the diet. Coccidiosis takes a heavy toll in California among the baby flocks every year; care in the brooding period will prevent it.

"VESTIBULE TO HEAVEN"
OPPORTUNITIES FOR MIDDLE CLASS
A. A. Miller
 (Manager Publicity Bureau LONG BEACH CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.)

CALIFORNIANS HAVE AN EXTENDED reputation for excessive use of superlatives when describing people, things or conditions in the "Vestibule to Heaven." The conception that everything and everybody here moves in a plane above the ordinary is erroneously entertained by many. Reference to Long Beach as the "Vestibule to Heaven" is based on observation of some who come here about ready to enter the celestial realm. However, considering the very alluring attractions they find here, very few step on the gas.

There are plenty of ordinary people and an abundance of moderate hotels and restaurants. A big question with Mr. Middle Class is: "When do we eat?" "What, how much, and what kind for two bits?" Long Beach offers better bargains in living facilities than most places where conditions are less desirable. A big, wholesome waffle with three pats of butter and plenty of syrup may be had for fifteen cents, which, with a cup of coffee, makes a breakfast for twenty cents. Most restaurants serve a classy merchant's lunch for thirty-five cents consisting of meat, salad, vegetables, dessert and drink. A good dinner may be had for fifty cents.

To those who like to do light housekeeping, electricity is cheap and homes can be kept well lighted up at a small expense. The Long Beach public market in the center of the city at Lincoln Park, under municipal supervision, is the light housekeeper's delight. Here she (or he) meets the producer face to face on the public street and may get the freshest and best of everything that grows without half a dozen middlemen's profits. Incidentally, you meet your old friends from back home doing the same.

Rooms or apartments of any size or class may now be had in Long Beach as cheap or cheaper than the corresponding accommodations anywhere in the country. Large, airy rooms within one block of the ocean front close in on beautiful Ocean boulevard, comfortably furnished, rent for a dollar per day and up with connecting bath. Furnished apartments, suitable for four or five persons in the most desirable locations, on ocean front, handsomely furnished with disappearing beds, closets, etc., may be had for from $55 to $75 per month. Within one or two blocks, comfortable double apartments may be had for $35 to $50 per month, and single apartments at $25 to $30 per month. Bungalow courts range from $25 to $75 per month, according to class and location, etc. Four, five and six room houses, furnished, are available at $30 to $100 per month, according to location. Family beach cottages, furnished, rent for $2 per day or $20 to $25 per month.

Auto courts, unfurnished, $5 per week; furnished, with two beds, light, gas, water, linen and laundering, $7.50 per week. Auto camp grounds charge 50c per day—$3 per week—no time limit—water, gas, electricity, rest rooms, shower baths, telephone, shade trees, laundry and community kitchen. Tent houses rent for 75c per day—$4 per week—open all year.

However, Mr. Middle Class may better buy a home of his own than pay rent. In a community where values are constantly increasing, he is not likely to make a mistake. The records of some of these increases are astonishing. There are records of fifty-foot lots bought a few years ago on beautiful Ocean boulevard for $400 which, today, are worth from $2,000 to $3,000 per front foot. In many parts of Long Beach, land that sold for a few hundred dollars per acre is now sold for hundreds of dollars per front foot. Desirable family homes can be bought as low as $3,200 with a modest payment down. These are usually financed so that the balance is paid in small monthly payments.

The atmosphere is full of opportunities to invest in real estate, many of which will no doubt prove profitable. Mr. Middle Class may spend weeks looking over these realty bargains with no expense as the guest of the various promoters, who provide comfortable transportation and usually a hot lunch. Many of these excursions take the whole day, and some of them include a boat trip.

Industrially, Long Beach is "stepping out" and making every reasonable inducement to industries of every kind, stressing the wonderful natural resources such as oil, wonderful climate, harbor, rail and highway transportation, etc. Mr. Middle Class is especially interested in these developments as offering a means to "make ends meet," if he failed to do so before coming here. Unfortunately, Long Beach has not developed to such an extent where there is a job awaiting everyone who wants to come here. Those who contemplate coming should have some resources or a definite job in view.

Many large interests have very substantially set their stamp of approval on Long Beach. An auto manufacturing industry has acquired 140 acres in Long Beach Harbor and its $5,000,000 plant has been completed and will be ready for operation April 15. The plant will actually employ 2,000 people, all of whom will earn high wages, and will take care of production for the entire southwest territory of the United States, the west coast of South America and the Orient. A $30,000,000 steam electric power plant, producing 288,000 h.p., is located in Long Beach Harbor. A nationally known soap manufacturing concern also will soon erect a $5,000,000 plant in Long Beach Harbor. There are some 300 industrial plants, employing more than 15,000 with an aggregate payroll of $2,000,000 monthly, and representing a total investment of approximately $95,000,000, located in Long Beach.

The same factors that appeal to big industries, also interest the average householder, particularly the municipally owned water and gas plants, which supply these necessities to householders at the remarkably low figures of 75c per month minimum, and 15c per hundred cubic feet for water and 50c per thousand cubic feet for gas. Electricity is supplied at correspondingly cheap rates.

In the matter of educational facilities, Long Beach ranks very high. Californians, as a whole, are powerful believers in education and are unusually generous in providing buildings, teachers, books, machine shops, athletic equipment and facilities of every sort—even pencils and scratch paper. There are thirty-five elementary schools, five junior high schools, two high schools and one junior college, and an enrollment of over 29,514 students and over 1,000 teachers. In addition to the regular high school course, a wide variety of vocational courses are given, including all branches of commerce, mechanical arts, home economics, bookkeeping, banking, typewriting, shorthand, commercial law, foreign trade, printing, machine shop, auto shop, forge, sheet metal, wood shop, electrical shop, dress-making, millinery, foods, home management and nursing. Also, courses in art, public speaking, dramatics and music are given. A total of 675 students graduated from Long Beach high school in 1926. There are five junior high schools devoted to the seventh, eighth and ninth grades, with a total enrollment of 5,782 pupils and 250 teachers.

As for pleasure or recreation, Mr. Middle Class has the whole catalogue from which to choose. The municipal band concerts every afternoon and evening (except Mondays) are absolutely free. This band is the pride and joy of Long Beach, and music critics proclaim it one of the best in America.

The city parks have facilities for roque, tennis, bowling, horseshoe pitching, two golf courses in Recreation Park, all of which are waiting for Mr. Middle Class to step in and enjoy himself to his heart's content.

Fishing, as a sport, a pleasure, diversion, amusement, business or labor may be enjoyed at nominal expense or profit at any time of the year. Of this list, Mr. Middle Class would probably be most interested in the pleasure or diversion kind. To meet this demand, four giant barges are anchored a few miles off Long Beach's shore. These barges are fitted with restaurants, lunch counters and rest rooms. Tackle is available to those who failed previously to secure their own. Seated at ease on these big barges, the fisherman drops his line down among what is literally acres of big mackerel and barracuda. Light tackle enthusiasts get an especial thrill from this, for there is no gamier fighter for its size on every light tackle than the mackerel, which, like the albacore, is a little cousin of the tuna, and whereas the albacore ranges from fifteen to fifty pounds, the mackerel on this part of the coast will range from one to five pounds.

The snrf bathing in Long Beach, where the average temperature of the water is 64 to 70 degrees, is one of the great delights of the tourist. With a gently sloping beach of white sand and an efficient lifeguard crew on duty from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. every day in the year to protect the amateur and those who take unnecessary chances while bathing in the ocean, surf bathing here is not only a delight, but a safe pleasure.

Alamitos Bay, with seven miles of inland lagoons in the city limits, affords still and warm water for bathing, yachting, motor boating, etc.

On Monday night of each week, there is provided a free concert program, followed by old-fashioned dances, in the Municipal Auditorium.

Religious adherents of any faith may find a church home among the three-score organizations devoted to spiritual activities, including the Y.M.C.A., the Y.W.C.A., or the largest Bible Class in the world of men meeting Sundays in the Auditorium.

Long Beach is a good place in which to live, even if it is a "Vestibule to Heaven."

TIME WELL SPENT, SEWING.

Grand President Esther R. Sullivan paid an official visit to Long Beach Parlor No. 154 and Rudecinda Parlor No. 230 N.D.G.W. March 6. At 6:30 she was welcomed by the members of both Parlors at a banquet at the Pacific Coast Club, Long Beach. The tables were artistically decorated in pastel shades.

Other honored guests were Past Grand Presidents Emma Lou Humphrey and Grace S. Stoermer, District Deputies Rosalie Hyde, Eunice Fox and Kate McFadyen, and Florence Dodson-Schoneman, chairman Grand Parlor History and Landmarks Committee. After the supper all motored to San Pedro, where the joint meeting was held. (An account of the meeting will be found in the San Pedro section of this issue of The Grizzly Bear.)

The thimble club of Long Beach Parlor was entertained at the home of Mrs. Edith Dancer February 27. Mms. Minnie Sauder and Alice Waldow were hostesses at K. P. Hall March 13; the time was well spent in sewing. Mrs. Marie McFadyen-Monroe, a member of the Parlor residing at Pendleton, Oregon, is the proud mother of a baby boy, the second, born February 28 and named James Lewis.

FAVORS BEAUTIFICATION.

Long Beach Parlor No. 239 N.S.G.W. has approved the suggestion that the Municipal Auditorium be beautified with historical art work. Long Beach Parlor No. 154 N.D.G.W. had previously given its approval.

"NORMAL OR BETTER" YEAR

George H. White

(SAN DIEGO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.)

USING CONSTRUCTION AS A BAROMETER of prosperity, this is another "normal or better" year in San Diego. From agencies of construction, public, utility and private, data collected gives conservative estimate of not less than $30,000,000 and probably $40,000,000 worth of construction.

San Diego's municipal program as to public work construction during 1930 entails expenditure of approximately $7,000,000, Mayor Harry J. Clark reports in the following statement:

"For improvement of streets, water extensions and sewers, approximate expenditures of $4,658,000. Our impounding department will expend during this period the greater part of the water bond issue voted last July, amounting to $2,100,000. The harbor department will expend about $100,000 on extension of the municipal pier at the foot of Broadway, and approximately $160,000 on completion of the work outlined for the municipal airport, Lindbergh Field. This will make a total contemplated expenditure of about $7,000,000. Paving remains the largest item in the work outlined in this city, already recognized leader in the matter of paved streets and boulevards. The past few years have added much to the popular demand continues for 1930 in amount of 10,738,000 square feet."

A survey of building construction and plans or such indicates an increase for 1930 over 1929. An interesting coincidence is seen in the report of S. V. Straus & Company that a shortage of apartment houses, flats and hotels exists in 33 percent of the Pacific Coast cities and in a report of purchase of a block of ground for a limit-height hotel in San Diego. The ground, 100x300 feet, is bounded by Fifth, Sixth, Elm and Fir streets. Not far away the San Diego Elks Lodge is constructing a new home at a cost of $400,000. Building permits last year were $11,83,738.

Federal expenditures for improvements may be the normal average of $1,000,000, but probably $2,000,000, and possibly several millions more. The naval public works office contracts an average of $1,000,000 annually, and there are numerous recommendations for the various naval establishments in 1930, including more than a million for the marine base. Harbor improvements, at an estimated cost of $756,000, are regarded probable, as also is a new customs establishment at San Ysidro to cost $195,000. A possibility is the establishment of a naval dirigible base at Camp Kearney, for which the Federal Congress is asked to appropriate $4,000,000.

An important factor in maintaining employment and circulation of money for wages, materials and supplies continues in the building program of the San Diego Board of Education. This will be completed during the year, having been started in 1928. Indications are that a successive program will soon have to be formulated, and would depend upon a new bond issue being authorized. An expenditure of approximately $550,000 is involved in completing the construction program now under way.

State construction in San Diego County at this time involves expenditure of about $1,500,000, and when the fiscal clock turns again in July more contracts are anticipated. The San Diego State College and highway improvements are the principal projects in progress.

Approximately $500,000 will be expended on the new San Diego State College this year in the program of building that is estimated to run to $1,000,000 probably next year and require $3,000,000 to finish. County expenditures outside of usual operation and maintenance are allotted chiefly to road construction for the half-year. New projects may be authorized in July or later in the year, and more than $400,000 is allotted to the work now in progress. About fifty-nine miles of highway is being improved or added to the county system by the work in progress.

Among public utilities, the continued growth of San Diego is reflected particularly in expansions by the gas and electric company and the telephone company. Construction involved in the expansions of these companies during the year will cost $4,200,000, or more.

The telephone company extensions provide for 2,500 more telephones, the approximate annual increase in service demand. The gas and electric company, besides extensions in the city, is reaching farther about the county and installed a 33,000-volt line to the Mexican border for additional current to be distributed as far as Ensenada. The telephone company has just completed a spacious addition to its main San Diego building and erected a new office building in the suburb of La Jolla, and the gas and electric company is constructing a four-story building of 10,000 square foot ground area.

MISSION RESTORATION SOON TO START.

Restoration of Mission San Diego de Alcalá, founded July 16, 1769, will start shortly after Easter, it is predicted, as most of the required $60,000 has been pledged. Albert V. Mayrhofer, Deputy Grand President of the Native Sons and chairman of the mission restoration committee, in making the prediction said:

"This is one fund in which there is no promotion or campaign expense. Every cent given to the fund will be used for the restoration of the mission, San Diego's picturesque link with the days of the padres. This fact should appeal to those who want to see their contributions go into the mission and not into overhead expenses.

"Some said it would be impossible to raise the restoration fund without campaign expenses. Well, it has been done so far, and more than $50,000 in cash and pledges have been obtained. The restoration movement has attracted support from persons and organizations with widely di-

AGAINST STATE FLAG CHANGE.

San Diego Parlor No. 108 N.S.G.W. has adopted a resolution, signed by President Fred Kaland, Secretary A. V. Mayrhofer, E. H. Dowell, Thomas J. Tighe, H. P. Stelling and Ed. L. Head, protesting against any change in the design of the California State (Bear) Flag and voicing opposition to any individual or group attempting to bring about any such change.

The Parlor has lost by death two of its prominent members: March 11, A. Parker Johnson Jr., who was born at San Francisco in 1866 and in 1877 became closely identified with the development of San Diego; a wife and three children survive. March 16, Samuel Schiller, a charter member of the Parlor, who was born in San Diego in 1868; a wife survives.

N.D. GRAND PRESIDENT VISITS.

Grand President Esther S. Sullivan, accompanied by her mother and Past Grand Presidents Emma W. Humphrey and Grace S. Stoermer, arrived in San Diego March 8 and in the evening Miss Sullivan paid an official visit to San Diego Parlor No. 208 N.D.G.W. Other visitors, in addition to the above, were Supervising Deputy Rozina Hertzbrun, District Deputy Nellie M. Cline and Florence Dodson-Schoneman, chairman Grand Parlor History and Landmarks Committee.

A beautifully appointed banquet, with decorations in pastel shades, preceded the meeting. Miss Martha Klindt was in charge of this feature of the occasion. At the meeting of the Parlor two candidates were initiated, and on the Parlor's behalf Past President Irma Heilbron presented gifts to Grand President Sullivan, Supervising Deputy Hertzbrun and District Deputy Cline.

At the conclusion of the meeting light refreshments were served and Helen Hill, accompanied by Gertrude Farwell, favored with violin selections. Secretary Albert V. Mayrhofer of San Diego Parlor No. 108 N.S.G.W. addressed the assemblage and told of the progress being made toward restoration of San Diego Mission.

A. P. JOHNSON JR.

The Officers and Members of San Diego Parlor No. 108 Native Sons of the Golden West, in regular meeting assembled, do resolve that: Whereas, in the divine wisdom of our Heavenly Father, He has removed from our midst and associations our highly esteemed and beloved brother, A. P. Johnson Jr.; and whereas, it is fitting that his brother Native Sons should join in the expression of appreciation of those qualities of mind and character which made his life an inspiration and cause us to hold his memory in affectionate veneration.

Brother A. P. Johnson Jr. was a member of long standing in this Order; his life was devoted to the cardinal principles of Friendship, Loyalty and Charity; he was a leader in civic affairs in this community, whose kindly advice and noble character inspired and endeared him to all of those who knew him. And whereas, in his passing San Diego Parlor No. 108 Native Sons of the Golden West has lost a faithful, esteemed and loyal brother.

Now therefore, San Diego Parlor No. 108 Native Sons of the Golden West extends to the family of our departed brother our heartfelt sympathy and sorrow, and we further resolve that a copy of these resolutions be spread in full upon the minutes of this meeting, that a copy suitably engrossed be sent to the family of our departed brother, that a copy be furnished the press, and that a copy be mailed to The Grizzly Bear, our official magazine, for publication.

A. V. MAYRHOFFER,
Committee.

San Diego, March 19, 1930.

SAM SCHILLER.

To the Worthy President, Officers and Members of San Diego Parlor No. 108 N.S.G.W.—Your committee on resolutions relating to our late brother, Sam Schiller, begs leave to submit the following:

Death has again entered our midst and taken from us our beloved brother, Sam Schiller, who took a deep interest in our Parlor, and who for many years has been a faithful member of the Native Sons of the Golden West. He was a charter member, a past president and the former financial secretary of San Diego Parlor No. 108 N.S.G.W. The ties which bound him to us have been severed, and his liberated spirit has winged its flight to the Grand Parlor on High. In his death, we have lost a brother who had, by his pleasant smile, his genial disposition and his unselfish friendship, endeared himself to us all. In the death of Brother Sam Schiller, San Diego has lost a most worthy citizen and our Order a most zealous and faithful member. Therefore, be it

OAKLAND GRAND PARLOR

AS HEAD OF THE HALL, OR LOBBY, unit of the Native Daughter Home, 555 Baker street, San Francisco, I am happy to tell you of the beauties contained therein: On entering we find very handsome iron gates, the gift of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West. Within these portals, on either side, are panels of hand-painted tiles artistically arranged, the gift of the writer. Our way is lighted by a handsome bronze lantern, the gift of members of Alta No. 3 (San Francisco).

"We are admitted to a very spacious lobby furnished with suitable furniture and gifts from the following donors: stone mantel, Miss Mahle Phillips of Alta Parlor in memory of her father and mother; a handsome mirror from our Grand Marshal, Mrs. Evelyn I. Carlson; pictures, the gifts of Mrs. Amy McAvoy, Past Grand President, Mrs. Estelle Evans, Grand Vice-President, and Mrs. Emma Sanders of La Dorado No. 236 (San Francisco). Our Flag holds an important position, its beautiful colors ever reminding us of our duties to our State and Order. Hardwood floors, covered with rugs suitably arranged, all help to make those who enter feel the home warmth and comfort enjoyed therein.

"Permit me to take you in our elevator to the second floor, where we are met with beauty on all sides. To the right is our lounge, to the left a spacious dining-hall, and directly before us the court garden, the joy of all who come in contact with it. Much credit is due Mrs. Minnie Dohbins for this beautiful spot, which she has had for her particular charge. The hardwood floor of this lobby is covered with a handsome rug, there are comfortable chairs to rest the weary, a pretty picture donated by our Grand Inside Sentinel, Mrs. Edna Briggs, decorates the wall, and our light shines forth from a wonderful crystal chandelier, the gift of our esteemed lately deceased Past Grand President, Mrs. Ema Gett,

OAKLAND, ALAMEDA COUNTY, WILL be the setting for the Forty-fourth Grand Parlor of the Order of Native Daughters of the Golden West, which will be in session there the week of June 16. Grand President Esther R. Sullivan (Marysville No. 162) of Marysville will preside over the Grand Parlor deliberations, and at the session's close will automatically become the Past Grand President.

To the Board of Grand Officers has been delegated authority to arrange the details of the Oakland gathering, and rumor has it that an exceptionally good program, including several addresses of an educational nature, will be presented for the enlightenment and enjoyment of the Grand Parlor attendants.

There are several "rumored" candidates for the various Grand Parlor offices, and The Grizzly Bear has sought definite information from each regarding her intentions. To date, responses received make possible the presentation of the following information:

For Grand President—Grand First Vice-president Estelle Evans (Antioch No. 223) of Pittsburgh.

casting its rays in the way she would have us directed.

"The next two floors are the regulation hall that one might expect for the houboir floor, suitably furnished and comfortable in every respect.

"I hope I have given you, in a small way, a description of this unit, that you may feel at home when you visit, and that you may be proud to call this home, in every sense of the word, and that when you are urged to help with your Loyalty Pledge you will give with a will."—MARY E. BELL, Past Grand President.

Listen In, April 12.

San Jose—Supervising Deputy Clara A. Gairaud will broadcast a program featuring the Grand Parlor Publicity and Loyalty Pledge Committees over KQW, San Jose, April 12 at 7:30 p.m. Three-minute talks will be given by John Burnett (San Jose No. 22 N.S.G.W.), great-grandson of California's first governor, Peter H. Burnett; Past Grand President Dr. Louise C. Heilbron, chairman Loyalty Pledge Committee, and Past Grand President Bertha A. Briggs, chairman Publicity Committee. The balance of the hour will be given over to a program of music, selected by Mrs. Gairaud, from the various Parlors in the district. All Natives are requested to listen in.

Cements Friendship.

Santa Ana—Grand President Esther R. Sullivan paid an official visit to Santa Ana No. 235 and Grace No. 242 (Fullerton) in joint session here March 10. The meeting was preceded by an informal reception and dinner. Mrs. Walter Hiskey and Mrs. Lucana McFadden, presidents of the respective Parlors, greeted the arrivals and presented them to the honor-guest, and her mother, Mrs. Catherine Sullivan, who accompanied the Grand President on her tour of the Parlors of the south. A wealth of Orange County's choicest spring blossoms decorated the meeting-hall and the banquet table.

The ritual was exemplified by the officers of Grace Parlor, two candidates being initiated. Miss Sullivan complimented the work of the Parlors, and declared that "Such joint meetings as this delightful one do much to cement the friendship with which we may obtain our aims." Other visitors and speakers of the evening were: Past Grand Presidents Emma W. Humphrey and Grace S. Stoermer; District Deputies Nellie M. Cline and Kate McFadyen; Mrs. Florence Dodson-Schoneman, chairman Grand Parlor History and Landmarks Committee; Mrs. Bertha Hitt, organizer of Santa Ana Parlor; Mrs. Annie L. Adair, secretary Los Angeles-Orange Counties homeless children committee.

Mrs. Walter Hiskey, Olive Seba and Raymond Crum entertained at a delightful card party at the Hiskey home February 27. Yellow was the

Some of the prospectives are studying the office-seekers' situation before making up their minds, others have stated definitely that they will not be candidates, and others, not yet assured of selection as delegates to the Grand Parlor, are not in a position to make their intentions known. color scheme employed in the decoration of the rooms, and it was also carried out in the delicious refreshments.

Arbor Day Tree Planting.

Grass Valley—Manzanita No. 29 celebrated Arbor Day by planting a tree at the high-school grounds. The ceremony was featured with orchestral numbers by the school orchestra, led by Miss Nettie Packer. President Gladys Beretta dedicated the tree, there were remarks by the principal of the school, the president of the board of education and Mrs. Margaret Nolan, readings by Mrs. Ona Hansen, Mrs. Edna Sampson and Past Grand President Allison F. Watt, and a vocal solo by Mrs. L. V. Dorsey.

Mrs. Louise Wales was chairman of the Arbor Day committee. This is the third tree planted by the Parlor at the Grass Valley high-school grounds.

Spring Flowers for Decorations.

Lodi—Grand President Esther R. Sullivan officially visited Ivy No. 88, the meeting being largely attended. Among the visitors were Grand Trustees Sadie W. Brainard and May F. Givens.

Past Grand Presidents Mamie G. Peyton and Mattie Stein, District Deputy Audrey O'Leary, and delegations from neighboring Parlors.

The meeting-room was decorated with spring flowers and pussywillows, and decorations appropriate to Washington's Birthday were used in the banquet-hall, where refreshments were served after the meeting. President Eva Myers presided, and a program was presented by Mrs. Harold Wells, Ada Lois Myers and Dorothy Palmtree. Supper, at which the visiting grand officers were honor-guests, preceded the meeting.

Birthday Celebrated.

Oakland—Piedmont No. 87 celebrated its thirty-fourth institution anniversary with a banquet in charge of Miss Helen Ring. The tables were beautifully decorated with red roses and bouquets. Guests of honor included Past Grand Presidents Dr. Marjane Bertolin, who instituted the Parlor, Addie L. Mosher and Sue J. Irwin, District Deputy Edna Gade, President Pauline Griswold, Past President Alice Weber and the eight remaining charter members. Dr. Bertolin's interesting talk on the Native Daughter Home was thoroughly enjoyed. Cards and games concluded the evening.

Piedmont's very active president, Miss Pauline Griswold, has planned many events for her term, one being a rummage sale, also a joint dinner-dance with Piedmont No. 120 N.S.G.W. some time in May, the proceeds to defray the Parlor's expenses at the Admission Day celebration proposed for Los Angeles in 1931. Mrs. Edna Healey will have charge of the affair.

History Talk Enthusies.

Bakersfield—Grand President Esther R. Sullivan officially visited El Tejon No. 239 March 1, and following the initiation of five candidates complimented the Parlor on its work. President Ona Moffett presided. Spring flowers and fruit blossoms decorated the meeting-place and the banquet-hall. Miss Margaret Stampler, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Gloanah Ball Behan, delighted with vocal selections.

Miss Sullivan's address on early California history was heard with enthusiasm. Past Grand President Emma W. Humphrey, the first executive in charge of the Order's child welfare work, spoke of the efforts being put forth in behalf of the homeless children. Among the many in attendance were Grand Trustee May F. Givens, District Deputies Minnie B. Heath and Alvira Soares, and visitors from Miocene (Taft), Fresno and Madera Parlors. Mms. J. H. Hampson and Ralph Hinderliter had charge of the evening's arrangements.

President Instructs in Gymnastics.

Stockton—Caliz de Oro No. 206 had a record attendance at its annual Shrove Tuesday whist party, which was in every way a success. Christine Neeley headed the arrangements committee.

Grand Trustee May F. Givens was a guest at a recent meeting, which concluded with a class in gymnastics and folk dancing conducted by President Grace Goins. Delicious refreshments were served by the hospitality committee: Helen Richards (chairman), Henrietta Quivillon, Ida Stuart and Christine Neeley.

Very Much of a Surprise Party.

San Luis Obispo—One of the most interesting meetings in the history of San Luisita No. 108 was the official visit of Grand President Esther R. Sullivan, who was accompanied by Past Grand President Emma W. Humphrey. Miss Sullivan, thoroughly versed in California, gave a most interesting and instructive talk. Twenty years had elapsed since Mrs. Humphrey paid her official visit to the Parlor, and her reminiscences were much enjoyed; incidentally, this was the first time a Past Grand President ever visited San Luisita.

When good of the order was reached, Marshal Anna Schlicht was excused, but returned shortly with a small car, decorated in flags, driven by a grizzly bear, and containing a beautiful three-tier poundcake decorated with thirty-three candles. This was the thirty-third institution anniversary of the Parlor, and very much of a surprise party. At the supper table, after the meeting, the birthday cake was cut.

Three charter members were in attendance—Trustee Callie M. John, Anna Kluner and Recording Secretary Agnes M. Lee. Also visitors from El Pinal No. 163 (Cambria) and Dardanelle No. 66 (Sonora). One candidate was initiated during the evening.

bride of Emile Lechot, affiliated with Alameda No. 47 N.S.G.W., was given a shower at the home of Misses Lucille and Ruth Toussaint.

Members of the Parlor's drum corps presented Miss Williges with an electric waffle iron and she was the recipient of many other useful gifts. A large number were in attendance and a very delightful evening was enjoyed.

History Will Inspire.

San Bernardino—Recounting the history of California, Grand President Esther R. Sullivan urged the members of Lugonia No. 241, which she officially visited March 12, to familiarize themselves with that history and to draw upon it for inspiration. Miss Sullivan also spoke of the various projects of the Order and commended the Parlor for its civic endeavors. Other speakers were: Mrs. Florence Dodson-Schone-man, founder of Lugonia; Past Grand President Emma W. Humphrey, who told of the homeless children work; District Deputy Helen Anderson, who extended the Parlor's greetings to the Grand President. Three candidates were initiated.

Preceding the meeting there was a dinner at which President Lois Poling presided. Lois Aldridge Johnson, accompanied by Olive Easton, rendered a group of songs, and a toast, written by Miss Clara Barton and complimenting the Grand President, was read by President Poling. Decorations for the evening, in keeping with the Saint Patrick's motif, were arranged by Mrs. Gladys Case Baker and Henrietta Harris.

Past Presidents Choose Delegates.

Oakland—March 10, Past Presidents Association No. 2 elected the following delegates to the General Assembly, which meets April 26 at the Native Daughter Home in San Francisco: Annie Hofmeister, Louise Swartout, May Ward, Emily Lawson, Helen Cleu, Ethel Scheuer. A program was presented by Winifred Buckingham, Ethel Scheuer, Jennie Brown and May Ward. At tables decorated in keeping with Saint Patrick's Day refreshments were served. Honored guests were those members of the association whose birthdays are in March.

At a recent meeting six candidates were initiated, and refreshments were served by Christine Bartlett, chairwoman of the evening.

Home Room Dedicated.

San Jose—Vendome No. 100 and San Jose No. 81 had joint Arbor Day exercises March 11 at the new grounds of the San Jose Woman's Club, presenting and planting shrubs as gifts to the club. Speakers included John Burnett, Joseph Ganong, Don Richards, Past Grand President Mamie Pierce Carraichael, President Myrtle Bevins of No. 81, Alice Roll and May B. Barker. A country store card party sponsored by No. 100, March 12 brought out a large crowd; Miss Sadie Jefferson and Mrs. Clara Gairaud were hostesses. PRACTICE RECIPROcity BY ALWAYS PATRONIZING GRIZZLY BEAR ADVERTISERS

Early in March Vendome dedicated a room at the Native Daughter Home, San Francisco, in honor of Miss Thille Brohaska, organizer of the Parlor. Past Grand Presidents Genevieve Baker and Maule Carmichael, and Mrs. Stella Baggs and Nonie Lako were the speakers, and Mrs. Gertrude Mathers and Clara Gairaud rendered vocal selections. Community singing was a pleasing feature. The American Legion Auxiliary's radio club, with Mrs. Rose Baker as chief announcer, put on a program for the Parlor March 12. Dutch whist and Saint Patrick refreshments closed the evening. Miss Martha Waddington, general chairman, was assisted by Mrs. Alice Roll.

Vendome's hundred-dollar party will be a large spring event terminating a monster evening card party. A general invitation is extended everyone to attend. Mrs. Clara Gairaud, the chairman, is being assisted by Mrs. Sadie Howell and Hazel Haul.

In Memoriam

NELL ARNOLD-WALSH.

To the Officers and Members of Santa Ana Parlor No. 235 Native Daughters of the Golden West—We, your committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect in memory of our late sister, Nell Arnold-Walsh, do submit the following:

Again, the Angel of Death has visited the ranks of Santa Ana Parlor No. 235 and taken a member from our midst; again, we bow to the will of our Father in Heaven and offer a silent prayer in memory of our beloved sister, and tenderly condole with her bereaved dear ones in their hour of trial and bereavement, asking our loving Father to guide her little ones and lighten their sorrow; we pray that God will comfort the bereaved husband, who has lost a loving companion.

Resolved, That our charter be draped in mourning in due respect for our late sister, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes and a copy sent to the bereaved husband and children, and that a copy be sent to The Grizzly Bear Magazine for publication.

Whereas, The summons that awaits all mortals has deprived our Parlor of one of its esteemed and loyal members, Sister Henrietta M. Dobbel, whose sincere friendship and devotion to her Parlor endeared her to her sister members; therefore, be it

Resolved, That her family have our deepest sympathy, and it is our prayer that they may find consolation in the fond memories that will ever live in their hearts and ours of her love and kindness to all; in our Parlor there will be a vacant chair, but in that Heavenly Parlor on High she will sit at God's right hand awaiting the coming of those whom she loved, and if the power be granted her she will greet each one with the same glad handclasp and cheery word that were recorded there in her own Parlor and home; resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to her bereaved family, that a copy of the resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this meeting, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to The Grizzly Bear for publication.

Native Sons of the Golden West

THE ORDER OF NATIVE SONS OF THE Golden West lost one of its most faithful and valued members—a laborer in the ranks—when Edward Henry Kraus, long indentified with Sacramento No. 3 and a delegate from that Parlor to numerous Grand Parlors, passed on March 3 at his home in the Capital City. “Ed” rarely missed a meeting of the Parlor, was always most active in promoting its welfare, and would, if necessary, have sacrificed all his earthly possessions for the Order’s well-being. The Native Sons Building in Sacramento stands as a monument to his never-failing energy and fidelity. Friendship, Loyalty and Charity guided his life-course of nearly seventy-two years; and his native state, California, and the Order he loved so devotedly profited from his being.—C.M.H.

At a meeting of the Native Sons Hall Association of Sacramento March 3, the following resolution, presented by Secretary Percy G. West, was unanimously adopted:

“Whereas, It is with profound sorrow that we learned of the death today of our beloved and esteemed president, Ed. H. Kraus, who, since the inception of this association, has guided its destinies—a true and loyal member of the Native Sons for nearly half a century; therefore, be it

“Resolved, That we extend to the family of our late Brother Kraus our sincere sympathy, and that when we adjourn this meeting tonight we do so out of respect to his memory; and be it further

“Resolved, That this resolution be spread upon the minutes of this meeting, and that a copy thereof be sent to the family of our late brother.”

Drum and Bugle Corps Praised.

San Rafael—About 100 members of South San Francisco No. 157 journeyed to San Rafael Saint Patrick’s night to pay a fraternal visit to Mount Tamalpais No. 64. The visitors were met at the union depot and, led by the Parlor’s drum and bugle corps, paraded through the business section to the hall, where Al McKnew (San Francisco No. 49) presided at the festivities. The visitors were welcomed by President Frank Kelly, the only officer of No. 64 of Irish origin. Among the other speakers were Grand President Charles L. Dodge, Past Grand President James A. Wilson, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Treasurer Frank M. Buckley, Grand Second Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez, Grand Trustee Charles A. Koenig and Past Grand President Dr. Charles W. Decker who, during his term as Grand President, instituted Mount Tamalpais in July, 1885. The only charter member present was George Agnew.

Dr. Decker, in spirit one of the Order’s youngest members, recalled the stirring times of forty-five years ago, when Frank M. Angellotti, former chief justice of the California Supreme Court, was his district deputy, and Mervyn Donohoe entertained with lavish hospitality. A most enjoyable program was rendered. H. R. (Jack) Cole sang several Irish ballads in a rich tenor voice. Ed. Keefe of South City sang a number of rollicking Irish songs, among which was “The Hat Me Father Wore.” “Nifty” Hyland sang “The Cockeyed Butcher” and other amusing ditties, Carl Prignitz rendered accordion solos and No. 157’s entertainment committee chairman, Al Dornell, rendered a number of vocal selections. South City’s inimitable female impersonator gave an oriental dance. Grand Trustee Koenig remarked he had noticed that the Irish ate the salami, and that the Germans and the Italians enjoyed the corned-beef and cabbage immensely.

A feature of the program was the ceremony of awarding service stripes and chevrons to members of the drum and bugle corps. All the speakers spoke in terms of the highest praise of the corps and of its capable instructor, Harry R. DeGregory, who takes a pardonable pride in the success of the organization. But two years in existence, the corps has captured several prizes and has attracted much favorable comment by its splendid discipline and the remarkable interest of its members in perfecting themselves in their work and in helping the cause of Native Sonism. The gathering was declared one of the greatest social successes in the history of Mount Tamalpais.

Birthday Party Draws Big Crowd.

Stockton—The forty-ninth institution anniversary party of Stockton No. 7 March 10 was largely attended by members, and visitors from Sacramento, Courtland, Tracy, Modesto, Ione and San Francisco. Law T. Freitas was chairman of the evening.

George F. McNoble sketched the history of the Parlor, and Grand President Charles L. Dodge delivered a short address. Others in attendance were Grand Second Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Trustees Frank M. Lane and Irving D. Gibson, Past Grand President Clarence E. Jarvis.

During the evening the several stations were filled by the following old-timers: Frank E. Lane, charter member, who presided; C. E. Manthey, Charles Lieginger, C. W. Oser, F. J. Yost, C. P. Rendon, T. J. Burke and R. L. Kitching.

Joint Initiation.

Eureka—At a joint meeting of Humboldt No. 14, Arcata No. 20 and Ferndale No. 93 here

February 24 a class of eleven candidates were initiated. An Italian supper preceded the ceremonies. Grand Trustee A. W. Garcelon was the main speaker of the evening, R. A. Grinsell gave several vocal selections, and Ed. Quinn and Frank Falor entertained with stunts.

Humboldt Parlor voted to sponsor Troop No. 1, Boy Scouts of America, with Harvey D. Praether as scoutmaster. Reorganization of the Humboldt County Native Sons Baseball League was discussed, and will probably be brought about.

The Parlors will have another joint initiation in April, and at that time Grand President Charles L. Dodge will be in attendance.

Fifty-second Anniversary.

Sacramento—Sacramento No. 3 celebrated its fifty-second institution anniversary with a supper at which Walter J. Hicks was the toastmaster. Among the speakers was Past Grand President Hilliard E. Welch. Following the feast past presidents of the Parlor conducted a lively meeting. It was a big family birthday party, and many of the “old boys” were on hand to renew long-standing friendships and to swap reminiscences. The arrangements committee included Robert Younger, June Longshore, Herb Drennon, Gardner Pressey and Thomas McAuliffe.

Coming events: Hard-times dance at Courtland, April 5, under the auspices of Courtland No. 106; the menu, pork and beans. Annual dinner dance, April 26; Dr. H. H. Wilson, chairman. Annual outdoor gathering Sacramento and San Joaquin Counties Parlors, April 27; a special feature will be the planting of a memorial grove of trees. All Natives are welcome to these affairs.

The Parlor has a membership committee, headed by H. B. Wittpen, at work, and candidates are being initiated monthly by the officers, with Grand Trustee Irving D. Gibson, the president, presiding. The whist tournament sponsored by the entertainment committee, Joseph Helling, chairman, proved a success and increased attendance.

School Dedicated.

Oakview—In the presence of about 400 people, the grand officers dedicated the Oakview union grammar-school in San Joaquin County. A program of speaking and musical numbers was enjoyed, among the speakers being Grand President Charles L. Dodge; E. B. McOrmond, school board trustee; Harry Bessac, superintendent San Joaquin County schools; Past Grand President Judge Charles A. Thompson.

Participating in the dedicatory ceremonies were: Grand President Dodge, Past Grand President Thompson, Grand Second Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez, Grand Third Vice-president Seth Millington, Grand Secretary John T. Regan and Grand Trustee J. Hartley Russell.

Victory!

San Bernardino—About two months ago Arrowhead No. 110 decided to inaugurate a campaign to increase its membership to 551, and thus entitle it to an additional Grand Parlor delegate. The drive was placed in charge of Judge Donald E. VanLaven, junior past president, and President George J. McDonald.

March 19 was victory night at Arrowhead, thirty candidates being initiated, bringing the Parlor’s membership to 554. Two hundred members were on hand to welcome the initiates, and all enjoyed one of No. 110’s famous suppers preceding the ritual ceremonies.

Supervisor John Anderson Jr. directed the good of the order portion of the victory celebration. Grand First Vice-president John T. Newell complimented Arrowhead on its achievements, and Grand Trustee Ben Harrison welcomed the new members on behalf of the Parlor. A program of musical numbers was presented under the direction of Leslie D. Case.

In the Sacramento exhibit at the National Orange Show was a copy of a plaque bearing a likeness of General John A. Sutter. The original was made a half-century ago by a blacksmith. At the close of the show the copy was presented to Arrowhead, the presentation being made by the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce through George J. McDonald, president of the Parlor.

Emblem Presented First Secretary.

Santa Rosa—Members from Marin, Napa and Sonoma Counties were out in force March 20 to celebrate the forty-sixth institution anniversary of Santa Rosa No. 28. There was a parade, headed by the drum corps of Napa No. 62, followed by the grand officers and the charter members of the Parlor; then came the drum and bugle corps of Mount Tamalpais No. 64, followed by 200 members of the Parlors represented at the gathering.

At the meeting which followed, the candidacy of Emmett Seawell, justice of the California Supreme Court and a charter member of No. 28, for the office of Grand Third Vice-president at the Merced Grand Parlor was formally announced. Eleven candidates were initiated, the initiatory work being in charge of the ritual team of Napa Parlor. Grand President Charles L. Dodge congratulated Santa Rosa Parlor on its anniversary, and there were addresses by Grand Trustees Harmon D. Skillin and J. Hartley Russell. The latter, on behalf of No. 28, presented Justice Seawell with an emblematic ring in appreciation for his services as the first secretary and as president of the Parlor.

An elaborate feast was enjoyed after the meeting. Justice Seawell was the toastmaster, and among the many speakers were Grand President Dodge, Junior Past Grand President James A. Wilson, Grand Second Vice-president Dr. Frank I. Gonzalez, Grand Secretary John T. Regan, Grand Trustees Charles A. Koenig and Harmon D. Skillin, Grand Marshal Arthur J. Cleu, Richard M. Hamb (Piedmont No. 120) and Fred Kracke (Golden Gate No. 29).

JAMES EDWARD PAYNE.

San Jose Parlor No. 22 N.S.G.W. has been saddened by the death of our beloved member, James Edward Payne, which occurred on Wednesday evening, March 5th, last.

Brother Payne was born in San Jose, being at the time of his death in his forty-eighth year. He was educated in our public schools and had lived here all his life. After leaving school he followed a number of pursuits, but a few years ago he became a member of the Payne Hardware Company of this city, with which he was associated at the time of his death.

Brother Payne was a lover of the great outdoors. He was never so happy as when following a stream for the elusive trout or stalking a trail for the fleet-footed deer. His stories of fishing trips into the high Sierras and deer hunts in the wild and rugged country of Trinity or Siskiyou Counties have always been interesting and entertaining. He manifested a great interest in the preservation of wild game in California and his work along these lines was most commendable. He was a true sportsman.

Brother Payne, by reason of his birth on California's soil, was eligible to membership in the Order of the Native Sons of the Golden West. On the 8th day of August, 1910, he joined our beloved Order and has always been a constant and energetic member. He has done much for this Parlor and for the Order. In the preparation for any event of the Order, he could always be depended upon. He was an untiring worker in its interests. Greatly have the members enjoyed the outings the Parlor has had at Brother Payne's ranch up on the Uvas, and how it pleased "Jimmie," as he was affectionately called, to be able to extend the hand of welcome to the brothers on such occasions.

Brother Payne was a good citizen and took an interest in public affairs. He loved his home and his family. His love for and loyalty to his sister, with whom he lived, was ever manifest and noticeable. Brother Payne was of a sunny and happy disposition, always having a word of cheer for those who were depressed. He was ever for peace, disliking strife and discouraging hate.

We desire to express to the family and relatives of our late brother our deepest sympathy. We realize that in his passing, we all have sustained a loss which will ever be a great void in our lives. The members of the Parlor will miss his cheerful presence, smiling countenance and companionship and his ever willing co-operation in the interest of the Parlor. The sweet memory of his association will ever remain with us.

May a copy of these resolutions be spread on the minutes of the Parlor, a copy sent to the family of our departed brother, and a copy mailed to The Grizzly Bear Magazine.

Respectfully submitted,

JOHN A. COROTTO,
H. C. LEWIS,
W. A. KATEN,

Committee.

NATIVE DAUGHTER NEWS

Chico Art Club meeting to hear an address by Past Grand President Dr. Mariana Bertola. In the evening she was entertained at a reception at the home of Mrs. Harriet Eames.

To Aid Landmark Restoration.

Alturas—A Saint Patrick's bridge party was the feature of the social hour of Alturas No. 159 March 6, and the members entertained many friends around the card tables, after which refreshments were served. At the business meeting one candidate was initiated, the newly-installed officers carrying out the ceremonial faultlessly.

A donation of $20 for the restoration of San Miguel Mission was an initial suggestion of what the Parlor hopes to do for that landmark.

Bride Complimented.

Chico—Butte County Past Presidents Association was entertained May 7 at the home of Mrs. Irene Henry, which was decorated in bridal-wreath and daffodils in honor of Mrs. Mae Belle Bills, a recent bride. On behalf of the members Mrs. Nora Arnold presented her with a silver creamer and sugar-bowl.

Following a brief business session whist and bridge were enjoyed, the dainty score cards showing a spring bride. At the supper hour a lovely bride's cake was brought out and cut by Mrs. Bills.

Pioneer Women Remembered.

Manteca—Arbor Day ceremonies were held at the Lindburg grammar-school March 22 by Phoebe A. Hearst No. 214, which planted trees in memory of Mms. Saluda Reynolds and Mary Jane Howell, pioneer women of the community. April 9 the Parlor will celebrate its institution anniversary; Mrs. Norma Hodson is in charge of arrangements.

Grand President Esther R. Sullivan will officially visit the Parlor April 23. The annual dance is scheduled for May 10; the proceeds will go toward the Loyalty Pledge.

Brides Showered.

Oroville—A joyful erowd of members of Gold of Ophir No. 190 attended a shower for Past President Catherine Gilmore-Parker, a recent bride, at the home of Madeline Brown March 5. March 17 May Belle Burns-Bills, also a bride, was showered at the home of Verna Parker. Both were the recipients of many useful gifts. Misses Mattie and Irene Lund and Mrs. Walter Brown were hostesses at a large bridge party at the Lund home for the benefit of the Parlor.

Florence D. Boyle, chairman of Gold of Ophir's California history and relics committee, has received a gratifying report from the Oroville

SPRINGTIME FLOWERS

(Dedicated to Mill Valley, Marin County.)
(INEZ BAXTER CANFIELD.)

There's a galaxy of colors
Glowing in the springtime flowers,
In the gardens, in the meadows,
And in woodland's leafy bowers.

There's bright yellow, deepest orange,
And the beautiful pale cream,
Royal purple, violet, orchid,
Lovelier far than any dream.

There's the sky-blue like the heavens,
Darker, deep blue like the sea,
And the rose pink of the clover
As it woos the honey bee.

There's the bold and dashing scarlet
And the softer shades of red,
With the crimson of the rambler
As it nods its blushing head.

Golden brown and deeper russet,
Blended with the palest green,
Make a most exquisite setting
For the barebell's silver sheen.

Shooting stars show bright magenta,
And the wild rose dainty pink,
Creamy white, the fair azaleas,
Drooping o'er the streamlet's brink.

Purest white the stately lily,
With its heart of golden hue,
Shaded lavender the lilacs,
Fragrant with the morning dew.

Fields spread out like golden blankets,
Bordered with the gay cerise,
Nearby meadows, white with daisies,
Seem like clouds of snowy fleece.

Colors all in perfect riot,
Colors vivid, glowing, bright,
Making gardens, hills and meadows
Fairy realms of wild delight.

ROADS, LIKE STORES, GET MORE

"FLOORS" AS BUSINESS GROWS.

Just as some small business concerns build their stores by stages, and some congregations build their churches by degrees—that is, one story or section at a time as needed—so are certain sections of the federal-aid highway system constructed, according to the Federal Agricultural Department's bureau of public roads.

In the beginning these sections of the highway system are first improved to care for a limited flow of traffic, and are usually of low-type construction. Sometimes the existing earth road is merely graded and drained. As traffic increases an inexpensive surface is applied, and with further traffic increase a pavement of higher type is laid over the low-type surface. This method of road building is called stage construction. It is the method by which federal and state engineers are year by year improving the federal-aid highway system.

When the system was laid out there were certain sections of the country, where traffic was light, in which but little progress had been made in road improvement. It was in the states of these sections that the first effort was made to improve the roads as quickly as possible, at least by adequate grading and drainage. As traffic increases and funds become available these roads are further improved.

In sections of heavier traffic, where improvement of roads was in progress for some time before the federal system was laid out, a comparatively large percentage of the mileage had already been improved to some extent. Initial improvements with federal aid in such sections are usually of a comparatively high type, and there is little need to raise their standard by stage construction.

The largest amount of stage construction work is now being done in the West North Central states. Of the total of 9,390 miles of federal-aid roads improved with federal funds last year, 1,988 miles were of advanced-stage construction.

MILLIONS WILL BE USED TO ELIMINATE ANCIENT CAR SAFETY MENACE.

A practical step toward ridding the highways of ancient and unsafe motor vehicles is announced by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. The plan proposes that the manufacturers provide a fund to remove permanently those cars that menace the safety of other highway users. It is estimated that California's share of autos to be scrapped as a part of this national highway safety plan will be more than 30,000 ancient gas vehicles.

Fifteen million dollars will be spent by the automobile industry this year in carrying out the plan. "This widespread experiment will strike right at the heart of the unsafe vehicle problem by eliminating a huge block of those cars which are in the poorest condition," according to Alvan Macauley, president of the automobile chamber.

LIABILITY LAW NOT RETROACTIVE.

The California law limiting the liability of a motorist for death or injury of a guest on an auto ride is not retroactive, according to a decision of the District Court of Appeal.

Section 141 1/2 of the California Vehicle Act defines a guest as a person who accepts a ride in any vehicle without giving compensation therefor.

Grease Often—A car washed frequently should be greased frequently. In fact, every washing should be followed by a thorough greasing, in order to force the water out of the moving parts of steering assembly and spring shackles.

LOOK WELL TO BRAKES

(JIM AREGOOD, Treasurer, Brake Shop Association Southern California.)

In this age of fast driving, the average driver does not realize just how much stress is put on brakes. For instance, the following has been compiled by expert brake engineers: You can speed up a car to 20 miles per hour in 128 feet from a standing start, but you can stop it in 20 feet. You can speed a car to 20 miles per hour in 8 1/2 seconds from a standing start, but you can stop it in 1 1/2 seconds. At your command, the brakes do six times as much work as the engine.

With these figures, one can readily see that the brakes of a car are called on to do plenty of real hard work. You can get away with motor troubles much easier than you can with faulty brakes; because when the motor refuses to function, you stop, but when the brakes fail, you don't stop; consequently, you trust that luck is with you and that you will not have an accident.

Now, with the four-wheel brakes, everyone is driving so much faster and relying on the brakes, it is essential that they be in first-class condition at all times. With the entry into the picture of four-wheel brakes came the well-equipped brake shops to look after them—with proper equipment to see their condition, without the customary old-fashion way of skidding the tires on the street, then guessing as to whether they are equalized or not.

With the proper brake-testing machine, it is possible to tell exactly how many feet it takes to stop a car without skidding the tires, and skidding of tires costs money. It is no uncommon thing to see a car with tires worn in large spots, caused by the brakes grabbing, and the cause for such grabbing brakes is either an out-of-round drum or grease-soaked lining. We have found that at least 40 percent of the brake troubles are caused by these conditions.

Some people think most any old kind of brake lining can be installed, but that is not a fact, because each individual type of brake has peculiarities to overcome. Each must have a lining best adapted to that particular brake, and the first-class brake shop understands just what lining should be used on each hook-up of brakes. This is where the up-to-date brake shops enter the picture; they are specializing in this particular line, have figured out the different peculiarities and, to a great extent, have overcome brake troubles.

Auto manufacturers have done a lot to turn out cars with fool-proof brakes, but there is still plenty of need for improvement and it is hoped that in the near future more attention will be given to brakes than in striving to make cars that will go faster instead of stopping quicker. When cars are advertised, great emphasis is laid on their speed, but there is little mention as to how quick they will stop, which, to my way of thinking, is much more important than speed.

The brake shops in Los Angeles are doing all in their power to put the brakes on cars in as perfect condition as possible with the brake material the cars are equipped with. Accidents and resulting deaths can be traced in most cases to faulty brakes, and for a person to attempt to drive along our streets, with traffic conditions as they are, with faulty brakes, is most dangerous.

If your brakes are not in perfect order, have them taken care of before it is too late. You may be unlucky enough to hit some one, and be sorry. So, let us use the motto: "Better be safe than sorry."

GOOD SAFETY RULES.

Three old-fashion rules of locomotive engineers, if practiced by auto drivers, would materially lessen the mounting accident total. They are: "Unless you are sure, slow down to a speed at which you can stop in half the distance you can see. Keep your eye on the road. Keep your brakes in condition to stop quickly."

Have Battery Checked—The sensible, inexpensive thing to do is to have the battery of a car checked twice a month at one's favorite filling station; it is as important as getting gas or oil.

PIONEERING CARAVAN WILL BLAZE INTERNATIONAL HIGHWAY TRAIL.

To blaze a trail for autos from the United States line south toward Panama, in the proposed international road from Alaska to Chile and the Argentine Republic, a motor caravan of five specially equipped cars departed from the Automobile Club of Southern California headquarters in Los Angeles for a tour of indefinite length.

The trip will extend through Mexico and the Central American republics, a distance of more than 4,000 miles, and much of the way it will be real motor pioneering, since in a great deal of the country to be traversed there is no well-defined system of highways such as prevails in the United States, but merely wagon trails following the line of least resistance and impassable during the rains.

The trail to be blazed is in effect a continuation of the present Pacific highway, extending along the coast from Mexico to British Columbia a distance of 1,560 miles, and constituting the longest stretch of paved roads in the world. With the automobile club party pioneering the trail south, work will be progressing from both ends of the Pacific highway, since the government of British Columbia will undertake completion of the northern portion of the route to Alaska and the United States Government is preparing to carry the road into Fairbanks.

AUTO MARKET HAS VARIETY MODELS TO SUIT EVERY TASTE.

With 103 varieties of motor vehicles available for motorists, it would appear that every taste could be suited in the present offerings. The market affords three four-cylinder cars, some forty six-cylinder and nearly sixty eight-cylinder models. In addition, there are three front-wheel drive models for those who like innovations. Nearly every variety of finish is offered, as the more-than-a-hundred models embrace nearly a thousand color combinations.

The automobile dollar remains at the head of the list in buying capacity compared with the dollar of 1914, so it seems probable California will maintain its high place this year as a consumer of motor cars.

UNIFORM TRAFFIC REGULATIONS BEING ADOPTED BY STATES.

Uniformity of traffic regulations among the forty-eight states of the nation is approaching reality, and if the progress made the past three years continues the time is not far distant when a standard code will replace the diversity of rules throughout the country.

Twenty-three states now have in effect all, or substantial parts, of the uniform vehicle code developed by the Hoover Conference on street and highway safety some three years ago. In drafting this code, California's motor-vehicle act was used largely as a model.

RAILROAD TRACK SUFFICIENT WARNING.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeal, in setting aside an award of damages for a grade-crossing accident, holds that "a railroad track itself is a sign of danger to be heeded at the peril of the motorist on the intersecting highway."

Best Method—If available, compressed air is the best method of drying "wet ignition" on a car.

Keep Pressures Equal—If pressures are unequal in tires the braking effect—the basis of many a dangerous skid—will be avoided.

Bad Condition—Auto accidents in the United States occur faster than the population increases, according to the Federal Census Bureau.

PLANTING SUDAN GRASS.

Sudan grass is best planted after the weather and soil are warm, some time in May or even in June. If the soil is not moist, it will be necessary to irrigate, of course, before plowing. Work the seedbed down in good shape, watering again if necessary, and broadcast about twenty pounds of seed to the acre, harrowing it in well. Half that amount of seed is all that is needed if it is planted with a drill. Started early in May, Sudan grass will yield two cuttings of hay, and pasture in addition, provided of course that it is properly watered.

MISSION BRICKS DISCLOSE PLANT VARIETIES

BECAUSE THE MISSION FATHERS AND early Spanish settlers of California used adobe brick for building purposes and adhered to the custom of using straw, grass and other farm rubbish as a binder in making the bricks, it has been possible for the University of California to present definite information as to the date of introduction of many plants into the state. A novel history based on adobe bricks has been completed by Professor George Hendry and Graduate Student Margaret Kelly of the University College of Agriculture, division of agronomy.

By making careful analyses of adobe bricks in such historic structures as the Rancho Valjejo, Mission San Francisco de Solano, Mission San Jose de Guadalupe, Mission San Juan Bautista, Rancho Natividad, Rancho El Sansal, Mission Nuestra Senora de Soledad, Mission San Antonio de Padua, Mission San Fernando Rey de Espana, Mission San Cayetano del Tumacacori, Mission San Valentin, Mission San Vicente, Mission Santo Domingo and Mission San Fernando del Velicata in California, Arizona and Mexico, Professor Hendry has not only set new dates for the introduction of many varieties of plants, and even weeds, but has been able to trace, in some cases, the spread of these plants throughout the West.

Among other interesting points brought out is the possibility that some plant varieties classified as alien and supposed to have been brought to America by White men, might have been introduced before the coming of Columbus.

In 1925, Professor Hendry accidentally stumbled on a method of gathering definite information on plant varieties which had gone unnoticed for a century or more. He was seeking the origin of a peculiar variety of black oats known as "coastblack," different from all others so far discovered in the world. It was thought that the Russians might have brought it to California, and he was investigating the environs of the old Russian colony in western Sonoma County, which flourished from 1812 to 1840.

Close by is the Mission San Francisco Solano de Sonoma. He included it in his investigation, and though he found nothing important concerning black oats, he did notice that every brick of the old mission was teeming with well-preserved specimens of plant life which the builders had mixed with the mud to hold it together. An investigation of the nearby Valjejo Rancho revealed the same condition.

Knowing from historical records the dates at which adobe structures were built, it is possible to determine not only what species but what varieties of species of various plants were in use at the time by dissolving bricks and straining out the hundreds of seeds and plant remains contained in them. Such evidence shows that the varieties concerned must have been introduced at some earlier date. If they do not appear in an earlier building, it is probable the introduction took place between the two dates at which the buildings were constructed.

Trustee at the Oakland Grand Parlor, with a basket of flowers.

Under good of the order Mrs. Zelma Palstine of Long Beach sang Joyce Kilmer's "Trees," in recognition of Arbor Day. In addition to those above mentioned, the gathering was attended by large groups of Native Daughters not only from Long Beach and San Pedro, but from Glendale, Fairfax, Santa Monica, Berkeley and Los Angeles.

Following the business meeting Rudecinda entertained at a midnight supper in celebration of its fifth institution anniversary. The table was decorated in a most novel manner: tiny roads had been built down the center to represent El Camino Real, with bell markers on either side and scenes of lakes and cities all along the route, which led to Marysville, Yuba County, the home of Grand President Sullivan. A pretty feature was the presentation, by Miss Sullivan on behalf of Mrs. Dodson, of a five-tiered birthday cake, adorned with California poppies, to Rudecinda.

Success of the triple affair was due to President Lasater of Long Beach and President Dever of Rudecinda and their splendid committees, which included: General—Charlotte Horton, Clara Fay, Ellen Rogers, Daisy Hansen, Letitia Coates of Long Beach; Beryl Cracknull, Dolores Entner, Jennie Padilla, Margaret S. Dever of Rudecinda. Secretary Carrie E. Lenhouse of Rudecinda headed the committee on table decorations for the birthday supper, Dora Bryly and Mary Halverson had charge of the general decorations, and Jennie Padilla was chairman of the refreshment committee. Arrangements for each of the events were perfect, and the whole occasion was one of the most successful ever sponsored by either Long Beach or Rudecinda Parlor.

BRANDING OF SHEEP.

The ideal paint for branding sheep is one that will endure for a year on the fleece, and scour out readily with warm water and soap. No such paint has yet been devised, but California wool-growers will do well to remember that while perfection has not been attained, there are several paints for branding that answer the purpose fairly well. Tar branding solutions will not scour out, and in manufacturing cause trouble in the machinery and a poor grade of cloth. While every endeavor is made to sort out the tar brands, they are often missed and trouble follows. As a result, California wool is penalized.

(CLARENCE M. HUNT.)

ARRANGEMENTS AND ENTERTAINMENT for the Fifty-third Grand Parlor of the Order of Native Sons of the Golden West, which will be in session at Merced City the week of May 19, are rapidly being perfected by Yosemite Parlor No. 24, which has the whole-hearted support of every resident of Merced City and County.

"This year being the diamond jubilee of Merced County, a great deal of the old California spirit and color will be added to the Grand Parlor gathering," says President D. K. Stoddard of Yosemite Parlor in a letter to The Grizzly Bear. "In Merced County, in the near-by mountain counties where so much California history has been made, and in the neighboring San Joaquin Valley counties are a number of the original Pioneers and many of their descendants. All have agreed to co-operate in presenting a fine entertainment program. You can depend on the 1930 Grand Parlor being one of the finest conventions ever held in our glorious state."

Those who attended the Grand Parlor held in Yosemite National Park in 1908 will remember Ed. Howard, as well as the veteran-in-service, D. K. Stoddard, largely responsible for the success and enjoyment of that gathering. Well, Howard is the general chairman of the committee of arrangements for the 1930 Grand Parlor in Merced City. That fact should, if necessary, add weight to Stoddard's assurances.

CANDIDATES FOR OFFICE.

During the past month considerable interest has been added to the Grand Parlor office situation, due to a second candidate announcing his aspirations for the Grand Third Vice-presidency, and a third aspirant getting into the Grand Treasurer contest. Also, additional candidates have announced their candidacies for various offices. The Grizzly Bear, endeavoring to procure definite information and not giving publicity to rumors, presents the following line-up as the re-

For Grand Third Vice-president—Grand Trustee Frank M. Lane (Fresno No. 25) of Fresno; Justice Emmett Seawell (Santa Rosa No. 28) of Santa Rosa.

For Grand Secretary—John T. Regan (South San Francisco No. 157) of San Francisco, incumbent.

For Grand Treasurer—John A. Corotto (San Jose No. 22) of San Jose; Walton E. Holmes (Sunset No. 26) of Sacramento; Frank M. Buckley (National No. 118) of San Francisco, incumbent.

For Grand Marshal—Grand Inside Sentinel Joseph Clavo (Vallejo No. 77) of Vallejo.

For Grand Inside Sentinel—Grand Outside Sentinel Horace J. Leavitt (Mounty Bally No. 87) of Weaverville.

For Grand Trustee (seven to be elected)—Irving D. Gibson (Sacramento No. 3) of Sacramento, incumbent; A. W. Garcelon (Arcata No. 20) of Arcata, incumbent; Charles A. Koenig (Golden Gate No. 29) of San Francisco, incumbent; Ben Harrison (Arrowhead No. 110) of San Bernardino, incumbent; Samuel M. Shortridge Jr. (Menlo No. 185) of Menlo Park.

Grand President Charles L. Dodge (Carquinez No. 205) of Martinez, who will preside throughout the Merced Grand Parlor, will automatically become the Junior Past Grand President at the session's close.

San Francisco, through its most active Extension of the Order Committee, will ask for, and undoubtedly be awarded, the Admission Day, September 9, celebration. No place, so far as The Grizzly Bear has heard, is seeking next year's Grand Parlor. In view of the fact that, commencing with Merced this year, the Grand Parlor members, through a registration fee, will contribute much of the cost of entertainment, there should be several seekers for that honor.

Subordinate Parlors of the Order will, during April, elect their delegates to the Merced session, and then, if Old Man Rumor has the correct "dope," several additional "hats" for the various Grand Parlor offices usually contested for, will be shied into the ring. The more the merrier, and the better for the Order as a whole!

first magnitude, as those who are susceptible to it will testify. When it appears to have been thoroughly subdued, it springs up again and the whole family hreaks out with an infection. While there are numerous lotions that may be applied to relieve the outbreaks on the skin, and at least one good immunization treatment, a better method is to rid the farm or premises of the pest, unless the shrub is so widespread that is hopeless.

Perhaps the best remedy is to punch holes, six to nine inches deep, and eighteen inches to two feet apart, pour in two ounces of carbon bisulphide and plug the hole. The resulting fumes, penetrating the soil, will kill the roots. The commercial morning-glory killer sprayed on the foliage is said to kill the plants; this same material, or a sodium arsenite solution, poured over the cut-root stubs is efficacious.

"Let us develop the resources of our land, call forth its powers, promote all its great interests, to see whether we also, in our day and generation, may not perform something to be remembered."—Daniel Webster.

been definitely decided to include, as a portion of the program for that occasion, dedication as a landmark of the old well located on the ranch. This well was built by the Indian neophytes and was used as a source of water supply by the padres on their trek between San Gabriel and San Fernando Missions.

Philip Beque, the owner of the ranch, himself a Native Son and a member of Glendale Parlor, has consented to build a wall around the well and to take other steps toward preserving and marking it as a permanent landmark. Arrangements have also been made to have a public address system installed for that day, and thereby be assured of entertaining music during the afternoon. Other entertaining features are being planned, and a good old-fashioned spanish barbecue will be served, for which a charge of $1 per plate will be made.

A large crowd from all California South is expected, as invitations are being sent to Parlors in Los Angeles, San Diego, Orange and San Bernardino Counties. John Steven McGroarty, author of the "Mission Play" and a resident of La Crescenta Valley, has kindly consented to favor with a short address.

WOMENFOLKS ENTERTAINED.

Los Angeles Parlor No. 45 N.S.G.W. entertained the womenfolks at a very successful affair March 28. Old-timers and youngsters were among the many in attendance. An effort is being made to bring about an organization of the Parlor's past presidents; District Deputy Al Cron is in charge. Several applications have recently been received, and there is a revival of interest in athletics.

Los Angeles' April program includes: 4th, election Merced Grand Parlor delegates; 11th, initiation; 25th, 7 p.m. dinner, to be followed by a motion-picture. The Parlor now meets every Friday night in the Foresters building, 1329 South Hope.

ILLUSTRATED TRAVELOGUE ENJOYED.

Grand President Esther R. Sullivan paid her official visit to Los Angeles Parlor No. 124 N.D.G.W. March 5, and previous to the meeting was the supper guest of the Parlor at the Women's Athletic Club. The hall was beautifully decorated with baskets of poppies and ferns. Five candidates were initiated. Visitors from twelve Parlors were in attendance.

Grand President Sullivan gave a resume of the work and projects of the Order, and complimented the editress, Mrs. Carrie Kessner, of "L. A. Briefs," the Parlor's monthly bulletin. Other speakers were Past Grand Presidents Emma W. Humphrey and Grace S. Stoermer, and District Deputy Florence Dodson-Schoneman. Musical numbers were rendered by Misses Wilma Holmes, Marvel Thomas and Veryl Aumack. Many of No. 124's members attended the official meetings of the neighboring Parlors, all of which were very enjoyable.

The card party of March 12 was a social and financial success. Miss Rambaud was the hostess, and was assisted by Misses Eaton and Trombatore. March 19 the members and their friends enjoyed an illustrated educational travelogue, "A Trip Around the World," by A. Nielen.

The monthly card party of the Parlor will be held April 9; Miss Jeanne Clos, the hostess, will be assisted by Misses Ella Vocovich and Lucille Sessler. April 11, following initiation, delegates to the Oakland Grand Parlor will be nominated. April 23 has been set aside for a birthday party; Miss Grace J. Norton, social hostess, will be in charge. April 30 the drill team of No. 124 will sponsor a sport dance. All events take place at I.O.O.F. Hall, Oak and Washington streets.

109 N.S.G.W., Dr. John A. Schwamm chairman, is getting splendid results. March 14 a second large class of candidates, thirty-five in number, were initiated, the officers, headed by Superior Judge B. Rey Schauer, impressively exemplifying the ritual. Among the Initiates was Edward A. Gibbs, exalted ruler of the local Elks, and he collected a considerable sum for the charity box of the Parlor.

Past Grand President Herman C. Lichtenberger addressed the new members, and Walter Slosson made the final award for this year of the "1930 Bear Club" pins. Previous to the meeting "Chef" Charles Gassagne served a feast. Although the weather was stormy there was a very large attendance. Edwin A. Meserve was the educational speaker March 21, and he gave an enlightening talk on "The Significance of the California State (Bear) Flag."

Ramona will elect its twelve delegates to the Merced Grand Parlor April 4; incidentally, No. 109 has the largest representation of any Parlor in the whole Order. April 11 another large class of candidates will be initiated, the ceremonies to be preceded by another of those famous Gassagne "feeds." April 18, educational night, William J. Hunsaker will speak of "Lansford W. Hastings," who was captain of an Oregon wagon train in 1842 and came to California the following year; he was a member of the California Constitutional Convention of 1849. April 25 has been designated "judicial night;" First Vice-president Ray Russell is in charge of the arrangements for this social function.

MASTERLY ADDRESS.

Grand President Esther R. Sullivan was fittingly received March 11 by Californiana Parlor No. 247 N.D.G.W. A very delightful luncheon in the garden-room of the Women's Athletic Club was attended by 100. Honor guests, in addition to Miss Sullivan and her mother, Mrs. Mary C. Sullivan, were: Mrs. Frank Humphrey, Past Grand President and the enthusiastic Native Daughter who started the homeless children work; Judge and Mrs. Henry M. Willis, Mr. and Mrs. William Edward Johnson of London, Manuel C. Gelea and Mrs. Florence Dodson-Schoneman, chairman Grand Parlor History and Landmarks Committee.

Mrs. A. O. Evans, president Californiana, presided, assisted by Mrs. Mary Noerenberg, first vice-president and program chairman, who introduced the guests. Judge Willis was the speaker, making a masterly address on disobedience to law, and its dire consequences to the morale of the country. He gave figures showing the startling number of crimes of every nature committed in Los Angeles County last year. Mr. Johnson, accompanied by Mr. Gelea, delighted the assemblage with a group of vocal numbers. Grand President Sullivan told of the aims and projects of the Native Daughters.

The business meeting, following the luncheon, was largely attended, delegations being present from Santa Ana, Long Beach, Santa Monica, Glendale, San Pedro and Los Angeles Parlor No. 124, and all being introduced by the president. Six candidates were initiated. Grand President Sullivan was presented with a piece of silver, and after expressing her appreciation, and congratulating the Parlor upon its progress during the brief period of its existence and the worthwhile projects it is sponsoring, she delivered an eloquent address, touching upon the three colorful periods in the history of California, beginning with the coming of the brown-robed padres, and following the path of the Spaniards up to the coming of the Americans. "History was born in Southern California," she said. Interesting remarks were made by Mrs. Humphrey, Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer and Mrs. Schoneman. Miss Stoermer told of the plans afoot to restore the first mission founded in California by Fray Junipero Serra, San Diego de Alcalá.

Californiana has decided to postpone its annual rose-and-gold ball, which was such an outstanding social affair last year, from May until early in the fall. From this ball the Parlor formed the nucleus for the proposed statue of Felipe de Neve, founder of Los Angeles.

AN INSPIRATION.

Santa Monica—Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 245 N.D.G.W. had the honor of being the first to receive Grand President Esther R. Sullivan, March 3, on her official visit to the southland. The ritual was exemplified by the officers of the Parlor, President Joey Denton presiding. The address of the Grand President was an inspiration, and an incentive for increased membership.

Other honored guests were Past Grand President Grace S. Stoermer, who spoke in behalf of the N.D.G.W. Home; Past Grand President Emma W. Humphrey, who is interested in child welfare; Mrs. Florence Dodson-Schoneman, chairman Grand Parlor History and Landmarks Committee, who told of the need of restoring San Miguel Mission; Miss Marvel Thomas, who spoke of the memory garden at San Gabriel Mission. Visiting members from Los Angeles, Santa Ana, San Bernardino, Glendale, Long Beach and Fullerton were also welcomed.

The meeting over, all adjourned to the banquet-room, which was beautifully decorated with calla lilies and ferns. The centerpiece was a plastic model of San Buenaventura Mission. March 31 the Parlor sponsored a card party; Anna Pierce was chairman. El Camino Real sewing circle of the Parlor met March 24.

SUPPER DANCE BIG SUCCESS.

Santa Monica—The annual supper-dance of Santa Monica Bay Parlor No. 267 N.S.G.W., held at the Deauville Club, March 12, was a complete success and largely attended. Entertainment features were a motion-picture of galloping "horses" and fancy dancing. Excellent music was provided for dancing. Harry T. Honn was master of ceremonies, and District Deputy Eldred L. Meyer saw that everyone was well provided for.

In the near-future the Parlor will stage a charter members' night, when the "originals" will be on hand to welcome the new members and their friends. No. 267 has initiation every meeting night, and it is rapidly approaching its membership-goal.

INITIATES CLASS OF CANDIDATES.

Glendale—March 11, a banquet was served by Verdugo Parlor No. 240, N.D.G.W. in honor of the official visit of Grand President Esther R. Sullivan. Other guests were Past Grand Presidents Emma W. Humphrey and Grace S. Stoermer. A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the decorations. Later in the evening, a class of candidates were initiated by the Parlor officers, with President Beulah VanLuven presiding.

Miss Sullivan was the recipient of a gift, presented on the Parlor's behalf by President Van-Luven, and Marshall Betty Sanders presented lovely corsage bouquets to the other guests on the initiates. Grand President Sullivan gave a interesting talk on California, and there were addresses by District Deputy Florence Dodson-Schoneman, Past Grands Humphrey and Stoermer, and Miss Marvel Thomas.

Verdugo had a largely attended dance February 25. Serpentine was used for decorations, a punch was served. March 5 many of the members attended an affair at Casa Adobe, Los Angeles, at which Mrs. Florence Dodson-Schoneman, district deputy for the Parlor, was the hostess.

EASTER SUNRISE SERVICE IN HOLLYWOOD

TO FEATURE
"SINGING CRUCIFIX"

(WILL T. GENTZ.)

MORE THAN ORDINARILY SATISFYING in a musical sense, and pictorially attractive as ever, Hollywood's twelfth consecutive observance at sunrise of Easter—the first two conducted upon mountaintops, the last ten in the hush of its consecrated canyon—will be enriched by the addition of a great male chorus of 150 of the finest voices that can be recruited from choral organizations active in the metropolis of the Southwest—of which Hollywood, of course, is a part, although maintaining its theoretical boundaries of pioneer days and a civic consciousness quite proudly all its own.

In fact, all Los Angeles this Easter will come to its renowned cinematic suburb to join in the glad hallelujahs of a day of resurrection, inasmuch as a sunrise service at the Coliseum, municipally sponsored since 1924, has been discontinued, due to reconstruction activities in anticipation of Olympic games requirements in 1932.

Matching the vocal opulence of this added 1930 feature will be a two-score instrumental ensemble, to play oratorio and other symphonic music of a sacred nature by the great fundamentalists of tonal art; while further massed music by the great concourse of people will help to make the feast of fugues in those acoustically acclaimed surroundings an event never to be forgotten by the participants.

Retained year after year, since their inception in connection with the Hollywood mode of Easter observance, and recognized as original and integral elements of these services, again will be heard the reverberant sunrise trumpet call and again will be revealed the resplendent surplined "singing crucifix" of children—a spectacular surprise tableau that never fails to thrill.

In the former feature, a fanfare is sounded by a figure in flowing white garb, outlined against the horizon upon the topmost mountain ridge—a veritable Grecian goddess heroically magnified by the strange refractions of the early morning light. Before her clarion blasts have been lost in echo, three similarly robed heralds, stationed adown the sloping verdure, take up in overlapping iteration the crashing crescendos, until the silvery strains blend in harmony and, in turn, commingle with those of the orchestra, to be swelled into a mighty diapason of brasses, strings and woodwinds.

The latter effect is created just as the demilight of dawn suffuses the great hushed hollow of humans, rock rimmed and cedar shrouded, and truly a sanctuary in the hills. The vibrant voice of a great divine, raised in impressive invocation, floats out upon the earthy air, redolent of new-grown vegetation and the pungent pines. Its cadences echo and expire in a dozen sidereal glens and forest fringed defiles. A transformation, breath-taking in its suddenness and sublimity, takes place in the great steel shell behind the preacher, where is stationed the huge male chorus amid high banked shrubbery. Two hundred children upon a terraced platform in its center, invisible until that moment, doff black ponchos and stand revealed, a sheer white "living cross." This animated emblem at once becomes articulate and treble voices spread the glad tidings that "Christ, the Lord, is risen today."

A soloist, too, is provided, as at past services—a snperlative vocalist chosen from the quality artists of the Southland, which has ever been the mecca and often the homeland of a goodly proportion of the world's most snperbly endowed talent. One need but hastily and superficially recall the names of Luisa Tetrizzini, who won her first continental acclaim here; Alice Neilsen, an artist indissolubly to be associated with San Francisco's tuneful Tivoli days; Rita Fornia, Lawrence Tibbitt, Ellen Beach Yaw, Elsa Alsen, Mariska Aldrich, Edna Darch and, among others and all, the foremost of the contemporaries, the "grand old woman of song," Ernestine Schumann-Heink.

An hour's pipe organ recital, broadcast into the vast amphitheater from the loft of a Hollywood church, with an eminent virtuoso at the console, will precede the service, which itself will be relayed upon the aerial lanes to many hundreds of thousands of homes.

The third annual lily processional, programmed for the preceding afternoon, is the picturesque means evolved by the Hollywood civic sunrise service committee to provide itself with plentiful blooms for the beautification of its Easter shrine. Close to a thousand schoolchildren, dressed in white, and as many adults will make a pilgrimage up Pepper Tree Lane to the stage, bearing in their arms the yield of last autumn's community lily planting campaign—an expected crop of ten thousand blooms.

None except lily bearers will be admitted to the beautiful lily dedication ceremony which follows, and to avoid disappointment of many hundreds who cannot cultivate or are unable to provide themselves with lilies, a supply of a thousand of these flowers will be made available at the Bowl entrance by the processional committee to those who must perform come empty-handed.
